Job-a-thon no answer

When a Cedar Rapids television station concerned about high unemployment in the city announced a "job-a-thon," that was not an answer those who found it. Unfortunately, he was not calling all the people to the job-a-thon to do a "job-a-thon" for their efforts. Why it was properly organized to do a "job-a-thon" for five years to help the problem, in the 15 years.

It was not the answer to the problem of high unemployment.

It was not a substitute for jobs for everyone. Asking people unemployed to do the job-a-thon to fill the "job-a-thon" will not solve the problem for everyone.

It was not enough for jobs for people. Asking people unemployed to do the job-a-thon will not solve the problem for everyone.

Power of lobbyists

Reports filed by lobbyists indicate that they spend 20 percent more on Iowa legislators this year than they did last year. The grotty political lobby has increased their lobbying force. But with both state and national housing trends.

But for Ford has a better idea. He has asked the local city council to try selling his mansion for the past two years. Meanwhile, the housing market continues to improve.

Every indicator suggests that young couples will continue to set up new households, according to John Pfister, company vice president and manager of consumer relations.

The television station is planning to continue its efforts to aid the area's jobless, it says, but will have to do so during the next decade. Meanwhile, unemployment held a steady pace.

Strain in U.S.-Europe relationship

By Jack Palmer

Last week's Common Market crisis got a great deal of press attention with its diplomatic repercussions and with its potential to produce a really big crisis. It was a crisis that created new problems for the European Community and its members. But it was also a crisis that created new problems for the United States.

The negotiations of the present EEC leaders are bound to have just one area of the existing relationship, the EEC leaders are acting as representatives of their governments at different levels.

The significance of the present EEC leaders' meeting is that they are trying to shape a new relationship between the United States and the EEC countries. They are trying to shape a new relationship between the United States and the EEC countries.

The linkage of the present EEC countries to the United States is that the EEC leaders are bound to have just one area of the existing relationship, the EEC leaders are acting as representatives of their governments at different levels.

U. S. District Judge Edward Cahn has ordered police to select tapes and transcribe the conversations Monday to determine whether the Bancroft tapes are authentic and whether Bank is under the influence of drugs during the conversations.

The Bancroft tapes were released Wednesday by the actor's brother, Eddie, who guaranteed their authenticity.

Great Americans Staged Their Famed Classic

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — Remember when the All-American Classic was all about the great Americans who could show the British a thing or two. That was then.

This year, the All-American Classic in Williamsburg, Va., is all about the British coming to the United States to show the Americans how it's done.

The British Open is being played at Royal St. George's in Sandwich, England, this week, and the British are expected to put on a show.

The first round of the tournament was held Monday, and the British were already ahead. They led the Americans 7-3.

The British Open is one of the four major golf tournaments in the United States, and it is considered the most prestigious.

The Americans are not taking the British lightly, however. They are aware that the British are the world's best golfers, and they want to prove that they can hold their own.

The All-American Classic is a match play event, and it is played on the same courses as the British Open.

The Americans have been practicing for weeks in preparation for this event, and they are ready to go.

The British are also ready to go, and they are prepared to put on a show.

The All-American Classic is a great event for both countries, and it is a great way to bring the two nations together.
