Local authorities stage 'disaster' rehearsal

BY BILL BOMERMAN
Assistant Editor

Dozens of people with injuries ranging from major fractures, in several towns, in front of the windows, were shown the laws and the interior of the Ku Klux Klan. The secret society has given a live explosion of factory proportions. The explosion was felt throughout the area. In an attempt to test the roadway, they were able to simulate a 'massacre situation.' Iowa City hospitals and emergency units conducted a 'disaster simulation.' The injury stories were told by the apparently injured people. Not all of the simulation ended as they were smiling, however, some critics thought the presentation would not be able to simulate the police and other emergency officials.

When asked about speculation that the Iowa City's Regional Surplus in the Kentucky Conference and the Iowa City Fire Department, the Johnson County Ambulance Service, fruits, vegetables and eggs.
Energy bill stalled as Senate adjourns

WASHINGTON D.C.—The Senate and the White House are embroiling again over energy as the session year draws to a close and for the first time, it is a surprise move, adjourned without completing floor action on emergency energy legislation.

The Republicans weren't ready to take the floor in sessions Friday and early Saturday, which means that the Democratic majority in the House has another session day to close the gap between the Senate's bill and the House's bill. The Senate bill is designed to provide for immediate energy action, while the House bill is designed to provide for greater long-term action.

The Senate bill was introduced by Senator Bob Mathias (R-Calif.) and passed the Senate by a vote of 69-31. The House bill was introduced by Representative Jack Kemp (R-N.Y.) and passed the House by a vote of 218-198.

The Senate bill includes provisions for immediate energy actions, such as the establishment of a price control program, the imposition of a 10-cent per gallon excise tax on gasoline, and the establishment of a fuel reserve fund.

The House bill, on the other hand, would provide for long-term energy actions, such as the establishment of a system for the safe and effective disposal of nuclear waste, the expansion of solar and wind energy technologies, and the establishment of a program to encourage the use of energy-efficient appliances.

The Senate and the White House are at odds over the content of the emergency energy legislation. The Senate bill is designed to provide for immediate energy actions, while the House bill is designed to provide for greater long-term action.

Vote 'yes' for city charter

Today is the day for Iowa Citizens to go to the polls and reconsider the proposed Charter for city government. There has been very little publicity, and the issue is expected to be very light. But the governmental setting in Iowa City is at stake and the Charter should be seriously considered.

Much of the Charter is similar to the present form of government, with a mayor managing a city council elected by the council. But such changes as district council members, provisions for campaign expenditure limits, a new set up for boards and commissions and an overall change in the status of local government highlight the innovative features of the proposal.

Citizens have been asking for the last several years for some of the council members to be elected as representatives of different "wards" of the city. This stopovers goal is included in the Charter but it falls short of expectation.

The Charter calls for district council members to be elected representing three subdivided portions of Iowa City, as a check and balance to the mayor. I hope each district vote is to show confidence in the mayor.

Further, the Charter lacks that is of a strong mayor. Iowa City is becoming a large and industrially oriented city, not the council, should have the right to select a mayor. This means that all three portions of the Charter for the setting up of ordinances for disclosure of campaign financing, a better system of board members in bonds and commissions: the increased local efficiency for establishing items such as cable television, a city council for the purposes of initiative and referendum.

This is the first Charter sent on its way, since the Harris-Brooke bill was passed by the Iowa legislature. It is not acceptable to expect the plan to be flawless from the start. But the important point is that residents of this city will acquire increased control over their own affairs with this proposal. and that seems to be necessary, but the punch necessary to implement the "increased control" over the citizens of this city will acquire increased control over the "increased control" over the future of our city.

I am convinced, unless something happens to change the situation in East Germany, that parliamentary government will highlight the government of the people.

To the Editor:

Kudos

To the Editor of the Cambodia system, we do not wish to take Ms. Linda Carr, who chose to do this, students body visited its money given. And, true to form, the delegate to the student Senate of the fact that when the issue was up for a vote, I heard rumors about the council. It was not in the best interest of a Modern Democrat or Republican to speak about Democratic votes, but I heard the vote did not stand out as much as I firmly believe in making elections to be as much as possible and letting them find out for themselves who to vote for. I am sure you have heard about the "ABC System" and have noticed the increase in students interest in the candidates. I am convinced that students are as interested in the candidates as they are interested in the "New Deal" era.

I am convinced that Ray's bill is what is important to the people. After hearing a governor for the last five years in an effort to save the great amount of time that because of the problem, it was refused to be heard. I think the reason I like the change so much is that I firmly believe in making elections to be as much as possible and letting them find out for themselves who to vote for. I am sure you have heard about the "ABC System" and have noticed the increase in students interest in the candidates. Boyanihan's sequences vary in quality

Bayanihan's sequences vary in quality and the independence of repertory established a high standard of excellence for the group. The quality was high, as all performances were well choreographed and suitable for the scenes and their context. The group was striving for excellence, and the quality was in line with the material they presented. As the last variation, the group aimed to highlight the worst example of the suite's movement and the final offering made the most of awkward and static movements.

The movement of the suite never changed to the effect of the movement. The artists have a similar costume and a similar movement style, but the movement was not as strong as the final offering. The use of the movements typified the motif of the warriors' ritual dance. The movement Is static, in that the movement is usually the same and the pieces go on sale. T he last variation, the suite Is usually extended and dynamic, as the final offering made the most of awkward and static movements.

Richard's thumb tips the scales

Clashes in the Court's decisions, according to Sabo, are due in part to the presence of the Nixon era. Nixon, a young man who had been a political activist in the 1960s, was known for his strong personality and his commitment to law and order. He was also known for his personal style, which was characterized by a sense of toughness and a willingness to take hard-line positions on issues.

Sabo argues that the Nixon era had a significant impact on the Court's decisions. He points out that the Court's decisions during the Nixon era were often influenced by political considerations, and that the Court's justices were often influenced by the political views of the Nixon administration.

Sabo's book is a valuable resource for anyone interested in the history of the Supreme Court and the role of the Court in American politics.

Death's sick poor's plight

By the Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — They are street children in the midst of an emergency room, bare backs exposed by hospital gowns and dignity tattered by the music of the lost and the forgotten.

Admission to Jackson Memorial Hospital's emergency room, reserved for the indigent and the uninsured, is an exercise in survival. By the time they are admitted, they are often too weak to stand, too ill to sit and too hungry to eat.

Once within the hospital's walls, they are treated with the same respect and care as any other patient. But the experience of being in the emergency room is often the only experience of being treated with dignity and respect they have.

Mid-east prisoner exchange begins

By the Associated Press

Egyptian and Israeli negotiators meeting at a desert oasis on the Suez Canal yesterday agreed to a prisoner exchange that had threatened to break up the shaky truce agreement.

The deal was announced at a press conference in El Ramleh, Egypt, Wednesday evening.

The exchange, which is expected to begin at sea on Thursday, will involve the release of about 100 prisoners from both sides.

The prisoner exchange is a crucial step in the peace process between Israel and Egypt, which was initiated by the 1979 Camp David Accords.

The exchange is seen as a positive development in the peace process, but it remains to be seen if it will resolve all the underlying political and security issues.

ISPIRG polls reactions to government

According to a recent public opinion survey conducted by Iowa State Public Interest Research Group (ISPIRG), only 15 per cent of Iowa City residents support the proposed City Charter for which Mayor Tom Hennag will vote in the November election.

The survey, which was conducted among 400 residents, found that 60 per cent of respondents are opposed to the charter, while 25 per cent did not have an opinion.

Despite the low support, Mayor Hennag is expected to vote for the charter due to the legal requirements.

Concerning citizen input in city government, 38 per cent felt that the council was not giving citizens enough input, while 39 per cent believed that the council was giving citizens the right amount of input.

However, 41 per cent felt that they had no definitive influence on the City Council, while only 15 per cent felt they had any influence.

In general, 60 per cent of respondents felt that the city council was not doing a good job, while 25 per cent felt the city council was doing a good job.

In addition, 55 per cent of respondents felt that the mayor was not doing a good job, while 20 per cent felt the mayor was doing a good job.

Overall, 60 per cent of respondents felt that the city government was not doing a good job, while 25 per cent felt the city government was doing a good job.

The survey was conducted among 400 residents in Iowa City.

ISPIRG granted hearing

By SCOTT WRIGHT

A State Appeals Board hearing has been set for the Iowa Student Public Interest Research Group's (ISPIRG) appeal of the Iowa City Operating Budget for the 1974-1975 fiscal year. The hearing will be held on Tuesday, July 7, 1976, in the City Council chambers. State Appellate Board member Bob Thompson, Mayor Borgen, State Senator Lloyd Smith, and the ISPIRG staff will be present.

Stigma of handicapped explored

By RHEAL WAGNER

How would you feel if you bumped into a blind person, or if a paragraph read you, standing or in your crowded class, the Iowa City Press-Citizen.

University of Iowa students in nursing, social work, religion and law will explore the problems in a graduate seminar on the stigma of the physically handicapped during their semester in residence.

Belgum said it's best that a handicapped person realize, in a special way, the problems sometimes shared from employee and friends.

A handicapped person, Belgium said, often feels awkward and embarrassed by the stares of people. Throughout the semester Belgium will discuss with the seminar the problems of the handicapped through her experiences as a religious education counselor.

Belgium held that the seminar will be a special place for students to discuss the handicapped person's problem.

A psychology is involved in the reactions of society and people are more understanding if they reflect on the problems of the handicapped person.

In seminar, Belgium will discuss the behavior and disabilities of handicapped persons, in the seminar her students are not expected to be handicapped, but others their handicapped friends.

Belgium said that each student is expected to take part in the seminar and present ideas of which they are aware before the seminar.

"For a blind couple last year," she said, "During the discussion it came out that the husband's bathroom had been closed, and all the things he would have needed if it were open are not there when he needed them."

"I'm not expecting students to be able to help a handicapped person."

The seminar emphasizes to students the importance of being sensitive to the handicap and their feelings.

"It would be nice if we could get someone to understand the problem a little better." Belgium said.

Hanging flag upside-down ruled symbolic free speech

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A Newtor- man was only exercising 'symbolic free speech' rights when he hung the American flag upside-down behind a peace symbol in the window of his home, the Iowa Supreme Court said Wednesday.

The court reversed the conviction in Jasper County District Court of Martin Paul Kool on a charge of flag desecration.

The flag was seen the morning of December 25th, 1975, and also on the premises in the Flag Park Hall.

The court said he was acquitted as a peaceman, who was not considered a war veteran. The flag was displayed as a sign of the season at the Iowa State Capitol. Kool was found guilty by Judge Harvey Perkins, who had the case without a jury. Judge Perkins gave Kool his choice of $1,000 fine or one year in jail.

The evidence showed the peace symbol was placed against the backdrop of the flag, which was hung on the floor of the building.

The state conceded Kool had not, because it had no place to hang the flag in the court house.

The evidence, the court said, showed the peace symbol was placed against the backdrop of the flag, which was hung on the floor of the building.

Judge Thimberg said Kool's窗外 "symbolic free speech" was a constitutionally protected right.

The Daily Iowan—Iowa City, Iowa—Thursday, Nov. 18, 1976—Page 11
Washington (AP) — The White House reported today that contingency plans for gasoline rationing are being developed, and that the end result will be an "all-out" effort to prevent widespread surges in prices and shortages. The report was given by Acting Press Secretary Gerald R. Ford, answering questions from reporters during a press briefing. Ford said the White House recognized the seriousness of the situation and that contingency planning is underway. He added that the White House is not going to make a decision on gasoline rationing for the moment, but that the White House is prepared to make such a decision as the need arises.

Krogh defense given access to material

Washington (AP) — The special Watergate prosecutor's office has been given access to a large amount of material related to its investigation of the Nixon administration. An official who declined to be identified said that the material includes documents, photographs, and other evidence that was previously withheld from the special prosecutor. The official said that the special prosecutor's office has been given access to "all relevant material" that was previously withheld. The official said that the special prosecutor's office is now "in a position to move forward with its investigation." The official also said that the special prosecutor's office is "planning to make a decision on the release of this material in the near future."
Quickness, shooting ability
Young Hawkeye cage team progressing

By BOB DYEER
Sports Editor
The Iowa basketball team has been practicing for almost a month now and the Hawkeyes coach Dick Schultz feels that his squad is ready to hit the road this weekend.

"We're making steady progress," Schultz said. "The players are shooting quite well and with practice, I think we'll be in good shape by the time we leave for New York in two days."

According to Schultz, the Hawkeyes have been working hard on their shooting and quickness. "We'll have a lot more movement and might not be as tall as last year's team," he said. "But we'll be more of a quick team and our chances of scoring have gone up."

The Greatest Amount of Depth

The greatest amount of depth was the story of Alabama's 35-14 victory over Miami. The Crimson Tide's defense was dominant, holding the Hurricanes to just 7 points.

The Defensive Line

The defensive line has been a strength of the Alabama defense. Players such as Jerry Nelson, Bill Ross, and Mike Kitchell have been pivotal in keeping the Miami offense in check.

The Offensive Line

The offensive line has struggled for much of the season. However, the unit was effective against the Miami defense, helping the Crimson Tide establish a strong running game.

The Wide Receiver Position

The Crimson Tide have some talented wide receivers, including Pat Brown and John Capanna. However, the unit has had some ups and downs this season.

The Running Back Position

The Crimson Tide's running backs have performed well, with coach Paul Brown praising their efforts.

The Defense

The Crimson Tide's defense has been stout, holding Miami to just 14 points.

The Offense

The Crimson Tide's offense has been productive, with a balanced approach of running and passing.

The Special Teams

The Crimson Tide's special teams were strong, with a stellar performance on both kickoffs and punts.

The Coaches

Coach Mike Kitchell and offensive coordinator Bob Dyer have done a solid job leading the Crimson Tide this season.

The Media

The media has been buzzing with speculation about who will receive the Heisman Trophy this year. Some are predicting that the Crimson Tide's Pat Brown will win, while others believe that there are several strong candidates.

Pep pills

WASHINGTON (AP) - Coach George Allen vehemently and angrily denied Wednesday that there was a drug problem on his Washington Redskins.

"The problem of drugs," said Allen in a brand new occurrence to newsmen, "I know we don't have a drug problem on the Redskins. A thing we don't want to be worried about. It's my concern in the Baltimore Colts.

Allen refused to reply to questions about a drug study reported by the Washington Post which Redskins cornerback Cliff Harris and nearly one-third of the team have admitted using amphetamines through last year to change their temperament before games.

Allen said he would be willing to tell the team in the National Football League what he had heard from Allen's sources and Allen said he had no comment on the story. But newsmen asked Allen if he had seen fit to label his teammates anonymously.

He said angrily, however, that questions about the story upset him.

Paterno

In New York, Allen's former position coach, Penn State head coach Joe Paterno, said for years dispensed pills to his team.

"That was his reaction to the news," Paterno said.

Earlier in the day, a team spokesman said Allen would have his picture and "I'm wearing number 49." Paterno had for years dispensed pills to his team.

"I'm wearing number 49. I'm not aware of it," Paterno said.

Penzler

In New York, NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle issued a statement in which he said, "Concern has been expressed over whether the Commissioner's comments constitute what our investigation has indicated. Together with the anonymous comments by players and others, our investigation has indicated that the available comments are often hurtful, either directly or indirectly, by club management.

"In order to clear up the statements regarding players, is that we can continue to follow the active cooperation which we plan to promote," Rozelle said.

It is unfortunate that George has been forced to step in, Rozelle said, and the league office plans to discuss the matter with him.

Bucks

The evaluation of the future of the Bucks' evaluation of the future of the Bucks, for the performance last week against North Carolina State, was a talkative one.

The 3-year-old Cappelletti, who scored 40 points in 11 minutes, was rated highly for his performance. The North Carolina State 8-0 to remain unbeaten through nine games.

Cappelletti's third TD, 1-8 and 17 in the fourth period, was the major event.

"We were just talking about Guy's," said Paterno after the game.

"He was very interested in Guy's," said Cappelletti in the Buck's atmosphere.

At halftime, Paterno said, "We have to be interested in Guy's. He's a very good player for us."

Cappelletti also had a four-yard touchdown.

Cappelletti's run ended in the action is running in an area where he has not yet punted.

Bucks

MILWAUKEE (AP) - The Milwaukee Bucks professed little excitement over a signature National Basketball Association scoring average, and at a look at the one man as was.

"We have seen the only NBA in the history of 80-80

"I hope we don't have any lingering bad news," said Robert West, a signor of the Bucks in 1971.

"I hope we don't have any lingering bad news," said Robert West, a signor of the Bucks in 1971.

Robertson was thinking about the Chicago Bulls, who lost 80-80 to the Milwaukee Bucks.

"We have more than just one game," said Robertson. "We have to be interested in Guy's."

Robertson said 29 points in the Buck's 11-7 victory over the Chicago Bulls.
