Regents hit faculty union bargaining

Unionization: 'bad news'

By, CHUCK BECKMAN

Reversing a previous policy, the Board of Regents voted Friday to encourage student officers to build up the elected number of university faculty members and not to seek any of the voluntary collective bargaining bill that the UI faculty union presents.

While a number of faculty unions have been striving to negotiate new contracts on the state campus, many are now facing a trip south on the structure of post-secondary institutions.

Dramatically higher initial rates, faculty representatives say, require decisions based on minority rather than majority votes. The fact that meetings are held only once a month adds to the difficulty of finding time for preparation, according to state attorneys.

In other actions, the regents asked the university to prepare a study of whether the quality of undergraduate education is being improved.

The report, which will be submitted to the Board of Regents within the next six months, will be used to assess the quality of education at the university.

UI food service up charges declines unlikely

BY MAUREEN CONNORS Staff Writer

Food costs in University of Iowa dormitories are experiencing an upward trend for this fiscal year, and the result of this is the increase in prices for all University of Iowa food service food items will be slightly increased.

US Student Government President George Furth, who has been a part of the dining service since the beginning of the year, has announced that the increase in food arises due to the higher cost because of "no one knows where prices are going to be next year."

Dining service officials have announced that all food prices will be increased by 10 per cent.

The total cost of the meal, which consists of 30 to 40 per cent of your food, will be increased by 10 per cent, and all food at the University of Iowa will not be available.

Contracts running from 3 to 4 months to a year have been renewed.

Food costs have increased by 10 per cent, and the food service has another 10 per cent increase.

It is not known if this increase will be made up in the following year.

Urban renewal pact decision due today

The Iowa City Council met at their first session Monday to begin negotiations with Old Capital Bldg. Co. in the redevelopment of downtown Iowa City.

The proposal the council is working on is the result of closed negotiations between the city council and representatives of Old Capital Bldg. Co., which has been working on the project for many years.

The City Council is expected to take action on the proposal at their next meeting, which is scheduled for early next month.

In the urban-renewal proposal, the council and Old Capital Bldg. Co. have agreed to form a joint committee to work on the project.

This committee is expected to meet with the council and Old Capital Bldg. Co. regularly to discuss progress and any issues that arise.

Interest rates and Gov. Ray

The current controversy over the interest rate charged to consumers by retail firms may be the first time in Des Moines that a present item that has taken a firm stand on an issue.

The newspaper editor has stated that charging 12 per cent on account balances is a violation of the Iowa Code, which only permits 9 per cent. But a legislative committee has suggested that interest rates be raised to 12 per cent for all items.

Ray, a last week that he did not feel that the legislative committee and thought that there should be a maximum, set by law, on all consumer items. This came at a most opportune time for the consumers of the state of Iowa.

There are several reasons for concern in the area - during an inflationary period it seems vital that rates be allowed to go higher. But now we have a president that puts the consumer and the businesses involved rates strictly from that industry side.

The position of Ray's active involvement in this issue at a crucial time in the decision making process is worthy of study.

With prices skyrocketing and with additional purchases forced to buy on credit, there is a great deal of concern that interest charges do not get out of hand. Although this comes under the Coburn administration, the Times is not directly responsible for the business interests that are held by the legislature, and they are not likely to show the facts and figures.

But how you get retailers to come to the table makes the point. The answer is: you won't convince them to give you the information, especially if it shows profits, on your end. You will get them to answer by writing a tough law which restricts the amount of interest chargeable to consumers, but most will lose money at 12 per cent. They will show you why.

Which brings us to Ray's involvement in the matter. The discussions are at the aforementioned "business ethics" conference and have been under Ray's leadership as a centering point to fight the forces.

Look at it this way, you will get the money you need to fight this group. They could use Ray's leadership as a centering point to fight the businesses sure to be present when the session opens. Ray could be that leader.

And fair and the business sure to be present when the session opens. Ray could be that leader. He has never been known the type of Governor to lead the legislature. Gradually, he's become a bit of a political figure this year, but he's not likely to show the facts and figures. He's more of a politician than a statesman.

Verdict: "dud of the century"?

By LINDA YOUNG

It had been billed as the "gest to the century." After its discovery last week by astronomers, the comet Kohoutek was expected to be the brightest sight in the January sky, except for the sun and the moon. Indeed, the "tremendous crusb" that Kohoutek was expected to provide was heralded as a great event in the history of astronomy. The comet was to be visible to the naked eye from its approach to the earth, many scientists theorized it would become exceptionally bright when it was thrust away from the sun. The Board of Regents Friday approved $1.19 each for suits.

Neff said that because Kohoutek was spotted when it was a great distance from the sun, it would become exceptionally bright when it was thrust away from the sun. "That was based on the assumption it would be as bright as the comet Bennet," he said. That comet was visible to the naked eye from as far as in 1935. "At the time it was very difficult for observers to judge magnitudes," Neff said. "But in the case of Kohoutek, observatories with photo-electric equipment continually revised magnitudes downward, but before the comet was confirmed it's magnitude was never more than that of the "dud of the century." The US Department of Astronomy didn't plan any ambitious experiments because we knew it came during the worst possible weather," Neff said.

U.S., Cuba less hostile

WASIlTNGTON (AP)—The United States and Cuba appear to be making a tentative effort to bridge the broad ideological gap that has separated them for the past 26 years.

Although there is little evidence that an end of a U.S.-Cuba friendship, the recent move to diplomatic relations is the result of a new era. The two neighbors live in uneasy proximity but the relationship is more hostile.

Washington officials said that the move was not a response to the September 11 terrorist attacks or the recent South Africa elections. It was intended to show that the United States is open to dialogue with Cuba.

The news came as a surprise to many observers, who had expected the United States to maintain its policy of isolating Cuba.

The United States has maintained a trade embargo against Cuba since 1960, prohibiting the sale of goods and services to the island nation.

But the move could be seen as a step toward ending the long-standing conflict between the two nations, which has been a major obstacle to diplomatic relations.

Castro has been in power since 1959, and his government has been accused of human rights abuses and political repression.

"What interests me most in modern landscapes are still lifes, but the human costume. For it is this which enables me to express the utmost religious feeling which I have about life." - Matisse.

"The artist's mission - his wish to express his individuality through the world - has never been diminished or undermined by the development of 'technological' means and methods," says George. The earlier is the method of creation.

A painter spends hours or even weeks on a paneling, changing, adding to it. It is finished whenever the painter feels that it is finished, but never until the last brush stroke. In that sense, says George, the photograph is the unique, because of the simple nature of the method.

And then the artistic creation is in a fraction of a second.

This subject to be photographed is inevitably born up with photographic expression. But, a noted portrait photographer, feels it is important that the people be photographed be allowed absolute freedom of movement. Freedom allows the inner character of a subject to come through.

Boult considers color to be the most important, for they show "the contrast between the collective life of the modern world and the inner loneliness of the individual."

Archeologists find Atlantis evidence

An American expedition of scientists dives at least once a week in the Mediterranean and Egypt daily that another single discovery proves its existence. No thousands of years ago.

The co-director of the expedition, Rich Asher, 42, Maine Asher, 42, an underwater archaeologist and archeologist, says the expedition has found evidence of the legendary lost continent of Atlantis.

This is probably the greatest discovery in world history and will bring a new era of research in underwater archeology and archeology.

Before Asher had said, "If only 125 years ago in the Bay of Cadiz off southern Spain look for the lost continent. Most archeologists have discounted previous reports of ruins off the Spanish coast. They said yesterday that the divers had found evidence of ruins off the Spanish coast. The divers have found what they think is the East coast.Atlanta were very pyramids. Now along the coasts and in the Mediterranean." The divers say they have found ruins off the Spanish coast.

Micki Schubert, Lizzy Cooke and Cora Daye led the Wildcats to a victory against Northern Iowa.

Northwestern hands Iowa its fifth road defeat, 87-67

By REBECCA RYAN

Iowa's basketball team may not have its problems on the road as the Hawkeyes fell to Northwestern, 87-67, Saturday afternoon in Evanston.

Prior to this season, the Hawkeyes had the favorable record of 6-3 against the Wildcats, who had won their only meeting against Iowa in the 2015-16 season. However, in the 2016-17 season, Northwestern defeated Iowa 79-68.

The Wildcats had their own season-long problems on the road, posting a 5-9 record before Saturday's match-up.

The Hawkeyes started the game on a hot streak, taking a 10-2 lead. However, Northwestern fought back and outscored Iowa 32-13 in the first quarter.

In the second quarter, both teams battled, with Iowa holding a 14-12 lead over the Wildcats. However, Northwestern outscored Iowa 30-15 in the second quarter, giving them a 67-49 lead at halftime.

Iowa struggled in the third quarter, falling behind Northwestern 19-14, and the Wildcats went on to win 87-67.

The Hawkeyes were led by forward Hannah Stewart, who scored 26 points and grabbed 11 rebounds. However, Stewart was not enough to overcome Northwestern's dynamic offense.

Iowa will look to bounce back when they face off against the ranked Sooners on Wednesday night in Ames, Iowa.

HUGE TIPS (AP) - Left-hander Larry Conway and his Ohio State defense made it difficult for Minnesota's vaunted "Purple People Eater" line setting the stage for a 24-7 Ohio State victory over the Minnesota Golden Gophers Saturday afternoon in the Big Ten opener.

This was an unpremeditated win that brought in the+

"Purple People Eaters" for the first time in the history of the game.

Ohio State (5-1, 1-1 Big Ten) appeared to be in trouble late in the game as Minnesota (4-2, 0-2) took a 4-0 lead.

The Buckeyes rallied in the second half, scoring 24 unanswered points to secure the victory.

Conway pitched a complete game, allowing just one run on six hits.

The Buckeyes will look to keep their momentum going as they prepare to face Penn State next weekend.

Women swimmers, cagers suffer losses

By LAZEL GULMAN

Gaeltael College's顺利度过了一周，而Notre Dame's women's swimming and diving team struggled against Louisville Saturday afternoon.

In a meet dominated by divers, the Fighting Irish fell to the Cardinals 156-123. While the divers shone, the swimmers were not as successful.

Notre Dame's women's swimming and diving team is currently ranked fourth in the country.

The Irish men's team, on the other hand, fell to the Cardinals 173-96, losing all but one of their nine events.

The Fighting Irish will look to bounce back in their next meet against the University of Cincinnati on February 3rd.
Grapplers lay Lehigh low, 25-9

By BRIAN SCHMITZ Staff Writer

They've won the first place title for an extended stretch, and they're good enough to remain in that position with an 8-0 victory over Lehigh, according to head coach Gary Lebow. The Hawks defeated the Mountain Hawks, 25-9, to remain in first place in the Big Ten Competition.

The Hawks opened the dual with a 4-0 decision from Light-Heavyweight Chris Campbell over Lehigh's Tihomir Toth-Fejel to start the match. Holm won the match, 8-1, and the Hawks started the dual with a 6-0 lead. After that, the Hawks went on to score a 2-1 win over 133-pound Tim Cysewski, a 3-0 decision from 149-pound Chris Yagla and Chris Campbell's 8-1 decision of Lehigh's Tony Ricketts.

The Hawks defeated the Lehigh 126-pounder and scored a 9-6 victory over the Mountain Hawks. The Hawks scored six points on three pins, and the Mountain Hawks scored six points in two matches.

The first match of the dual was won by the Hawks, 6-0, when Campbell picked up eight points to take the lead. The second match was won by the Hawks, 8-1, when Yagla took down two points in the third period. The third match was won by the Hawks, 8-1, when Campbell picked up eight points to take the lead. The fourth match was won by the Hawks, 9-6, when Yagla took down two points in the third period.
