Owners: New hotel may face problems

By Mark Leonard

While construction has begun, low City and Countryside hotel owners and managers are predicting lawsuits ahead for the proposed central Iowa City Hilton Hotel.

"It's going to be a fight," said the Hilton Hotel's attorney Michael Tubbs, who represents the hotel.

Several people involved in the Iowa City Hilton are concerned that the Hilton will be able to stay open, charging $200 a night.

"It's going to be a problem," said Tubbs. "It's going to be a nightmare." The same is happening in other states, and the Hilton is being sued in other states.

"We have a problem," said Tubbs. "We are getting sued." The Hilton is being sued in different states, and the hotel is being sued in other states.

Iowa grads in teaching declines

By Susan L. Fisher

The number of Iowa college students who are preparing to become teachers has declined by 20 percent in the last five years, according to a survey released by the Iowa State Board of Education.

M. Janjic, director of the Iowa State Board of Education, said the decline can be attributed to a number of factors, including increased competition for teaching positions, higher tuition costs, and changes in the job market.

Janjic said the board is working to address these challenges by expanding partnerships with universities to increase the number of teacher candidates and offering incentives to attract more students into the teaching profession.

She added that the board is also advocating for policies that support teachers, such as increasing their compensation and providing more resources to help them succeed in the classroom.

In addition to the survey, Janjic said the board is working with Iowa colleges and universities to develop new teacher education programs that will prepare students for the challenges of teaching in today's classrooms.

Abortion issue still raging locally

By Karen Henry

The years have passed since a U.S. Supreme Court decision overturned the state's 50-year-old ban, but the issue may never be laid to rest. A group of Iowa City residents are planning two events Saturday to mark the 25th anniversary of the 1973 Roe v. Wade decision and accompanying abortion ban in America. "It is a day to remember the events of 25 years ago," said event organizer Karen Henry, who lives in Coralville. The group plans to host a women's Saturday morning event and a women's evening event later in the evening. "This will be the first time the two events have occurred on the same day," Henry said. The group is made up of members who have been organizing for Saturday events for the past few years, she said.

Anderson asks executive function, expansion of Lt. governor's office

DESI MOINES (UP) - The office of Iowa's lieutenant governor may never be as important. David Anderson, it is not an eminence plan to expand the duties of the lieutenant governor's office. The current lieutenant governor's role is to chair the board of regents and serve as a member of the Iowa Board of Higher Education. Anderson said there is a room for a lieutenant governor to be an advocate for the states, to take on additional responsibilities.

"The current role of the lieutenant governor is not as significant as it used to be," Anderson said. "I think it's time to look at expanding the role of the lieutenant governor to include more responsibilities." Anderson proposed that the lieutenant governor should have the power to appoint members to the Iowa Board of Higher Education and serve as the chair of the board.

However, the proposal was not well-received by some members of the legislature. "I don't think the lieutenant governor should have the power to appoint members to the board," said Rep. Richard Williams. "That's the role of the governor." Anderson acknowledged that the proposal might face opposition in the legislature.

Volker’s pessimistic view: Recovery won’t end deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker Thursday tightened his pessimistic forecast of future deficit damage, saying it is only “wobbly fading” in between a recession will occur in the next two years.

Volcker’s remarks, in a speech to a conference of American and Canadian bankers, are examples of just addressing the Indian problem.

The Indian problem, Washington, not the federal reservation, has been under assault from environmental leaders who accused him of trying to open federal lands to exploitation.

Sure enough, unemployment has been high by historical standards. Interest rates remain high by historical standards.

The criticism stems from the observation that the total debt, no matter how it is measured, is larger-than-ever.

CAT'S JOURNEY INTO TWILIGHT ZONE

WRIGHT and Caspar Weinberger, defenders of a larger military force than the world’s other superpowers, are two of the most vocal critics of the Reagan administration’s proposed policy of reducing the military force. They are zealous advocates of a larger military force than the world’s other superpowers, and the policy of reducing the military force is a threat to their ideology. This policy is likely to be implemented in the near future.

The administration’s policy of reducing the military force is based on the belief that the world is becoming more peaceful, and that the United States should reduce its military force accordingly. However, Wright and Caspar Weinberger argue that the world is still far from peaceful, and that the United States should maintain a strong military force to deter aggression.

Despite their differences, Wright and Caspar Weinberger agree on one point: the United States should maintain a strong military force to protect its interests abroad. This is a common goal that they share, regardless of their differences on other issues.
Maher plans veto on research rules

By Kristina Shakur

The Iowa Senate has voted overwhelmingly to override Gov. Terry Branstad's veto of legislation that would force state universities to drop their current policy that requires research projects funded by the state to receive approval from the Board of Regents. The veto override came in a 31-5 vote, with 17 of the 31 senators present voting to override the veto.

The veto override follows a prolonged debate in the Senate over the research rules, with some senators arguing that the rules were too burdensome and others saying they were necessary to ensure the integrity of research funded by the state. The veto override would allow the Board of Regents to continue implementing the current research rules, which require all research projects funded by the state to be approved by the board.

In other news, the Senate has also passed a bill that would increase the state's minimum wage to $15 an hour by 2023. The bill passed in a 25-9 vote, with 16 of the 25 senators present voting in favor of the bill. The bill now goes to the House of Representatives for consideration.

Pollution control facility could affect development

By Terry Franchise

The sequence of residential development and the city's overall plan is at risk because of the construction of a $17 million pollution control facility in the city. According to the city's planning and development director, the facility is expected to be completed in 2023.

The facility, which is expected to be fully operational by then, will be used to treat wastewater from the city's wastewater treatment plant. The city's wastewater treatment plant is currently located in a residential area and is expected to remain in place for at least 10 years.

The city's planning and development director said that the facility will be located in a way that will not affect the overall plan for residential development in the area.

Hawkins

Hawkins is a name that is familiar to many Iowans, and it's easy to see why. Whether you're a native of the state or simply a visitor, there's something about Hawkins that makes it a special place.

One of the reasons why Hawkins is so special is its history. The town has a rich history that dates back to the early 1800s. In fact, Hawkins was once a major stop on the Underground Railroad, a network of safe houses used by slaves to escape to freedom.

Another reason why Hawkins is so special is its community. The people of Hawkins are known for their hospitality and their love of their hometown. Whether you're a local or a visitor, you're sure to feel welcome in Hawkins.

Lastly, Hawkins is special because of its natural beauty. The town is surrounded by beautiful forests and lakes, and it's a great place to go for a hike or a swim.

This year, Hawkins is celebrating its 200th anniversary, and there's lots of fun planned for the celebration. Be sure to check out the Hawkins sesquicentennial website for more information.

One of the events planned for the anniversary is a history tour of the town. You can sign up for the tour online, and it will take you to some of Hawkins' most famous landmarks.

If you're interested in learning more about Hawkins, be sure to check out the town's website. There you'll find information about the town's history, its cultural events, and all the fun things you can do in Hawkins.

Dual a no pressure situation for women's gymnastics team

By Steve Batten

When the Iowa women's gymnastics team meets Northern Illinois at the University of Iowa on Saturday, the pressure will be on the Hawkeyes. "I don't believe anyone can't be the top gymnast," said Iowa Coach Charlie. "We have three gymnasts who can be considered top gymnasts." The Hawkeyes will be up against a team that has been money in the past, but the Blazers will be favored to win.

Tigers claw way to mat respectability

By Jeff Christiansen

Iowa's 22-13 dual victory over Oklahoma, 20-15, was considered a victory in a tournament in which the Hawkeyes did best among the No. 12 Oklahoma Sooners and the No. 7 Kansas State Wildcats. It was the first dual in which the Hawkeyes beat both these teams in same season, and the first of the season to end Oklahoma's 31-match winning streak and Kansas State's 23-match winning streak.

The Hawkeye men's gymnastics team is looking to have a strong showing in the 2003 season. The team is currently ranked 12th in the national rankings and has posted solid performances in their first few meets.

The Hawkeyes are looking to improve on their performance from last weekend, where they outgunned the Iowa State Invitational with a total of 189 points.

Gymnastics

The Hawkeyes are looking to make a strong showing at the Big Ten meet, which will take place on Saturday, January 18th.

IOWA'S STRONGHOLD lies with two players. Real seniors, 6-foot-11 Cappie Pondexter was in Big Ten scoring before Thursday's game with an 18 points per game average. Forward, was averaging 8.3 points per contest before Thursday.

Although they're a young unit, the Badgers have the advantage of playing one year or playing together under Carl. The only occasion in which they won Saturday was 1 (one) time. Brad Olson, who replaces Carl Golston at the point guard.

"I think they're wonder (this year)," I said earlier (on the beginning of the season) that they'll be a very good team at home and that they'll have a lot of problems when they get on the road," Carl Golston said. "They're a good basketball team. We're not going to try to beat a team at a time when they're in a rhythm. We're going to try to beat them to get it done.

Saturday was one of Olson's Tobacco press conference about the fancy ventilation in the Wisconsin Pavilion. With outside heat that day directly into the pavilion, they were forced to do things during the time of the season's heat.

Composer Eubie Blake honored at birthday gala

Washington (UPI) - Eubie Blake, America's great talent and raconteur and rhythm, received an early birthday present Thursday in the form of a surprise birthday party thrown for him to celebrate his 80th birthday. The surprise was the occasion for Blake to give the premiere of his new musical, "Jubilee," which is to be performed in New York at the integral Hotel this weekend.

Blake, the recipient of the prestigious NAACP Image Award, was born in Kentucky in 1887 and moved to New York in his youth. He is the only surviving member of the "Cabin and Kitchen" group of composers that includes brothers Scott and Harry Hayden, and the only black composer to have had a musical performed on Broadway.

Blake's latest musical, "Jubilee," is a celebration of the African American experience and features a cast of actors, singers, and dancers. The show features a blend of music, dance, and comedy that highlights the richness of African American culture.

Blake's contributions to American music have been widely recognized, and he has received numerous awards and honors throughout his career. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters and has been inducted into the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences Hall of Fame.

Blake's birthday celebration was held at the integral Hotel in New York City. The event was attended by friends and family, as well as fellow musicians and composers.

The birthday party featured a special performance of "Jubilee," which is set to open on Broadway next month. The show is a tribute to the history of African American music and celebrates the contributions of Blake and his contemporaries.

Blake's musical legacy continues to inspire new generations of musicians and composers, and his influence can be heard in the works of many of today's most respected artists. His music has been featured in films, TV shows, and commercials, and his compositions have been performed around the world.

Blake's birthday celebration was a fitting tribute to a man who has dedicated his life to the advancement of African American music and culture. His contributions to the field will be celebrated for generations to come.
Accidental death ruled in Prinze insurance suit

LOUIS ANGELES (UP) — A jury has ruled that two insurance companies paid a $1.2 million death benefit to the parents of actor River Prinze, a 19-year-old son of actor Robert Redford. The jury said Thursday that the companies adequately discharged all their responsibilities to the family of actor River Prinze.

The companies are State Farm Life Insurance Co. and Prudential Insurance. They paid the benefits in 1999, when Prinze was 17 years old. The jury said the companies did not have any duty to establish the amount of the benefits.

Prinze died of a drug overdose in 1999. The death was ruled a suicide.
