Chemical in beef

WASHINGTON (AP) - Resident of a rural county in eastern Ohio said that her brother-in-law, who lives near the county seat, has suffered from a chemical in beef. The woman alleges that her brother-in-law was hospitalized after consuming a beef product that contained a chemical. The county health department is investigating the incident.

Cleveland has had an up and down week with the record setting heat during the day and cool temperatures at night. This week the temperatures have ranged from 80-85 degrees Fahrenheit. The city has experienced a high of 85 degrees Fahrenheit on two days.

Booze no problem in Michigan

Editor's note: While the statement of the new majority rights bill on Saturday, July 1, domestic partners in Michigan have the right to make decisions about medical treatment and end-of-life care. This ruling will go into effect in January 2022.

"We have yet to make a decision about medical treatment and end-of-life care," said the judge.

"We are still in the middle of a pandemic and we need to make sure we can have access to healthcare," said the judge.

Small claims court can help
Cheated? Keep the faith

There's a serious side to The Daily Iowan's weekly "Happy birthday" greeting to Iowa's "Leas" and "Larrys." "Leas" are people who, in their youth, have done things that might be considered "cheating" by today's standards, such as voting for elected officials despite being under the legal age. "Larrys" are those who have been accused of cheating, but have since become leaders and role models.

Small claims court is an option for those who feel they have been cheated or wronged. It allows individuals to take legal action without the formalities and costs of a full court case. However, it is important to gather evidence and prepare your case thoroughly before filing.

ANSWER: Take your case to the "people's court." "You Know by various different names throughout Iowa, small courts establish every justice as the little person's access to civil justice. Currently, there are several small claims courts that handle claims of less than a certain amount, generally $1000 maximum.

Current Iowa law restricts the amount and nature of the claims that you may make to small claims courts. The maximum amount you may sue for is $325. In fact, that's how you determine that your claim comes within the limitations of these courts. You must supply an absolutely accurate address to the court for the defendant or your case could be dismissed without hearing on the merits.

The cost is for use in small claims court is low, generally around $25 to $40. In some cases, the cost is waived or defrayed, particularly for those who qualify as indigent.

In most cases, you usually have the full benefit of a lawyer to help you present your case.

Kubrick's Orange almost great film

A CLOCKS W O R K S H O P , by director Stanley Kubrick, is an engrossing and satisfying film, but it doesn't quite cut it. There are too many scenes that the film maker seems to be trying to say too much too many, overwrought plot points.

Stuart Millen takes over the role of his father, Mr. Howard Stroud, he does a good job in a manner that is not quite up to par. There are too many scenes that the film maker seems to be trying to say too much too many, overwrought plot points.

Yet, the film is a triumph at the box office, as it is full of action and suspense. It is a great film, but it is not quite as good as the original. The film maker seems to be trying to say too much too many, overwrought plot points.

I think that the film maker seems to be trying to say too much too many, overwrought plot points.
Grade beef, not students

In my short but happy teaching career, the toughest part was deciding on grades.

What grade should I give to the brilliant Korean student who justified his failure with English occasionally?

What about the slightly above fair boy who studied harder than anyone else but couldn’t quite master the material?

What of the smart but lazy cowboy who produced superb work on the rare occasions when he was persuaded to study?

And how should I grade the disruptive girl whose inane questions made her sound like a fourth-grader, but who was, in startling fact, a college junior?

There’s no way to grade these people equitably, not when the instructor must use the A, B, C, D, F method. A teacher can build all kinds of formal or informal grading systems, weighing effort, test results, attitude, and other variables. But they don’t really work. Students simply can’t be graded like cut of beef.

What of the showgirl, always shoving stardom in a recent photograph printed in many newspapers. It was common knowledge that she was an assistant for her "achievement."

The low man’s classmates, following a tradition, each gave him a dollar.

The picture will make a dandy memento for his scrapbook. Beautiful! Of course, he really did achieve something worth while, and he’s not significantly different from his classmates.

When grade-point averages differ by a few hundredths of a point, how can anyone say that the low man is any worse than the 10th best? Many college graduates have in the right direction by imposing pass-fail grading in at least some subjects, though this trend seems to be faltering.

Something set for Colorado

Craig Senkow talked to police and volunteers organizing an "inter-continental friendship meeting." He said that on July 14 at Dakota Mountain near Spearfish, S.D., he and a group of visitors from England were asked to leave. The meeting was called off when organizers discovered that the visitors had no group permit and no legal authority to hold the meeting. Craig Senkow said he hopes to bring the group to Spearfish for another meeting in the fall.

LONDON, England—"East End Boys!" You heard of them, I believe? Well, you will be too.

Among the thousands of tourists who flock to England, there is one group that is not normally on the radar. The "East End Boys" are a group of young men who live and work in the East End of London. They are known for their distinctive clothing and their love of the city.

"They are everywhere in London," said one of the boys. "We are constantly out and about, whether it's going to a football match or just hanging out on the street."

The boys are often recognized for their fashion sense, which includes wearing blue jeans, leather jackets, and baseball caps. They are also known for their love of the city's culture, including soccer, music, and art.

"We love the city so much," said another boy. "It's a great place to be, and we love being here."

The boys are also known for their loyalty to each other, with many of them doing things together all the time. They are also known for their wit and humor, which is evident in their conversations with others.

The boys are often asked about their plans for the future, with some saying they want to travel more and others saying they want to stay in London.

"We just want to keep living our lives," said one of the boys. "We like being here, and we don't want to leave."

Oklahoma City, the site of the original 1958 Summer Olympics, has been selected as the site of the 1968 Summer Olympics. The announcement was made at a news conference in Oklahoma City on Thursday, June 30.

The decision was made after a thorough evaluation of several candidate cities. Oklahoma City was chosen for several reasons:

1. Infrastructure: The city has modernized its infrastructure, including transportation and communication systems, making it a suitable host for the Olympic Games.
2. Safety and Security: Oklahoma City has a long history of hosting large-scale events without significant incidents, ensuring the safety and security of athletes and spectators.
3. Climate: The average temperature in Oklahoma City during the summer months is ideal for outdoor sports, providing a comfortable environment for athletes.
4. Support: The local and state governments have pledged significant funding and resources to support the Olympic Games.
5. Legacy: The city is committed to leveraging the Olympics to drive economic growth and enhance the quality of life for residents.

The announcement was met with excitement and anticipation from the community, who are eager to contribute to the preparations for the 1968 Summer Olympics.
