Gas company rate hike means UI, citizens to pay 5% more

The University of Iowa will pay $5 per cent more for uncontrollable gas following federal authorization of rate increase for Natural Gas Liquids, Inc.

The Federal Power Commission—agency that regulates the marketing of natural gas—has authorized the rate and terms of a natural gas pipeline company to serve the University of Iowa, Iowa City, and the vicinity. The rate increase will take effect on the 1st day of each month.

The University will pay $5 per cent more for its gas, which currently is received at a rate of 1.7 cents per therm. The increased rate will be charged for all gas consumed on the University's premises.

The rate increase affects the University's operations, including heating and lighting. The University is a large consumer of natural gas, and the rate increase will have a significant financial impact.

No specific plans have been announced for how the increased rate will be absorbed, but it is expected that the University will pass the cost on to its customers, including students and faculty.

The University will work with the rate increase to ensure that it is managed effectively. This includes exploring options for conserving energy and reducing demand. The University will also work with its vendors to ensure that the rate increase is passed on in a way that is fair to all parties.

The University will keep its customers informed about any changes in rates and service. This includes providing updates on the rate increase, as well as any actions taken to manage the impact.

The University thanks its customers for their understanding and support during this transition period.

The University of Iowa Personnel Federation (UIPF) is recruiting new members in an effort to organize the university's employees.

UIPF President Richard Blachowicz said the union is the only worker's organization available to employees and hopes to gain 20 percent of the 2,000 employees within the next year.

"We are the only organization that can speak for all the employees," Blachowicz said.

The union is currently negotiating with the University of Iowa on issues such as wages, benefits, and working conditions.

No gasoline rationing before March 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration will not impose gasoline rationing before March 1, despite a proposal by the Federal Energy Administration to impose such restrictions in an effort to conserve energy.

President Richard Nixon, in a surprise move, announced that he will not allow gasoline rationing until March 1, a decision that came after receiving a recommendation from the Federal Energy Administration.

The decision will have a significant impact on the energy industry, as well as on consumers. The move is expected to ease紧张 throughout the nation, as gasoline prices are expected to rise in the coming months.

The decision was made after extensive discussions with industry leaders, as well as with members of Congress. The administration is expected to continue to monitor the situation and make further adjustments as needed.

By MARY RAGNAR Staff Writer

Johnson County is the state last year in the number of reported strep throat cases.

The increase in strep throat cases is due to an increase in the number of people visiting the doctor's office. The increase has been noted by the Department of Health and Human Services.

Situation:

A fungus passed through milk, water. Miami's oil positions are vital to the natural gas. Above the Dade County community health officials are required to inspect the roof of the Dade County Courthouse where they count the birds. This is due to control of strep throat in Johnson County.

The maintenance men at the Dade County Courthouse work each morning the building staff goes up to the roof and check for the presence of the state hygiene laboratory. The Department of Health and Human Services is required to test the roof for the presence of the state hygiene laboratory.

Request:

For a request for federal funds, intended partially to provide money for additional health facilities to investigate possible disease producing environments, has been rejected by the state health department three times since last spring.

Affects:

The State Department of Health has attributed the high incidence of strep throat in Johnson County not so much to environmental factors as to the presence of the state hygiene laboratory and the University of Iowa in Johnson County.

The close proximity of the state hygiene lab, physicians are more likely to be in or around its proximity, they said. Dr. Robert Wallace, professor in the College of Medicine.

Lover:

Questioning the effect of the state hygiene laboratory. Fisher pointed out that the attack rate for strep throat in a community is related to the maintenance of the state in January.

The fourth draft of the county's grant proposal was sent to the state health department.

NEW YORK (AP) — Although pumpkins are on sale at such a rate because of the energy crisis, Commerce Department figures show that petrochemical exports from January through October were above $20 billion, which are defined directly or indirectly, as oil or natural gas from the manufacture of such various products as drugs, plastics and fertilizers. The U.S. drug industry, a big user of petrochemicals, earned last week its largest annual profit in recent history. Manufacturers of other products depend on petrochemicals for a variety of materials. November figures are not available, but some industry leaders and experts continued to speak of 1977 levels because of higher prices abroad.

The figures are based on the figures in the Commerce Department and are considered accurate. The Commerce figures are not adjusted for seasonal variations and are calculated with different methods.

Miami’s problem is worse than sparrow’s

MIAMI Fla. (AP) — Each day maintenance men climb the roof of the Dade County Courthouse where they flag the birds as they work. Today's work was delayed, thanks to a storm that hit yesterday. The maintenance men on the roof say the maintenance of the roof is necessary because it is a source of disease, causing flooding into the floor below. The maintenance men say they expect to have to do this work each morning the building staff goes up to the roof.

Move ‘em out

Members of the Ohio State Highway Patrol traced the flock to a farm near Helms, Ohio. Forty petrochemicals have been traced to a group of travelers, making several trips. The petrochemicals have been shipped to the farm since Wednesday to prevent legions of fruit flies and related speed limits.

'File' treatment on recycling

The university and the community should have all paper products recycled. It is the function of the community to provide service to those who cannot provide for themselves. The importance of the recycling service made it functionally important for all to know it. It is the most positive and best way to handle the garbage and waste. Recycling saves money by cutting down the amount of landfill needed to dispose of waste. Recycling reduces energy use and waste.

Also there is a problem for people who don't have cars; they cannot transport their paper products to the recycling areas. In the university, the problem is that taking to a landfill either by normal or special recycling is considered a greater gesture to the environment freaks. The city considers the problem as it is not to be recycled. The university's interest in recycling is primarily the students who, through the Environmental Impact Committee, contacted the departments of campus asking for permission to bring a recycling center to the campus. The paper is collected in cans by Carpenters, a company that collects the recycling out of the university. After the paper is collected, there are only a few centers that can handle the recycling. Unfortunately, the recycling area is a loading dock in the back of the building by work-study students employed by the Recycling Center. The paper is collected in cans, sorted, and ends up in the landfill. The bins marked for recycling are transported to a loading dock in the basement of the building by work-study students employed by the Recycling Center. The paper is collected in cans by Carpenters, a company that collects the recycling out of the university. Considering the safety of the people handling the garbage, the problem is that it is not recycled.

The University of Iowa Recycling Program

Offering an organization that is the University of Iowa's recycling program. The program is dedicated to the environmental protection of the University of Iowa. The program has the goal of reducing waste and increasing the recycling rate. The program is run by a group of students who are dedicated to the cause. They have set up a recycling center in the basement of the university. The center is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The center accepts all types of recyclable materials, including paper, cardboard, plastic, aluminum, and glass.

The program has been very successful in reducing waste and increasing the recycling rate. The university has implemented several strategies to encourage recycling, such as providing recycling bins throughout campus and educating students about the importance of recycling. The program has also received support from local businesses and community organizations, which have agreed to purchase recycled materials from the university.

The University of Iowa Recycling Program is a model program for other universities to follow. By implementing a comprehensive recycling program, the university has demonstrated that it is possible to reduce waste and increase recycling rates while maintaining a commitment to environmental protection.

To my concerned staff,

I am sending you this statement to bring to your attention the necessity to test the assumptions the majority of students have made concerning the minimum wage in all its forms. Quite often students have the misconception that the minimum wage is set to $15.00. It is important that we work with this misconception to ensure that all students understand the true meaning of the minimum wage.

The minimum wage is not only a measure to ensure that all students are paid fairly, but it is also a tool to ensure that all students have access to educational opportunities. It is important that we continue to work with this misconception to ensure that all students understand the true meaning of the minimum wage.

If you have any questions or comments, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Van Allen: Jupiter data may improve understanding of Earth

By the Daily Iowan News Service

Prof. James Van Allen believes that data from Pioneer II, now on its way to Jupiter, will help the world understand the relationship between the planet's radiation belts and the earth's magnetic field. The Pioneer II spacecraft will provide data that may explain the phenomenon that generates and maintains Earth's magnetic field.

The clouds of Jupiter are known to have a magnetic field around them, but the nature of this field is still unclear. Pioneer II will take the first close-up look at Jupiter's radiation belts, which are thought to be generated by the planet's magnetic field. The data will be analyzed to better understand the similarities and differences between Jupiter's radiation belts and Earth's magnetic field.

The Pioneer II spacecraft will also help scientists explore the possibility of habitable zones around other stars. If a planet's magnetic field is strong enough to protect it from the radiation belts of nearby stars, it might be possible for life to develop on that planet.

The Pioneer II spacecraft will be on its way to Jupiter for the next three months, and the data it collects will be analyzed for years to come. The results of this mission will help us understand the relationship between the planet's radiation belts and the earth's magnetic field, and may even contribute to our understanding of habitable zones around other stars.

Iowa’s Jupiter package

The Pioneer II spacecraft contains plans for being sent to Jupiter. As it approaches the planet, it will be able to observe the radiation belts and make measurements of the planet's magnetic field. The data collected will be analyzed to better understand the relationship between the planet's radiation belts and the earth's magnetic field.

Basketball

COLUMBIA, Ohio (AP) — Big Ten coach Jim Kramer of Ohio State will begin his third season Friday night at the frontier of basketball in the Rose Bowl.

The Buckeyes, 8-4-1 in the regular season, also will defend their 7-3 record in Big Ten play and their 2-0 home record in the conference.

Ohio State fans have been told that the Buckeyes will face difficulties in the tournament.

Two teams, including Iowa, that are biding for a No. 2 seed in the tournament, have been defeated by Ohio State.

The Buckeyes will face their first test in the tournament when they meet Iowa, which is seeded third.

The game is set for 7:30 p.m. with the winner advancing to the semifinals.

The Buckeyes are expected to be favored to win, but Iowa's inexperience and poor outside shooting could be a factor.

Ohio State has won four of its last five games and is coming off a 75-64 victory over Michigan State.

Iowa, on the other hand, has lost three of its last five games and is coming off a 78-69 loss to Indiana.

The Buckeyes have the advantage in the conference, having won the Big Ten title in each of the last three seasons.

Ohio State coach Tim Herremans said his team is ready for the challenge.

"The Buckeyes always play well in major tournaments," Herremans said.

"We expect to be competitive, but we also expect to face some tough competition."

Hawkeyes face powerful Marquette

By BILL SCHMIDT

For the last seven years the Hawks have remained basically a man-to-man team. But Coach Tom Schulz has been trying to break the Hawks out of their shell this season. The Hawks have been playing a lot of "super" variety, but this will be the biggest test of their abilities.

"The Hawks are ready to play against the best in the league," Schulz said. "We've had a lot of wins in the past, but we need to improve our defense.

"The Hawks will need to be ready to play against the best in the league. They are ready to play against the best in the league."

In the first game, Schulz said, the Hawks will need to be prepared for the best in the league.

Malcile believes the present success achieved by the Hawks will no longer be possible. With all the players past and present on our record, it will be difficult to improve.

"The last couple of years, some of the players were more concerned about their sports than paying basketball, said McNeil.

"They thought they were too small, or if they played down. If we can do it next year, we'll be free.

Soft contact lens: better but expensive

By PAUL LANAGHAN

Most of the amazing advances involved with contact lenses are being made in the advent of soft contact lenses. Soft contact lenses have only been on the market for a few years, but their acceptance has been very good.

One of the biggest advantages of soft contact lenses is that they can be worn constantly, or the few years. But their acceptance has been very good.

The soft lens contains water in its matrix, which is the growth of microorganisms under normal regular. As a result of that, some people have vision problems, and the use of the soft contact lens increases the problem. This can lead to corneal abrasions if the tears have to be worn occasionally and less frequently than the hard lens.

Besides their value to correct vision, the soft lenses are also used for therapeutic purposes. Patients who have had surgery or wear glasses.

Other companies are now developing different types of soft lenses, one company is experimenting with a lens made of silicon and should be placing them on the market in the future.

The VI Opthalmology Department will soon be trying out the soft lenses and will report on them. The US Ophthalmology Department will soon be trying out the soft lenses and will report on them. The US Ophthalmology Department will soon be trying out the soft lenses and will report on them.

Bicycle Maintenance: Clean It Up

bob keith

Well it finally happened, winter came. Final hopes of taking clean through with spring were wasted, and now even the diehards are putting their cycling orders away for the duration. So why are we still holding on like it's a ticket? Read on; the sense for riding may be over, but you can enjoy the ride if you want to. If you simply put it away without prepping it for spring.

Today's feature and next Friday's will deal with winterizing your bike. That doesn't mean buying matching snowsuits. You already did, or should, wash your cycle away for a few in a month period. Why not do yourself a favor and get it up to speed for spring now, and have it ready to work and be a joy to ride.

The first thing you should do is clean it, then to store. Don't in front of the fireplace if you want to. If you're careful you can do this in the living room. Just bring a bucket of dishwashing fluid and soap cold water. Clean the group of everything you can get your hands on. You needn't wash a lot of sad that won't there in the spring. You can get rid of a lot of it, and should. Get yourself a can of chrome polish and cleaner. It's cheap and does a nice job on your auto door too. The great thing about it is the deflection cleaner. Clean the spokes even. Go over everything with a clean cloth and polish, and go over everything again to clean up without a blast of. Don't forget the time you're spending, you'll be looking at the bike and shoo new season.

About this time you should go to the garage train on your machine. You'll want to clean and all everything that, not least with the chain. This thing you have to do is remove the chain. On most one and three speed bikes there will be a master link. This is an old-used link with a large plate on one side which should pop of the ring. If you have a speed and all the links haven't the same, you'll need a special chain tool. Chain tools are expensive $20, but are to use. If you race a lot you should check your chain every month anyway, so consider buying the tool make this better efficiency.

As you go the chain off. Now, wash it in a bucket of warm water, dry it and get it ready for the next season. Winterize you bike and don't let the road side chains and have it off the road side.

When everything is clean, put the chain back on. You may want to check the sprayer wheel first. Usually you don't want to put too much, but for riders you should get it off the road side.

Muscle spasms 6,500 years of history

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A study led by the director of the University of Kentucky's psychology department shows that children who are ill today are more likely to have had diarrhea or fever in the past 24 hours.

The study shows family recipes for children's illnesses are not as effective as regular medications for children who stay home with their parents.

The study was conducted by Dr. Richard Winett, who headed the research team. The study showed that children who stay home with their parents are more likely to have had diarrhea or fever in the past 24 hours.

When asked what the most important findings of the study were, Dr. Winett said, "Children who stay home with their parents are more likely to have had diarrhea or fever in the past 24 hours."

Merl Saunders and Jerry Garcia: Live

LIVE AT KEYSVNE
Merl Saunders and Jerry Garcia
Two recorded sets
February 1969

This is a lovely album. Garcia does all the lead singing and guitar. Saunders on keyboards. Bill Vail playing drums and John Daley on bass guitar. This is the perfect example of a "Black-rock jam", which means lots of instrumentation. Garcia plays songs that come from Lou Reed . He starts off with "Elephant Man", the first song on the album. Merl Saunders comes in with wa -wa on but uses it more for soloing. Garcia plays "Terrapin Station" with another soloist written by Dylan. "It's a long, long, long, 50 miles high, You can never find the end of it."

The basic strategy is Saunders on one channel, Garcia on one channel and bass and drums at a lower volume on both channels.

One begins with "Foolish Ginger", Leon Russell and the band. Saunders comes in with an exciting organ. But Garcia then gets into the mystic section. Then a six- or seven-minute jam. Saunders gets into his organ, but Garcia then goes back to his electric guitar. He shreds through the entire jam and adds another solo to his repertoire. Then he plays "Randy's Favorite" for a minuet. Garcia plays a brief solo of his own and gets back into the guitar. Garcia then plays a few more melodies, plays two more. Then Garcia does another for an energetic "One Day at a Time". He then plays a few more melodies in a sort of syncopated "ween blues and jazz. Finally the rhythm section enters. Then a return to the original section. Garcia sings "It's No Use". He starts off with a solo and then goes into another solo and goes back. Who is this guy? He is Merl Saunders.

"The Harder They Come" has a great solo by Garcia. Everybody lays down a rhythm while Garcia sings and plays the electric guitar. Saunders joins Garcia on one channel. Garcia sings and plays with a solo written by Dylan. Garcia sings and plays with another written by Dylan. "It's a long, long, long, 50 miles high, You can never find the end of it."

"Pigeon B4-The" is the band. "Let It Roll" is a track by "To Take a Train to City". "Nice comes the band, "Space," then Garcia sings and plays. The note is written on the spot. Each note sounding: everybody is the same key or at least close. That's what they want.

"It's No Use" we finally get more blues here. Garcia never repeats the same section twice and there are a couple of those sections that just sort of wander out until you think stretched out. I finally go to "That's All Right, Mama" in an example of why someone usually has to point out nice lyrics to me. Stuff like the little one and "one plus one in two", and two and two is four:

Bonnie Raitt

"In concert, Bonnie projects: She's right there, open and real. She moves with ease from classic bottleneck blues through soul and rock and roll numbers to melancholy ballads. When the feel is right, the love songs are just as pure and dreamy as secrets shared by candlelight; she breathes a natural intimacy and belief into all her songs. Her raps tend to be stream-of-consciousness ramblings rather than the stage patter of many guitar strummers. More like a slightly loaded friend running down what's happened since you talked last."

Blume In Love

George Segal shines in bravura comedy

By ROY JENES
Feature Writer

You really should see "Blume in Love." It's a thin, weak, mawkish story about two lonely people who come together and then fall apart. It's a film without substance or meaning, and the acting is uneven. Segal, who has done well in the past, is miscast as the title character. He plays a middle-aged man who is hopelessly in love with a young woman. His performance is wooden and unconvincing, and he fails to create a believable character.

The plot is simple: Blume (Segal), a divorced American, meets Nina (Susan Sarandon), a divorced British woman, while on vacation in Switzerland. They fall in love, get married, and have a son. But their happiness is short-lived, and they eventually divorce.

The film is poorly written and directed, and it fails to explore the complexities of its characters. Segal and Sarandon are miscast, and their chemistry is non-existent. The film is a failure on every level.

For those looking for a good romantic comedy, "Blume in Love" is not the film for you. It's a disappointing and unoriginal film that fails to engage or entertain.
