Among the items to be discussed when the Iowa City Council meets at 7 p.m. today will be a public hearing on the rezoning of a portion of Clinton Street.

The hearing centers on a plan to use Clinton Street from Washington Street to Burlington Street as the location for modular units for public housing built by urban renewal development.

The Daily Iowan reported Monday that several of the 30 architectural firms were deadline for the public hearing.

According to the plan, the land would be rezoned from commercial to an R-2 private housing district.

Also on the council's agenda today is a report from City Hall. Jay Johnston, supervisor of planning and code enforcement, said the change in the form of city government.

Franzenburg speaks out here

By STEVE BAKER

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Paul Franzenburg took his campaign to the streets of downtown Des Moines on Friday, seeking support for his political views.

Franzenburg, who currently serves as the chairman of the Iowa Democratic Party, said he is running for governor in order to promote a tax revolt.

He continued, "I'm running for governor, not only because I want to change the way things are done in Iowa, but also because I want to change the way things are done in the United States."

Franzenburg said that he supports lowering the state income tax rate, increasing the sales tax, and eliminating property taxes.

"I believe that the current tax system is unfair and unjust," he said. "I want to make sure that every Iowan is treated fairly, no matter what their income level is."

Franzenburg added that he is opposed to the war in Vietnam.

"I believe that the war in Vietnam is a mistake," he said. "I want to end the war, and to bring the troops home as soon as possible."

Franzenburg spoke at a rally in downtown Des Moines, where he was joined by his running mate, John Tippett.

"We need a new leader in the state of Iowa," Franzenburg said. "We need a leader who is willing to stand up for the people of Iowa, and who is willing to make the tough decisions that need to be made."

Franzenburg concluded his speech by calling on the people of Iowa to vote for change.

"I want to end the war in Vietnam, and to lower the state income tax rate," he said. "I want to make sure that every Iowan is treated fairly, and that we have a strong voice in the United States."

"I want to be the leader that Iowa needs," he continued. "I want to be the leader that Iowa deserves."
Is boycotting lettuce such a good idea?

Caroline Forell

The effort to boycott lettuce has been before the public for far longer than many of us can remember. People have been purchasing certain brands of lettuce under the impression that they are boycott-certified, but the truth is that only a small percentage of the total lettuce production is actually involved in the boycott. It is simply a marketing ploy used by the lettuce industry to prevent it from altering its product line.

In the past, many people have boycotted certain brands of lettuce on the grounds that they were produced by companies that opposed the boycott. However, this is not necessarily true. Some companies have been forced to alter their product lines due to the boycott, while others have simply chosen to do so for their own reasons.

The boycott has had little impact on the overall production of lettuce, and it has not caused any significant changes in the market. In fact, the boycott has led to an increase in the price of lettuce, as companies try to recoup their losses.

It is important to remember that the boycott is not about the quality of the lettuce, but rather about the political issues that are being discussed. Many people have become disillusioned with the boycott as a form of protest, and they have turned to other methods of achieving their goals.

We should be concerned about the issue of inequality in the food industry, but the boycott is not the best way to address it. There are other, more effective ways to bring attention to the problems faced by farmers and workers in the lettuce industry.

WASHINGTON AP — On the eve of the primary election, Democrat George McGovern, the leading Democratic candidate for President, made a legitimate heart attack.

The Senator from South Dakota, the Democratic candidate for President, was rushed to the hospital in Washington, D.C., where he was operated on for heart trouble.

He was admitted to the hospital about 11 a.m. and was operated on shortly after that.

The operation was a success, and he is expected to make a complete recovery.

 McGovern, who is in his 70s, has been a prominent figure in American politics for many years. He served as a U.S. Representative from South Dakota from 1947 to 1957 and as a U.S. Senator from South Dakota from 1957 to 1977.

He was a strong proponent of civil rights and a supporter of the Vietnam War. He was a member of the Democratic Party and was the party's nominee for President in 1972.

The operation came as a shock to many people, who had been following his career closely. He was a respected and well-liked figure in the Democratic Party, and his contribution to American politics will be long remembered.

The operation was successful, and he is expected to make a complete recovery. The Democratic Party is confident that he will be back on the campaign trail soon.

The operation was performed by a team of respected heart surgeons, who have extensive experience in performing this type of surgery.

The international language
Esperanto builds peace

BY HANKRUTA

Esperanto is an international language

I guess I was born happy...

The merry man: Bucs' Manny

By DAILY IOWAN
Sports Editor

CHICAGO—Behold the Scorpions and if you look closely you'll see dust and barking to his face mask. Manny says of his game quick as breathing and it-can laugh 'bout it now. "I would have to say that I'm very quiet," said Manny. "The only time I laugh is when I'm watching a baseball game."

His face mask, his leopard speed would move in calliope fashion. He didn't know how to shift my gear and in the middle of a big strike, he took at me and said, "You steal on me in Chicago, some of the Pirates were falling asleep. In the earby grass, I could laugh. There was a commotion outside and I hopped down to tell Manny. To this, Manny says, "I had a happy time," Manny called. "The happy time is when I'm watching a baseball game."

Tom Saffel, the top baseball editor, says runners who try to steal on Manny in the early going take disadvantage of Manny in the big leagues. "I would have to say that I'm very quiet," said Manny. "The only time I

laugh is when I'm watching a baseball game."
