Reagan: Arms pact imperative

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan met Tuesday with leaders of the U.S. arms control delegation to talk about the superpower nuclear arms race, but he had little bargaining power as an armorer in the doomsday game.

"We need a balanced approach," the president said at the start of his meeting with the delegation. "We've had to wait too long for a balanced approach to emerge."

The major issue on the table was a superpower arms control agreement. The United States has a projected $150 billion budget deficit this year, and the superpower arms race has placed a strain on the Treasury's coffers. The U.S. is looking at ways to reduce its military budget and possibly spend more on domestic programs.

The president added that the United States is not willing to negotiate on arms control without China's participation, as China is a major player in the arms race.

Shuttle not practical yet

Van Allen

In the early days of space exploration, the idea of human spaceflight seemed almost impossible. But now, with the space shuttle program, we are closer than ever to making space flight a reality.

The space shuttle was designed to be a reusable spacecraft that could be launched and returned to Earth multiple times. It was a significant step forward in space exploration, as it allowed for longer stays in space and more complex missions.

However, the space shuttle program has faced many challenges, such as the Challenger disaster in 1986 and the subsequent delays to the shuttle fleet. Despite these setbacks, the United States continues to work towards its goal of human spaceflight.

Cost-sharing only dents erosion problem

UI Professor James J. Van Allen, shuttle project, said: "The shuttle program is the key to future space exploration. It allows for increased research and development in space technology, and it is a stepping stone to more complex missions in the future."

City commission is charged with open meetings violation

By Scott Brown

At Iowa City police say the city's Civil Service Commission illegally amended a regulation concerning the hiring of employees.

A Johnson County Attorney confirmed Thursday that's a matter of fact.

"We are conserving a preliminary inquiry to see if the city's civil service regulation is improper," said Patrick Wise, civil service attorney.

But Iowa City's Civil Service Commission has issued a letter to the Iowa City Civil Service Commission announcing that it has formally voted on the rule change. The said formal vote occurred Tuesday, May 9.

The controversy surrounded letters Garrett sent to the three commissioners asking their consideration of a rule that would prevent an Iowa City Civil Service Commission from reconvening to amend the rule that was adopted.

We are deeply concerned that it is found that the Iowa City Civil Service Commission would violate its own standing rules that the rule that was adopted would not be passed. We are asking that they not make the amendment.

No suspects in bike theft investigations

Lt. John Meehan of the Iowa City Police Department has said there has been a recent uptick in bike thefts in the city.

"We are investigating several recent cases of illegal activity," Meehan said. "Some bikes have been reported stolen, and we are working to identify the suspects."

Ms. Jones, a resident of Iowa City, reported her bicycle was stolen from her home on May 3.

"I was devastated when I found out my bike was stolen," Ms. Jones said. "I had just bought it for my birthday gift."

The Iowa City Police Department is asking anyone with information about these cases to contact them.

Security has also been increased at the Iowa City Police Station, where there are additional surveillance cameras and increased patrols.

"We are doing everything we can to prevent these crimes," Meehan said. "We urge the community to remain vigilant and report any suspicious activity to the police."

Ohio State heavy favorite for conference golf crown

By Thomas W. Lange
staff writer

The Buckeyes' golf team will try to achieve its goal as they travel to West Lafayette, Ind., for the Big Ten Tournament this weekend at Purdue University.

The Ohio State team will begin at No. 1 in the Big Ten, and a victory this weekend could put them at the top for the entire season. This is the first of three Big Ten meets this season, and a victory could solidify their place at the top of the conference and the nation.

The Buckeyes are led by Bob Perry, who has won three individual titles this year. The Buckeyes are No. 1 in the Ohio State University newspaper, and they have a tough road ahead of them. They will face the challenge of the Big Ten conference.

The Buckeyes are the favorites to win the conference meet. They have a strong team with a lot of potential. The Buckeyes are well-prepared and have trained hard for this season. They have a good chance to win the conference meet.

Wheeler signs new runner

Wheeler announced Thursday that he had signed runner Chris Wheeler. Wheeler is a top distance runner in Illinois and is a three-time state champion in the 800 meters. Wheeler is expected to compete in the 800 meters and 1500 meters at the state meet.

Wheeler is a strong runner and is expected to do well at the state meet. He has trained hard and has shown improvement in his performances. Wheeler is a good addition to the team.

The tennis report was submitted by Rick Nix. The report is based on information from the Chicago Sun-Times.

The best baseball team's worst chance of qualifying for the Big Ten playoffs comes once again. The most predictable moment at the American position is impossibility.

The Hawkeyes, deep in the conference standings, dropped three of four games to the superior Minnesota Badgers, surprising everyone last weekend, taking three of four games from Minnesota in Minneapolis.

We were just average against Minnesota and then slid even more against Wisconsin last weekend. We played as well against Minnesota as we took four out of four games, but against Wisconsin we played as poorly as we ever have.

Hassard picks Badgers, again

By Thomas N. Jorgens

Wisconsin has dominated the Big Ten women's indoor track meet for the last six years, and Iowa third baseman Dick Turelli agreed today with the results. "Wisconsin is the Big Ten's favorite team in every sport and this is just another example of how good they are." Turelli described the Badgers as "the best team in the Big Ten and probably the best team in the country."
