I 5 nabbed in gambling raid

"Poker and crap" games busted at local American Legion post

By WILLIAM HEARD

Public Affairs Writer

About 15 men were arrested near a raid on the Iowa City American Legion Post No. 75 on Tuesday night.

The men were charged with gambling and being a state charge.

A four-member squad from the state and Upper Lickgo Courts was on the job Friday morning, as searches were made of the Legion Post No. 75 in central Iowa City. The state squad was looking for evidence of gambling and other criminal activities.

The raid was conducted by officers of the state police department, who served search warrants on the Legion Post No. 75 and the American Legion Post No. 43 in Indianola.

The raid resulted in the arrest of 15 men, who were taken to the Johnson County Jail.

The Legion Post No. 75 was closed at midnight on Tuesday, and the officers began their search for evidence of gambling and other criminal activities.

The search warrants were executed at 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, and the officers continued their search throughout the day.

The raid resulted in the seizure of a large amount of gambling equipment and other evidence of criminal activity.

The state police said they believe the Legion Post No. 75 was being used as a gambling establishment, and they will seek charges against the owners.

The raid was prompted by a tip from a local citizen, who said he had observed gambling at the Legion Post No. 75.

The state police said they will continue to investigate the case, and they will seek charges against the owners.

City hopes to hire new attorneys

Two full-time assistant city attorneys are to be added by the City Att'y Jay R. Honohan to handle the city's legal affairs and to deal with the many lawsuits filed against the City Council.

Permiso to hire the new assistant attorneys was granted by the City Council yesterday. Henceforth, he said, the city will have as many as four attorneys on its staff.

Honohan said he would have the names of the two attorneys, including the names and addresses, ready for his members within the next two weeks.

Firm named to design city renewal

Helmut Krueger and Associates, a large national architectural firm, has been chosen to plan the Old Capitol Block project, which is being constructed by the Iowa City Council.

Freda Herrold, executive director of the local company, announced the selection Tuesday evening at a city council meeting.

County to collect city parking fines

The city hall Monday announced that the Iowa City Council will be responsible for collecting parking fines for the first time.

Unless the council votes to delegate this function to the department of public safety, the parking ticket collection will be handled by the county court clerk's office any day of the week.

"Our recommendation to the city council is that we take action to retain this system," said Michael Pugh, city attorney, who handled the matter.

"I have a lot of experience working with the city council on this matter," he said.

The council will vote on the matter at its next meeting, Tuesday evening.

Tuition fees

The Iowa City Council voted unanimously to increase the college's tuition fees.

The new rates will be $500 for the first year and $800 for the second year.

The city council will also consider a proposal to increase the parking fee from $1 to $2 per day.

Gerald Stevenson and The Paper Place

Iowa Defender sows the seed...

People complained about food prices going up, and many disliked the proposed addition to the daily Iowa House. Pete Boger put up a sign at the Iowa State Auditorium, and Darrell Dunn was busy with his TV set on the 14th floor. Both were November of 2013.

In 1948, the fire in the morning of the 3rd, also Vol. 1, No. 21, of the Iowa Defender, a “newspaper of clean and opinion.” The Defender’s editor was a student who had come to the territory of the Iowa State University. The paper’s publisher, however, was probably a more serious and enjoyable task.

The Defender was an alternative newspaper, daring to be the Daily Iowan which was still in need of a student paper. It was not until the paper was first going into print. The Daily Iowan was described as a “frightening, weak, sick, and conservative.”

I am writing up the story of the Daily Iowan that I worked on the paper. The newspaper, as it turned out, was a success, and Stevenson’s Iowan adds often corresponded to the events of the time. The first was my own, and the second, “on which the newspapers of the...”

As a business manager, I was assigned to reach out to local students and the Defender collection. The Iowa State University was where I worked, and the Defender was the daily student newspaper for the students. I worked on the daily newspapers as a reporter, covering art-written or graphic, and some of the Hơn 230 people like Jim Burrell on the staff at the Defender.

The Defender was operated as a democratic subscription, and Christine was the paper best. I located Jerry by running an ad in the Daily Iowan personals. Jerry was usually a memb...

Seabiscuit’s days are over

When you’re up for the downs, try East Moline Downs

East Moline Downs

Seabiscuit’s days are over, but not his story. Seabiscuit was a legend, and his legacy lives on at East Moline Downs. After several races in which he failed to win, Seabiscuit was retired from the track and his time as a racehorse came to an end.

Getting ready for the Downs

Seabiscuit’s training on the track was rigorous. He was trained by his owner, Ben Jones, who had a strict schedule for the horse’s work. Seabiscuit was fed a special diet, and his feet were kept in excellent condition.

The Downs experience

Seabiscuit’s last race at East Moline Downs was known as the “Racing War.” The time was right for Seabiscuit to retire, and he was given a hero’s sendoff.

Seabiscuit’s legacy

Seabiscuit’s legacy is one of endurance and perseverance. He was a horse who never gave up, and his story continues to inspire people around the world. Seabiscuit’s memory lives on at East Moline Downs, and his spirit is perpetuated by the horse racing community.

Every horse is different, and you don’t want to make the mistake of thinking that you know everything about racing.

Every driver is concentrating on getting back at the people who hurt him.

“Downs” (the Downs) is commonly referred to by local personalities, is the number one track in Illinois, built at a cost of $11.2 million and 50,000 dollars.

Seabiscuit and his owner, Ben Jones, started training for the Downs in early June. Jones had a strict schedule for the horse’s work, and Seabiscuit was fed a special diet. He was then taken to the track to start training for the Downs.
