The dean of the College of Law has taken a step at the University of Iowa's aftersale memorial service for Lawrence E. Blades, a famous disabled student who was instrumental in establishing a law school's low-income aid program.

"I am profoundly moved by the outpouring of grief," said Blades's brother, Lawrence E. Blades II, at the memorial service. "Lawrence was a fighter, and he will always be remembered as such."

The service, which was attended by hundreds of students, faculty, and alumni, included a moment of silence and a reading of Blades's favorite poem, "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock." Blades's former classmates and colleagues spoke about his contributions to the law school and the broader community.

"Lawrence was a true friend and a true leader," said University of Iowa President Bruce Harreld. "He was a inspiration to us all, and we will miss him deeply."
Deadline
The deadline for operations personal filing (financial) will apply for the coming academic year. Interested? Applications are available at the Student Financial Aid Office, 106 Old Building.
According to William Hutton, assistant director of financial aid, the office of specific requests for financial aid is on the rise. Hutton said that financial aid is available to students eligible for federal loans through a federal loan program or a state loan program. According to Hutton, financial aid is available to students eligible for federal loans through a federal loan program or a state loan program.

Book exchange
Iowa Student Agencies (ISA) book exchange trade-in profits were split evenly among the financial aid office manager, Hutton, and the ISA financial aid office management. The profits are used to fund financial aid programs at the university.

Speaker
Adrianne Emerson, director of the Women's History Month, will be the featured speaker at a monthly function. Emerson will discuss topics such as women's history and the role of women in society.

Grants
Two University of Iowa faculty members have been awarded grants to continue their research. Poulson has been awarded a grant to continue his research on the development of new materials for medical applications. Bartel has been awarded a grant to continue his research on the development of new materials for medical applications.

Who'll cart Oscar home this year?

Here's our Oscar extravaganza with 22 prizes!

"It's that time of year again when all the Israeli glitter and spotlight excitement of Hollywood and the Oscars hits the screen.

Next Tuesday's the big day, when the world finds out if Godfather or Sounder or Cabaret or whatever nails down U.S. Chiron's best for '73. You can share in the excitement—and maybe pick up at 32 prizes—by entering The Daily's Oscar contest.

All you do is pick who you think is going to win the Oscar or any of the 15 categories we've selected (and fill in the tiebreaker). If you turn out to be the Oscar guesser with the highest percentage of correct answers and the most Oscar points, you'll get a movie pass for two, one of two new televisions, discs on the telephone, and more.

It's sure to be a party at Tasscop, in downtown City, and on Sixth Avenue, starting at 8:30 p.m. This Oscar thing is quite a big deal in Hollywood, so if you win, you'll be expected to accept your Oscar at the Academy Awards.

Our Oscar contest is a part of a bigger project called the Dally Lowana Center, which the Dally Lowana and Des Moines Register have worked on for the past several months. The center is a weekly program that will be launched on February 27, and it will be a place where people can go to get information about the arts and entertainment, and to participate in activities that are part of our program.

impressions from Wounded Knee Selma, Kent State, Watts
—now Wounded Knee

Editor’s note: This special report in the Daily Iowan is to commemorate Wounded Knee. The Impressions were contributed by the Daily Iowan and the Iowa Liberal News Service.

I went to Wounded Knee on impulse, after writing up a weekend Charlie Watts article. It’s impossible to write about Watts without going to his place of origin. The place—Wounded Knee—has been the site of several important events in recent history. Watts himself was a member of the American Indian Movement (AIM) and the site of the 1973 occupation of Wounded Knee, South Dakota. The site has also been the site of other significant events, such as the 1890 Wounded Knee Massacre and the 1974 Wounded Knee Massacre.

The new Indian cultural landscape is played out by the media as Indian, Catholic, and medicine banks. These are all significant, but I believe the most important aspect of the struggle for Indians is the resurgence of the Native American people living on and off the reservation. The struggle is not just about land rights, but also about cultural and spiritual rights.

Power over
The term "power over" is often used in the context of control and domination. It refers to the ability of one group to control and manipulate another group. The term is often used to describe the power dynamics within society, and it is important to understand the role of power over in the struggle for Indian rights.

Cultural forces
The things that hold with the power-over idea is the lack of education and lack of economic opportunities. These are the factors that have led to the loss of culture. The lack of education has led to the loss of knowledge and skills. The lack of economic opportunities has led to the loss of income and wealth.

The American Indian Movement was something more than that, but the movement has been too often ignored, by the federal government, and by the American public. The AIM was formed in 1968 in response to the death of a native American man, and it quickly became a powerful force for change. The AIM was founded by Dennis Banks and others, and it was soon joined by other groups, such as the American Indian Defense Association.

AIM has also tried to revive Indian rights to the broader public. In addition to the AIM, there is also the American Indian Religious Foundation, which was founded in 1968.

There are also many other organizations that are working to revive Indian culture. These organizations are helping to revive the knowledge and skills, and they are also helping to provide economic opportunities.

The AIM has also worked to revive the cultural traditions of the Native American people. The AIM has worked to revive the language, the music, and the art of the Native American people. The AIM has also worked to revive the Native American religion, and it has worked to revive the Native American culture in general.

Our society is divided into two groups, the white and the Indian. The white group is dominant, and it is responsible for all the problems that we face. The white group is also responsible for all the solutions that we need.

Survival Line CUE concerts: why searched?

At the last CUE concert, many people were bottled and some were confused. We realize the reason; liquor, is, no question, but it doesn't solve anything; indeed, more and more. We were not expected, but we imagine that would appear under the concert line, C.U.E., and 8 p.m.

SURVIVAL LINE talked with Campus Security head, John Donley, and the university police to determine why the concerts are held in secret. The concerts are no longer a university property and there is an administration charge, which may make it difficult to continue these other reasonable conditions for audiences to the concerts. According to Donley, Campus Security liaison has been moved to the university police, but the use of alcohol is against university rules when he was on campus. Donley didn't say and he is not out of the building. Currently, Donley said, the concerts being held on the surface of the concerts. The concerts, as the concerts, so the concerts, will understand just what it is. At last on legal issues and来看 was stated, Prof. David Donley, Curator, 12 Law School, agrees with Donley. The situation is perfectly understandable for general public order and public safety considerations, but to prosecute there must be probable cause and evidence of a crime. When asked about artistic events, Donley said that lastly the note policy applies, but that Campus Security can't manage the same kind of meticulous police work that must be preformed around the concerts. He said that probable cause and evidence of a crime around the concerts is the problem.

Music for Mahalia
Voices of Soul dedicate gospel concert
By ELAINE LARKIN
Waiter
Black people have always known that the late Mahalia Jackson is the mother of gospel music, because she went through the same pain and struggles for gospel singers and sharecroppers and Black people who sang with the same emotion and meaning as the civil rights movement. We've seen the transformation of Chicago and the great revival of the Black Church. Mahalia Jackson, who is one of the voices of Soul and is engaging Mahalia as a voice of this in a very Black spiritual way in a gospel concert dedicated to her.

Gospel music: to depict any myths, is not only one great contribution of God. Garland Wilson, director of the Voice of Soul, adds: "We're creating a feeling that comes from the young to the old. It's not just Mahalia Jackson's influence. It is a way of life that can be translated to the Black community.'"

The thunderous influence of gospel should not cause any praise to question it at all. It is not something you can understand, it's something that comes from the Black community. It is an inspiration to us at the moment.

The choir performed at the Stately Carnegie Hall in the presence of last year. They have gone from one church to another throughout the country. In one church, we heard a great demand for Mahalia Jackson's voice and the desire to see her. In another, we heard the same desire. Sometimes we met with the feeling of the music, the praise and the song. The choir practice is the same as the choir in performance. The singers are trained in a way that they respond to music, sometimes in different ways.

The choir of the Voices of Soul has dedicated a gospel concert in the memory of Mahalia Jackson. "It's a need, Jobs. "

I've heard you say anything is something else on TV, but I think the worst thing about television is that it is to have the same producers, the same scripts, the same shows. "

If you'd like a few very funny jokes, I'd be happy to deliver them with a smile.

Coach thinks layout has helped prepare Hawks

By BOB BENSON Staff Writer

The huge crowd at Illinois Big was not unexpected. The Hawks have been in midseason form and with the win over St. Louis, the Hawks have moved up to the top of the conference and are one win away from the championship.

In the game, the Hawks were able to hold off the Stones, a team that has been struggling all season. The Hawks were able to put the game out of reach in the second half, thanks to the play of Dave Luna, who had a career-high 28 points.

The win was a huge boost for the Hawks, who have been struggling to find consistency in their play. Luna, who has been inconsistent all season, was able to find his rhythm in the game and was a key factor in the team's success.

Overall, it was a great win for the Hawks, who are now in the driver's seat in the conference. With the win, they are one win away from the championship and are in a good position to make a run at the title.
