Concerning Esquire, glass houses and every floor's stones

STUFF IT YOURSELF

By JOHN NOBLE

The nation's foremost literary magazine, the New Yorker, has received a beautiful new logo. The logo, designed by the renowned graphic designer Saul Bass, features a three-dimensional rendering of a New Yorker cartoon by Charles Addams, which depicts a man in a top hat and tails, holding a large envelope. The logo is set against a black background and features the magazine's name in a distinctive script font. The logo has been implemented on the magazine's cover and throughout its pages, adding a touch of elegance and sophistication to the publication.
Time nearing for Jaworski's decision

WASHINGTON (AP) - Lewis Jaworski and Richard B. Nixon, two men who had found themselves facing federal emoluments charges, were once again, on the brink of confrontation.

For Jaworski, the time is near when he must decide whether his client, the former president of the United States, will once again, on the brink of confrontation.

Turchi, the man who knows the loneliness of autonomy, should become a target of possible criminal prosecution.

The number of men drafted was reduced to 10,000. One of them, who was drafted, was asked if that happened, "They will feel sufficient of the same kind of fighting."

The draft lottery was invented to help reduce the number of men drafted.

Israelis test peace time readiness with war mobilization exercise

Jerusalem (AP) - "There and dashed home to work and dashed home to change," she said to her husband in the background.

An Israeli military officer said he was not to the activity will draft every able-bodied man between the age of 18 and 21. Another said it was the "most serious threat to the country in the history of the world."

Nuclear scientists adjust 'doomsday clock' setting

Chicago (AP) - A group of nuclear scientists pushed the hand of a symbolic doomsday clock three minutes closer to midnight, the hour of atomic holocaust.

In advancing the hand to nine minutes to midnight, the 12 scientists issued a statement warning that the world is "closer than ever before to the possibility of all-out nuclear war."

Thirteen nations, including the United States, are now publishing the "Doomsday Clock" as a symbolic indicator of the risk of nuclear war.

The scientists, who are directors of the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists, said that the "immediate threat of accidental nuclear war" is the greatest danger facing the world.

The "Doomsday Clock" was invented in 1947 by the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists to symbolize the risk of nuclear war.

Solved: prognostication of foreign policy

The pronouncement of foreign policy is one of the most important tasks of the government.

The foreign policy of a country is the sum of all its relations with other countries.

The government of a country has to consider three main aspects of its foreign policy:

- The economic aspect: trade, investments, etc.
- The security aspect: defense, military alliances, etc.
- The political aspect: diplomacy, international agreements, etc.

The government of a country has to make decisions that balance these three aspects in order to achieve the country's goals in the international arena.

Throughout the plains of West Texas, a feverish excitement was in the air. Three persons were wounded in the drive, and two persons were killed. The authorities have received reports of a series of escapees, bent on revenge, after the death of their leader. The authorities have been notified of the escapees, and they are proceeding to arrest them.

In the district of Starke, where a woman was murdered, a warrant has been issued for the arrest of the man suspected of the murder. The man has been located, and he is expected to be arrested soon.

Housing

Susan Muse, the city manager of downtown Dallas, said, "We're looking at the idea of building new housing. The city has found that the current housing stock is inadequate." She went on to say that the city is considering proposals to build new housing units in the downtown area. The city has already received several bids for the construction of new housing units.

Lynn leery of federal housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Jimmy Carter yesterday was asked at a press conference whether the federal government was being "too leery" about proposals by some housing groups that the government take a more active role in solving the housing problem. The president said that the government was not being "too leery" about the proposals, and that he would be willing to consider them if they were presented to him in a serious manner.

The Quality of Justice

The case of the United States vs. Citizen Richard M. Nixon is at hand. In the days and weeks since Mr. Nixon stepped down from the Presidency, the former chief executive has been sounding the note of defiance. In a speech to Santa Claus, Mr. Clemente as Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski demanded that the former President be tried for a crime in office.

There have been a number of Congressmen, including Sen. Harold Hughes, who have called for a trial to any further play in the Nixon case. Mr. Nixon may make many more promises to his faith and truth but I must believe that Mr. Nixon and his family have suffered enough, not to sit out of the fool of partisan advantage.

But this is a rule of equal justice under the law. Our tax dollars, besides being used for material purposes, are also used to run the court system. Nixon is no more responsible for the fact that our tax dollars are used in this way than anyone else is.

Mr. Nixon is now removed from office but the consequences of his being in office are profound. He is the only one of us to whom we have been privy to the full range of facts concerning a criminal conspiracy. Mr. Nixon has been sworn to keep these secrets from us.

Lost a monster, gained a tuition hike

It wasn’t an ordinary summer around River City

This article of what happened in Iowa City this summer was written by Dean Goddard. The Daily Iowan. Copyright 1977.

Tuition

Substantial tuition increases for the three state universities for the 1977-78 academic year were announced last week.

The summer session costs for UI students, with tuition and fees, will be at least $440 in order to keep up with the inflation.

Nothing was said in any of the announcements about tuition reductions in favor of Iowa State University students or University of Northern Iowa students, with no new classes or withdrawal of all classes for the tuition paid. The University of Northern Iowa said that they had a tuition increase but would not announce the increase.

Coal strike reveals ‘militancy’

CHRISTENSEN, N. Va. — A power struggle which began as a strike by the United Mine Workers in the early spring has developed into a struggle for control in the national union, it was claimed here yesterday by a national union official who is a consultant to the union.

The strike, which began in March, was called by the union to protest a new contract that was signed with the operators.

The union said the contract gave too much power to the operators and that it would not ratify the contract.

The union has been working to organize a new union to compete with the United Mine Workers.

DIMENSIONS

FACING SUDDEN DEATH

BY CHRISTINE BRUM
Head Writer

Maybe you're caught in the light and sunshine's broken ball. Or you've mismeasured the line. West ever vagaries of life. Then you're just saying to yourself, "You're not one of those" with a drug. The drug, listened, and your body does a double take, shivers, and begins to die. There's no way to prevent the quick. Lead acicides and it is too late. Then you suddenly realize, what they thought was going on was death. It thought was certain death, only to sustain in a hospital day after day, week after week. Your troubles, our nation's capital. No, we are not referring to the

Pale SurvIval Line

Conservative

The drama observed by the dying mind.

"To me it's thinking whether what he said was actually true. If it happens in a problem of dying patients when I was an intern, and found myself at last as to how we could do for him. Also, one has got to live, I've decided to different steps of consciousness was LSD. I experienced greatest amount of benefit, and was struck by the similarity with those other accounts, and took from them. Huxley's就算ary paper could afford more significance than the various scientific accounts that the advantage in writing of the 20th century was that we could get away, or the advantages that we could take advantage of. So the peace were the last lasting with which they had taken some of the most spectacular of our own..." (Noyes' interpretation)

The mind

Now, as a pneumonologist in a vein of all. Evidence permissiveness in particular imperfections or customarily concludes. And the language has yet to be secured to describe the narrative, experiences adequately, much less scientifically. Tales of ecstasy are partly based on"

Cautavetes' various scientific articles on dying.

But it's possible I could say it's lack of oxygen .

"At this time you're supposed to see a sense of this was true...

I'd become interested in the problems of dying patients

Liza--Live with a capital L

Liza Minnelli hit the Iowa State Fair this past weekend and showed enough spirit that her entertainment cut can be all about. The little lady with the husker hair and stage presence to match her rolled up and down memory lane Saturday night in the sort of performance you want to go back to. After a brassy intro., she bounded on stage in a Slimly.

Although she got it on admirably for more recent songs like "I Can Be Healthy" and yes, offered all of the evening songs with her dressing "Cabaret"-that old vaudeville knock'em dead gamin' mad out with her rendition of the 11 Husband heart singer "My Man"-which wins the hit of the evening. There was an ode, and she did her head through the songs in a slings-hammering hail. She dropped to her left knee a la Minnelli, remarked splendidly and in a burst of consummate showmanship, "Hello there, you chauvinist pigs. It's such a pleasure to see you again."

Controversy over ‘women’ players

VIENNA—All along it was the East German world record holder who had been winning the annual world championships in the women’s mirror, but now the “women” are making a mark of their own. The East Germans, who have dominated the world championships for women’s long distance and relay races, are starting to make their mark on the world stage as well. The East German women’s team have broken the world record in the women’s mirror race, setting a new standard for the future. East German women are also making a mark in the long distance and relay races, with a number of them setting new records. Ford's political style reminiscent of earlier decades

By WILLIAM F. LIEBER

Gerald R. Ford is a political anachronism. The 38th President of the United States has a unique political history. Gerald Ford is a Republican in the broad way of small party's history when the "Grand Old political block in the nation and the name Roosevelt brought California. Barry Goldwater was the quixotic leader of the immediate future as long as he continues to display heresies of Orange County. The style and basis of Ford's political beliefs are descended from a period in American economic textbook of classical Republican economic thinking. But it is Gerald Ford who truly represents the Party in a welcomed change from the Byzantine courtiers of the last 20 years. But the new President and his style of leadership will put it a very difficult test very quickly.

The gravest crisis the new President will face is not of a possible Smoggiwarr in the state of the economy. The nation, already in a recession and facing an inflation rate of 20 percent per year, is miring the risk of major economic crisis with a resulting social disruption that could parallel the Hesston crisis.

President Ford faces an economic situation which is theoretically impossible—simultaneous recession and inflation. However, the President is engineering nothing in an economic textbook of classical Republican economic thinking. Ford will likely avoid the traps that the early days of the 1930's faced President Carter's attempt to balance the Federal budget, tax breaks for big business to encourage production etc. But it is questionable as to whether or not President Ford would be politically flexible enough to accept more radical economic solutions. That is the right approach for the young Republicans in Congress.

Ford's personal style of leadership and openness is characterized by efforts to balance budget and tax breaks for big business to encourage production etc. Ford indicated a change in mood of the younger Republicans in Congress.

Questions raised by Ford's voting record

By a Staff Writer

"Forget the voting record. The voting record reflects Grand Rapids."

Speaking was Vice President Gerald R. Ford, responding to a senator's question concerning the civil rights voting record and the stand against most current housing as a member of the House of Representatives.

Questions of Ford's voting record have arisen increasingly in recent years. It is not Ford's practice to answer the questions in the manner, since often they have been surrounded by the conclusion that the politics of the voter looks like. Jerry Ford, like the late President Johnson, knows full well the importance of maintaining good solid ties with the Hill and as an occasional "jawboning" to the Republicans in Congress.

As a man who polled 76 percent of the Democratic members and within two years Ford challenged the Minority Leader Charles A. Henry and won 73 to 4.

During his time in leadership of House Republicans, Ford consistently voted for increases in defense spending. Because of his record on Appropriations Committee and the respect he earned, Ford was instrumental in leading the push for the huge increases in defense expenditures of the 1960's. Ford was critical in the passage of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981. As the late President David L. Ford, Ford's main campaign issue was Johnson's pro-WHIP Inc. The Ford Administration was considering a change in mood of the younger Republicans in Congress.

Baron R. Alexander in the Republican District primary in 1966, and Ford's main campaign issue was Johnson's pro-WHIP Inc. The Ford Administration was considering a change in mood of the younger Republicans in Congress.

The recent Harris survey showed that 46 percent of those polled believed that the United States will face a recession in the next six months. This lack of public confidence on governmental handling of the economy may prove to be the long run to be the longest problems within the economic crisis management of the Ford Presidency.

ONE HAND CLAPPING:

The Presidency of Gerald Ford

By John Donne

Gerald Ford. The editorial consensus is already building around him. Assuming Gerald Ford is re-elected (and it's still possible that he won't be), the voters in November will have actually chosen between two men: Gerald Ford and his successor, who will be the man who will have to clean up the mess he leaves behind.

The problem may be that the only uncontaminated politician in the country is the 72-year-old Jerry Ford is prompting, and what that means is that Jerry Ford is going to have to sign a bill into law or blow up a basketball. He's going to have to have a perfect attendance record. He's the best high-school Civics teacher who's taught in town. We live with what we're given, and Jerry Ford is a lot of that voting lever can justify.

He's the kid in junior high school who bought everyone noticed once a year, on stage, the voice of Richard Nixon, are floundering with the bland, amorphous facts of Gerald Ford. Gerald Ford is the junior high school Civics teacher who bought the comic impressionists, the people who were making the jokes but not the jokes.

That I admire, too. Sometimes, too, his eyes get that look, that certain dullness in the history of the Presidency. It's somehow, sometimes, the variety of someone a simple pull of that voting lever can justify.

Every story about Jerry Ford is a bit of a little man. He doesn't have the power, doesn't have the adoration, doesn't have the power, doesn't have the adoration, doesn't have the power, doesn't have the adoration.

I worry about Jerry Ford a lot. He looks a little nervous in most of the pictures—doesn't know how to pose with his big fork in the air a moment, then wanders back to the coals. He's changed in the past few years, months, sometimes, too, his eyes get that look.

It's surprising, what to do with his hands, when he should cross the budget by $3 billion? He's the kid in junior high school who bought everyone noticed once a year, on stage, the voice of Richard Nixon, are floundering with the bland, amorphous facts of Gerald Ford. Ford at the 1968 Republican Convention

There's a lot of "quirky" products on the market these days. In fact, it's getting hard to know which are advertising hype and which aren't. And you're going to be there. That's just what Atlantis gives you.

Is it even possible to have a perfectly flat sound reproduction for a lot of that voting lever can justify. That I admire, too. Sometimes, too, his eyes get that look, that certain dullness in the history of the Presidency. It's somehow, sometimes, the variety of someone a simple pull of that voting lever can justify.

For now, there remains a certain dulness in the air. Nixon was nice, but the real leader of the Grand Canyon commission was Gerald Ford. THE NEW WHITE HOUSE OCCUPANTS

BY ROY JONES

The President and First Lady want to bring life back into the White House. More power to them.

With the Ford Administration having two weeks of a new spirit of cooperation and Cordillerana exist as Capitol Hill and the country as a whole. But along with this, it looks like we’ll have a First Family who want to literally kick their heads and let loose every now and then, in order to undo the dourness that has been a new yearnicy and only given across the fourth—unlike the Kennedy, it’s a settled affair.

Presidential families—the kids, especially—have historically been, if not a dull lot, a well-known bunch, with beauty contests and child actors and beauty contest winners. There have been a few notable exceptions.

At the top of the list would be probably Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Teddy Roosevelt’s daughter. A very animated, terribly pretty 15-year-old when her father assumed the Presidency, her hair—was an object of attention and the world. All America was in love with her. Author Charley S. Gaineh hazed her celebrated Glass girl. She's a monument of ideal American womanhood. In her favorite color was interpreted in a bit of the time. “Alice Blue Gown.” Very respectable ladies were summoned about to emaculate, in private, much less in the open. Alice hit it up in public. She was juried—to dress in the bill—into a shipyard entertaining and—pushed out a Congresswoman into the drink with her. A dally poker player, she claimed a learned Teddy to go-to-technically correct. I can do one of two things, I can be President of the United States, or Esteemed Alice. I esteem myself both.”

Not much learned to have happened absolutely in the White House—just about all we go from the Truman was the daughter then's dancing career, to which the less said the better. The LBJ girls dated Harrisites and got married just wanted Lady Gatsby America but they, too, proved to be less than鸳鸯 personalities in their own way.

Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Gore were just victims of their circumstances. They started of nervous and rather uninterested, but ended up glamorous and more vivacious. Along with the Ford family's openness and congeniality, comes an interest in de-sturrying the White House and making it something more than a mausoleum with johns.

The LBJ gals dated Harrisites and got married just wanted Lady Gatsby America but they, too, proved to be less than鸳鸯 personalities in their own way.

Susan was planning on going to Duke University. An obnoxious bunch, might stomp on a few toes; the candor-brashness—a bully poker player.

The Ballad of Rocky Tycoon

By JIM FLEMING
Editor

Once upon a time in Wall Street there lived a young boy named John D. Rockefeller.

When he was but a child, he worked in his father's business and grew to love the thrill of making money. His father, John A. Rockefeller, was a successful businessman who had built a fortune from the oil industry.

John D. was determined to surpass his father's achievements. He worked hard to build his own empire, investing wisely and diversifying his holdings.

In 1863, he founded Standard Oil, which would eventually become one of the most successful and profitable businesses in history. This was just the beginning of his incredible journey.

As he grew older, John D. Rockefeller became known as a philanthropist, donating millions of dollars to various causes. He was also a major player in the politics of the time, influencing decision-makers with his financial might.

Despite his wealth, Rockefeller maintained a humble and private life, never seeking the limelight. He was known for his generosity and his commitment to bettering the world.

John D. Rockefeller passed away in 1937, but his legacy lives on. His story is a testament to the power of ambition, hard work, and the importance of giving back to society.

But let us not forget the man's humble beginnings. Just as he started with nothing, so too can we all dream of achieving great things through determination and perseverance.

The story of Rockefeller reminds us that success is not just about wealth, but about making a difference and leaving a lasting impact on the world.

The End of Song.

The First Richard Nixon Memorial Photo Caption Contest

"...a camera can mistake or misinterpret a mask. An unintentional upturning of the lips can appear in a picture as a smile at a given moment."
- Richard Nixon

CONTEST RULES
1. One entry per person only, please.
2. Indicate which person in the photo is speaking.
3. Limit your caption to 25 words or less.
4. All entries must be received by The Daily Iowan before Monday, Sept. 2, 1974.
5. Contest is open to everyone except employees of The Daily Iowan.
6. Entries will be judged by an impartial panel of Daily Iowan staff.
7. Winners will be published in The Daily Iowan the week of September 2.

FIRST PRIZE: Ten column inches of space in The Daily Iowan to use as you please, subject only to dictates of good taste (as evidenced by this section.)

SECOND PRIZE: $5 gift certificate from Epstein's Books.

THIRD PRIZE: A slightly tear-stained copy of Richard Nixon's "Six Crises."
NEW YORK Aug. 9 - Never having been here before, it is difficult to judge the reaction of the crowd gathered in Times Square. Richard Nixon has just told the nation that he is resigning his presidency "in the best interests of America."

The crowd is not unusually large, according to many people watching the speech on television.

DEADWOOD CLINTON STREET MALL
Post-Abdication: Required Reading

In light of this month's unprecedented events, it might be worth your while to add these two rare texts to your reading schedule.

One is an exciting, colorful behind-the-scenes look at the unraveling of the Watergate burglary—and the two Washington Post reporters whose routine coverage became a chronicling of history.

The other, about the CIA, is the first in the American experience to be subjected to prior government censorship.

Cops and robbers
All the President's Men
By Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein
W. W. Norton & Co., 1974

National Security has been the check and balance to the release of information from the public. But the information kept secret from the American public, many more than ever, is not being exchanged rather than the public domain. It's how this secures itself that quite often is

The ugly American
The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence
By Victor Marchetti and John F. Marks
Knopf Publishers, 1974

It is, in fact, a detective story. It tells the story of how the CIA was able to prevent the public from knowing about and perhaps criticizing the actions of the CIA. It is startlingly revealing. How much the U.S. has through the CIA, has been the decision to allow the American public to know about the noble deeds of the CIA? It is startlingly revealing. It is frightening to realize that the CIA is the only one who can do this.

For those of you who are new to Iowa City, we would like to welcome you to Iowa City. In 1973, he had been selling his goodies at retail because he had no competition. Now, there are 18 independent shops selling stereo equipment, including three major chains—Martha, Best Buy, and Sears. Some people are impressed by inflated retail prices. Some people have noticed that the store has a reputation for being creative and selling unique products. They've been noted for years for having one of the largest selections of speakers and amplifiers in the industry. This receiver has the best tuner section released to date. It's the only one that has Dolby noise reduction unit. The Thorens 2130 is the next model up from the 2110. It has the largest bearing in the industry. This gives you extended relay and speech stability. Adjustable antiskate plus damping control. The Nikko ADC Q-36 receiver puts out 13 watts per channel 20-20 KHz at 8 ohms. This receiver has the best tuner section we've tested in this price range. The EP-1000 Speakers are the flagship of the EP1 line up. This is the most Linear Speaker made. "We try to blow up without having to repair them. They're a bitch. Thorens just released to new 16SC. It has many of the same fine components as the 400 TD 125. While the Reverend Lee Osterhout stepped his customary glass of juice in his hand, the Rev. Bill Buchholz stride to the basement door and unlocked the old door.

People tiptoeing about the overwrought room whispered, and the Rev. Anita Buchholz moved silently behind the door. Three thin, dark-haired men in tuxedos with gold braid were there.

They left their assembly single file down the old, unpainted wooden stairs. The Rev. Lee Osterhout straightens his Roman collar and eyes the group. The Rev. Bill Buchholz was from New York City, and he was about to lecture.

"What you are about to witness, " he begins. "You must not, under any circumstances, touch any objects or communicating with us."

You, absolutely must not."

"And do not hallucinate."

"Why do we have to do that?"

"And do not feel that it is not really happening."

The Exorcist

In these reappearances, she invites doctors to copulate with her. Every day, someone would look in her eyes and urinate on the carpet. Yes or no? For all its publicity, and all those impossible tricks during a ten-minute exorcism, there aren’t too many dramatic nuances left to the kind of sleepy good looks needed to carry it off, but when Joaquin Phoenix, acting as the tormented young priest, appears, even the most anemic screenflapper could be impressed. But then, the Exorcist isn’t designed to mesmerize any but an audience already sold on the idea of evil. Outwardly, it is a movie that would be the best star if any of the characters in it were really human. The Exorcist showed a skeleton of a personality we could sympathize with. The character of the Mrs. MacLean, for God’s sake, is allowed to do two things: scream, and then look tired when the screaming’s over.

The Exorcist is pretty trashy horror, too. Where Psycho and Repealed are humorous, and split-pea consumption into a priest’s face, and then repeats a few minutes worth of horrible special effects which should do more to disuade people from half an hour she’s very well

The Salem Transcripts

Within fifty years after the witchcraft trials, most of the court records were destroyed. No one has ever been able to ascertain why they were destroyed or who destroyed them.

"The court records were destroyed. No one has ever been able to establish beyond the borders.

Mer: What do you say?

Min: I say, Tell ye, that the Lord Jesus Christ has broken

He said, "My clients are very numerous. Some are old and feeble, some sick, some lame. The mark of a hand and the whole effect of the element. Some you young cannot treat; but the way is long and hard. I pray the invisible court to grant further time."

The court ordered that all the owners of cats in the disease give blood within three days that their cats would not eat the rats while their way to and from the court. It default suffered they should be discharged. It is needless to add this constituted with his case.

Judge: "Do you know this woman?"

Abigail Williams: "It is Goody Martin. She has often hurt me. "

Judge: "Mary by many her brother was unkindly from speaking. John liquid he would greatly and said he did not know her. Mercy Lewis pointed at her and fell into a fit. Jan. Pimms threw me her glove and said, He was not in it."

She answered the phone with an edge of weariness in her voice. "Hello?"

"Lute, it's me, Sarah."

"Sarah? What is it?"

"I need to talk to you. It's about your past."

"What about my past?"

"I think... I think there's something I need to show you."

"Show me what?"

"A place... a room."

"A place or a room?"

"A place... a room."

"But what?"

"The place where you kept your diary..."

"My diary?"

Clairvoyant

BY CHRISTINE IRWIN

May Ridyard pauses in the aisle of the Clinton Spiritualist church room, head turned, listening, looking. The ritual farewell, and back in the aisle she hesitates. her life and personality with her own experience, rushed and briefly. searching for parallels. matching ces of one life tumbling out together. The very few who stare rigidly ahead. eyes as intenlly vacant as spiritualist service. so they came with a friend. but now each woman is isolated and a bit unnerved. hoping she's the next to be chosen.

May mentions "I'm not there. I know what I'm doing, but not what I'm there. We have to be totally open with the spirit, let the spirit take over. And Spirit makes me who I go to. As I'm inspired to give a message, I go to them. There's not a medium in this whole world who can go to a whole room and hear messages down the line. And I've seen them pretend to do it."

May's first remembered psychic experience was a narrow escape from a mining disaster. She was a war-bride, emigrated as a young woman to the United States, and a group vision of a large winged figure waving them away. Only there she's been guarded and taken care of by the spiritualist creed . read in the early part of the services . calls only as a go-between for the spirits of the dead . The spiritualist creed, read in the early part of the services, said the "soul is dead, a God-like force is referred to. Divine intervention."

She's been living psychic experiences since her childhood. The other only clairvoyant family member was her father, the aunts, who could always sense when relatives were about to visit. The visit coming then she left for the U.S. was a woman in Cornwall, and everyone had to work in the mines, her mother parted ears from the age of twelve. It's not enough to say you're a medium. People believe in the firmament but not in the firmament. They believe in the spirit but not in the spirit. People believe in the natural world but not in the natural world. People believe in the material world but not in the material world.

Is it not possible to believe in the spirit and not in the spirit? Can you believe in the spirit and not in the spirit? Can you believe in the spirit and not in the spirit?

"If I had my head in hand, I tell them, but I don't paint on black picture. I tell them, with God, all things are possible. Sometimes people want to control me. I try to clear them up. You cannot control who you cannot control. I get some good news, and when they know, they smile my heart. Sometimes people come, you know, wholesome. Sometimes people tell you just to be real. It's hard and make fun.

"If you see a lot of students, too. They are stuck inside with their parents, or friends. I'm afraid they will be stuck, I see bad in their hand, I think a lot of them. You gotta understand, this is strictly no one.

\"I tell them, you have to live in this world. It is the only way you get. I try to clear people up. I figure, why have a secret? I have a good one! Sometimes I see a man and woman that sometimes to the skin, but I don't want it to come to this world. She has been checking on her. She knows I can read their palm. She says, "I don't want you to see bad in their hand, I see bad in their hand, I think a lot of them. You gotta understand, this is strictly no one."

According to various authorities on palmistry, there are over 16 different lines, marks, creases, and triangles that bear good or evil meaning.

The palm of Richard Nixon is a rare in point. His heart line is very short, ending on both hands beneath the middle finger, which causes the characteristics of it are very engendered.

Opposed to this are the long fingers which belong to the members of the world's greatest occult and spiritual organizations. According to Joanne McGee, Skin 12 to 20 years.

Yet Madame Patsy doesn't see much service of this. Her approach is to get a "liberation" of the person, after which she offers a "parlor" to the person, which is a mystical reading, etc. Her style of palm reading is to tell the person, "You gotta understand, this is strictly no one.

"Now, I'm going to tell you can't be printed in paper. Otherwise, I won't even know who you are."

Iowa City...combinations & contrasts

Eye on pollution–free buses, bicycles, not the gas gauge

By LINDA WUSTION

While most Americans are driven through life by the desire to get on the gas gauge, increasing numbers of Iowa City residents are finding an ode to polka dots–their city buses. Iowa City, which has run a combination free bus and bicycle system for more than 35 years, is not alone in fostering alternatives to the private automobile. The city is one of a growing number of communities that have recognized the benefits of promoting both cycling and public transportation. The Iowa City system, with its distinctive blue buses and bright yellow bicycles, serves as a model for others looking to reduce pollution and dependence on fossil fuels.

The bus, bike, or bike transportation alternatives are extensions of community concern for quality of life. A university has system, CAMBUS, provides free service every five minutes connecting the 1,150-acre campus and over 30 miles of the community. Both city and campus systems have been experimented in creating a transportation system setting in Iowa City. What buses from them have become? Iowa City has a strong presence of bike infrastructure.

Just as the university buildings are interconnected with other structures and are the basis of the campus' life, the buses and given elements of Iowa City. A recent survey of Iowa City's transportation system revealed a high level of satisfaction with the system. The survey found that 80% of residents who use the service rate it as excellent or very good, and 95% of those surveyed said they would use the service again. The survey also found that the average trip time is 20 minutes, with a maximum of 40 minutes. The system is also praised for its reliability, with 98% of respondents saying they were satisfied with the service.

Like other university towns, Iowa City has numerous advantages. However, distinguished academics, theoretical productions, and public lecture all complement the city's dynamic and evolving community. The Iowa City Public Radio and the University of Iowa Press are just a few of the cultural highlights of the city. The University of Iowa is also home to the world-renowned Writers' Workshop, which has been home to numerous Nobel Prize winners and Pulitzer Prize winners.

The opening of a performing arts complex in September 2020, by the University of Iowa, will add to the cultural offerings of the city. The complex, which will be the largest of its kind in the Midwest, is expected to host a wide range of events, from concerts and plays to dance and film screenings.

The environment of Iowa City includes intangibles that are reflective of community concern for quality of life and the well-being of its residents. The city has a strong presence of bike infrastructure, with over 40 miles of bike lanes and trails. The city also has a strong presence of public transportation, with over 200 bus routes covering the city and surrounding area.

The city is also known for its strong community involvement in civic affairs. The current mayor is business professor Edgar Czarnecki, who has been a strong advocate for the city's bike and bus system. The city government is also known for its commitment to sustainability, with a goal of becoming carbon neutral by 2050.

In conclusion, Iowa City is a unique combination of culture, education, and community involvement. The city is a model for other communities looking to reduce pollution and dependence on fossil fuels. The Iowa City system is a testament to the fact that a city can be both environmentally friendly and economically viable.
Too few 24-hour restaurants

By MICHAEL MAINE

Staff Writer

The late night restaurant scene in the Iowa City-Coralville area is not for the fainthearted. The restaurant is small, and the food is offered from a menu. The people who frequent this type of establishment are often rowdy and loud. The atmosphere is not conducive to conversation. It is not a place for families with children. The food is not of high quality.

Things to do, people to see at the IMU

By Chuck Hawkins
New Editor

Where in Iowa City can you see a movie, bowl, shoot pool, buy tickets, watch television, get your hair cut, throw a dart, get in and out of the world, and budget deficits? But all of these problems have been solved. Things to do, people to see at the Iowa Memorial Union (IMU), Iowa City.

The history of the Union has been a variety of things to do for students, faculty, and staff. As of this writing, there is the wide variety of things to do throughout the Union, as well.

The first college union in America was formed at the University of Pennsylvania in 1866. Discussion concerning the forming of a student union in the University of Iowa was first raised in 1918. A committee was formed of faculty, student, and alumni to investigate sources of funding and site issues.

In September of 1918, the first campus building opened towards the building of the Union. The building was opened officially on November 3, 1923. The Iowa Union was first occupied all students. The building was leased from the State University and the State. The building at 1213 Iowa Avenue (present site of the Union) was formed of students, faculty, and staff. The building was leased to the Union from the State University and the State. The building was leased to the Union from the State University and the State. Where to go to see the natives

By DAVID SELAND

Writing about bars is a dangerous thing. I don’t know about a lot of people, but I do know that a couple of year’s ago someone from over there sent this letter to the Blue Grass Times, before the article first appeared here. It’s a letter to the editor from a young woman who liked the great music at one of her local bars who got cracked on a report of the town council. She wrote us about her experience about bars. It was essentially a bit of writing that was a bit too long, a bit too detailed, a bit too full of information and a bit too full of language. I don’t know if she understood what was being written about her experience about bars. It was essentially a bit of writing that was a bit too long, a bit too detailed, a bit too full of information and a bit too full of language. I don’t know if she understood what was being written about her experience about bars.

The people are younger, obnoxious, i.e. they step on feet and dance a lot. The place has never been the same since then.

The local singer-guitarist, and the place is popular with a homogenous clientele, a variety that everyone likes. The place is popular with a homogenous clientele, a variety that everyone likes.

People go there to talk or eat, no more. Last fall they wrote about Bart’s Place and its local key entertainment — the Hawks have all played there. And the place is popular with a homogenous clientele, a variety that everyone likes. The place is popular with a homogenous clientele, a variety that everyone likes.

People who go there tend to be older: grad students and seminar in economics. That was ‘51 '01. Two offices located across the street from the Mill and don’t want them to be discovered and overrun with middle class bars, middle class bars, middle class bars. The fast bar in town is your favorite hangout.

The style of a bar is in turn determined by the place’s location — the location of the place is popular with a homogenous clientele, a variety that everyone likes. The place is popular with a homogenous clientele, a variety that everyone likes.

The Iowa City Religious Community

GREETINGS!

The Religious Community of Iowa City welcomes to you the warmest of welcomes to the University and to the city of Iowa City.

During your time here you will be confronted with a multiplicity of challenges and opportunities for growth. More than any single element, it is this diversity of experiences, thoughts, backgrounds and ideas that will stimulate your continued education and development.

We believe that a significant part of the challenge and opportunity for growth is provided by the mixture of the various faiths, denominations, movements and ministries that compose the Iowa City Religious Community. You will discover that we are each one unique in our own way. We have joined together in our diversity. And so we wish to share our life with you. As one, we wish you WELCOME!

UI hosts institute on teaching religion in the public schools

By JEAN DRUCKERLING

Staff Writer

In the U.S., Supreme Court has given a "broad and literal" meaning to the "established clause" in the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. With this year's Supreme Court case and other religious issues, the UI currently has courses available to help teachers gain a better understanding of religion. However, it has been a few years since the UI has had a course, and there are faculty members that believe the UI should have a course on religion again.

The Rev. William Fugger, UI's Associate Dean of Religious Studies, taught the last religious studies course that was offered at the UI. "We've had a course on religion on the high school level," Fugger said. "I'm a big believer in the idea of the UI having religious studies courses." Fugger said he would like to see the UI offer a course on religion again, but he does not believe the UI is ready to offer a course on religion. "I believe that the UI is ready to offer a course on religion, but I don't think the UI is ready to offer a course on religion this year," he said. "I believe that the UI is ready to offer a course on religion in the future, but I don't think the UI is ready to offer a course on religion this year."

Where to find the Atlantic Ocean in Iowa City

By ROBY ERAG

Old Terrell Mill

In 1840, a mill on the banks of the Iowa River near Iowa City was constructed. This mill was turned into a dam and power generating plant for the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research.

In 1919, a laboratory was added to the dam. Con-sisting of a six story central section and another four story wing to the north, the Laboratory was used as a research center. The 10 foot channel was extended to 196 feet.

During World War II, the mill was turned into a laboratory for nuclear power research. The laboratory continued to be used as a research center and is currently used for research in environmental science.

The present structure of the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research is located at the University of Iowa in Iowa City. It is a 19 story building that was completed in 1932 and is currently used for research in environmental science.

The development of precision instruments is a long history that includes the measurement of water flow and the study of hydrology. The Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research was founded in 1912 and is currently used for research in environmental science.

The Institute also participates in research in the areas of fluid dynamics, environmental science, and energy science.

If you ever need to go to the Institute be careful. It's the only place in the Midwest where you might accidentally fall into the Atlantic Ocean!

Animal Care Unit...a pollution-free stainless steel world

By Tom Collins

The new Basic Sciences Building is the home for many animals used in experimental research at the University of Iowa. Before entering the Animal Care Unit, the visitor finds himself surrounded by the serenity and order of the facility. The animals and their caretakers are seldom disturbed by the pollution-filled streets and the insanitary milieu of the outside world, for the animals are studied in a completely controlled environment...but it does not mean they are left to their own devices.

Dealers

Thayer described the process that the buyer must go through to get animals for research. He said that the "major source was federally licensed dealers," meaning the American Welfare Act, dealers most of all issued for a set fee. The dealer had to keep a record of all animals, and the records could be turned over to the buyer in five days before it could be turned over for research. Thayer emphasized that "very few are given more than ample time to exercise their last animal; that of our99 animals by putting them in cages.

Writers give varying methods for losing that excess weight with data on the relative merits of diets.

By CRAIG MACDONALD

As one who has been on diets and more diets, it’s a reality that about 85% of us will be on one by the end of the year. Dieting is a great deal of national concern, and the writer has participated with the others in the Fad Diet Revolution. As Dr. Stillman’s book, "Dr. Stillman’s Quick Weight Loss Diet," appeared in the fall of 1979, the Fad Diet Revolution was at its peak.

Brittany K. Smith, including Dr. Stillman’s "Quick Weight Loss Diet," and Dr. Atkin’s "Doctor’s Quick Weight Loss Diet," are just two of the many popular diet books in the last year, and all have one thing in common. They all believe that carbohydrate is the problem, and that carbohydrates alone can ruin your health and make you fat.

However, the reality is that there is no single causal source of obesity. The only diet that is effective in the long run is one that you can live with. Like Stillman’s "Revolution," the book is much easier to follow than to implement. Atkin’s diet is also easier to follow but is logistically difficult just getting started. The menu still includes meat, poultry, eggs and small amounts of milk.

As people like David Susskind discovered, few diets will allow you to live with the dietary restrictions imposed. One of the key words in Stillman’s diet is "speed," the key word in Atkin’s is "low-carbohydrate." The only cheese allowed on this diet is white cheese.

The only thing that is lost in the discussion of physiology is the point at which the body is burning stored fats, small amounts of carbohydrate, and the counting of ketones in the urine and the counting of ketones can be measured by dipping a special stick called "ketostix" with the amount of carbohydrates in the body.

The ultimate goal of the diet is to continue to lose weight. As people like David Susskind discovered, few diets will allow you to live with the dietary restrictions imposed. FDA knows exactly what's in your food

If you have been on a low-carb diet, you are already aware that chemical food additives are everywhere. From the supermarket to the fast-food chain, from the health food store to the drugstore, chemicals are added to nearly every food item. But what are these chemicals and what role do they play in our food? This article will explore some of the most common food additives and their effects on our health.

Organic food contains no foreign fertilizers, pesticides or chemicals

By ANITA ALTENBERGER

"The fact is there is only one major disease - and that is malnutrition," Dr. A. C. Carnavon, a Cornell University professor, said Monday. People are beginning to realize that eating unhealthy foods will help to maintain or even create major disease. Organic foods are generally considered to be safe and wholesome for the majority of the population.

"The closest anyone can come to eating a food that is grown and prepared with care is an organically grown food," he said. Chemicals added which will go on to poison the body. Yet it is interesting to see how "organic" brands of food are neither better nor more expensive than other brands. The majority of consumers are not aware that these foods are organically grown or that they contain only the vitamins and minerals that are present in the foods that are grown organically. The reason for this is because an organically grown food does not contain any chemicals, additives, or preservatives. Instead, it contains only the natural elements that are present in the foods that are grown organically.

Quiz

1. What is in the Adams apple?
2. What is a caloric food?
3. What is the difference between a hard and soft cheese?
4. During which season is the largest amount of organically grown vegetables consumed?
5. What is the smallest part of an organically grown vegetable?

Coloring

Before you take a bite of anything, you intuitively check for its nutritional quality. Not many people would eat a candy bar made with a synthetic coloring. Sometimes in the manufacturing process, they may not even realize it if they are eating a candy bar that has been dyed with a synthetic coloring. Organics, for example, can be darkly colored, but they are not.

DJD and pesticides

One of the main concerns of the chemically grown food is pesticides. They need to be used cautiously, judiciously. The people that are rapidly growing their natural gardens are able to do because the pesticides applied in the area have wiped. The inside that would have been a healthy garden has been replaced with a small garden. People can be deadly if they eat foods that have been grown with pesticides. They can be deadly if they eat foods that have been grown with pesticides.

How does a component earn the name Marantz?

Simply, it has to be the best. But it's not quite as simple as that. By "best," we mean that component has to go a long step further than being hand-crafted and precision-built. It must be more than technically superior. All stereo components assembled must be repeatedly tested to meet continuous high specification standards before the final addition is made. The Marantz signature.

Like a seal of approval the Marantz name is the owner's assurance of reliability in craftsmanship. And for reassurance, tested findings on each of the components are consistently better than listed specification.

Over all, Marantz opens are the finest in the field. And yet, they 'perform' at between ten and twenty percent better than listed.

The 300B and 260 are just two of over 30 Marantz models to choose from.
UI doctor discovers way to remove tattoos

By GAILANN FAGEN

"Welcome to my life," he said. "I've been doing this for 20 years."

I knew he'd refer you to the skin graft man, but you can't come in to see me when..." "That's for the insurance," he said.

But his voice was soft, so I was reassured, and I knew I'd be able to see him. Earlier that year, he'd told me he was interested in tattoo removal in 1967. He was stitching the wound or something, and I knew he'd done it before. But he said it didn't remove all of the tattoo pigment. This is because the tattoo pigment is imbedded in the skin, and it is not so deep that scar tissue will form. The skin graft method was used to remove the rest of the color. The tattooed area is frozen and the pigment is left in the skin. This is done so effectively that the tattoo appears as a negative when the bandage is removed.

The tattooed area is then frozen and then surgically sectioned with a diamond fraise, a diamond fraise that is a high speed wheel spinning at a high rpm, to remove the tattoo pigment. The diamond fraise is imbedded into the skin. The surface discoloration is caused by the pigment. This abrasion itself is not so deep that scar tissue will form. What happens is that when the tattoo pigment is removed, the skin graft may be used to cover the area. The tattooed area is frozen and the pigment is left in the skin. This is done so effectively that the tattoo appears as a negative when the bandage is removed.

Although the procedure works, simple enough, I believe the tattooed area is frozen and the pigment is left in the skin. This is done so effectively that the tattoo appears as a negative when the bandage is removed. The tattooed area is frozen and the pigment is left in the skin. This is done so effectively that the tattoo appears as a negative when the bandage is removed. The tattooed area is frozen and the pigment is left in the skin. Before & after

Doctors seek the origin of pain

By JER I NUTT

The only thing most people want to do about pain is to get rid of it as fast as possible. Unfortunately, this approach often does more harm than good. Pain is a complex sensation that arises from the nervous system. It is not just a function of the intensity of the stimulus that causes it, but also of the location and duration of that stimulus.

The spinal tract, the tract which carries fibers to the area of central response, is of value to help develop their pain. The physiology involves the gate control theory as developed by Drs. Melzack and Wall. This theory suggests that a person's pain response is influenced by several factors, including the intensity of the stimulus, the location of the pain, and the individual's psychological state.

Acupuncture is learning the treatment of the origin of pain as well as methods which actually interfere with the sensory perception of pain. Another aspect of treating pain is the Gate Control Theory which suggests that the pain gate can be "opened" or "closed." When the pain gate is closed, the body does not perceive pain.

Large diameter myelinated fibers carrying tactile sensations to the brain, and the small unmyelinated fibers carrying perception of pain and temperature to the spinal cord, are the nerves that make up the pain gate. The psychological aspects of behavior conditioning and administration are also important in the treatment of pain.

Increasing light pollution plagues astronomers

By DAVID STAMPS

"It's all relative, right? The one everyday thing that is standing in the way of us looking up at the sky is light. Light pollution." So says one citizen's crusader against the world's growing darkness.

"It's happening everywhere," he points out. "We're losing our ability to see the universe in its entirety."

In 1971, the world was treated to a spectacular display by Halley's comet. But for many of us it was only a flash of light in the sky, as our cities and towns were illuminated by floodlights and streetlights. Today, the sky is dimmer, and the stars are harder to see.

Light pollution is a growing problem, affecting not only the ability of amateur astronomers to see the night sky, but also the work of professional astronomers. The problem has become so severe that it is now considered a crisis.

Light pollution is a complex issue, involving not only the amount of light emitted by artificial sources, but also the type of light and the way it is directed. The problem is exacerbated by the growth of cities and towns, which are becoming brighter and brighter as they continue to expand.

One of the main causes of light pollution is the use of halogen lamps, which are bright and spread their light in all directions. These lights are common in parking lots, and are often used in outdoor advertising. They are also used in many household appliances, such as refrigerators and ovens.

Another source of light pollution is the use of sodium lamps, which are used in streetlights and other public lighting. These lights are bright, but they also emit a yellowish light that can obscure the stars.

The problem of light pollution is serious, and it is growing worse every day. It is a problem that needs to be addressed by both individuals and governments.

As amateur astronomers, we can do our part by reducing our own use of light, and by supporting efforts to reduce light pollution in our communities.

As citizens, we can advocate for the use of more efficient lighting, and for the adoption of lighting standards that reduce light pollution.

As a society, we need to recognize the value of the night sky, and work to protect it for future generations.

Let us all work together to solve this problem, and to preserve the beauty of the night sky for all to enjoy.
Moon lore waxes modern variations

By Shirley Richardson

"The moon's full, so we race out for it." The words still ring true to the rhythm of the moon's phases in our mind's ear. For ancient man, the phases of the moon were as important as the sun's. But in modern times, the moon's influence on our lives is less direct, more subtle, and yet more significant.

The moon's phases have been observed for thousands of years, and the influence it has on the tides and on the human body is well documented. In traditional Chinese medicine, the moon is believed to affect the balance of yang and yin, and therefore, the health of the body. The full moon is believed to be the peak of yang energy, while the new moon is believed to be the peak of yin energy.

In modern times, the moon's influence is still felt, albeit in a more subtle way. For example, the full moon is believed to affect the balance of hormones in the body, and thus, the mood and behavior of people. The full moon is also believed to affect the growth of plants, and thus, the yield of crops.

In conclusion, the moon's influence on our lives is still felt today, albeit in a more subtle way than it was in ancient times. The moon's phases are still observed and studied, and the influence it has on the tides and on the human body is still documented. However, the influence it has on the growth of plants and on the mood and behavior of people is often overlooked.

Drugs Service to keep doctors and druggists informed of products

When physicians and pharmacists are prescribing drugs, they need up-to-date information about the drugs and their interactions. However, the amount of information available can be overwhelming, and it can be difficult to keep up with the latest developments in drug therapy.

In recent decades, the amount of information available about drugs has increased dramatically. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has made it mandatory for drug manufacturers to provide detailed information about their products, including the ingredients, the dosage forms, and the indications for use. In addition, the FDA has established a system for tracking the adverse effects of drugs, so that physicians and pharmacists can be notified if a new adverse effect is discovered.

However, despite the increase in information available, it can still be difficult for physicians and pharmacists to keep up with the latest developments in drug therapy. Hawks face rugged schedule

Commings tries to rejuvenate 0-11 team

By BOB DYER
Sports Writer

Despite a schedule that would make even Woody Hayes envious, new Iowa football coach Bob Comnings regrettably reported this past week.

Commings, the Hawkeye Most Valuable Player in 1971, came out of the high school ranks at Raisin, Ohio, to coach at his alma mater.

He inherited the task of rejuvenating a team which won only six games last year and finished last in the Big Ten.

With that kind of record, one might expect several new faces on the roster for 1972. However, there has been very little turnover.

The current lineup features only three new faces on both offense and defense. The only change in the starting lineup is in the quarterback department, where there is a battle for the starting position.

"Our running backs have real potential," said Commings. "You must run to beat people but I'd like to balance a good running attack with a high percentage passing game."

"Every year you have to have a quarterback, and that position continues to be a problem area for the Hawkeyes. Wise candidates will be on hand when August drills begin."

The current leaders are veteran Bob Osley and Butch Caldwell and sophomore Doug Reichard.

Rob Fick, who started two games as a sophomore in 1971 but was shut out for football last year, is also in the running.

"Our quarterbacks have the ability and they made great progress during the spring," declared Commings. "We naturally like the quarterback who can make the big play but more important he cannot give the damn ball away. We cannot come up third and 16."

"The first thing we must do next fall is pick three quarterbacks who will put the ball on the move, then pick the one we think can beat Michigan."

The offensive line picture looks bright with the return of veteran Ginger Gänzle.

"Our tackle is a problem this year," said Commings. "Some help in the receiving corps in all-Big Ten split and Brian Rollins. Bill Schults now mean the Big Ten."

"Our defense will be an added boost this fall. The Hawkeyes of last year had the least amount of defense."

"The offense of last year and the defense last year has put us in the second tier of Big Ten teams," said Commings. "We're better off than we thought we'd be."

"We're not going to put all our linebacks healthy and I think we'll be respectable," said Commings.

A complete recovery by Jackson is the key. One of the Hawkeye's best returners, Andrew Jackson, suffered through an injury-prone year last season after leading the Big Ten in tackles during a sensational freshman campaign.

If healthy, Jackson (5-10, 200) will team with leading tackler Dan LaFlair (5-11, 237) in Iowa's 5-2 setup.

"If we're not going to win any Big Ten games this year, we'll try to win the NFC East," said Commings.

"We need to get all our linebacks healthy and I think we'll be respectable," said Commings.

"Commings feels LaFlair could be a standout if given some help up front. Iowa suffered from precocious line play last year and there are several new faces in the starting lineup."

AMC BUYER PROTECTION PLAN

1. Simple, strong guarantees.
When you buy a new AMC car from an AMC dealer, American Motors Corporation guarantees to you that, except for tires, it will pay for the repair or replacement of any part it supplies that is defective in material or workmanship. This guarantee is good for 12 months from the date the car is first used or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. All we require is that the car be properly maintained and cared for under normal use and service in the fifty United States, or Canada and that any repairs or replacements be made by an AMC dealer.

2. A free loaner car from almost every one of our dealers if guaranteed repairs take overnight.

3. Special Trip Interruption Protection.

4. And a toll free hot line to AMC Headquarters.

We care what happens to you after you buy our car.

New coach

The Hawks will have a new basketball coach in Lute Olson, who replaces Dick Rathert, as there is a new coach in Lute Olsonseo.

Olson, who led Long Beach State to a first-round upset last year, is known as a top recruiter for Dick Marketing, because of Long Beach State. Olson has led Long Beach State to a first-round upset last year, and is known as a top recruiter for Dave Marketing.

In describing Rathert, a late bloomer, Walter included, "Dan Rathert will have an advantage because he's a late bloomer, averaging 13 points and 10 rebounds a game in leading Fremont to a second place finish in the L.A. area."

Ward was courts by all the big schools on the West Coast and in the Rocky Mountain region in addition to several powerhouse such as Los Angeles and Providence. Hopefully, the former Fremont stars Carl Coburn and Gino Riche had in mind.

"They can help us improve our defensive play and our shooting ability and our offensive play at the same time," said Olson. "They'll be the key to our team."

"I'm sure they'll be key to our team. We'll determine who's going to start at this time," said Olson.

The Hawks are young, without a senior on the squad, but if Olson and the new recruits are both as good as expected, it won't be a banner year.

Women's intramurals jump in popularity

By BILLY SCHMIDT

Better than 1,400 girls participated in the University of Iowa's intramural program during the fall of 1974. Christine Grant, director of women's recreation, attributes this increase to the fact that "everyone likes sports." Among the sports which have aroused widespread interest are women's basketball and college softball. "I'm convinced that we are reaching more women through these programs than we ever have," said Grant. The reasons are: (1) a growing interest in sports among women; (2) a desire to be involved in campus activities; (3) an appreciation of the physical and emotional benefits derived from physical activity; (4) recognition of the importance of intramural programs as educational tools; and (5) the availability of a variety of sports in which to participate. About 10 women's intercollegiates have been included in the program. "This year has been a real breakthrough for women's intercollegiates," said Grant. "We are getting a hearty response to the program. It wasn't too many years ago that women's intercollegiates were considered to be a farce, but now more and more girls are taking them seriously." Women's intercollegiates may be divided into two categories: departmental and collegiate. Departmental teams compete with other colleges in the UI system, while collegiate teams compete with colleges throughout the state of Iowa. The team with the highest score in either category is declared the winner. "These collegiate teams are really lively," said Grant. "They are out to win and they are competitive." The intramural program is open to all UI students, regardless of sex, and is sponsored by the University of Iowa Recreation Services Division, which coordinates intramural programs, for a fee. Among the programs which have been offered are: (1) thriving tennis; (2) women's basketball; (3) women's volleyball; (4) women's softball; (5) women's baseball; and (6) women's swimming. The Intramural Coaches Association has been established to promote greater competition among intramural coaches. "This is a good idea," said Grant. "It will help to bring the program together and make it more competitive." The intramural program is supported by the Student Affairs Council and the University of Iowa Athletic Foundation. "These are the hard core of the program," said Grant. "They are the ones who really make it go." The intramural program is also divided into two types: competitive and recreational. "The competitive programs are designed to help players develop their skills," said Grant. "The recreational programs are designed to give the players a chance to enjoy themselves and have some fun." The recreational programs are more informal than the competitive programs, and are designed to provide a more leisurely and enjoyable atmosphere for the players. "These programs are really important," said Grant. "They give the players a chance to try out new sports and have some fun." Iowa's Big Ten Gymnastics champs hurt by graduation

With only four experienced gymnasts returning from a Big Ten Championship team that placed fifth in the NCAAs in 1971, Coach Don Holzaepfel faces a huge rebuilding task, particularly in light of a national letter and have until August 10 to intramural competitors who must take the place of Carl Nadler, the pairings engine for the past six years a Big Ten match.

Hawkeye’s toughest wrestling matches may come during their own practices

By ROY DETER

Junker stickers Arnold Iowa City proclaims "Hawkeye wrestling is the best." And it is. Following a Big Ten championship and a 11-0 place finish in the NCAA duals last year, in second place in national standings, 5' 11" Steve Hunte, placed in Outstanding Wrestler. Only a student-athlete named the Conference’s Most Valuable Player in his senior year.

"Last year we took a lot of players in our recruiting class. This year we’ve got a great group of men actually up under the preimums of tremendous wrestling," said Hunte. "We expect national improvement." Hunte posted a 19-4 dual record last year in duals, including a trip to the NCAA duals, and is a constant threat at 158 pounds.

"We’ve got a few seniors in our lineup. Three seniors and maybe only three returning wrestlers will be on this year’s team. The pressure is there, but we’ve got a first-rate junior class," said Hunte. "If I had to put my money on, I’d have to bet on the Hawks.

"The Hawks are a team that’s going to make a lot of good wrestlers returning. We’re a strong team. Plus, I think the preimums of tremendous wrestling," said Hunte. "I think this year we’ll be a team that’s going to make a lot of good wrestlers returning. We’re a strong team. Plus, I think the preimums of tremendous wrestling."
Getting soaked, then frozen can be fun

By JOHN MAUSSL

It was a beautiful spring day for a hike in Iowa. The sun was shining, and the air was fresh. I decided to explore a new trail that I had heard about.

We started off by walking down the main path, with the sun shining brightly above us. The air was crisp, and the scent of wildflowers filled our nostrils.

As we continued on our hike, we came across a small pond. The water was crystal clear, and we could see the fish swimming below. We stopped to take a break and enjoy the view.

After a while, we continued on our hike, and we came across a small stream. The water was rushing down the rocks, creating a beautiful sight. We sat down on a nearby rock and watched the water flow by.

As we were sitting there, we noticed a group of deer standing in the distance. They were grazing on the grass, and they didn't seem to notice us. We sat there for a while, watching them.

Finally, we decided to continue on our hike. We followed the trail down to a small waterfall. The water was falling down the rocks, creating a beautiful sound. We sat down on a nearby rock and listened to the water.

After a while, we continued on our hike, and we came across a small cave. We decided to explore it. The cave was dark and spooky, but we were curious to see what was inside.

As we entered the cave, we were met with a burst of cold air. The temperature inside the cave was much lower than outside. We shivered as we walked through the cave, trying to keep warm.

As we walked deeper into the cave, we came across a small waterfall. The water was falling down the rocks, creating a beautiful sound. We sat down on a nearby rock and listened to the water.

How many miles can you run in twelve minutes?

Do you know that if you do 5 minutes of aerobics you will live for a year you will probably not be as physically fit as a person who does 1 hour of exercise per week? In order to break the routine of doing exercise, you should try to incorporate some variety in your workouts. There are many different types of exercise that you can do to improve your physical fitness.

Aerobic exercises include:

- Running
- Cycling
- Swimming
- Jumping rope

Aerobics are exercises that cause the body to use up large amounts of energy. The body's capacity to use oxygen without producing lactic acid is aerobics. They are quick to point out that lactate is produced during anaerobic activities such as sprinting, weightlifting, and calisthenics.

The question that naturally comes to mind is: What does this have to do with caving? The answer is: it does.

Caving is quick to point out that much oxygen is required to be able to breathe. The key to the whole thing is oxygen. Oxygen is a necessary element for life. The energy muscles yield during activity comes from the oxygen that is taken in. If you want to be healthy, you must be able to breathe.

Aerobic exercises include running, cycling, and swimming. Exercise that build endurance are called "aerobics," they include slow, steady workouts such as running, cycling, and swimming. Exercise that build muscle are called "anaerobics," they include fast, strenuous workouts such as sprinting, weightlifting, and calisthenics.

The first step in aerobics is to measure the amount of oxygen you take in by measuring the percent oxygen the body actually uses. Cooper's books are filled with charts that compare the exercise program of difficultly with the time (minutes and seconds) that the exerciser invests in.

The second step is to check if the percent of percent oxygen, of taking the amount of oxygen the body is actually using. You can measure the percent of oxy"gen intake (minutes and seconds) that the exerciser invests in.

The third step is to check if the percent of percent oxygen, of taking the amount of oxygen the body is actually using. You can measure the percent of oxy"gene intake (minutes and seconds) that the exerciser invests in.

"PEOPLE SERVING PEOPLE"
Changing Africa

Two years ago I made my first African friends at the UI and it wasn't long after that one of them asked me if I could fill in the names of the states on a blank U.S. map and the countries on a European map. I could, but when he asked me to do the same with an African map, I had to admit that I didn't know Rhodesia from Tanzania.

Talking with other Americans about Africa, I've found that I'm not alone in my ignorance. One UI professor from Africa told me that he has had to inform people that Africa is a continent and not a country. Unfortunately too, inaccurate stereotypes about Africa and Africans have been ingrained in our minds due to everything from history books to Warner Brothers cartoons.

With this section we hope to provide some basic information about the state of affairs in Africa. In order to encompass the many different types of experiences that are Africa, we have tried to write articles about countries and topics that are widely varied...from food to political suppression. Many of the articles are written by African students that attend the UI, so the information is first hand and not prejudiced by any backgrounds, but theirs.

The map to the right is a free hand drawing and thus not extremely accurate (borders are not exact and several small countries are not represented), but it is reasonable enough to refer to as you read the stories.

The black man who calls his brothers to become aware of themselves will attempt to portray them the way they are. This is not something that can be explained. It wants to be a beacon and a mirror of the same time, the new revolutionary will be the harbinger of the next level, the hero who will tell his brothers from himself in hand is in the world, as is possible and as a part of, in order to people they come with an emotional overview: It is functional. It answers a need that defined exactly...Jean Paul Sartre

An American author wrote a story based on his own love affair or supplementing city life. The book went only in print. Although many authors are politically active, there is really no great line in writing purely for the individual and accepting the country as it is. But for African writers cannot. Caught in the struggles of a movement that can no longer put up with imperialist European exploitation, they are forced to invent a new society for their country. This is the African view of the future. Many of the writers are rather re-thought and re-created, and many are the writers of the African country.

Lillian Kesteloot in her book, "Les Entreprises de Langue Fremises: N בלמשה ue literaaires," ("Black Writers of the French Language: The Birth of a Literature") says "African writers must be active socially, politically. They are the people who are facing a linguistic problem. How do you depict one culture, using the vocabulary and the French language, to impose his religion and his moral code, and he treats the people in the world, as is possible and as a part of, in order to people they come with an emotional overview: It is functional. It answers a need that defined exactly...Jean Paul Sartre.

One of the many writers is the African said, in his book, "African Country There are several national languages spoken, whose different origins from the colonial era to the present day language patterns are completely different languages. When you were a child you spoke a language and it became part of your personality. A single language that is the whole culture. It is not that easy a thing to work with.

However, the reasons for writing are European are often out of the writer's making. Many writers of European languages want to find their own language and write in their mother tongues such as Hebrew, Yiddish, Yoruba, Hausa and Arabic. But African languages have poor. While less certain, languages spoken by non-Africans who are not mutually intelligible, for example, are several different languages spoken, whose different origins from the colonial era to the present day language patterns are completely different languages. When you were a child you spoke a language and it became part of your personality. A single language that is the whole culture. It is not that easy a thing to work with.

After all, the writing of fiction is a tool that is used to impose his religion and his moral code, and he treats the people in the world, as is possible and as a part of, in order to people they come with an emotional overview: It is functional. It answers a need that defined exactly...Jean Paul Sartre.

African writers face the problem of very little public reaction to their work. Some writers are more successful than others, and the new force which Maduka says is termed "new colonialism." What the writer wishes writers from the African countries, they receive greater control through a new elite - Africans who had worked under the colonialist.

Maduka says that the colonialist had brought the African writer closer to the traditions of his own Africa. In a survey of contemporary African writers prepared for her book, Mihir found that a large number of the writers were born traditional. The principal reason for this reaction is that the nation, the African countries, they receive greater control through a new elite - Africans who had worked under the colonialist.

What the writer wishes writers from the African countries, they receive greater control through a new elite - Africans who had worked under the colonialist. The problem facing the African writer, their spirit has been crushed. They are the people who are facing a linguistic problem. How do you depict one culture, using the vocabulary and the French language, to impose his religion and his moral code, and he treats the people in the world, as is possible and as a part of, in order to people they come with an emotional overview: It is functional. Tanzania seeks self-reliant socialist economic system

By John Shamba

Tanzania was born on April 26, 1961 as a merger of mainland Tanganyika and the islands of Zanzibar and Pemba. The new nation faced formidable problems: the irrigation systems, the islands, the climate.

"Very seldom does one, the life of million people of Tanzania as a nation awakened up in Dar es Salaam at 6 a.m. on July 26, 1964. The formation of Tanzania was a success.

Since the 18th century, different parts of Tanzania have been ruled by the one or the other of the Portuguese, Arabs, the Germans and finally the British.

Tanganyika was given to the British by the League of Nations after the First World War. Each ruler replaced a different language, religion and education, which are all part of the Tanganyika culture. The German influence on the traditional African values. The Arabs not only replaced the African culture with the Koran. but also traded in human beings, who were shipped to the Arab world. The Europeans not only replaced African culture with The Bible, but also introduced international trade and foreign education.

Further economic problems were caused by technological advancement. With the development of the industry, Tanzania is a country with one of the highest per capita incomes in the world. The average life expectancy is 64 years. Health services are available in the country.

Whether it be the elimination of school fees, or whether it be the eradication of diseases, Tanzania is a country that has made great strides.

Tanzania is a country where people have been able to set world records in seconds off Jim Ryun's 1967 record. Tanzanians are proving their lot not only economically but by filling them with confidence that can enable them to set world records in sports.

In the face of the opening economic gap between the developed and the developing countries, Tanzania has to depend on imported manufactured goods. It has a high debt burden and the government has to pay the foreign and domestic debt.

This Phoebus Influencia closed a friend of author John Byrne around the campus—then broke into loud laughter. Byrne is the author of an excellent book, "Africa On Wheels." It is a fun account of the types of people you meet on the road, comparing life in the United States to life in Africa. He knows the continent as well as anyone. A Phoebus Influencia is a selection of qualities from our fine stock and explain the proper grade each year through professional knowledge. We are registered jewelers and gemologists.

A diamond cutter knows.

He knows the explicit features of diamond grading and value.

At Heritien & Stocker we feel it is also important to have the services of a gemological instruments to properly grade every diamond we sell.

We are registered jewelers and gemologists of the American Gem Society. This is a title that must be renewed each year through additional study.

Step in. We'd be happy to show you a selection of fine from fine stock and explain the points that establish the per carat size price at every diamond.

Historical insights hallmark William Edward Burghardt DuBois. A lifelong seeker, DuBois longed before the public glare to present his thoughts on the political, economic, and humanitarian aspects of various events. His work is revered for its comprehensive and insightful analysis of black America and its relationship to the world.

DuBois was a prolific writer, and his work remains relevant today. He wrote extensively on the importance of education, the fight for civil rights, and the role of black people in American society. His views on race relations and social justice continue to influence contemporary discussions on these topics.

His newspaper, The Negro World, was a significant platform for his ideas and was influential in shaping the course of black nationalism.

DuBois is remembered as a man of principle and dedication, who dedicated his life to the fight against racism and for the advancement of black people. His work continues to inspire and guide those who seek to understand and address the complexities of race and social justice.

Pan-Africanism emphasizes unification

By W.I. NICHES

Instructor

In this article, the author discusses the historical context of Pan-Africanism and its significance in the fight for African liberation. The author highlights the role of Pan-Africanism not only in the continent itself but also in the diaspora, where it has helped to strengthen the sense of identity among African descendants worldwide. The article also touches on the establishment of institutions such as the Africa Civilization Society and the Pan-African Congresses, which were instrumental in realizing the goals of Pan-Africanism.

The Pan-African Congresses, held in various cities, were significant events that brought together leaders from different African nations to discuss pan-African issues. The Congresses aimed to consolidate the efforts of the African people towards the establishment of a united Africa. The author emphasizes the importance of these meetings in advancing the cause of Pan-Africanism.

The author also mentions the contributions of key figures in the Pan-African movement, such as Marcus Garvey, who founded the Universal Negro Improvement Association (UNIA) in 1914, and C.L.R. James, who was a prominent scholar activist. These leaders played crucial roles in spreading the message of Pan-Africanism and organizing movements that sought to empower African people.

The article concludes by emphasizing the ongoing relevance of Pan-Africanism in the contemporary world, where African people are still facing challenges in their quest for freedom and self-determination. The author calls for continued efforts to strengthen the Pan-African movement and to ensure that the vision of a united Africa is realized.

Rhodesians resort to guerrilla war

By HANDEL MLILO

Government only hears loud noises

Rhodesians resort to guerrilla war because of their race, color, and prioritized core interests. White Rhodesians, by their nature and activities, have always been committed to exclusive and immediate self-government, at the cost of all others. They are not averse to using force, if need be, to attain their goals. The Freedon Fighters are in fact the people taking the law into the world since no one will give them freedom, justice and dignity. They will take them because they have demonstrated beyond any doubt that they have the support of the majority of Rhodesians. On the other hand, the minority government has been subjected to a series of events that have been hostile and led to a condition where they are not in the minority. The Rhodesians, fighting for their freedom, are in fact the people who deserve a fair hearing, a fair trial, and a fair chance to prove their case.

Rhodesians resort to guerrilla war

The black majority, having been subjected to all manner of cruelest treatment by the whites, have no other means of expressing their resentment than to rise up and fight. It is a simple and straightforward matter of self-defense. In the face of such treatment, they are entitled to arms to protect themselves. The Rhodesian government has been forced to recognize this fact and to negotiate with the black leaders for a peaceful settlement.

FORM OF GOVERNMENT: Libyan Arab Republic: a republic.

CAPITAL: Tripoli and Benghazi.

RELIGION: Sunni Islam.

TOPOGRAPHY: bounded by the Mediterranean Sea on the north, Egypt on the east, Sudan on the northeast, the Republic of Chad and Nigeria on the south and Algeria and Tunisia on the west and northwest, respectively. 1,759,550 square miles with a Mediterranean coastline of 1,250 miles.

POPULATION: total population in 1975 census was 2.6 million.

The Italo-Turkish war (1911-1912) began a process that resulted in the emergence of the modern Kingdom of Libya. After the war ended in 1912 with the Treaty of Berlin in October, Italy and Turkey, after allying with the Ottoman Empire, was defeated in the war which opened the door for the French to enter the Middle East. In 1922 the Italo-French Treaty of Florence was signed, which marked the beginning of Libya as an Italian colony. Some Italians were already living in Libya. The British and French administered Tripolitania and Cyrenaica, respectively. By 1923, Tripolitania, Cyrenaica and Fezzan were under Italian rule.

The Senussi rebellion followed the Italian conquest and led to the formation of the Libyan Arab Nationalist Front in 1924. The Libyans were united to form the Kingdom of Libya in 1926. In 1934 the monarchy was established and the Kingdom of Libya was made up of the provinces of Tripolitania, Cyrenaica and Fezzan. The Libyan Arab Nationalist Front was suppressed in 1934 and the King Idris I was crowned in 1936.

Graziani, by a ruthless use of concentration camps, also reduced the Libyans to slavery.

During World War II, the Italian occupation of Libya ended and the British and French administration of Libya began. When Libya became a battleground for World War II, the British army invaded Libya and swept the Axis forces.

The discovery and utilization of Libyan oil fields turned Libya into a wealthy growing country. Science, culture, and new universities are being built.

Although there are American companies in Libya, they are not controlled by the government, because these companies have the enterprise to do the work more efficiently.

The oil revenue comes to the government and is allocated out to the various ministries in need. There are about 600 companies that are making up the government and the government pays them according to the laws established by the Libyan government.

Nigeria sometimes called the Giant of Africa

By CHEWETU MADUKA

When people who closely followed the drama of the "Nigerian Crisis" which engulfed the country from October 1, 1960 to January 1973 have attempted in recent years to resolve the problems of Nigeria, they are often faced with the perplexing problem of making an agonizing choice between retaining the old ethnic federal structure, which has effectively served the country well, or replacing it with the new political structure of Nigeria. The reason for this is that the old ethnic federal structure of Nigeria is based on the principle of Federalism, which has been the guiding principle of the Nigerian political system since independence in 1960. However, the old ethnic federal structure has been criticized for its inability to address the problems of the country, including the issue of regionalism, ethnic conflicts, and the lack of a strong central government. Therefore, the question of whether to retain the old ethnic federal structure or replace it with a new political structure is a fundamental one that has been debated extensively in Nigeria.

In order to be accepted in Northeast Nigeria, the Nigerian youth, the Government must ensure that the new political structure is compatible with the cultural values of the Nigerian youth. This is because the Nigerian youth is a vital part of the country's future, and their acceptance of the new political structure is crucial to its success. Therefore, the Government must make every effort to ensure that the new political structure is perceived as a genuine attempt to address the problems of Nigeria, and that it is compatible with the cultural values of the Nigerian youth.

The emergence of the youth will be the foundation of the new political structure. The youth is a vital part of the country's future, and their acceptance of the new political structure is crucial to its success. Therefore, the Government must make every effort to ensure that the new political structure is perceived as a genuine attempt to address the problems of Nigeria, and that it is compatible with the cultural values of the Nigerian youth.
Iowa Mountaineeres travel to East Africa

By TIM EBERT
Feature Writer

From the heights of Kilimanjaro to the shores of Lake Victoria, the Iowa East Mountaineeres are preparing for a trip to East Africa that will include climbing Mount Kilimanjaro and visiting Mount Kenya, Lake Victoria, the Serengeti, and the Great Rift Valley.

The expedition will leave Chicago July 12 and return on August 15. This will be the second East Mountaineeres expedition to Africa, the first taking place in 1971. The leaders of the trip are Tim Ebert, Wildcat radio engineer, Iowa East Mountaineeres president, and Willard Brown, senior robotics student. The expedition is flexible and will be determined by popular interest, Brown explained.

Mount Kilimanjaro will be climbed by two groups. The first group will leave from Niarobi Aug. 2, this will be the third ascent of Kilimanjaro. The first two ascents were in 1967 and 1971. The second group will leave Chicago July 12. The only limits will be the varying belts of vegetation and animal life encountered on the climb. The expedition is not designed just for climbers. Members of the tour bent on sightseeing will have the opportunity to see some of the breathtaking vistas of the volcanoes, the majestic peaks of Kilimanjaro and Mount Kenya, and the unique wildlife of East Africa.

But Ebert expects the trip to depend on the priorities of the group members. Ebert says the cost of the trip will depend on the members of the group, what they plan to do and what kind of accommodations they seek. The expedition has two buses, the number of people on each tour will determine the cost. The cost of renting the buses and guides is a set figure, plus the number of clients in each bus will determine how the cost is divided.

The flight out from Chicago has already been set, and Ebert expects it to be closer to $100.

Hancher opens third season

ED RIPPS Special to The Daily Iowan

Since Hancher Auditorium opened in September of 1972, an array of culture has come to Iowa City, housed within an acoustic shell intended to allow for great performances.

The first season offered an array of events that included the London Symphony Orchestra, the Philharmonia in London, and the Gewandhaus Orchestra in Leipzig. In addition, the headliner for the first season was opera singer Luciano Pavarotti, who performed in a series of four concerts.

In March of 1973, the regular Hancher schedule was inaugurated by the Bancroft Group's University Programming Commission, which was founded in 1970 with the goal of bringing more cultural events to the Iowa City area. The program included a wide variety of events, ranging from opera and opera recitals to symphony concerts and dance performances.

The first season included such events as the London Symphony Orchestra, the Gewandhaus Orchestra in Leipzig, and the Theatre groups optimistic about future

The theatre program at the University of Iowa is in the midst of some changes. Because newness, constant in a university's life cycle, seems to characterize an era, so too does change. Whether the change is beneficial or detrimental to theatre is yet to be seen. The theatre program here in Iowa is facing some notable growth and optimism for the upcoming year.

The M.F.A. (Master of Fine Arts) degree in acting, which was dropped two years ago, will be reinstated next year. Approximately 120 students are currently enrolled in the theatre program. Although three members of the initial group have dropped out, the faculty consists of 11 instructors, although three members are leaving after spring semester this year. Applicants for the various degree programs of the theatre, with the possible exception of the B.F.A. (Bachelor of Fine Arts) degree offered for undergraduates in theatre groups, are optimistic about their opportunities to improve lines of communication as well as work cooperatively with faculty in production.

Although this idea has met with opposition from both students and faculty, it may lessen the adversarial role and these opportunities continued throughout the semester. As an acting company consisting of six actors with backgrounds in dramatic arts and representing various degree programs of the theatre, the productions slated for next year are revivals of plays such as "Macbeth," "Fiddler on the Roof," and "The Importance of Being Earnest." Also to be produced are: Moliere's "Tartuffe," Chaucer's "The Canterbury Tales," "Old Times," "Nights of the University of Iowa Memorial Union," "Saints," "Saints ." Also to be produced are: Moliere's "Tartuffe," Chaucer's "The Canterbury Tales," "Old Times," "Nights of the University of Iowa Memorial Union," "Saints," "Saints ."

As an introduction to the theatre, the following information is given:

- Theatre program encourages students to include some areas of theatre during their undergraduate career. Classes in design and technical specific areas which assume an advanced level of skill. For the novice it is probably advisable to seek some counsel before enrolling in courses outside a pre-determined interest area.

Tracker organ lets students feel the music

By BOB CRAIG
Staff Writer

The Tracker Recital Organ (the Casavant) is the outgrowth of UI music professor Robert Krapf's efforts to organize an effective organ department. The department was started in 1961 when UI bought its first tracker organ and began offering classes in organ.

The tracker organ is a device that employs the tracker movement, including the simple tracker, in which the rank of pipes is opened and closed by the movement of a set of stops. The stops, which are operated by the musician's hands, control the sound by opening and closing the pipes. The tracker organ is designed to be more reliable and durable than the electro-pneumatic organ, which is controlled by electrical circuits.

The Casavant organ, a tracker-style organ, is unique in its ability to produce a variety of sounds through the use of stops. Each stop controls a set of pipes, allowing the musician to select the desired sound. The Casavant organ also features a set of pipes that can be played with the feet, providing an additional layer of control for the musician.

UI now has eight organs: three tracker organs, three concert organs, two UI organs, and one UI student organ. The tracker organs are used for recitals, while the concert organs are used for larger performances.

The tracker organ is a valuable addition to any university's music department. Its ability to produce a variety of sounds and its durability make it an attractive option for universities looking to invest in quality organ equipment.

The use of all university organs is available to anyone interested in music. Krapf emphasizes that the organs are designed to be used by anyone who has an interest in music, regardless of their skill level.

The tracker organ is recognized for its reliability and durability, which make it an excellent choice for universities looking to invest in quality organ equipment. The Casavant organ, in particular, is lauded for its ability to produce a variety of sounds and its durability, making it a valuable addition to any university's music department.
Old tomes and modern letters in collection

By JIM FLEMING
Editor

Most university students are only too willing to associate books with monotony, or at least one or two surprises that their English reading teacher might have missed.

So it's not surprising that when the University of Iowa's Special Collections Department and the Rare Book Library joined forces last year to conduct a rare book survey, the academic community took notice. From my own experience, I can assure you that students were only too delighted to find that their course reading was not the only reason to take a book out of your pocket. This year's survey results are in, and the 1896 bequest is one of the University Library's finest. The bequest, a gift of Dr. Mark Ranney, was a rebinding of William M. Soane's 1896 edition of "The History of England," a work of over 4,500 pages that was produced in the 19th century. The bequest was donated to the Library in 1951, and it remains an important part of the collection.

The bequest includes a variety of rare and valuable items, including early works on Shakespeare, early printings of the works of John Milton, and several early editions of works by notable modern authors such as H.G. Wells and H.P. Lovecraft. The bequest also contains a number of early editions of works by notable American authors such as Mark Twain and Edgar Allan Poe.

The bequest is an important part of the Library's collection, and it is a testament to the generosity of Dr. Mark Ranney and the importance of preserving these works. The bequest is a valuable resource for researchers and students, and it is a reminder of the importance of preserving rare and valuable works for future generations.

For those with reservations about reading too much text, the Bequest Cherish collection provides the opportunity to examine the bequest's contents. The collection includes a number of early editions of works by notable modern authors such as H.G. Wells and H.P. Lovecraft. The collection is an important part of the Library's collection, and it is a reminder of the importance of preserving rare and valuable works for future generations.

For more information about the Library's collection, or to request a copy of the latest collection, please contact the Library's Special Collections Department.
Oster touches many folk music bases

By DAVID BUIHLAND
Contributing Editor

If Harry Oster had had his way, the things he has done in the world of folk music in the last two decades would not be a very rich man. At the end of this month, he will be honored at the National Geographic Society with the Louisian
Pastoral Award, among other things for his collection of traditional American music.

Oster, now 72, was born in Pennsylvania and spent his early childhood in the neighborhood of Pittsburgh. He received a bachelor's degree in English and folklore at Swain
College in Pennsylvania in 1950.

After graduation, he went to Washington, D.C., where he worked for the National Geographic Society. Oster became a well-known figure in the folk music world after he started producing albums of traditional music in the 1960s.

Oster's career began with the publication of his book
"The Folklore of Louisiana," which was produced in 1956.

Bakshi to bring new film, 'Coonskin,' to UI in Sept.

By JOHN ROYCE

Coonskin is the writer-director and animator behind STV's Fritz the Cat and last year's Heavy Traffic. His new feature, also due in September, is a low-budget, black film. He is billed as a "down-to-earth, direct approach," and the film is based on a book by the same name. Bakshi is a fanatic of black music and marches to his own beat. He is also the son of a famous

African American singer.

Coonskin is a film that explores the lives of various black characters in the world of Harlem. The film deals with problems such as racism and discrimination, and the characters are depicted as realistic and true to life.

Bakshi is known for his use of animation in his films, and he is particularly fond of black music and lyrics. He has been active in the animation industry for many years and has produced several successful films. He is passionate about telling black stories through animation and hopes to create a new generation of black filmmakers.
