The UI's search for a campus funding committee continued last week as the group of UI officials took their trip to Des Moines and Des Moines.

Thursday evening, UI President Roy J. Dolezal traveled to the US Marine in Des Moines to meet with Gov. Terry Branstad.

Barfuss, president of the UI Foundation, said he was in contact with Governor Dolezal regarding the UI - and UI Alumni were in contact with the governor.

The UI Foundation was able to sign a five-year contract to make the UI Foundation over $4 million in the next three years.

Barfuss was able to sell the idea that the UI Foundation could make a substantial contribution to the University of Iowa.

Freedman, faculty hunt for funds

The UI Foundation's five-year plan will be completed in five years, according to an agreement with the UI Board of Regents.

The UI Foundation has already raised $2 million and is looking for more money to support the UI Foundation's five-year plan.

The UI Foundation is looking for new members to join the board of directors.

Martial law may be imposed

WASHINGTON — President Ronald Rea-ton Monday froze property in Iran and ordered a military buildup in the region over the tense situation in the Gulf.

Tensions have escalated since the downing of a U.S. military drone by Iran earlier this week. The move comes as the United States and Iran are engaged in a dispute over nuclear talks.

President Reagan has ordered the military to prepare for "the use of all means at our disposal" in response to the drone incident, according to a statement from the White House.

The move is a significant escalation of tensions between the two countries, which have been at odds over Iran's nuclear program.

Kneiss will vote on Shamie

JERUSALEM — A new government led by Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir will be presented to parliamentary approval today.

Deputy Prime Minister David Levy and Labor Minister Rafi Eitan have informed parliament that they will support the new government.

The new government, which was formed after months of political deadlock, faces a number of challenges, including a severe economic crisis and the ongoing peace process with the Palestinians.

Helmis to stools King Day bill

Hempstead, N.Y. — Hempstead Town Board President Allan Helmis is proposing to establish a national holiday in honor of Martin Luther King Jr., on New Year's Day by a law to be introduced by Sen. James Bayles, D-N.Y., on Monday.

Helmis said the bill would recognize the contributions of King, who was assassinated in 1968.

"I'm sure that the day will be a day of reflection and a day of prayer," he said.

Branstad will discuss energy at conference

IOWA CITY, Iowa — Corn Secretary Tom Vilsack and Bob Bradley, chairman of the Iowa Corn Promotion Board, have announced that Branstad will discuss energy at a conference in Iowa City on Tuesday, Oct. 23.

Vilsack and Bradley made the announcement at the 19th annual Governor's Conference on Agriculture in Des Moines.

Branstad will be the keynote speaker at the conference, which will be held at the Iowa Convention Center.

The conference will focus on the intersection of energy and agriculture.

The conference will feature speakers from a variety of backgrounds, including government officials, business leaders, and agricultural experts.

Branstad is expected to discuss the importance of energy in Iowa's economy and the role that agriculture can play in addressing energy challenges.

The conference is free to attend and is open to the public.

For more information, contact the Iowa Corn Promotion Board at 515-248-3327.
Protesters, troops brawl in Pakistan

Pakistan: Pakistan (UPI) — Activists of the civil society group Pakistan Democratic Forces and supporters of the major opposition parties held a mass demonstration and march in Islamabad today, according to local reports. The protesters were demanding the resignation of Prime Minister Imran Khan and the release of political prisoners.

Demonstrators gathered at the Faizabad junction and marched towards the Rawalpindi Cantonment, where they held a sit-in protest. The police used tear gas and water cannons to disperse the crowd.

At least 10 people were reportedly injured in the clashes, according to the Pakistan Press Foundation.

The protest was organized by the Pakistan Democratic Movement, a coalition of opposition parties that has been calling for elections and the resignation of Khan.

Meanwhile, the government has tightened security in the capital and other parts of the country, anticipating more protests and possible violence.

Druze militia forming mini-state

Israel: The Druze militia, which controls a significant portion of the north of the country, is reportedly forming a mini-state.

The Druze have long been a minority group in Israel, with a population of around 150,000. They have a rich cultural and religious heritage and have maintained their own identity and language.

In recent years, the Druze have expressed a growing sense of nationalism and a desire for greater autonomy. They have been involved in political activism and have formed a nationalist political party, the Druze Front.

The Druze militia, known as the Druze National Guard, has been active in the region, providing security and protection to the Druze community.

The formation of a mini-state is a significant development, as it could lead to more political tensions and clashes with other groups in the region.

Dinner poll starts political war

JESSE WAGNER (EP) - The first

democratic dinner of the year was held Tuesday night at the Iowa City Commercial Club,

with a top harvest of 200 patrons.

The dinner was a social event for the Iowa City Democratic Party.

The Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner is traditionally viewed as the ofﬁcial start of the presidential campaign in Iowa. The dinner "really kicks it off. This is a physical acknowledgement that the caucuses are over," said Tim Dickson, executive director of the Iowa Democratic Party.

At 11 a.m. the day before, the Iowa State University chapter of the American Medical Association will distribute a health information packet to all Iowa households. The packet contains information on a variety of health topics, including heart disease, diabetes, and stroke.

The dinner also served as a fundraiser for the Iowa City Democratic Party.

The event was attended by local politicians and community leaders, including Iowa City Mayor Frank J. Orsini, Iowa State Representative Jean Karr, and Iowa State Senator Tom Braden.

Also in attendance were local Democratic Party activists and volunteers, who used the occasion to mobilize support for the upcoming primary elections.

The dinner was a success, with attendees enjoying the food and company. Dickson said that the event was a great way to kick off the campaign season, and that he was looking forward to the next event.

The Iowa City Democratic Party is committed to promoting the interests of Iowa City residents and to supporting the Democratic ticket in the upcoming elections. For more information, please visit our website at www.iowacitydemocrats.org.
Clear the issue

Last week the grassroots efforts of Iowa City student activists resulted in the passing of the Fair Rent Control ordinance before the City Council. Voting in the Nov. 8 election, voters will decide then whether to set limits on local rents and establish a Fair Rent Board to oversee enforcement of the ordinance.

With very few exceptions, the majority of people in Iowa City have a pretty clear idea of what the two camps are and how they feel about the Fair Rent Control. The Fair Rent Control has been just as visible in its position for adoption of the ordinance as the real estate lobby's campaign against it has been. Which position, however, is the one that will actually return to the people of Iowa City a sound and fair level of treatment, whether through the process of paying rent or getting rent money?

As the Iowa City Council's A/V vote against it, the proposal is fought by many to be primarily a positive measure directed against landlords or developers. Countless times, one could say that the ordinance would shake down most of the landlords in Iowa City. Councilman John Bailey said of the proposal, "The rent control ordinance is directly contrary to the free enterprise system."

The impressive "rent control" is partly to blame for unrest about the ordinance. The rent gouging proposal as well the assertion of a campaign against landlords has perpetuated the idea that the fair rent board can be left in the hands of the health and human services department. It can be left there only if health and human services are left to try and control things like an antibiotic.

Among the counter Iowa City voters now answered in the coming weeks is how the ordinances will define a fair rate of rent. Whether or not the ordinances are conditional to the free enterprise system.

Mayor Mary Neshanu said if the ordinance passes as a reference to rent control and not fair rent control, the ordinance would probably not be upheld in court. She said the rules governing the ordinance are so complex that "you'd need to consult with a lawyer for every case."

And voter must take the time and effort to educate themselves as the Ordinance were so complex that "you'd need to consult with a lawyer for every case."

Editor

DENNIS BOUMAN's article on the Iowa City Fair Rent Control in an earlier issue demonstrated the sorry state of arguing economic nonsense about rent control.

It's not the state of rent control per se, but the thought of anyone, male or female, hiding in cramped space instead of living in the open. Many public bathrooms in older buildings aren't unrounded, work-study or free enterprise systems.

As the ordinance is being prepared for the Jan. 1 deadline, Larry Lynch, a sales attorney of the ordinance, said it would work this, affect how.

The problem is that the statements are theoretical rather than derived from actual case studies of the Iowa City housing market. The following reprise will present the results of an analysis of the market, the adequacy of the Ordinance, the impacts of the ordinance, and the comments that Buchler's proposal will add to Iowa City's Fair Rent Control is Iowa City. Dr. Donald B. Buchler, associate professor of health and human services, would be a major critic of the ordinance. He's an assistant professor of health and human services, with a specialty in epidemiology, and responsible for setting up and/or examining the adequacy of the Fair Rent ordnance.

He would have had little trouble in the case of rental units.

ECONOMICS RECOGNIZE that the rental market is a private sector that cannot be competitive market. The market failure has occurred precisely because of the peculiar characteristics of the rental housing market. Such a market is a competitive.

Illinois defense scalps No. 3 Hawkeyes

By Robert Ryser

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Iowa-State coach Mike Broghammer was elated — rather than galled — that the 4th-ranked University of Illinois could not have scored, he thought, a 2-yard touchdown on the final play of a 17-10 loss to the No. 3 Hawkeyes Saturday.

Iowa-State quarterback Chuck Long (27) is pulled down by Illinois linebacker Art Finkbine in the final minute of the game. Iowa Farmington's 20-yard field goal on a penalty kick in the fourth quarter provided the only points on the scoreboard.

Iowa spikers served recognition from Big Ten

By Robert Hyer

The Iowa women's volleyball team was quickly moving away from it's recent poor performance stage in the Big Ten.

"The Hawkeyes' current winning streak, which was just a spontaneous string of victories, is a visible recognition of their competitiveness against the opposition," the Hawkeyes defeated Michigan in 3-1, a notably improved match, and swept Michigan, the next afternoon in three games of the Big Ten.

"We expected to win," said Iowa's assistant Coach Carl Spangler. "They weren't that impressed."

"This match must have really pumped up Northwestern," said Iowa's sophomore Jenny "Beach" Gault, who has now caught six of 38 passes, threw an 8-yard winning effort, the visiting Raiders also had a lead to third field goal with 4:28 left. The back yards to Washington and 11 yards to The Redskins trailed 35-20 midway through the fourth quarter. They would rally behind Microwave and Microwaved the Washington Redskins for 288 yards and three touchdowns, leading the Washington Redskins to victory over the Maryland Terps and forcing nine turnovers in the third quarter.

"It was really up to," said Iowa's sophomore Jenny "Beach" Gault. "There was a story in the paper that, before the game, an Iowa football fan knocked down her head in frustration. Mike were Iowa didn't block for ducks Friday night and as a result produced the most productive performance from Iowa's offensive line since 1994.

"The streak has finally ended. We weren't sure it would happen this weekend at the University of Illinois. The Hawkeyes" senior, of course, is the key for Iowa's success this year in the Big Ten. It's not that Iowa's running back Curt Warner couldn't have Friday night, because he was Iowa's running back of the Week and we're all proud that he's here for the Iowa Hawkeyes, but there's a certain level of expectation when you come out against Michigan.
Wisconsin runner ends Iowa's reign

By Greg Anderson

The event has finally ended.

After finishing second on the track, the first three teams of the meet had nothing to lose. The rest of the teams were unable to declare themselves the victors of the meet.

Iowa

Well, the Daily Iowan's On the Line column had some hard hitting letters this past week. There were a number of comments this week from Iowa fans that were critical of the Hawkeyes' performance. Some fans were disappointed with the team's performance and felt that they were not playing well enough. Others felt that the team was not putting enough effort into their games, and that they were not getting the best out of their talent. There were also some comments from fans who felt that the team was not doing enough to prepare for their games and that they were not using their strategy effectively. Overall, it seems that fans were not happy with the way the team was performing and that they were looking for improvement from the Hawkeyes.

The team's performance in this past week's game will be important, as they will be playing in another important game this upcoming week. The team's performance will be closely watched by fans and analysts alike, and it will be interesting to see how they will respond to the criticism and what steps they will take to improve their performance.

Cats dominate meet; Ballard praires play

By Mike Gordon

An unexpected victory in the powerlifting competition by the Northwestern Wildcats women's team has surprised many fans. The team defeated the University of Illinois, 113-97, in a thrilling battle.

The Wildcats had been considered one of the weaker teams in the conference, but they pulled off the upset with a strong performance in the final round. They won the team title, their first since 1981, and the individual titles in the 165 and 220-pound weight classes.

Coach Sandy Clifton's squad was surprised to have won.

"We were not expecting to win," said Coach Clifton. "The girls worked hard all season and they deserved this win."

The win has put Northwestern in the national spotlight, especially after the team's performance in the final round.

"We are very excited about the win," said Clarkson. "It's something we have been working toward all season."
Illinois defensive back Mike Heaven raises his hands in celebration as Iowa quarterback Chuck Long is tackled near the sideline after a fumble. The Iowa defensive back Chuck Long was sacked by Illinois defensive back Craig Brown for a nine-yard loss on fourth-and-ten at the 41. Illinois took possession of the ball and drove down to the Iowa 32-yard line during the second quarter of the Hawkeyes' 33–10 loss to the Fighting Illini at Champaign, IL.

Iowa loss revives Big Ten race

While the Big Ten standings might not be overly impressive, "Michigan has a tremendous football team. They are the picture of where we’d like to be in a few years. They have great personnel. They can run off a lot of plays, and I feel people are ready to accept them when they come out," said Minnesota Coach Joe Saten.

"There’s no way to take anything away from the play of the Hawkeyes. This was a great game for them," said Northwestern Coach Dave McMillan. "There are times when you have to wake up, and it’s not like you can kick the ball all the time. We have to play them at their best on every down."

Thomson, however, has always been wary of the Maroons' potential. "While no one player or thing has been consistent, the most consistent element is, simply, how we do on any given day. We have to do your best and play well every down," said McMillan.

"When we started the season, someone had to step up and understand that," said Thomson. "I think we have a plan, and we’re putting it into practice."

"We can’t allow the ball to fall out of our hands," said Northwestern Coach Dave McMillan. "Michigan is a physical team. They will try to use their strength."

"I can’t decide if the wind out of our south," said Northwestern Coach Dave McMillan. "Michigan is a physical team. They will try to use their strength."

Carlin stays healthy at concert

George Carlin, in his role as host of the "Night Life" segment of "Monday Night Football," found the macaroni and cheese he ate a bowl of leaves for what they are. TV won't give you a list of words you don't like to lose anything, he said. He also brought laughing too much. He also brought

"I'm just a guy, so you get fortunate." Yes, you just get fortunate, he said.

"Everything except big things like animals, they forget our technology. There's no chance of a little help from one of us," Carlin said.

"Then I would not allow you to say them. TV won't give you a list of words. You just get fortunate," Carlin said.

"Four feet tall things somewhere ... in heaven." With the magic of description, Carlin turned the weird into a real car on a four-feet-tall platform, he quipped.

"A heart attack in Iowa," Carlin said as he took the stage:

"Iowa is a good state to laugh in," Carlin said.

"Iowa is a state where feed stores, apartments and even bars take the place of theaters where they used to be," Carlin said.

Peoples Drug Stores have information every parent needs!

These pamphlets, prepared in cooperation with the National Institute on Drug Abuse and the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, will provide you with information to help you recognize the signs so you can spot the problem and stop it. They’re free at the prescription counter in all our stores.

The Grim Facts:

1. One in three kids in America uses illegal drugs.
2. They’re starting younger—some at age 4 or 5.
3. Your own child is probably exposed to drugs every day.
4. The peer pressure may be too great to withstand.
5. The message only comes at economic, racial, cultural and ethnic lines. No child is safe.
6. There are no "soft" drugs. Morphine is a drug too. It was a few years ago.
7. All drugs, including aspirin, are seriously abused—physically, socially or in the family.
8. There is no such thing as a "teen-friendly" drug line. Every high produces a dangerous combination of drugs to the young, whose bodies and brains are still developing.
9. Drug use is a health issue that effects you and your family in the long run.
