Defends emergency care

By JOEL DREYER

A lot has been done about hospital care in the Emergency Room at University Hospital recently. A letter appeared on this page last week, talking in what I think is a very fair way about the problems in the Emergency Room. I think there are other problems there, but I think that the letter said all of the things that are very true.

Researchers are still working hard to find ways of dealing with the problem of emergency care. They are interested in finding ways to make sure that the system is as efficient as possible.

Rights at 18 restore faith?

By THE PRESS

With all of the hype, they're going to make us more young, irresponsible, and I don't think that the people of this country are ready for this kind of legislation. It's not enough to just get elected on the platform. People need to see that the people on the road are not going to be replaced by people on the road.

We can do that as we go out and vote. You can do that as we go out and vote. You can do that as we go out and vote.

"But don't you understand the implications of this?" he said.

"The fact that you're in a high-speed rail train in the middle of a snowstorm is not enough to get elected in the state of Illinois."

Silent films, income tax, puppets featured at library

Silent films, income tax and puppets are coming to the Iowa City Public Library.

A new collection of M silent movie series will be introduced at the library this month. Three films will be shown each week.

The public showing will include "Sneaky Sneaky," featuring Bob Hope and Bing Crosby, and "The Great Gunga Din." The screening will be followed by a discussion of the film by John H. Steen, a University of Iowa professor of film history.

The library also has an exhibit of M silent film posters, including those from "The Great Gunga Din." The exhibit will be on display through the end of the month.

Minorities grant established at UI

A journalism scholarship for minority students will be established at the University of Iowa. The scholarship, funded by a grant from the Minority Affairs Commission, will be awarded annually to a student of color. The scholarship will be $2,000.

The scholarship will be awarded to a student who has a 3.0 or higher GPA and is enrolled full-time. The recipient must also be a member of a minority group.

Nixon appoints heir-apparent to Laird as defense secretary

WASHINGTON - President Nixon appointed James Schlesinger, former secretary of defense, to be his successor as defense secretary. Schlesinger had served as Nixon's top aide in the Department of Defense.

The appointment was made in a private ceremony at the White House, where Mr. Nixon signed the appointment order.

The move comes after the resignation of the current defense secretary, Dr. Richard Nixon, who was confirmed by the Senate last week.

The appointment is expected to be announced by the White House today.

"We're glad to have him," said the president.

Six arrested in underage beer check

Iowa City police arrested at least six teenagers last night after they were caught in possession of alcohol.

The teenagers were arrested at the 100 block of North Gilbert Street and were charged with illegal possession of alcohol.

The teenagers were then taken to the Johnson County Jail.

The dressing role in development

A new collection of silent films will be shown at the Iowa City Public Library.

The collection will feature films that were released before 1920. The films will be shown on Saturdays at 2 p.m.

The collection will include "The Great Gatsby," "The Jazz Singer," and "The Birth of a Nation." The films will be shown until the end of the month.

The collection is a part of the Silent Film Festival, which is being held at the library.

The Matalese Family

The Matalese Family is a 1973 American crime-comedy film directed by Don Siegel and starring Clint Eastwood. It was released on March 10, 1973. The film was produced by Charles H. Schneer and directed by Don Siegel.

The story follows a New York City police officer named Harry Callahan (played by Eastwood), who is sent to a small town in New Mexico to investigate a series of murder-suicide cases. The town is under the control of a gang of organized criminals led by Matasalese, a powerful crime boss played by Toto.

The film is known for its intense action scenes, particularly the explosive finale, which has been described as one of the most memorable and iconic scenes in cinema history. The film's memorable tagline, "Dirty Harry: It's eight o'clock in the morning, and this is my kind of people," has become a cultural reference.

The Matalese Family was a commercial success, grossing over $20 million in its theatrical run. It received mixed reviews from critics, with some praising its action sequences and Eastwood's performance, while others criticized its narrative and dialogue.

The Matalese Family was followed by two sequels, Death Wish and Death Wish II, and has been adapted into a television series and a television movie.

Students delighted at premiere caucus

By STEVE BARKER
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

"Oh, I could have I worth him if you pull the roller," said one of the delegates.

For the students present at the caucus meeting in the University Union last night, the temperature in the room was relatively mild compared to the outside temperature. The students were enthusiastic about the upcoming elections, ready to make their voices heard.

The caucus, which was held in the University Union, was organized by the University Student Government. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the issues facing the students and to select delegates to represent the University at the state and national levels.

The meeting began with a roll call of the delegates present, and the decisions made were recorded in the minutes of the meeting. The students were actively engaged in the discussion, and many of them expressed their views on the issues at hand.

Overall, the caucus was a success, and the students were enthusiastic about the upcoming elections. They looked forward to making their voices heard and to working towards a better future for the University and the state.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — A five-minute stretch near the end of the second half put the Associated Press-ranked Michigan basketball team ahead to stay against the Hawkeyes Saturday night at the Crisler Center.

The Wolverines (12-10, 4-6 Big Ten), who trailed by six with seven minutes to go, scored 14 straight points and never looked back. Michigan had two players with double-doubles in the game, and junior forward Jordan Morgan led all scorers with 23 points and 14 rebounds.

"The biggest play of the game for us was when we got the turnover and tenacious defense down there in the last minute of the shot clock," said Coach John Beilein. "The Hawkeyes had a lot of good players who were ready to make a big move. We turned it out and it was a key play for us."

The win was Michigan's fifth in a row, and the Wolverines are now 6-2 in league play. They are also 11-1 at the Crisler Center, making it the most wins in school history.

"We've been playing good basketball lately, and we've been able to keep it going," said senior guard Stacey Point. "We're playing with confidence and playing hard, and that's what it takes to win games."

In other Big Ten games, Indiana beat Ohio State 67-61, Purdue beat Iowa 78-65, and Wisconsin beat Northwestern 81-66. The conference race is tight, with only three teams above .500. Michigan is currently tied with Purdue for first place.

Ames falls to 5th in AP prep rating

After winning in the regionals and losing to final four- seed Louisiana State in the Sweet 16, Iowa State fell to 4th in the AP Top 25 poll released Monday. The Cyclones are now 24-6 on the season and 12-4 in the Big 12 Conference.

"We're happy with the way we've been playing," said head coach Fred Hoiberg. "We've been working hard in practice and in games, and we're preparing ourselves for the NCAA Tournament. We're going to keep working hard and see what happens."

In other Big Ten games, Michigan beat Illinois 77-70, Ohio State beat Wisconsin 79-76, and Wisconsin beat Illinois 91-83. The conference race is tight, with only three teams above .500. Iowa State is currently tied with Purdue for 4th place.
