Druze Moslems renew assault on Marine post

REHN: Lebanon (UPI) - Druze veterans of the Palestine War denounced the renewed Lebanese army attack on the southern Lebanese Druze town of Wadi el-Kheil and said the Druze were protesting the continued American military presence in Lebanon.

Baker said there are "probable" plans of action in the future. But Baker would not give details about the plans.

The State Department indicated that the United States Government would not support a Druze attack if it were to occur. But Baker said that the United States would not interfere with the Druze attack if it were to occur.

Baker said that if the United States Government were to support a Druze attack, it would do so only if the Druze had the support of the United States Government.

Man is sentenced for two bad checks

By Patricia Thorne

A man was found guilty of using two checks of a non-existent business and sentenced to three years in prison without parole.

Mike D. Ferrin, 42, cooperator of the Iowan Theatre in Coralville, made up a scheme to defraud the Iowa City Public Library. The scheme involved the use of a nonexistent business called "Ferrin's Foods House at the Supreme Court." Ferrin was sentenced to 30 years in prison.

Ferrin was found to have investors in five of the banks for the last five years. Three of these are to be served without parole and one is to be served with parole.

Judge William A. Ewell, a U.S. District Court judge in Iowa City, sentenced Ferrin. Ewell also granted sentences to two other pending cases. John Johnson, co-coordinator at the University of Iowa, was sentenced to 12 months in prison.

Jansen returns to council rent ordinance not legal

BY CAROLINE STAFF WRITER

The proposed Iowa City Fair Board Ordinance would be unlawful and would also "be challenged in court," according to a legal opinion by Iowa City Attorney Robert Jansen and City Manager Bob Bobo.

The eight-page report is expected to be reviewed by the Iowa City Council's planning meeting tonight at 7:30. Councilor John Johnson is scheduled to present his report to the council, as well as planning several items for the city's normal running business. The report is expected to be presented as a resolution that includes the bill of proposed amendments.

As Iowa City pays judicial fees for its share of local events, Johnson County District Court records show.

On Aug 14, Robert Craig Jones, 22, and William Tester, 22, of Iowa City, were charged with failure to report a crime to the police department.

Jones was found to have investors in five of the banks for the last five years. Three of these are to be served without parole and one is to be served with parole.

Cooperative housing is in demand, but faces lack of sufficient units

Iowa State, Iowa City.

By James Roth

Iowa City (AP) — SILENTLY, Iowa City residents are swarming to Iowa State, Iowa City. The city’s student population is growing at an alarming rate, with the number of residents expected to reach nearly 30,000 by the end of the academic year.

As the student body swells, so does the demand for housing. The university has responded by increasing the number of cooperative houses and opening new dormitories. However, the demand still far exceeds the supply.

According to Iowa State, Iowa City, the cooperative houses are filled to capacity, with students waiting up to six months for a room.

"It’s a constant challenge," said Iowa State, Iowa City spokesman Mark Friendl. "We’ve tried to keep up with the demand, but it’s just not possible."

To address the situation, the city has decided to offer some assistance. In the fall, the city will launch a new program to help students find housing.

The program will provide a list of available apartments and housing options, as well as a hotline for students to call with questions. The city hopes this will help alleviate some of the pressure on the cooperative houses.

Meanwhile, the cooperative houses themselves are working to increase their capacity. They are exploring options such as converting unused spaces into living quarters and expanding existing buildings.

Iowa State, Iowa City President David Eastwold said the university is committed to finding solutions to the housing problem. "We will do whatever it takes to ensure that our students have a place to live," he said.

In the meantime, students are encouraged to plan ahead and to avoid last-minute moves. "It’s important to have a plan," said Iowa State, Iowa City housing coordinator Judy Kubby. "We don’t want students to end up living in a tent."
General Pinochet vows to continue struggle for a Chilean democracy

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Gen. Augusto Pinochet, head of the military junta that ousted President Salvador Allende, vowed on his 15th anniversary in power to continue his struggle for a Chilean democracy.

"I am not aotent to believe that the exit of the military to govern will mean the end of the struggle," Pinochet said during a rally that brought to an end a nationwide tour of the country.

The military has ruled Chile since 1973, when Pinochet led a coup that toppled the Marxist government of Allende. The military has faced criticism for human rights abuses and the suppression of political opposition.

"The struggle will continue," Pinochet said, "as long as necessary, as long as the struggle will continue until the end of the Argentine war and the end of the military regime."

Reagan okays arms controls policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A report on the arms control policy for the year 1983 released by President Reagan's Middle East policy committee last week showed that Congress would order the United States to negotiate with the Soviet Union for an overall reduction in the number of strategic nuclear warheads.

The former South Dakota senator and Democratic presidential candidate, who has called for a major arms reduction in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), said he was "pleased" with the report.

"I welcome the Senate attack with open arms and open hearts," he said, "and look forward to the showdown with the Soviets.""McGovern told an interviewer last week that he was going to try to seek a Futile exercise?

For the third time in the last four years, the UIR Senate has rejected the summer research proposal of its president. This year the vote was 17-2, but two years before that the Senate voted 18-1 in favor of the resolution. Senator Horner took the tap, and two years before that Bruce Haugwitz made his ill-fated attempt to have his summer research approved by the Senate. Very little — beyond the personal positions stated in the introductory remarks there — has affected his attempt with single rejection. The executive still voted down the summer session (although Haugwitz merely was forced to renominate his summer pay, and the resolution, however unanimous, presumably is still in the files somewhere to be used or ignored in the future.

What is the value of the resolution even if it is approvals? Apparently, very little. Very few people outside of those in student government ever hear of the resolution, and rarely is any action taken by the senate to back up research findings. One imagines that research materials deeply dwelving must sentiment. By not to say the research could not be constructive, or that senate resolutions are inept in their annual propensities of diligence and devotion to duty. But sometimes along the line the purpose of summer research gets lost. It seems not only to justly exemplify the fool's errand.

The senator used to reiterate the claim when it is made that research topics are limited to those that can be achieved through a decision that one senator's resolve. One's resolve driven by the efforts of the research union at the UI only duplicates the subject of the research union directed by the central administration, and in any case the senate has no power to change UI policies or to implement preventive measures. More often than that Senate's shortcomings with Senate effectiveness, quality of students regarding student government. So does it, on the other hand, value of summer research?

It is a shame the senate begins each year by making itself look foolish in a futile attempt that can either take positive action to ensure the research is tied to concrete goals by leave even greater fools who know how to use it.

Owen Gill crossed the goal line with 2:24 left to go in the third quarter, making the score 21-14 in favor of Iowa. Gill, who had ridden his way across the line for back-to-back touchdown runs in the second half, scored on a 14-yard burst from his own 26-yard line. Gill’s touchdown put Iowa up by two touchdowns, with 18 minutes left on the clock, and the Hawkeyes didn’t look back from there.

IN THE FIRST quarter, Iowa scored on a 42-yard pass from senior quarterback Chuck Long to sophomore wide receiver Steve Zalaznik. On the final play of the first quarter, Iowa’s special teams kicked a 40-yard field goal to bring the score to 10-0 for Iowa.

In the second quarter, Iowa continued their dominance on the field against Illinois. Gill scored his second touchdown of the game, extending Iowa’s lead to 17-0. The Hawkeyes finished the first half with a 17-0 lead, outscoring the Illini 17-0.

At halftime, Iowa led 17-0, with the Hawkeyes preparing for the second half.

The Hawkeyes’ defense continued their strong performance in the second half. Iowa’s defense held the Illini scoreless in the third quarter, allowing the Hawkeyes to extend their lead further. In the fourth quarter, Iowa scored another touchdown, making the final score 21-0.

Iowa’s defense was consistently strong throughout the game, allowing only one touchdown in the entire game. The Hawkeyes’ offense, led by Gill’s two touchdowns, scored 21 points, while the defense limited the Illini to only one touchdown.

The Hawkeyes’ victory was a significant one, as they faced a tough opponent in the Illini. With the win, Iowa improved their record to 4-0, cementing their status as one of the top teams in the Big Ten Conference.

The Hawkeyes’ defense was led by senior linebacker Leon Redbone, who had several key tackles in the game. Iowa’s offense was led by Gill, who had a strong performance with two touchdowns.

Iowa will look to continue their winning streak as they prepare for their next game, against the Michigan Wolverines. The Hawkeyes will need to maintain their strong performance on both sides of the ball if they hope to come out on top against Michigan.
