Who will cut the price of beer, perhaps to $1 a can, to let more people enjoy it? The beer industry is a monopoly, so they won't cut the price. They also are trying to stop the sale of home brew, which is nearly the same as beer. The only thing they are interested in is making money.

The beer industry has been in existence since 1933

when the Prohibition Act was passed. The act was enacted to stop the production and sale of alcoholic beverages. However, the beer industry continues to be very profitable and has expanded its operations

to include the production of other types of alcoholic drinks such as wine and spirits. The beer industry is also involved in advertising and marketing its products to attract customers.

The beer industry is dominated by a few large companies such as Anheuser-Busch and Miller

Coors. These companies have a significant market share and are able to control the price of beer. They also have the ability to influence legislation that affects the production and sale of beer. The beer industry is a very powerful lobbyist and is able to influence the decisions of Congress and the states.

In conclusion, the beer industry is a powerful force in society and its impact cannot be underestimated. It is important to understand the history and the role of the beer industry in order to address the issues that arise from its activities.

Littler back on beam

It's been almost two years since Gene Littler had a malignant growth removed from under his left shoulder.

But this week Littler took another step in trying to prove he's made it all the way back.

Littler fired a 5-under-par 67 Monday to finish in a second-place tie with T. L. Cram in the Arizona Open at Tempe.

The Arizona Open, along with the Phoenix Open last week's American Golf tournament in Chicago, are the only tournaments on the 1963-64 tour where Littler is a serious contender.

Littler finished 1962 with a 10-place finish in the World's Championship of Champions tour at a 75.68-55.00.

Littler is one of a growing number of professional using the medium format 6x6 graphic studio. He uses one on his home course, at the University of Arizona, and makes his own camera setups in the roaming studio.

"The studio improve my distance lens and make up for any lag I have because of the close-ups," said Littler after his 67 Monday.

"It looks like a month to get used to the studio setup. I have had to change my rhythm. They weigh less than ones without. Some regard it as an automatically set aperture or shutter speed."

Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — After coming to town on a tour by helicopter, American tennis stars John McEnroe and Jimmy Connors headed out on the courts on Tuesday in preparation for Wednesday's opening round. McEnroe, the top-seeded American, and Connors, the No. 2 seed, will play each other in the second round.

The quarterfinals are set for Thursday, with McEnroe and Connors scheduled to play on opposite sides of the draw.

The doubles draw was also announced, with McEnroe and Connors teaming up with John Newcombe of Australia and taking on the Russian team of Viktor Betin and Gennadiy Gentry in the first round.

The men's final is set for Sunday, with the women's singles final on Saturday.

He studied at the School of Hypnotism in Lincoln, interprets the increase as part of a general trend that has been on the increase for years. Mr. Mystique redefines these wonders through his ability to receive psychic vibrations. He writes a psychic number on the chalk board and shows it to the audience. He tracks down the psychic number which is the number the volunteer thought of. He asks the volunteer to concentrate on a phone number, a phrase, a name, and he will locate the correct number. Mr. Mystique has this ability because he studied at the School of Hypnotism in Lincoln. Mr. Mystique rushes onto the stage and says, 'I can stop time.'
