A review of the physical education requirement in the College of Liberal Arts will be authorized at the final two meetings of the student Elective Physical Committee (EPC).

William P. Albrecht, associate professor of economics and an EPC member, has written in his letter to the university that the physical education requirement is a part of EPS's Deacon to all required areas for EPS.

The review does not necessarily indicate that the EPC will favor dropping the requirement.

Loris E. Allen, head of the men's physical education department, said Wednesday night that he would not drop the requirement.

"This is just a review," he said.

Laird orders appraisal of Saigon's war needs

WASHINGTON (AP) -- With the military situation worsening, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird ordered a top-secret team of logistics specialists to Vietnam Tuesday to determine whether Saigon requires more American military aid.

Laird, in a letter to Congress, asked for a report by a team of experts to be delivered to the National Intelligence Center. The team was to seek answers in the next 45 days, he said.

Some of the highest officials of the military were said to have been somewhat queasy about the mission, and the White House was careful to note that the Pentagon would not promise Saigon would get any new arms.

Laird's letter to President Richard Nixon laid bare the grave dilemma facing the administration in trying to protect Saigon from its enemies without standing up to its critics at home.

White House officials and congressional leaders had been at loggerheads over the issue of American military aid, and the meeting of top experts to determine Saigon's needs was a compromise that did not satisfy anyone.

"But in the secretary's view the massive Communist incursions across the demilitarized zone and the relentless Vietcong and North Vietnamese attacks on the South's economy and infrastructure make it a moral obligation for us to react," a White House official said.

Laird's new mission would be a continuation of the effort to provide a rationale for more aid to Saigon.

The administration had been under heavy pressure to provide more aid, and the meeting of top experts was a sign that the administration was not prepared to meet the challenge of the Vietcong.

The meeting of experts was also a sign that the administration was not prepared to meet the challenge of the Vietcong.

One official said the purpose of the meeting was to "make sure there is no surprise for the new administration." The official added that the meeting would be "a way of reassuring the public that we are doing all we can to protect Saigon."

Green report says Big 10 coaches stress athletics, less concern for academics

The following is a report on the status of blacks in the Big Ten Conference as presented by Robert L. Green, director of the Center for Urban and Regional Development of the University of Michigan. The report included statistics on the levels of equal opportunity programs, Michigan State University and University of Illinois. However, it did not address the issue of minority counseling at the university.

The report was presented in the Big Ten faculty meeting on Monday, August 20, in Chicago.

The report indicated that there are 56,171 black students in the Big Ten Conference, making up about 5 percent of the total student body. The number of black students has increased by 20 percent since the 1970-71 academic year.

The report also noted that 35 percent of black students are enrolled in the Big Ten Conference, compared to 50 percent of white students. The report highlighted the need for more black students to enroll in the Big Ten Conference.

The report highlighted the need for more black students to enroll in the Big Ten Conference. It noted that while black students are underrepresented in the Big Ten Conference, they are overrepresented in the University of Michigan and Ohio State University.

The report also noted that black athletes have a higher graduation rate than white athletes. However, the report noted that the Big Ten Conference should work to ensure that black athletes have the same opportunities as white athletes.

The report also highlighted the need for more black coaches in the Big Ten Conference. The report noted that there are only 35 black coaches in the Big Ten Conference, compared to 235 white coaches.

The report also noted that there is a lack of diversity in the coaching staff of the Big Ten Conference. The report highlighted the need for more women and minority coaches to be hired in the Big Ten Conference.

The Black Angel

By SARAH MURPHY
Daily Iowan, Des Moines

It stands tall in bright sunlight but looks much smaller in the gray rain. The statue is not new, but the remodeling, the addition of flowers and the change in its surroundings make it seem new again. The Black Angel has a cross at its base surrounded by a simulated split at the top, according to Delphicger's research. The base of the statue is a hotch-potch of bricks, the hatchet head is broken, and the hatchet handle is broken off on the base. This all suggests that Delphigger added his creative expression of his life before he was fulfilled.

Teresa Feldevert, according to Delphicger's research, married an unknown Feldevert and left Iowa City for Eugene, Oregon. In 1911, Mr. Feldevert sold Teresa Delphicger her miniature statue, made in Europe, and ordered her to build him a monument. Delphigger ordered a tiny statue, a one-inch replica of the Black Angel. The statue was brought to Iowa City on November 30, 1912, for display.

The statue was not completely weather-resistant. Whether it was the fact that it was a black angel or that it was his father's grave, it was concealed. An Iowa City love affair

Iowa City and Big Brother have been living it up since they got here. We're celebrating again on Saturday night and expect a big turnout. The party begins at 9 P.M. and continues until... well, maybe around 2 a.m. Sunday morning.

The party will take place at the Fire Station. The Fire Station is located at 123 East Third Street. The address is actually numerical, so there are no letters.

The Fire Station is a large, two-story building with a large front porch. The front porch has a large awning that says "Iowa City Fire Station." The building is painted white and has red trim.

The party will feature live music by the band "The New Order." The band is made up of four members: two guitarists, a bassist, and a drummer.

The band will play a variety of genres, including rock, punk, and indie. The music is fast-paced and energetic, with lots of guitar solos and driving rhythms.

The party is open to the public, but please remember to be respectful of others and not too rowdy.

Drop out now.
Pay later.

Foresees no domino effect in Viet-Wet trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intelligence experts told President Nixon three years ago that the domino effect in Southeast Asia would not be a problem and that the United States had no political obligation to help other nations.

The military said the B-52 raids were part of Operation Linebacker, an attempt to make up for its deficiencies. By the end of the war, the B-52 raids had been carried out on the night of September 29-30, 1969.

It's big, but people agree on little else

During our campaign one of the areas we promised to work in was student economic power. With majority rights coming from nineteen years this means here in the Iowa Memorial Union.

At this point there are seven groups that would like to sell in the Union, and Iowa Student Agencies. The Union people have to work in what a business would have to make money. For example, in the 1974-1980 year, the Union lost $78,288 until the University appropriated $94,264 to keep them out of the red, as long on the 1974-75. I might also mention the $50,000 students already advise to subsidize the Union. So we will be paying this over $200,000 worth of fees and bonds are paid off. Why then should we put money into the Union?

We would propose that ISA establish a bar in the Union, that the bar would be owned and run by students, with the profits going to other student services (i.e. book store, or student crafts store). With the future of the activities fee in question we must make ISA as strong as possible. They are the ones who are setting future student economic ventures. ISA wouldn't be starting cold in this area, either; they already own and run "The Hawk" on Church and Dodge Streets; they already have the know-how and the connections to set-up and run a bar in the Union.

It would be likely that students would be using the bar more than other groups. Let's have the money that students will pay for beer go back into the pockets of students. It's going to take slat of money to start a bar-and this is one way of getting it. Let's not be caught holding the short end of the, is ECONOMIC POWER TO THE STUDENTS!
