City moves to regain FAA funds

By Carlos Terwine

The Iowa City Airport Community Board is hoping to get back into "good graces" with the Federal Aviation Administration by allowing a concessioner to sell rental cars.

At the board's regular meeting Monday evening, the board took the first step toward regaining FAA approval for its airport.

Director Bob Boley, who announced his resignation Monday night, said he wanted to resign in his "last moments" before he was forced out.

B emulator said Monday night he has become a victim of the "overkill" from the FAA over the years. He said the board is trying to "keep the FAA from being a giant on its own feet."
Neuhauser won't seek re-election; she feels time's for a change

By Carlos Terrone

After nine years on the Iowa City Council, Mary Neuhauser announced Monday she will not seek reelection. When I asked "Why?" she said, "If it's too hard for me, it must be too hard for others."

Neuhauser, who said she didn't know what she'd be doing following the expiration of her term as mayor but said "I'm going to do something different, I've always done everything with a lot of energy."

Mary Neuhauser was born in Iowa City and was raised here, just one of many things to keep her in Iowa City. Her family, she said, would not consider re-settling elsewhere.

Neuhauser said they will not seek reelection.

Laura B. Anderson, Larry Rabin, and Mildred Months have also announced they will not seek re-election.

Neuhauser said she was far more interested in what would happen to the city in the future.

In the position of the Iowa City Council, Rabin is a member of the City Planning and Zoning commission.

Anderson, a teacher at Central Public Schools, is also a member of the City Council.

"That's been the biggest change," Neuhauser said.

Rabin said her position on the city's public library and senior citizens housing was a "major task." She has sometimes had to turn down her civic duties.

"It's time for a change," Neuhauser said. "It's time for a change."
Regents foresee tuition disputes

By Janet Marie Brau

Tuition increases will probably be on the state Board of Regents' agenda when members meet in late February.

The regents are also expected to approve a proposed budget for the 1984-85 academic year. The budget is expected to be close to that of the current year.

In the 1983-84 budget, the regents approved a 6 percent increase in tuition.

NATIONALLY, tuition rates have been held constant or increased a few percent during the period of 1977-80, according to Joel R. K. Warner, associate professor of Economics at the University of Iowa.

The regents approved a tuition raise of 10 percent in February. They will meet with university officials to discuss possible future tuition increases.

A tuition rate that provides for the graduate and professional programs, that is, the programs of the Colleges of Medicine, Law, and Dentistry, is also being considered.

Last year when a tuition increase was proposed, students protested the hikes and their actions did not sit well with the students.

"We don't want to see another large increase in tuition," said Tom Peters, President of the University of Iowa Alumni Association.

District school board elections

School board ballots have new write-ins

By Robin Griggs

The Iowa City School District's Board of Directors will send ballots to registered voters this week. The ballots represent the first time the district has written in candidates for the school board. The board is looking for new candidates, including two to replace Walt Vanderhoef, the incumbent running to fill two board vacancies.

david woldrick, 57, said he has not yet decided whether to run for the Iowa City school board, but he was approached by the Iowa City Education Association to consider running.

Vanderhoef, who earned her bachelor's degree from the UI in 1973, is now a high school principal. She is the president of the school's annual fund and has been involved in various school-related activities. She said she believes her experience with the school system would be helpful in the position.

The school system should also be "teaching and learning," he said. "We need to have a clear understanding of what it means to be in business and what it means to be in school." He said he would like to see the school system as a "five-star" business.

Widiss favours teacher pay raises

By Carrie Towne

The Iowa City School District's Board of Directors will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the school board chambers. The board has been discussing the issue of teacher pay raises for several months.

Widiss said she believes the school system should be "thinking outside the box" in order to attract and retain the best teachers. She said she would like to see the school system pay teachers more than other school districts.

Vanderhoef said the school system should also be "teaching and learning," he said. "We need to have a clear understanding of what it means to be in business and what it means to be in school." He said he would like to see the school system as a "five-star" business.

Paying for quality

For public schools to administer quality education, school boards must keep teacher salaries competitive. Competent workers are scarce at a time when the nation's labor market is becoming more service-oriented. Higher salaries and better working conditions are needed to attract and retain teachers. According to the Marquette University study, the average teacher's salary is below the national average.

Following the public hearing the council members have until this Friday to vote on the adoption of the new contract. In making their decision the council members may want to consider the future implications of their decision.

Time to withdraw

When the multinational peacekeeping force, including American soldiers, were sent to Lebanon last year, critics predicted that the Americans would have a target of 100 or more of the enemy's fighters in Lebanon seeking to disrupt the Lebanon's internal affairs, and to interfere with America's policies. By their own admission, the American soldiers have been more of a target than a support system. The lack of support has led to the withdrawal of the American soldiers. In the meantime, the Lebanese forces have been taking over the responsibility of their own security.

Letters

Crui hypnosis

Time is running out on President Jimmy Carter's administration. Since the end of the war, the American soldiers have been withdrawing from Lebanon, but it seems that the United States and its allies are unwilling to see the situation as it is.

In this final editorial, we want to call attention to the situation in Lebanon, where the American soldiers are being withdrawn. It is well known that the United States has a stake in the stability of Lebanon. It is important for the United States to maintain a presence in Lebanon to ensure the stability of the region.

He's no Saul

Who is John Saul? And why do we have to buy his books? We must remember that John Saul is a novelist. He is not a political leader or a diplomat. He is not a public servant. He is a writer, and he is doing his job. We must not confuse his role with that of a politician or a diplomat. John Saul is not a leader, he is a writer. He is doing his job, and he is doing it well.

Job-seeker laments

It is often difficult to find a job in these unprecedented times. To make matters worse, the competition for job opportunities is very tough. Many people are looking for work, and there are not enough jobs to go around.

In this editorial, we want to address the issue of job-seekers. We want to discuss the challenges that job-seekers are facing, and we want to offer some advice on how to navigate this difficult situation.

Anita Schlafly said, "I don't have any idea what the problem is. All I know is that the tax revenue is going down." She went on to say, "I don't know what the solution is." Yes, it seems like everyone is talking about the problem, but no one seems to know how to solve it.

People are worried about their jobs, and there are not enough jobs to go around. This is a difficult situation, but we must remember that there are solutions. We just need to find them.

In this editorial, we want to discuss the solutions that can help people get back to work. We want to talk about some of the things that can be done to create more jobs, and we want to talk about some of the things that can be done to help people find work.

We hope that this editorial will help people get back to work. We hope that it will provide some hope and some solutions.

Boston's Yastzemski wants to bow out a winner

NEW YORK (UPI) — Boston Red Sox baseball great Carl Yastzemski has decided to retire when the season is over, becoming the third member of baseball's Hall of Fame to call it quits this year.

"I'm not looking back at my career," Yastzemski said. "I've enjoyed every minute of it. I've had a lot of fun. I'm ready to move on."
Faulty turning lanes trigger a BIC Night Tripper Ride

By Marissa Rupert

Barren is a major route of transportations of the city. If you try to make a turn at the city, you will be caught up in the city. The main reason for this is the construction of the new street, which is known as "BIC Night Tripper Ride". The road has been under construction for the past few months and it has caused many problems for drivers.

For instance, a couple of days ago, I was riding my bike on the BIC Night Tripper Ride. I was making a left turn at the intersection. I noticed that the traffic light was red, but I continued turning because I thought it was safe. As I was crossing the intersection, I was hit by a car. I was taken to the hospital and I have been in the hospital ever since.

The city government is aware of this problem and they are in the process of doing something about it. The city is going to construct a new lane next to the BIC Night Tripper Ride so that people can turn safely.

As of now, the BIC Night Tripper Ride is still under construction. If you plan to drive or ride your bike on the BIC Night Tripper Ride, please be careful and follow the rules of the road.

“Don’t overlook our running game”

Ohio State (Ohio, UPI) — Ohio State quarterback Mike Tomczak has issued an early warning to future Buckeye opponents.

"We're going to do everything to make it as hard as possible for our opponents," Tomczak said during his weekly news conference Monday. "We can score as many points as we want, but we have to be able to do it in a way that everyone will remember." Tomczak, who completed 52 of 73 passes for 732 yards and nine touchdowns against the Buckeyes, has been the key to Ohio State's success in recent weeks. "I'm not saying that we're going to break the Buckeyes," Tomczak said. "But we're going to make sure that they know that they're in for a tough game." Tomczak said that his team's game plan will be focused on stopping the Buckeyes' running game. "We want to take away their running game, and we're going to do whatever it takes to make sure that they don't have it," Tomczak said. "If we can stop them, we're going to win the game." Tomczak said that his team will be looking to capitalize, both on offense and defense. "We're going to have to be smart on offense and we're going to have to be tough on defense," Tomczak said. "If we can do that, we're going to win the game." Tomczak said that his team will need to be patient and work hard in order to succeed. "We can't just go out there and expect to win," Tomczak said. Radio ‘screening’ proposed

DALLAS (AP) — The manager of a Mountain west radio station proposes establishing a national panel of experts to decide which songs should be played. According to the manager, the idea is to ensure that only the most popular and relevant songs are played on the radio.

"It’s a way to improve the quality of music that listeners hear on the airwaves," said the manager. "We want to make sure that the songs we play are not only popular, but also have good lyrical content and are not offensive to listeners."

The proposed panel of experts would be even-handed and unbiased, the manager explained. "Our goal is to provide a neutral agenda that is not influenced by any commercial interests."

If the plan is adopted, it is likely to cause debate among radio stations and listeners alike. Some may see it as a negative development, while others may welcome the opportunity to have their voices heard in the decision-making process.

Rogers pleases C.R. crowd despite unoriginal concert

K"JOY "ROGERS" concert at the Five Seasons Center Saturday night was almost another night of the same old song and dance. The crowd, however, wasn’t too bothered by the lack of originality. Rogers pleased the crowd with a medley of his classic hits, including "You" and "Don’t Close Your Eyes." The audience, however, was left wanting more.

In keeping with his other concerts, Rogers continued to dance around the stage and entertain the audience. His energy was contagious, and the crowd responded enthusiastically.

"I love performing in front of a live audience. It’s what fuels my energy and keeps me going," Rogers said. "I hope to continue to bring joy to my fans with my music and career."
