Rape connected to fight in downtown I.C.

By Michael Leon

Friday, June 12, 1981

The officials believes none of the individuals involved in the alleged rapes in the downtown pedestrian area are directly linked to the alleged rapist, a 26-year-old male who was taking a walk downtown on June 1st.

Jerry L. Williams, manager of the Cedar Rapids police department, said that the case is still under investigation.

"We are simply too short-staffed at the moment to handle any additional cases," Williams said.

"We were able to interview the victims," Williams said.

Committee recommends 3 for city attorney vacancy

By M. L. Myers

Three Iowa City attorneys have been recommended to the Iowa City Attorneys Committee for the position of City Attorney, Robert L. Hayek, chairman of the committee, said Thursday.

"We made three recommendations because there was no tie", said Robert Cooper, a member of the committee.

The city council will discuss the recommendations at 7:30 p.m. on Capitol Hill. The city council selects the person to fill the city attorney position by a majority vote.

Hayek said the council will be notified of the decisions to be made by the court. The city attorney legal help test and the actual selection to be made.

Student aid slashed

Today may be remembered by hundreds of thousands of students around the country as the Pearl Harbor Day of education in the United States. Representative Peter Peyser told the House Education and Labor Committee as the panel cut federal funds for education.

The cuts were deep, and if pursued by the full House and Senate will affect all major programs for college students. Perhaps a million students of the three million now receiving aid would be ineligible for federally guaranteed loans. Only those three families less than 85,000 would be eligible. The House proposal would reduce the loan volume from $17 million to $3 million.

"Today may be remembered by hundreds of thousands of students around the country as the Pearl Harbor Day of education in the United States.

The House also cut $4 million from the Pell Grants, formerly called Basic Educational Opportunity Grants. The work-study program faced a cut of $37 million, a program which provided about $317 million a year to states in matching funds for state grants to students was eliminated by the House panel.

The Reagan administration, the House and the Senate have worked hard to cut programs set aside for the military. Aside from the insensitivity of cutting social programs is to pay for increased military spending and tax cuts which mostly benefit the rich, the stupidity of the act is astounding.

It is difficult to understand how national security will be in the country's best interest if we continue to cut the educational programs which improve the minds of the young, those that are the hope for the future of the country.

Well-educated people are needed for the scientific research which improves health, increases crop yields, develops more efficient cars. An educated population is needed to teach children how to read, write, and think, so that they become thoughtful, humane and competent members of society.

Education is not a luxury. It is a necessity for survival. A society which does not educate its young is best on self-destruction. It does not teach its children to live, to challenge, to investigate and understand, it will within a few generations be a dying society.

The loss of education may be impossible to avoid if school financial aid is cut. But if the schools are to be saved, all citizens will have to get into the act. All students, but the very rich will be affected — not just this year, but several years. They will have to go to Congress and demand that funds be returned.

Emphasized because the Saudis used American-made F-16 and F-15, which were to be deployed only for defense, the Reagan administration has suspended the delivery of these from F-15s.

At last, an answer to the abortion problem

The continuing struggle between abortionists and anti-abortionists has reached a new phase. The Supreme Court in the case involving the planned Parenthood Organization in Boulder, Colorado, has decided to hear the case.

In the case of Planned Parenthood vs. Mishak, the Court has agreed to hear the case, which involves the right of the organization to perform abortions.

The Planned Parenthood organization has been in existence for many years. It is the largest provider of abortion services in the United States. Its goal is to provide safe and affordable abortion services for women who choose to have them.

The organization has been involved in many legal battles over the years, but it has always stood firm in its belief that women have the right to make decisions about their bodies.

The Supreme Court's decision is a major victory for Planned Parenthood. It is a victory for women's rights and for the right to privacy. The Court's decision will set a new precedent for abortion rights in the United States.

DESMOND L. POWELL (UPI) - The man who shot President Ronald Reagan in March 1981 has been diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease, according to published reports.

The shooting was the subject of intense media scrutiny, and the suspect was identified as John W. Hinckley Jr., who was acquitted of conspiracy to assassinate the president in December 1981.

Hinckley was found not guilty by reason of insanity and committed to a mental institution, where he is currently being treated for his condition.

Hinckley's diagnosis of Alzheimer's disease comes as a surprise to many, as the disease is usually associated with the elderly population. However, it has been documented that younger adults can also be affected by the disease.

Hinckley's condition is expected to be closely monitored, and his treatment will likely continue for the rest of his life.

James C. Henson, who presided over the trial, said that Hinckley's diagnosis was a matter of public interest and that the case would be handled accordingly.

In a statement, Henson said: "We are prepared to handle this situation in a responsible manner, and we will continue to monitor the case to ensure that he receives the appropriate care and treatment.

The shooting was a tragic event, and it is important that we continue to support those affected by the incident.

High court to review legality of hostage deal

The Supreme Court agreed Monday to hear arguments in a case that challenges the constitutionality of a 1995 hostage agreement.

The agreement, known as the "Kansas City Incident," allowed the release of two hostages held by the Islamic militant group Hamas in exchange for the release of a captured Syrian pilot.

The court's decision is expected to have significant implications for the future of hostage agreements and the role of the judiciary in reviewing such deals.

The case, known as "Kansas v. United States," was filed in 1996 by a group of American citizens who were held hostage in the Middle East.

They alleged that the U.S. government had violated international law by negotiating the release of the hostages without their consent.

The case has been pending for over two decades, and the high court's decision is expected to be highly anticipated by both legal and political analysts.

The court's decision is expected to be announced in late 2023, and it is likely to be closely scrutinized by both domestic and international audiences.

Atlanta probe is intense

U.S. Marshals Service officials said Monday that they have arrested a suspect in the killing of four law enforcement officers in Atlanta on Sunday.

The suspect, identified as 31-year-old William T. Johnson, was taken into custody late Sunday in the Atlanta area, according to officials.

Johnson, a former University of Georgia football player, was charged with four counts of murder and two counts of aggravated assault.

Johnson was taken into custody without incident after a hours-long standoff with law enforcement officials.

The shooting rampage left four law enforcement officers dead and several others injured, officials said.

The shooting occurred at a convenience store in the city's western section, according to officials.

The suspect, who was known to have a history of violent behavior, was reportedly armed with a rifle and a handgun.

The shooting is being investigated as a possible hate crime.

The case is expected to be prosecuted by federal prosecutors, who have offered rewards of up to $1 million for information leading to an arrest.

Rockies’ an insightful look at reggae culture

By Craig Martin

The Rocky Mountain News

The word ‘reggae’ has long been a synonym for music that is both rhythmic and rhythmic. As a style of music, it has been widely adopted by many cultures around the world, from Jamaica to the United States and beyond. The term ‘reggae’ originated in the late 1960s in Jamaica, and since then it has become an important part of the global music scene. This week, we explore the history and evolution of reggae culture through the eyes of a music enthusiast.

Films

The Rocky Mountain News

To begin our discussion of the history of reggae, we need to understand its roots. Reggae is a fusion of various musical styles, including Ska, Rocksteady, and Mento. It was developed in Jamaica during the 1960s and 1970s, and it quickly became a prominent part of the global music scene.

One film that explores the history of reggae is Once Were Brothers: Robbie Robertson and The Band. This film tells the story of Robbie Robertson and The Band, one of the most influential musical groups in the history of reggae. The film highlights the group’s impact on the reggae scene, as well as the unique musical style that defined their sound.

Another film that delves into the history of reggae is Waiting to Exhale. This film is set in the 1970s and 1980s, and it follows a group of women as they navigate the challenges of relationships and social status. The film explores the complex social and political issues that defined the reggae scene in Jamaica.

Mural, My Sweet

Dick Powell (Chapman’s favorite) as Harvey, standing behind the camera. The film opens with a shot of a young boy looking through a window. The boy is fascinated by the world outside, and he dreams of becoming a photographer. As the film progresses, we see the boy grow up and become a successful photographer, but he struggles to maintain his family’s legacy.

The film explores the theme of legacy, as the boy must decide whether to continue his family’s legacy or pursue his own dreams. It is a poignant tale of family, legacy, and the struggles that come with both.

The Electric Horseman

A romantic comedy about a man who moves to a new city to start a new life. The film is set in the 1970s, and it follows a man as he navigates the challenges of starting a new life in a new city. As he explores his new surroundings, he meets a woman who becomes his love interest.

The film explores the theme of romance, as the man must decide whether to stay in his new city or return to his old one. It is a heartwarming tale of love and the challenges that come with it.

The Cuban Epic of Love & Revolution

A hilarious and obscene send-up of the Hollywood western. With Gene Wilder, Madeline Kahn, and Cleavon Little. The film opens with a shot of a group of men standing in front of a camera. The camera pans over the men, and we see them preparing to shoot a scene.

The film is a send-up of the Hollywood western, and it features a cast of characters that are absurd and over-the-top. The film is humorous and entertaining, and it is a great choice for anyone who enjoys a good laugh.

The Cuban Saddle

A film about the struggles of a young Cuban woman who dreams of becoming a writer. The film is set in the 1950s, and it follows a woman as she navigates the challenges of starting a new career in a new country. As she explores her new surroundings, she meets a man who becomes her love interest.

The film explores the theme of love, as the woman must decide whether to stay in her new country or return to her old one. It is a heartwarming tale of love and the challenges that come with it.

Raiders of the Lost Ark is a 1981 American action adventure film directed by Steven Spielberg and produced by George Lucas. The film stars Harrison Ford, Henry Thomas, Karen Allen, and Paul Freeman. It is the first installment in the Indiana Jones series, and is set during World War II.

The film tells the story of archaeologist Indiana Jones (Harrison Ford), who is hired by the U.S. government to find the Ark of the Covenant, a legendary artifact believed to hold the power of God and to grant its bearer worldwide dominion. Jones begins his search in Cairo and travels to various locations, including a Nazi-occupied Cairo, a Peruvian village, and a Nazi research facility in the desert.

The film includes several iconic scenes, such as Jones fighting a German soldier atop a Volkswagen Beetle, the Indian Jones dancing with a信任希斯莱, the Provençal peasant, and the iconic Last Crusader battle.

Raiders of the Lost Ark was a commercial success and is considered one of the greatest adventure films of all time. It was nominated for several Academy Awards, including Best Picture, Best Direction, and Best Screenplay. It has been widely praised for its action scenes, performances, and cinematography.

In the film, the Ark is revealed to be a large, gold-covered urn that contains the sacred stones of the ancient Israelites. The film concludes with Jones and his companions successfully retrieving the Ark from the Nazis and returning it to the safety of the 1940s.

The film was a major box office hit and is now considered one of the most beloved and influential movies of all time.

‘Neon Leon’ to challenge Holmes for WBC crown

By Joe Connolly

DETROIT — Unbeaten Larry Holmes is defending his World Boxing Council heavyweight title against Ken Norton Jr. tonight at the Silverdome in Pontiac.

"I’m coming here to demonstrate that I’ve discovered a formula for success," Holmes said earlier this week. "I’m going to try to repeat what I did last year."

In the past, Holmes has been known to snatch victories from the jaws of defeat. But he’s not expected to pull off another one tonight.

"He’s a great fighter," said Norton. "I’ve heard that he’s the dominant fighter in the world."

Holmes’ confidence stems from his past experiences. He has a record of 61-5, with 16 knockouts, and a reputation for never losing a fight. Norton, on the other hand, has a record of 51-10-1, with 42 knockouts.

"I think he’s going to be a tough opponent," Norton said. "I’ve got a lot of respect for him."

Holmes’ training regimen has been strict. He works out six days a week, taking Saturdays off. He has a team of trainers, including his brother, Jack Holmes.

"I’m ready for whatever he’s got," said Holmes. "I’ve been working hard for this fight."

The match will be televised on NBC.

When we arrived at Wrigley Field it was already pouring. It was one of the wettest games I’ve ever been to. The stands were packed with fans, many of whom were wearing ponchos. It was a far cry from the 1980s when Wrigley was a place of light and joy.

All the way on the elevated train from home we were thinking about the game. It was a big game for us, but we didn’t have any fun. The rain kept coming down and it was hard to see the players.
