Energy: seeking a balance barrier

By GLYN SARKOSKI

With the administration's admission that decisions about energy are not simply a matter of the environment or the economy, the Washington Bulletin noted, the Senate debate Thursday on costs and benefits of energy programs has begun.

The quality of life, the value of the compact, the conflict between the ready availability of resources and the restrictions on how they are used, the social and international implications of all these matters, and the fact that decisions about energy are made, said the Senate debate, are reflected in the Senate debate.

The Senate debate is to be held Thursday on the costs and benefits of energy programs. Senators have been summoned to the Senate to consider these matters.

"The people those futures will be affected," said the Senators, who are not in the Senate. "We are asking that the United States be given a chance to influence the futures those futures will be affected.

Senators said that the trend in the last year and a half is to increase the BTU consumption greatly by 7 per cent. "We must not let people think that on the energy use," said the Senators, "we must not let people think that we must go beyond the current governmental energy policies.

Rites of spring

A breeze (in staler interest, periods, and generally violates our old Capitol Thursday). The first tiny, gray day of spring briefly arrived, one that was grayly-noticeable, and good rest of people abandoned shoes and socks and gave the grass a rest.

Attrition rate follows pattern

No complete records kept on college drop out rates

By REY DENNIS

The article was organized to study the US student attrition rate e.g. drop out rates in recent years. It is apparent that the US has kept good records in this area.

Accordingly, when no student is registered and no student is eligible to register, the college drop out rate is published. This is the regular activity of the registrar's office.

This is a report on general attrition figures, however, numerous amendments. Remarks have been included that the report be released on or before second semester 1973. It might not be released on or before second semester 1973. Not as, according to Elizabeth Reynolds, student director of the University of Wisconsin, "We explained that she drop out and at least by 63 per cent of those whom she identified the attrition rates for all colleges by how she would be in the regular office.

"We have never been there," she said. "We have never been there.

As a report, no record of dropouts, the University of Iowa College of Liberal Arts, has kept a running account of students who have left or failed to complete the prescribed.

The College of Liberal Arts is a large part of the University of Iowa.

An Unemployed

This was a rate of four percentage points higher than that in all states in the nation except for California, New York and New Jersey. The average is only 1 per cent in February, the college drop out rate was high.

Khemritt, the new leader of the Khmer Rouge, had been released from his captivity on the Vietnam border and was expected to have an important role in future negotiations for a peaceful solution to the Cambodian conflict.

According to the United Nations, Khmer Rouge forces had captured the city of Phnom Penh and were expected to occupy the capital within days. The fall of Phnom Penh would be a significant blow to the Vietnamese government, which had been fighting a long and costly war in Cambodia.

UI expert foresees more Asian changes

As the US military continued to withdraw from Vietnam, experts predicted that the region would see increased political and economic turbulence.

Phnom Penh, the capital of Cambodia, had been under constant threat from the Khmer Rouge, who sought to topple the pro-American government. The fall of Phnom Penh would likely trigger further instability in the region.

The US military had been fighting a war in Vietnam since 1961, but its involvement had been greatly reduced in recent years. The withdrawal of US forces was expected to have a significant impact on the region.

On April 19, 1975, the Khmer Rouge captured Phnom Penh, which was the capital of Cambodia. The fall of Phnom Penh was a significant event in the history of Vietnam and Cambodia.

Women told to fend for their own rights

By CONNIE JENSEN

Women are their own worst adversaries when searching for jobs, according to a recent report. The Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor recommended that women be prepared to fend for themselves if they lack job skills.

The report states: "Women must be prepared to fend for themselves if they lack job skills. Women are their own worst adversaries when searching for jobs."

The report also states: "Women must be prepared to fend for themselves if they lack job skills. Women are their own worst adversaries when searching for jobs."

62% of all UI Students

Call Themselves Religious

A majority of UI students polled, 62 percent, consider themselves to be members of an organized religion. The survey showed that 93 percent polled did claim to believe in God, while only 9 percent stated that they did not believe in a higher power. Of those who did practice a faith, 39 percent indicated that they still maintained some ties with hometown religious groups.

The survey also showed that 31 percent of those interviewed were members of organized religious groups or church. However, 4 percent of those polled did not belong to a religious group but did practice some form of personal meditation.

The survey showed that only 3 percent of the religiously oriented maintained an affiliation with a local Iowa City church, as compared to 39 percent of those who still maintained some ties with hometown religious groups.

The students interviewed also were questioned on whether they considered themselves traditional members of their religious group. The percentages in the second and third tables, and in parentheses, are based on those who consider themselves traditional denominationalists (3,864).

The breakdown of the students who practiced religion was as follows: 10 percent, Christian; 9 percent, Jewish; 7 percent, Muslim; 6 percent, Hindu; 5 percent, Buddhist; 4 percent, Sikh; 3 percent, Jewish (Orthodox); 3 percent, Sikh (Guru); 2 percent, Hare Krishna; 2 percent, Shinto; 1 percent, Baha'i; 1 percent, Jewish (Reform); and 1 percent, Unitarian (Universalist). It should also be noted that 1 percent of the students polled did claim that they practiced no religion.

There is an interesting breakdown by academic major. Students majoring in religious studies or in the humanities were the least likely to be religious, compared with those majoring in the sciences or with a business emphasis. The students majoring in the humanities and in the sciences were the most likely to be religious.

The results of the study were published in a newspaper article and a magazine article.

The limitation of Detente

In 1974, a major advancement was made in the United States-China relations by the signing of the joint Sino-American announcement. In this context:

The United States side declared: The United States acknowledges all Chinese on either side of the Taiwan Strait. It will no longer interfere with either side. The United States will respect the Chinese nation's sense of existence. The United States recognizes that the Chinese nation has the right to determine its own future.

Recent events indicate that the United States government has yet to implement this announcement. The Pressuring and Trapping teams from the people's Republic of China is able to cancel all its official invitations to the United States for March, April, and May.

Iowa-born vice-president
Wallace papers indexed

BY VALERIE WILLIAM

It’s over. Seven papers and four writing projects, including the 13-page U. S. Senate majority floor speech Thursday on the day President Richard Nixon announced his resignation. The time the United States Senate spent considering the Watergate investigation has ended.

Wallace was an Iowa-born politician and farmer, and served as secretary of agriculture and vice president of the United States from 1969 to 1977. He was also a member of the Democratic Party.

According to the New York Times, the Senate began its consideration of the Watergate investigation with a series of hearings that lasted for weeks. The hearings were held to determine whether there was sufficient evidence to impeach President Nixon.

Wallace papers were indexed by the Library of Congress and the New York Public Library. The Library of Congress has a collection of Wallace correspondence, speeches, and publications.

People take note of world hunger, natural foods served at luncheon

People at the University of Illinois in Urbana noted the world hunger crisis by organizing a luncheon featuring natural foods.

The luncheon was organized by the associate dietitians of the University of Illinois College of Human Environmental Sciences. The luncheon was held in the Union Building and featured natural foods from around the world, including vegetarian and garden-grown foods.

At the luncheon, speakers discussed the importance of natural foods and their role in addressing world hunger.

Hilton Inn owners sue: claim lax architecture

BY DELUS DAVIN

The owners of the Hilton Inn in Iowa City have filed a lawsuit against the city, claiming that the city board of supervisors had failed to enforce the building codes.

The plaintiffs, who own the Hilton Inn, alleged that the city board of supervisors had not enforced the building codes and that the inn was built in violation of the codes.

The lawsuit seeks damages for the owners of the inn and for the loss of business due to the alleged violation of the building codes.

The lawsuit also seeks an order requiring the city to enforce the building codes and to require the inn to be brought into compliance with the codes.

LA6A protests postponement

BY VALERIE WILLIAM

A letter protesting the Iowa-Louisiana Development Authority's postponement of its planned conference on the Mississippi Delta was sent to the organization. The letter was signed by members of the Delta Human Rights Movement.

The conference was scheduled to take place in Iowa City on February 13-14, 1976, and was planned to bring together civil rights activists from the Delta region.

The letter called on the IAD to hold the conference as scheduled and not to postpone it.

The Iowa-Louisiana Development Authority is a governmental agency that was established in 1972 to provide economic development assistance to the Delta region.
Collegium offers medieval music

By a Staff Writer

Many concerts will be key features during the activities

lated with the annual "Parent's Weekend," one of which is a performance by the Collegium, a group of singers and instrumentalists in Clapp Recital Hall.

Collegium is a group of singers and instrumentalists who specialize in the performances of medieval and renaissance music. It consists of a core of 20 members, two horns and three voices, of whom plays a number of inststruments. The group is dedicated to the performance of music of the ages, especially vocal music, especially sacred vocal music.

The group and its director, Robert W. Todd, believe that all music, and in particular church music, is an essential part of the tradition of the church. The group is also in demand for performances and other demonstrations at college, high schools and other schools. These more informal presentations can be given to either the entire ensemble or by some of its smaller units.

Over the years the Collegium has gathered a large, representative ensemble of medieval instruments, including consorts (sets) of viols, historical instruments, recorders, lutes, krummhorns, and instruments of the era, playing that music on instruments no longer in use, with the voices of the lute or lute-like instruments. This collection which includes the English representative assemblage of ormless music.

The group is also in demand for performances and other demonstrations at college, high schools and other schools. These more informal presentations can be given to either the entire ensemble or by some of its smaller units.

The following question was asked by a 16 year old: When you buy a diamond from Ginsberg's, you will purchase of a more expensive ring... no matter how much you spend... Ginsberg's will replace the original diamond with a larger diamond of equal value.

DEAR DORA,

I am 16 and want to get some kind of birth control without involving my parents. Is there any reason why I should or should not go to the student health service? I have already gotten started about it, but I feel duty bound to use my family doctor because I'm afraid that he will tell my parents. Where else can I go?

The trick is to select a birth control method that is right for you but is not too foolproof, and to inform your family doctor, especially if you have a known or suspected parental instruction. Your family doctor, especially, would be willing to help you make the confidential selection of birth-control method if you tell him that your parents are not too keen on methods that may prevent pregnancy.

However, some doctors may consider it unethical to sell pills when their clients seek abortion. Therefore, if you want to seek a legal abortion, you should consult a lawyer who can help you in this process.

The best way to keep the rental housing is to know someone who will be leaving in August and arrange to take over their room. This can be done through the Renting Information Center, where you can find information about available rooms.

The Bulletin contains the most recent information from the National Association of Student Administrators. Currently, the Bulletin contains a variety of rental properties in Iowa, including apartments, houses, and rooms. Most of these are for a summer or academic year. However, we suggest that you regularly check this list as part of your search for rental housing.

For more information, please visit the Renting Information Center located in the Student Activities Center. The Center is open daily during the academic year, and all the offices are located on the ground floor of the Memorial Union. The Center is open to the public and provides information about rental housing.

Ambitious 'Moby Dick': craft and cliche

My problem with the Iowa Theater Lab's Moby Dick is that the more I see it, the more I find it fascinating. The actors are excellent and the direction is sound. The set is minimalistic and the acting is restrained. The whole production takes place in a small, black box theater. The audience is close to the performers, which makes the performance more intimate and personal.

The Iowa Theater Lab is located at the University of Iowa, in the heart of Iowa City. They are a resident company and are a part of the Iowa Theater Project. Their dedication to the craft of theater is evident in their productions. They are always on the lookout for new talent and are open to new ideas. The Iowa Theater Lab is a place where innovation and experimentation are encouraged.

The Moby Dick adaptation is a unique take on the classic novel. The actors play multiple characters and the story is told through a series of monologues and duologues. The actors are required to play dozens of different characters, which is a testament to their skill and versatility.

The adaptation of Moby Dick is a departure from the traditional production. It is more stripped down and focuses on the emotions and themes of the novel. The actors are required to be highly emotional, which is a challenge for many actors. However, the actors rise to the occasion and deliver powerful performances.

The Moby Dick adaptation is a success in terms of craft and cliche. The actors are able to create a sense of emotion and tension that is palpable. The production is well-researched and the actors have a deep understanding of the characters they play. The adaptation is a success in terms of craft and cliche.

Sports Editor

All four women’s varsity sports teams will be in action this weekend, as the golfers will compete in the Missouri Valley Conference at Illinois State Satuday, and the tennis squads will host their home tournament at the Fin-kine golf course Friday-Sunday. The Missouri Valley Tournament will feature the four-state area, both Illini teams playing each other.

For take-out orders, call SHADY GROVE GOLF COURSE 530-4500.

The Hawks, who have been playing at High Point golf course nearly everyday this spring, will be in action on Saturday. The tournament will be held at Illinois State Satuday, and the tennis squad will play in the ninth Amana meet. Johnny Miller and Bobby Nichols are the early leaders. He won the first tournament of the year, and Nichols, a long-time member of the Amana V.I.P. Golf Course, has won two other events. Miller won a tournament in March, and Nichols won a tournament in April.

Johnny Miller is the second player to win both the Missouri Valley Conference and the Amana meet. Both players are from the Amana V.I.P. Golf Course.

The Hawks will be looking for an win from the Drake bulldogs, who have 1992 Notre Dame graduate Stephanie Davis, a starting pitcher against teams from Illinois.

This year, the Hawks have been playing against teams from the Midwest, including Illinois State and Northern Illinois. The Hawks have also been playing against teams from Illinois and northeastern Missouri teams in games here Saturdays.

The Hawks are 1-0 in the Missouri Valley Conference, and they have won two of their three matches against teams from that conference.
