GM: mark of excellence

The following Equal Times is by the editor, Peter Laszewski, of the Christian Economists. The economic articles appear separately in Human Events.

One might say that our government uses a formula to determine how much money to give General Motors in aid of their operations. The aid was $390 for each common share.

Total taxes paid by General Motors in 1971 were $13,340,000,000, a tax rate of 5%. This is $390 for each common share.

During the same period payments to suppliers for materials and services were 50.5% of sales. A 50.5% margin over 5% of sales is a 45.5% profit margin per year.

Those who think that the top officials of our large corporations get the bulk of the shares of the earnings should be reminded that this is 1972. The 24 directors and officers of General Motors own less than 1% of the equity of all the General Motors ventures. As one percent of one percent of a trillion dollars is 0.01%, or 0.0001, which is a non-favorable margin to those who get the money, but it is a favorable margin to those who get the money.

The total remuneration of these gentlemen was not $390 for each share.

These men have the skill and experience to gather raw materials from foreign sources, and to use them for the benefit of General Motors, in the use of General Motors, for the benefit of General Motors, and in the use of General Motors.

The skills of these men are uniformly dull cogs in the machine. Scientific breakthroughs in America and the world are due to the efforts of these men, and they are due to the efforts of these men. The students of these men have been wisely encouraged to pursue their careers, and the results of their work have been wisely encouraged. The students of these men have been wisely encouraged to pursue their careers, and the results of their work have been wisely encouraged.

The military scene is enough to make one wonder if there is something wrong. People are coming when we choose to look at little men as heroes and seek to place them above those who are better qualified.

Where have all the heroes gone? Where have all the heroes gone? We are told that there are no heroes in this world today, and that there are no heroes in this world today.

There are few heroes in this world today, and there are few heroes in this world today. There are many heroes in this world today, and there are many heroes in this world today.

Woodcutters in South start organizing

The watergate gang wants you to go easy...they were all set up for instant pleasure.

...we can't have a man come in and say, "I want to do this," and then have the boss man say, "OK, let's cut one down.

"And maybe you've got a piece of wood that's going to be cut. And maybe you've got a piece of wood that's going to be cut in the woods, and you're going to cut it. And maybe you've got a piece of wood that's going to be cut in the woods, and you're going to cut it. And maybe you've got a piece of wood that's going to be cut in the woods, and you're going to cut it. And maybe you've got a piece of wood that's going to be cut in the woods, and you're going to cut it.

The people in the community who cut wood are not the heroes. They just don't like the idea of a man, with the boss man, with the boss man, with the boss man, with the boss man, with the boss man, with the boss man.

"And maybe you've got a piece of wood that's going to be cut. And maybe you've got a piece of wood that's going to be cut in the woods, and you're going to cut it. And maybe you've got a piece of wood that's going to be cut in the woods, and you're going to cut it. And maybe you've got a piece of wood that's going to be cut in the woods, and you're going to cut it.

Where have all the heroes gone?"
Jurors serving after removal

By ROBERT HERNAND
Staff Writer

"Jury service is one of the most important things in the United States," said County Judge Marcie Anderson. Anderson added that she is working with the YSA to establish a "YSA Jurors' Guide," explaining how to serve on a jury.

Economists and policymakers are divided over the efficacy of jury service as a mechanism to distribute wealth. Some argue that it is an effective way to ensure that the wealthy are held accountable for their actions, while others argue that it is a symbolic gesture with little practical impact.

Legal experts say that jury service is required by law for all citizens, regardless of income or social status. However, some argue that the system is flawed and needs to be reformed.

Joan Smith, a lawyer who has served on several juries, says that jury service is an important way for citizens to become involved in the justice system.

"It's a way for people to see how the law is applied," Smith says. "It can be a learning experience, and it can also be a way to hold the government accountable."
Dance festival—the last word in fun!

Lively & bright - Vivachi!

By BILL JENKINS
Staff Writer

This weekend, the last word in entertainment is Vivachi, as the University of Iowa Dance Festival gets under way. A rare dynamic spectrum of "vivaci," meaning "lively" and "bright," "Vivachi" indeed goes up to its name.

Composed of afternoon performances, this is Dance Theatre. It is a streaming of choreographic imagination brought to life, a flash of images of light and movement.

Movement generally shifts at times tender and soaring; at times stark and dramatic. This is counterpointed through the music, which includes folk, classical, and contemporary, backgrounding the forms themselves, urging them on.

David Dickey, producer in the speech department, is the director-director.

USU Dance Theatre is open to anyone in the community by audition, which will be held at the Dance Studio, 8th and Tenth Streets, Monday through Thursday this week. Members will take ideas for choreographing a dance for the event are encouraged to participate. With a March 5 deadline on entries, the show must be submitted for the program where the selection is for the dance and not for the program selection.

Each performance, through Vivachi's continuing, Dance Theatre has between 30-40 members. Surprisingly, most strong, enough members are available.

Vivachi! will be presented at the University Theatre March 9th and 10th at 8 p.m. and Sunday, March 10th at 2 p.m.

Tickets are available at the box office, 8th and Tenth Streets.

BOSTON (AP) — Chuck Fairbanks, the new head coach of the Boston Celtics, dozed under a canopy or prior knowledge of the irregularities which caused the University of Oklahoma basketball team to forfeit some of this season’s 12 games.

Fairbanks was head football coach at Oklahoma last season when the academic transcripts of two freshmen players were reportedly tampered with.

Close Candlestick?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A labor official has called a rumble at Candlestick Park — home of the San Francisco Giants and home to the cloned police crowd scene often seen on movies and movies everywhere.

Paul Harrel, business agent for the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 648, told the police commissioners Wednesday that greedy "sportswriters" are reservoirs for recyclers and engineers alienating during alarms.

Currently, private security guards with arrest powers patrol the stands. They must take suspected trespassers out side to a central location to be checked.

Other witnesses testified that hundreds of high school students were not especially during the changing line and watching their purses.

Police Chief Donald suggested uniformed patrol officers pull extra pay to work at Candlestick on their days off. He was ordered to work out a plan for increased security and report back.

NEW YORK (AP) — Purists gripe, megastars thrive: Baseball will host biggest broadcast ever

By DICK DE JONG

The biggest baseball broadcast in history will be a rarity: a major league game that will be played in November.

The New York Yankees will host the Boston Red Sox in a 7-4 victory at Yankee Stadium on Wednesday night.

The game, which will be televised locally on NBC, will mark the first time a major league game has been played in November since 1965, when the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Chicago Cubs 2-0 in the World Series.

The broadcast will be part of a nationwide promotion by the league to promote baseball as a year-round sport.

The game will be the first of three telecasts in New York City, with the other two scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

The Yankees and Red Sox will play a doubleheader on Friday and a single game on Saturday.

The broadcast will be available on cable and satellite networks, including ESPN, Fox Sports, NBC, and MLB Network.

The league has partnered with local broadcasters and media companies to ensure that the game will be seen across the United States.

The broadcast will also feature interactive elements, such as live interviews with players and coaches, and social media integration.

The league hopes that the broadcast will help grow the sport's fan base and increase awareness of baseball as a year-round activity.

The game will be played in November because that is when the World Series is traditionally held, and the league wants to make sure that fans can watch the game in their own time zones.

The broadcast is expected to draw a large audience, with the league estimating that it will reach millions of fans nationwide.

In addition to the broadcast, the league is also launching a new website, MajorLeagueBaseball.com, which will feature exclusive content, behind-the-scenes access, and interactive elements.

The website will be available in multiple languages, and will be accessible to fans around the world.

The league is also working with local communities to promote baseball as a year-round activity, and has announced a new partnership with Major League Baseball Players Association to help grow the sport.
