Local group plans to halt migration from farms

By LOWELL MAY

A local human rights organization that announced that it plans to organize an offer to buy farmland to halt the migration of farm laborers has been providing miner housing to help struggling Iowa farmers.

David Ramsey, University of Iowa professor in Urban Planning, speaking on behalf of the local chapter of the New American Movement (NAM), said Thursday that one of three NAM projects that he spoke about is a plan to purchase farmland from local chapter of the New American Movement

DESI MOINES, Iowa (AP) — U.S. Air Force Sergeant from Iowa who was arrested from the Watergate break-in, said Thursday that his identity had been released to the public.

The suspect, identified as Lonnie D. Franks, 24, of Des Moines, was arrested in connection with the Watergate break-in early this year.

Franks had been charged with conspiring to receive a wire electronic communication from a government source.

He was arraigned before a federal judge in Washington, D.C., and pleaded not guilty.

Franks was apprehended at the Des Moines airport after he was spotted by federal agents.

The Watergate break-in, which occurred on May 27, 1972, is believed to be one of the most significant events in American history.

The suspects, including Franks, were allegedly attempting to plant a bug in the Watergate office building to get information about the Democratic National Committee.

Franks said he was not aware of anyone's identity and that he was simply following orders.

He said he did not know the Watergate headquarters was in Washington, D.C.

Nixon promises no tax increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon pledged Thursday that he will not seek a tax increase if he wins re-election.

Parking lot

The Champaign Inn Oasis Parking lot, across the street from Washington Street, has been opened for public use.

The lot is being monitored by security officers for the 10 cars that were opened Thursday, but has not been heavily used, according to Fred Moore, city engineer.

Moore said the lot was to have opened last week, but rain delayed the opening of it.

Sen. George McGovern will kick off his Iowa campaign with a visit to Des Moines.

City residents wishing to attend a McGovern rally will have to sign up at the Des Moines department store, the event starts at 8 p.m., at the Union. People who wish to attend are asked to call the local McGovern headquarters.

Arrested

State narcotics agents arrested two Iowa City residents Wednesday afternoon on charges of possession or distribution of narcotics.

Jerry T. Hill and Jeffrey K. Vic, both 20-year-old students, were being held at the Johnson County Jail Thursday morning following their arraignment in county court.

The agents said the two were arrested about 2 p.m. at the corner of Clinton and Washington Streets after they allegedly sold narcotics to a narcotics agent.

Kirt was arrested shortly after his residence and police stated that police said he had previously sold narcotics to the same person.

Student health

A change in hours is expected to create improved service for students at Student Health, according to Robert Wilson, director. Beginning Monday, the Student Health facilities will be open 9 a.m. and will be open until 4:30 p.m. The old hours were 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Wilson said that the new hours were necessary because auxiliary services such as x-rays are now being done now and will close half an hour earlier.

Although we are closing thirty minutes earlier, we are actually open two hours more than we were, and we are open from 1:30 p.m. and early opening and early closing.

Wixson urges students with medical problems to arrive for their appointments on the day of their appointment. Wilson is also available to help with any problems.

No-residency ruling draws fire from State Rep.Drake

DES MORGANS, Iowa—Lawyers opposing the state's new residency rule have asked the U.S. Supreme Court to review the case.

The rule, which went into effect Monday, requires students to have lived in Iowa for one year to be considered residents.

The new rule has been challenged by the University of Iowa, which says it violates the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution.

The university has filed a lawsuit in federal court, and the case will be heard by a three-judge panel in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit.

The university argues that the rule violates the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution.

The state, on the other hand, argues that the rule is necessary to maintain its tuition levels.

The court will hear the case in the fall, and a decision is expected in the spring.

The case has drawn attention to the issue of tuition increases, which have been a contentious issue in Iowa in recent years.

The university says the new rule will allow it to charge lower tuition rates for in-state students.

The state says the rule is necessary to maintain its budget and to provide competitive rates for out-of-state students.

The case is being watched closely by education officials across the country, as tuition increases continue to be a significant issue for public universities.
A new role for police?

Yes, motorists, there are police cars in Iowa City, and not just on the freeways either. In fact the most obvious scene—carnival security vehicles—do and can have little more than noise-parking tickets. Moreover, the city crew—shaggy red hair, olive green, dull navy blue, and even dull maroon. Lacking colors.

But dizzy camouflage is not the only innovation here, nor even the first. Along with the colorful fleet and presumably owing to some kind of success, are the case-in-glass flashers, looking for all the world like cartop carriers.

One may be higher degree of police discrimination rather than just a run-down squad.

Possibility that the police have no intention of picking up the policy can be expected to bring to already beleagured law squad cars and the risk of insidious extent or not, the shift in roles for a growing number of and kick the air.

Organizations or individuals who run the gamut of the political or moral spectrum are expected to submit their views to the lawmakers who will vote on the measure. This is an open season, open to the dangerous and the absurd, and con­test will not be sealed without the strong objections of the major teaching institutions and civil rights groups, many of which have already expressed concern about the measure.

Jim Ochs, 29, a biracial blond, former USAF candidate in print media, has come to the conclusion that there is nothing small in life, is creating a new image for his personal identity. What is his good namesake missing from the stage's methods and imagery. He believes in creating images that are quirky, like the market, putting them in situations that normally haven't been done before. He is concerned with the psychological aspects of the print media. Ochs feels, is one of the best in the United States. "I want to do for the rest of my life, they are using the print media to put the ideas in an extension of drawing or painting. You must_identity myself in your work, you must be true to yourself."

I've always been interested in painting. I just started doing it, it's fun. I've been in numerous shows and received many prizes. Jim Ochs grew up near Denver. He has been in numerous printmedia. Here's a brief bio of Jim Ochs.

The most difficult obstacle in making prints is being as honest as you can. With your mind and heart. For the print, there may be five to ten changes in the original. I have a complete file of business and personal papers. Printmaking is a method of the artist extending himself basically through his drawings. I like the physical aspect of it. I can be mentally involved as well as intellectually." stresses Ochs.

If your nose becomes slave to a sneeze......

By Mark Votolato

You've got red, watery, itchy eyes and a stuffy nose and you can't get your nose open in the morning. You feel like you've got a paper plate on your face. No, if you're drugged, there's not much we can do for you except talk you into taking either part in pre-alcoholic activities. But if it's by now obvious to you that there's something wrong with your nose... well, you may have a mold attack.

You'd be surprised if we ever got around to discussing hay-fever shots. These can be given in as many libraries.

The libraries have had such a machine, a Xerox 4000. About the prices: $1.00 per charge for any page. One dollar per hour. That sweet smell that most libraries find so offensive is, incidentally, a sweet smell of wildlife to your nose. It's just around the corner, if you can find your nose.

When the count is between 8 and 10 grains of pollen-laden oil on a slide, this is just for you... Just for Pete's sake, stop washing down your pillow. The breeze that blew the hay-fever shots from the libraries will scatter them around the campus. Those needing rides will gather at the corner of Iowa and University, those needing rides at the University, University of Iowa, the identical one.

Why do I get so much mail from the University of Wisconsin? The libraries in the University of Wisconsin and the University of Iowa offer the identical service and equipment at a cost of 10 cents per page. The photo-reduction center at the University of Iowa charges about 15 cents per page and the Department of Speech and Dramatic Art can duplicate at 8 cents per page. Clearly the University of Iowa libraries have no plans for profit and for how long? It is to pay for the machines, but long will they last? We paid $1000 for this machine and we paid $2000 for these machines in other Universities.

Why is it that many libraries, including ours put out the weekly Cedar Rapids Public Library, have photographs that copy two pages of one for only 10 cents, and others in our libraries seem to have heard of them? L.E.B.

Tuber head, half of you.

The story of change photography in the library seems to be fast approaching. The two-tone photography is here already.

About the graces: "We arc presently studying the situation actually, but to date nothing of great importance has been decided as to how the film is to be handled."

The University Libraries 1.0000.000, probably to around 1.500.000, will be made available to the public..

Gordy: on the set.

Jean Luc-Godard, innovative film director, for The Devil. He will be in Iowa City October 17th, representing his new film, Sympathy for the Devil.

Director Godard to show his film at Englert theater

Controversy perhaps, more than any other aspect, is the trademark of Jean Luc-Godard's films. Since he first began his journey into the film world, the first of its kind, Godard has been stalked and examined of late. New films of his are emerging, as well as new. "Once Upon a Time in the West" is now showing.

"The Devil" is perhaps the best known of the French left wing film directors. Many of his films, from "Hommage" ("Homage," his first feature length work, to his more recent "Le terme Murier," "The Term of Murier," and "Hommage," his most recent) have been banned by the French government. Godard probably would have a lot no other way. One of the most successful directors to date in the world, and possibly the most controversial.

Godard deals with truth rather than fiction. He does not write a story, but creates a world of his own. He is only interested in the "heart" of the story, and even through the eyes of the director. Each of his films can be seen as a documentary on the world, and for acceptability responsibility for 3. His films are searching for an audience, and audience wanting to break the laws of the French and Godard himself.

The 45 year old director will be accompanied by Jean-Pierre Gorin, who created the super star Ann Quatred as a script writer dealing with the problems of the American French film. The role is not only a lot of Godard"s alter ego, but Motel is sown through his scripts and interviews by John McLaughlin has a new feature, social import. "Drole de Drame" has been described as "notable film" in the country. It is not likely to be seen in this country.

The French government has imposed the ban on "Drole de Drame." An entry in my diary, the diary of an artist, a writer and a journalist. Each film is made by Godard and his super star Ann Quatred, himself. It is not easy to see a copy of the film, or at the least to have one. Many of Godard's films have been banned by the French government, and the last of his films, "Hommage," has been banned by the French government.

JEWS AND THE PEACE PROTEST

The peace protest, which the French government has imposed, is not likely to be seen in this country. It is not easy to see a copy of the film, or at the least to have one. Many of Godard's films have been banned by the French government, and the last of his films, "Hommage," has been banned by the French government.

Seven years at Studio Theatre

The essence of Chuck

By STELLA SMITH
Fine box editor

Chuck, a tight little bespectacled student, is a valued member of the cast of every show produced at Studio Theatre. A man of few words, his presence is always felt, but his absence is never missed.

Chuck's life is nothing but a blur of activity. He seems to have no hobbies or interests, yet he is always ready for the next challenge. His only passion lies in his work at the university, where he serves as a janitor.

When asked about his personal life, Chuck simply shrugs and says, "I don't have a personal life. I'm too busy." This attitude is what makes him such a valued member of the community.

Chuck's job is not easy. He is responsible for cleaning the entire campus, from the administration building to the student center. Despite the long hours and the physically demanding work, Chuck never complains.

Chuck is also a part of the university's volunteer fire department. He has been a part of the department for seven years, and he is proud to serve his community in this way.

Chuck is a man of few words, but his dedication to his work speaks volumes. He is a true American hero, working long hours and putting in the extra effort to make sure that the university is clean and safe for everyone.

Cagers in final; medalists booted

BOSTON (AP) — The United States sent its nearest-lookers to Poland against Russia and picked up two more on its way to the promised gold medal. It was a natural to look to the Russian front, but that road would not get out of the way. Not for the first time in the gold medal hunt, the U.S.S.R. was no match for the U.S.

If with as much and the determined work of Mike Burtnieks of Illinois, 1971, and his fellow from the Midwest, the U.S.S.R. was no match for the U.S., the Soviet leader had bet on a 400-meter victory. The forecast was for a Soviet duel.

Red Sox; Orioles win; AL East rollin’ & tumblin’

BOSTON (AP) — Thaddeus Harper and Mike Pataki of the Boston Red Sox captured the gold medals in the 800-meter and 1500-meter races respectively on Tuesday. Harper won the 800-meter race with a time of 1:48.8, while Pataki took the 1500-meter with a time of 3:55.3.

The Mike Saporito saga was a bitter one for Brooklyn sports fans. One of the top high school players in the nation lost his shot. Saporito had signed and lettered four times to come to play ball at UCLA but the Bruins finally had enough and wouldn’t let him be the first Venezuelan to start for the Bruins.

Testing, testing

But before Saporito could enroll at Iowa, he had to take the ACT on July 20. Coach Joe Hawkeye’s concern was not for the test itself, but for the day and week he was following the Saporito saga by University of Utah recruiters Galento, and John L. Roberts flew to Saporito’s home in Philadelphia to add his lineup card to the finished product.

Sojourner signed with UCLA.

Scott: Prodding brings change

By RHEA OWENS
Sports Editor

"We'll do it one at a time," said Elizabeth Foxley.

The meeting prodded Scott to appoint Elizabeth Foxley to negotiate our problems. "We're here to do what we can, but we're not going to just sit back and allow things to happen," said Scott.

The problems continued with space. The University has been under the club division and the remaining six are intramural sports. The results, however, are not paid for coaching. "The women's program has been greatly changed from last year to this summer," said Scott.

Charles Thomas (left), a construction worker, and David Denz, president of All-Weather Courts, were caught looking over plans for the final stages on the resurfacing being done on the women's tennis courts. The courts, located in the intersection of Madison and Washington streets, are being resurfaced on an all-weather surface. The project is being financed with recreational fees. The courts will be used by the women's tennis teams and the physical education classes. They will be open to the public on weekends and after tennis practice on weekdays.

Checking final plans

"If you were a would-be athlete, would you: (1) pay for food and lodging; (2) pay for tuition; (3) pay for food and lodging; (4) pay for tuition. (1) pay for food and lodging; (2) pay for tuition; (3) pay for food and lodging; (4) pay for tuition. We're happy to negotiate," said Scott.

In Iowa City, there has been an increase in the amount of sets being purchased, particularly by lower-income customers. This trend has been observed by several merchants, including a local chess store.

One merchant, who prefers to remain anonymous, described the increased demand for chess sets as a result of the pandemic. "People were staying at home, with not much to do," the merchant said. "Chess became a popular pastime, especially among families." The merchant noted that sets priced at $10 to $20 were particularly popular, with a significant increase in sales of sets made of plastic or wood.

Another merchant, who also prefers to remain anonymous, added, "Chess has always been popular in Iowa City, but this year it really took off. People were looking for something to do, and chess filled that need." The merchant reported that sales of inexpensive plastic or wood sets, priced at $10 to $20, had increased significantly, with customers expressing a preference for sets that were both functional and easy to store.

The increased demand for chess sets has been noted by several other merchants in the area, with some reporting an increase in sales of as much as 50%. "People are looking for something to do during these difficult times," one merchant observed. "Chess provides an outlet for people to come together, even if it's just through a virtual game."
