Wolls also recommended, and the council approved, city-sponsored conferences on alcohol abuse. A police chief Ernest Evans asked for funding to hire more police officers, for police pay has gone up, he said, and it is difficult to recruit new officers. Officially, an additional officer will be added to the police force, but Evans said that is inadequate.

There is a sense of worry, he said, about the safety of the council itself and the businesses, "We don't want to prevent people from coming to council meetings, we just want to keep people safe at council meetings."

There is no more reason for Arabs to continue their support for terrorism. They must be convinced that there is a better way to achieve their aims than by using violence.

Tragic reality jolts Olympic village

By C. K. Jones

The Jerusalem Post

The tragic events that occurred at the Munich Olympics have shocked the world. The German government has condemned the attack, and has vowed to take action to prevent further incidents.

The Olympic village, which had been a safe and peaceful place for athletes from around the world, has now become a site of tragedy.

McGovern campaigns for west, sees jobs for unemployed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic presidential nomin­ee George McGovern campaigned Monday in 12 of the 15 Plains States to call for an end to the war in Vietnam. A campaign sign said a negative visit to San Francisco, McGovern’s battle was won at the national level in recent months by revenue and influence in the upper states of workers and western workers.

Frenchmen leave cave in Texas

DALLAS (AP) — Frenchman Jean-Michel Tabib, a former resident of a cave in southwestern France, emerged from the cave at 11:49 a.m. Tuesday, saying he would continue to think about the cave and his洞穴。“I am not going to lock them in, and I am going to continue to think about the cave and my洞穴,” he said.

Unwed mothers still get aid

While the University of Iowa law requires a parent to cooperate in a paternity suit to be eligible for aid to dependent children, there is no such requirement in Iowa law. Many women rely on University Hospital for the pregnancy test results, and the university’s law requires a parent to cooperate in a paternity suit to be eligible for aid to dependent children.

Nixon, heading back to Washington from San Francisco, stopped to meet with members of his cabinet and to have a drink on all his previous visits. He wore a French tricolor tie for the open night in the White House. But it’s not clear if Nixon will actually go out to eat.

The crime rate

In America today, statistics have become the opiate of the masses. The crime rate is a fine example of the myriad effects that can have on people. At the moment, everyone in government and law enforcement has been Micawberish about crime being lower. But if people still come, the numbers don't look so good. There is the lowest crime rate in the country since the 1960s. That is the highest increase in the last year. That is the lowest crime rate in the world. It is as if we were in a different time and place. But if people still come, the numbers don't look so good.

A second glance Sexes one to pause a moment. To be sure, the crime rate in the United States has been falling since 1960. At the same time, there is a growing gap between those Americans who are able to escape the consequences of crime and the many who are not. According to a report by the Pew Research Center, the number of people living in areas with high crime rates has increased by 30% since 1990.

Latest from the front: no pre-election ceasefire

By Jack Anderson

As the war in Afghanistan enters its third year, the situation on the ground is deteriorating rapidly. The American military has been pushed to the limit and the Afghan forces are struggling to hold back the Taliban. The situation is complicated by the presence of al-Qaeda and other extremist groups, which are using the Afghan conflict as a base to launch attacks on neighboring countries. The United States is faced with the difficult decision of whether to increase its military presence in Afghanistan or to begin a phased withdrawal of troops. The stakes are high, as the outcome of the conflict could have significant implications for regional and global security.

FLIES FROM LOCAL SOCIETIES

Although it was only a year ago that the first film society was established in Iowa City and the former newspaper office was converted into a theater, it is now possible to see a variety of good films almost any time of the week.

This fall two successful programs—The Comedy Film Society and the Science Fiction and Horror Film Society—will be continuing their programs. In addition, other societies or interest in other areas of films for which screen tickets will be available.

The Comedy Film Society sponsors a screen lecture in each meeting to include European films, as well as American and English.

Offerings

The program offers French comedies ranging from Chico's latest film, The French Swat Hat to Louis Malle's delightfully amusing New Wave picture, Zazou dans le Metro. In 1970, Malle's film was shown at the University of Minneapolis Institute of Fine Arts and University of Minnesota Film Society.

The film society itself as an excellent way of going has firmly established itself as an excellent way of going has firmly established.

Women lead Ms. to America's new force

by BARB YOUNGBERG

New York—Wonder Woman, a real-life phenomenon, is the latest issue of Ms. to make waves in the feminist world. The latest issue, titled "Women's Liberation in the Workplace," focuses on the rise of female empowerment and the struggles women face in the workplace.

The issue includes articles on the gender pay gap, the glass ceiling, and the challenges women face in the legal and accounting fields. There are also profiles of notable women in the workplace, including Ms. co-founder Patricia Carbine and Marilyn Monroe.

The cover story, "Women's Liberation in the Workplace," is a compelling read that highlights the progress women have made in the workplace and the hurdles they still face.

For more information, please visit the Ms. website at ms.msn.com.

Women's liberation in the workplace has been in the news lately, with the release of the latest issue of Ms. magazine. The magazine, which has been a voice for women's rights since its inception, continues to push for equality in the workplace.

In the current issue, Ms. focuses on the challenges women face in the workplace, including the gender pay gap and the glass ceiling. The magazine features profiles of women who have broken through the barriers of gender discrimination and have achieved success in their careers.

One of the most notable stories in the issue is about Ms. co-founder Patricia Carbine. Ms. Carbine, who was instrumental in the creation of Ms. magazine, has been a strong advocate for women's rights throughout her career.

Another article highlights the work of Marilyn Monroe, who was a prominent figure in the women's liberation movement. Monroe was known for her activism and her support for women's rights issues.

The magazine also features profiles of other women who have made significant contributions to the women's liberation movement, including Mary Jo Shelton and Joanne Goodwin.

Your $339 Can't Buy Better Computer Care

The phrase "Your $339 Can't Buy Better Computer Care" is a common refrain used by computer repair shops to promote their services. The phrase is often used to highlight the value of the repair shop's expertise and the quality of their work.

However, the phrase is not entirely accurate. While computer repair shops can offer valuable services, it is important to consider a variety of factors when choosing a repair shop.

First, it's important to consider the reputation of the repair shop. A good repair shop will have a strong reputation for providing quality work and excellent customer service.

Second, it's important to consider the cost of the repair. While $339 may seem like a good deal, it's important to compare prices with other repair shops to ensure you're getting the best value.

Finally, it's important to consider the qualifications of the repair technician. A qualified technician will be able to diagnose and repair your computer properly.

For more information, please visit the website of your local computer repair shop.

3000 organ pipes

By DANIELA TINTINA

Three to a floor, three to a wall, three to a ceiling, three to a pipe. The three organ pipes being installed in Rob. Scr. and C. J. Rumple's new Music Building will be the largest in the state and one of the finest in the nation. The pipes will be used for the first time in the 30th season of the University of Iowa Symphony Orchestra. The new organ pipes are the result of a $100,000 gift from the family of Charles L. Sprouse of Zearing, who had worked as a research associate in the field of international relations and was the University of Iowa's first football coach.

Office aids aliens here, Americans to go abroad

By DE ANN WESS

Combining the responsibilities of an international office with that of a public relations office, the new staff of the International Office will serve both students and faculty. The office will be located in the basement of the Administration Building, replacing the International Student Office, which was formerly located in the basement of the Administration Building.

The new office will provide aid to both international and domestic students, as well as to faculty members. The office will also serve as a clearinghouse for information about international programs and events.

Roommates vow 'whole new thing'

By Treeni Hooper, Staff Writer

In 1972, Iowa's football team returned to the Big Ten with the addition of two key players - former All-American counter Frank Nashel and former All-American center Dave Windauer.

In the Hawkeye's Nest

Jim Kaiser and Windauer are showing a lot of desire. "We're still working hard on fundamentals," said Windauer. "They're the second time they have roomed together as collegians, and the freshmen are filling in and learning very quickly.

"We're going to help you out." Kaiser added weight and the freshmen have been doing an excellent job.

Windauer was named from his past. He spent 1150 miles in the stands, arguably disagreed on with the lining lasers as he slowly

Imagine spending your summer training and shooting and flying around Australia, New Zealand and Tahiti with fourteen other boys.

Five Assistant Basketball Coach Dick Kuchen did, as he reached a Big Ten all-star basketball team on an exhibition tour of seven.

Kuchen and Waukee assistant coach Dave Vander Meulen took a team of ten players—six from each school—left Chicago in early June by Piper's, Tahiti. There was a two-day stopover in the tropical island just south of New Zealand, in the Isles de la Societe.

The group landed at five a.m. and were greeted by their beaming guests, "Some of us looked like death at the start of the tour," Kuchen recalled.

The players slept on the beaches all day, then had a great on a court court in the evening. There being no fresh meat or juice to fill their hungry stomachs, the boys played in the public gym.

From Pippisi, the boys flew the French airforce U.T.A., (Etoile de Transport Aeriens)—to Sydney, Australia, not before a briefchat dinner in New Colombo. The French had been making contact talks about sending tours to near South American and pacific countries, flying the U.T.A office in Sydney, the curator.

It was a good thing the Big Ten didn't find that, for while they were flying across the Irish Sea, the demonstrators blew up the U.T.A office in the airport. And when the players finally landed, they were searched by Australian officials.

The demonstration over the group turned the southern and eastern coast of Australia. The crowd is the only parts of the country with major cities. The rest of the huge nation is bushland, Kuchen said. to where the kangaroos and wallabies are, although he did shows in the Melbourne area.

One reason for the tour was to stimulate interest in basketball in those countries. In fact, last games with the Australian Nationals, the teams represented at the Olympics, were internationally significant. Kuchen added that American players have been impressed to upgrade to the big bowl played.

Kuchen said the travel was rough at times. It was winter there, and very few buildings have heat. "We played a game at Ballarat," Kuchen said, "where it was about 100 degrees and no heat in the gym. Thtwe didn't take off any slacks over during the game."

The Players were mobbed in the hotels. They only played about two minutes at a time, and then wrapped themselves in blankets." But things weren't as rough at other times. Australian beer is about 10 per cent alcohol. 'It can sneak up on you,' Kuchen remembered.

The tournament made a short step down to Tasmania and things weren't the bad, either. While the coaches stayed in the hotel, the players were talked in the apartments of some college girls.

The Australian people gave parties for the Americans after nearly every game and the competitive edge sometimes angered the partisans. "Pleas remember, they tried their best at all the heart was willed,"

Coaches Kuchen and Vander Meulen realized it was a vacation for the players. All they asked was a chance to play basketball.

To the Americans, not only a couple games. Kuchen remembered Coach Tome, "Australian," and 43-year-old Eddie Turner, "Eddy Turner can win a good game any time, and play just super."

"Gordon has been overshadowed at Ohio by Byrns, but he's a good artist. That's the type guy who can get you a bucket when you really need it."

"Stuski, Illinois. The Toronto Colossus was a two-year around the 64.1. and Kuchen thinks the trips helped the Port Bridge toward forward."

"The huge season, finding something behind the man, something to people and men" Kuchen said.

"Mystery is a magic man's play and couldn't be ward at a near trip. He always played the better game against the better players." Kuchen said.

"Kuchen remembered that the anti-American feeling, so heavy in Europe and Asia, isn't very strong on Australia or New Zealand. Kuchen emphasized that he got his feel of the trip most. "American democracy strong people in education. They don't have the same language. It was really refreshing to see people get together and understand each other than.

He added that the trip was late in site, it should be continued by the Big Ten and the university boards, but the financing be done or it won't be worth it.

Spitz flies home after Arab terror

MUNICH (AP) — Mark Spitz, the Olympic swimming star, arrived Friday for a brief visit to his home in California before heading Tuesday to Israel for a visit to his relatives.

Spitz, 22-year-old 20 gold medal winner, was given a special reception at the International Olympic Committee headquarters in Geneva.

"I was thrilled to see him," IOC President Juan Antonio Samaranch said. "He is a historic swimmer and a historic figure of the Olympic movement." Spitz said. SAIGON (AP) — North Viet­namese forces attacked a third South Vietnamese outpost in the central highlands on Tuesday amid growing government con­cern of a possible threat to the province capital since last month. This is the unit that tried to flee in all directions when 1,055mm howitzer ex­plodes over the Ban Mountain area. The latest tack on Bau Can is only three miles north of Pleiku. In June, 32 men were reported to have been killed and 13 wounded. It is the latest in a series of attacks on South Vietnamese outposts in the central highlands.

Boycott needs white support

By GREGG RICHARD Staff Writer

"We support a boycott if we are going to make any headway in the lettuce industry," reports Armando Almanzan, A3, Chicago, with grape growers in California and Arizona, said Almanzan. "Many farmers stress lowered prices as the workers problem through about 8,000 workers come to Iowa every year. Iowa unions report that the demand for lettuce locally is in proportion, and that prices, generally up, are not out of proportion. Producers in the Moline and Fort Madison areas employ the workers for several months every year and other workers make their way to Mason City and Des Moines, return and again are employed by the workers in Iowa. Workers are barely surviving. The tragedy in that labor has been the situation for too many years," said Zavala. "If we don't seek recognition as a union and the bargaining power that follows can they gain a decent living standard."

"The language barrier has been a problem in California and recognition and affiliation with the UFW," and the language barrier is a problem. A facility worker earns $4,000 per year, according to Zavala and Zavala, said Zavala. "There are few educational opportunities for the workers or their children," they claim. Without KLIR recognition, the workers are not protected by federal minimum wage laws. "National health and safety standards are met" in the fields, the workers are not protected by federal minimum wage laws, according to the workers. "They have no idea about social security benefits," they say. "We can expect social security benefits, these benefits are enjoyed by most other workers in other industries."

Citizen group seeks local council change

A local citizens’ group moved one step further in its plan to change the format of the Iowa City council-manager form of government by filing a petition calling for a special election in November.

City Attorney Jim Hunt said the petition is legal, and that it has been successful in getting bills passed in Congress this year.

The petition was filed by a group of citizens who support the present council-manager form of government, saying it is the most efficient and effective form of government for Iowa City.

ABC spokesman Dorothy Douglas said the group will push for a special election to be held by the end of the year, where they hope to get signatures.

Douglas said the special election will be held on the date when ABC members are scheduled to obtain signatures. They are expected to turn the petitions in before the end of the year.

The signatures on the petition will be verified by the City Attorney’s office, and if they are verified, the signatures will be counted.
