146 Marines die in attack on Lebanon headquarters

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said Monday that President Reagan would make a decision on putting U.S. forces in Lebanon to protect the United Nations peacekeeping force there within the next day or two.

The Pentagon released a list of 146 U.S. marines who died in Sunday's suicide bombing of the U.S. Marine headquarters in Beirut, Lebanon.

The attack was the second in two days to strike the U.S. military in Lebanon. One hundred fifty-six U.S. marines were killed Saturday in a truck explosion outside the U.S. Embassy there.

Weinberger said in an address at the White House Monday that the U.S. would back the United Nations' request for an increase in its peacekeeping mission in Lebanon.

He made it clear that the U.S. was not withdrawing from Lebanon. But he said the United Nations was in a dilemma of its own, caught between the conflicting demands of Lebanon and the United States.

The U.S. air force was preparing to begin strikes against the Palestine Liberation Organization headquarters in Beirut, an official said.

The MoD spokesman said that there was a possibility that the Mureni was going to be used to attack the U.S. embassy in Beirut in the near future.

Citizens blast workers who have access to classified information

The ACLU has taken issue with the Network's plan to air a documentary on a member of the Warren Commission, saying "we are concerned that the network has not addressed all the relevant issues in a way that does not provide a shield for the Warren Commission." The program, "The Warren Report," is scheduled to air on Thursday, October 28.

The documentary will cover the commission's work, including the hearings and its final report, and will also feature interviews with some of the commission's members.

The ACLU said it was concerned that the network had not adequately addressed the commission's role in the Watergate scandal and other major events of the 1960s.

"The Warren Commission was an instrument of the government, and the public has a right to know the full story of its activities," said the ACLU's spokesman.

"The Network has a responsibility to provide a balanced and fair portrayal of the commission's work and its impact on American society," he said.

The ACLU has asked the network to provide a comprehensive list of the commission's documents and records, and to make them available for public examination.

The network said it would provide the requested information, but that it would not comment on the specifics of the program.

Hart denies campaigns is faltering

Hilleveld, 28, student at the University of Iowa, said she has been contacted by Hart's campaign and is considering running for him in Iowa. She is a registered Democrat and said she would likely vote for Hart in the general election.

Hart acknowledges that his campaign is facing challenges, but he maintains that he is still viable in the race.

Hart's campaign has been hurt by a series of controversies, including a scandal involving his ex-wife and his estranged son, as well as questions about his past business dealings.

Hart said he understands that some voters may be concerned about his personal life and business practices, but he believes his policies and platform are strong and that he has a clear message for the country.

Hart's campaign has been struggling to gain traction in the crowded Democratic field, and he is facing tough competition from other candidates, including Joe Biden and Elizabeth Warren.

Despite the challenges, Hart remains determined to continue his campaign and to make a difference in the 2020 election.

"The problem is, we don't know the long-term effects of these chemicals," Nuesch explained the method for finding differences in the number of diseased people. "There are a lot of people who don't take aspirin."

Historically, people who don't take aspirin are more likely to be healthy. In the last step of a series of questioning methods. Even so, he said that attempting to evaluate informational books for children and parents may not be healthy.

People's protest

More than 100 members of about 20 different groups and other concerned persons marched through Iowa City on Sunday in protest of the scheduled closing of the St. Vincent's hospital.

They are concerned about the closure because according to the city's own records, 25,000 residents of Black Hawk County use the hospital's services each year. Some of the groups represented in the protest included the Iowa City chapter of the ACLU, the Iowa City chapter of the National Lawyers Guild, and the Iowa City chapter of the Women's Rights Movement.

Key to cutting costs

The new plan will allow the hospitals to better control costs by using the funds more efficiently. It will also allow each hospital to retain the savings. The plan is expected to reduce the hospital's costs by 10 percent, and it has been well received by the physicians and hospital administrators.

Friend: Gunman ‘a good ole boy’

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) - Charles Harris, who was arrested at Augusta National Golf Club yesterday for attempting to drive through the course in a golf cart, described himself as a “good ole boy” with a “good ol’ heart” during his first court appearance.

Harris, 45, was arraigned in Richmond County Superior Court in Augusta.

“Just like any other guy, I love to hunt and I like to go fishing,” Harris said. “I’ve been in the business of trapper hunting for about 10 years.”

Harris was arrested after he was spotted driving a golf cart through the course without a permit. It was later found that he had been acting strangely around the area, and he was suspected of being under the influence of drugs.

When asked why he was driving the golf cart, Harris replied, “I was just trying to get some exercise.”

Lebanese madness

In the film Merry Christmas, Mr. Lawrence, actor Tim Curry describes the Middle East as a "city of committees" that is always torn between the desire for peace and the need to protect its interests. This sentiment is echoed in the region's current state of affairs, where the Lebanese are torn between fighting for their rights and protecting their interests.

The Lebanon conflict has been going on for decades, and the level of violence and destruction has only increased. Lebanon's government has struggled to maintain control over the country, and the Lebanese people have been left to fend for themselves.

Marital exemption

When a person files for divorce, they are usually required to file for a legal separation before they can file for divorce. However, there are some cases where a marital exemption can be granted to allow a person to file for divorce immediately.

Svoboda control

Deleting the legal separation exemption would allow couples to file for divorce immediately. This change would be beneficial for many couples who are in the middle of a separation and want to move forward with their divorce.

Letters

Dear Editor,

I recently read an article about the challenges faced by the Lebanon conflict. As an individual who has been following the situation closely, I wanted to write to express my concern about the situation.

The Lebanese people have been through so much, and it is difficult to see the end of their suffering. I hope that the international community can come together to support the Lebanese people and work towards a peaceful resolution.

Sincerely,

Leaders sever ties with Grenada

POST-UPRISE Troubled UPP - Caribbean Community

PIECE WOULD BE closing out the month, to the possibility of U.S.-NATO military intervention in Grenada, where the U.S.-trained army killed Marxist Prime Minister Maurice Bishop in a bloody coup that left 17 dead and injured.

THE Jefferson County Community Foundation in Pekin is merging its annual golf tournament with its Dinner Dance for the first time. The event will be held at the Country Club of Morton on Saturday, Sept. 10.

At the end of a stormy emergency meeting, heads of state from the group of former British colonies, known as the Caribbean Community, also vowed to study the possibility of a Caribbean peacekeeping force for Grenada although Prime Minister Michael Manley of Jamaica said the force was not possible. Grenada's prime minister, Eric Reynolds, said the force must be local and foreign and that it must be a "political force, not a military one."

Until recently, the 13-nation Caribbean Community was suspended from the organization, severing ties with the United States and other Western nations. But a meeting of the group on Tuesday ended in agreement to restore the United States to the ranks of the community.

With the 5-1 victory over Michigan, the Wolverines have become one of the teams to watch in the Big Ten Tournament.

Hawkeye runner grabs first place but Minnesota holds on to win race

By J. Glenn (The Des Moines Register)

IOWA CITY, lowl- MondlY, Octob .. 24,1883 -

Rod Dixon exhibits Olympic stamina, sprints to win New York Marathon

NEW YORK CITY. - Rod Dixon was nothing but cool and just the right mannered and was even hungry like the rest.

After finishing first for the runner rather than the leader," said Dixon, the thirty-four-year-old runner from New Zealand after a winning the New York City Marathon on Sunday after a 1983 season of overtraining and weaknesses.

Dixon said he was pleased with his 2:11:05 time, "I'm happy with my performance and I think I can do better next time," he said.

The New Zealand runner, who is going to the Big Ten Conference, was the first man to break the two-hour barrier in the New York City Marathon, winning by a margin of 19 seconds over second-place finisher.

Dixon said he was pleased with his performance and he knew he could improve more to finish in the top three. He was disappointed that he couldn't win the race.

The early race start (8 a.m.) did not suit Dixon's style. "I always like to go out slowly," the eventual winner said.

Following Dixon were a pair of Minnesota natives. Second-place finisher John Schneider, who covered the final 15K in a time of 2:11:05, was followed by third-place finisher John Schmidt, who finished sixth and tenth respectively.

LEADING THE PACK for Minnesota was John Schneider, who finished 15K in a time of 2:11:05.

Dixon was pleased with his effort. "I'm happy with my performance and I think I can do better next time," he said.

SMITH HELD THE lead more than 20 minutes over the finish line at Central Park. He won a bronze medal in the 1,500 metres at the 1984 Olympics. Smith was 30 years old.

Wolverine, Illinois league victories set stage for showdown Saturday

Iowa City Press-Citizen

For a while this weekend, it appeared that Michigan and Illinois would move to the top of the Big Ten standings. Michigan needed a round 1 victory for the conference title, and Illinois needed a round 2 victory for the conference championship.

Saturday's matchup in Illinois had a lot at stake. The Illini were 1-1 in the Big Ten, and the Hawkeyes were 0-2. The outcome would determine the conference standings.

Michigan's defense was solid, and the Illini were unable to score a point. The game ended in a 10-0 victory for Michigan.

In the other game in the Big Ten, Northwestern defeated Minnesota, 21-0. The Gophers were 0-3 and the Wildcats were 2-1.

Bergeron's highlight: Michigan's wide receiver, Bergeron, had a lot of chemistry with quarterback Tomczak. Bergeron caught 8 passes for 179 yards and 2 touchdowns. He also rushed for 60 yards and 2 touchdowns.

Michigan will face Indiana in its next game, and Illinois will face Ohio State.

"It's a matter of moving the ball and giving us the ball near the goal line," Bergeron said. "It's not a matter of scoring the ball."

Bergeron also had a good day catching punts. He had 14 catches for 151 yards and 4 touchdowns. He also handled the ball 10 times and scored 2 touchdowns.

Michigan's defense held Illinois to 10 punts, but the Illini scored on 4 of them. "They're a good team that can score on us," Bergeron said. "It's a matter of moving the ball and giving us the ball near the goal line."
