State senator takes regent seat

By Roger Gehringer

Sen. Van Gogh, a distinguished member of the Iowa Senate for many years, has announced that he will resign from the Senate in order to take the position of vice chairman of the Illinois-Iowa Electric Company.

State budget proposes calls for reduced staff

By Kirk Brown

The 1985 UI budget will reduce staff in state agencies and eliminate some positions. The governor has announced that he will make the cuts to help balance the state's budget.

The cuts are expected to result in a reduction of 500 positions, with the majority of the reductions coming in the state's education and health departments.

The governor has said that the cuts are necessary to address the state's financial problems and to ensure that the budget is balanced.

The cuts will affect a number of departments, including education, health, transportation, and natural resources.

The governor has emphasized that the cuts are part of a broader plan to address the state's fiscal challenges and to ensure that the state's resources are used effectively.

The changes are expected to take effect on July 1, 1985.

A new government has been established in Lebanon, with a cabinet of ministers and a prime minister.

The new cabinet includes seven ministers and a prime minister, who will be responsible for overseeing the government's operations.

The prime minister, Hassan Diab, was appointed by the newly elected president, which marks the first time in Lebanon's history that a civilian has been elected to the presidency.

The new government has been formed in response to the political crisis that has gripped the country in recent months.

The previous government was dissolved in February, and a new cabinet has been selected by the parliament.

The new government has been tasked with addressing the country's economic and security challenges, including the ongoing conflict with Israel.

The new cabinet is expected to be able to address these challenges and to work towards a stable and prosperous future for Lebanon.

Jackson: Conspiracy killed King

MENOMA, Iowa (UPI) — Democratic presidential candidate Jordan Carson said the newly released report by the federal government had an "active role" in the assassination of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. Carson's campaign said the report was a "smear attack" by the Obama administration.

"We believe the government had some role in the murder of Dr. King," Carson said. "I'm not sure what their role was, but I do know that there was an active role." Carson said he was one of the men who helped King arrive in Memphis.

"The FBI did not take the necessary precautions to protect him," Carson said.

Scientists see new form of matter

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Scientists have seen for the first time direct evidence of a compressed form of matter believed to exist only inside the dense cores of very heavy stars. The research team says the matter could be created artificially within a laboratory.

"This is the first time we have seen matter compressed to the density of atomic nuclei," said lead researcher Dr. John Hansen. "It's a form of matter that is more dense than the densest known star, the Sun." Hansen said the discovery is significant because it could help scientists understand the behavior of matter under extreme conditions.

Court backs media in libel case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court on Monday upheld a ruling in favor of a newspaper that was sued for libel by a doctor who was the subject of a news story. The court said the newspaper had a First Amendment right to publish the story.

"The First Amendment protects the free speech rights of the press," said Justice John Paul O'Connor, writing for the court. "The government cannot punish the press for exercising its constitutional rights." O'Connor said the newspaper had a right to publish the story because it was in the public interest.

Making of the Menist movement

By Tom Nather

To "have a look," after a decade or two of heartening growth and increasing number of members and successful campaigns, the Menist movement has made an abrupt halt. The Menist movement which had such an unflattering start in Iowa City, a fertile center of liberal thinking, and which has had its share of controversy and censorship, is now seemingly in trouble.

The Men's movement was started in 1978 by the late Robert Dobkin, who was known as the "father of the Menist movement." After Dobkin's death in 1985, the movement continued to grow, but it has recently experienced a decline.

The movement's founder, Bob Dobkin, said in a prepared statement that "the reason for the Menist movement's decline is that we have not been able to attract enough new members." He added that "we are now at a critical juncture in the movement's history." Dobkin was a prominent figure in the movement, and his death has been a significant loss.

The movement's supporters are now calling for a "revival" and are calling on new leaders to take over. They are also calling for more resources and funding to support the movement.

Campaign battles

In the coming months of the campaign for president, the American people should decide whether they think that the use of American troops in the civil wars of Central America is justified. The American people should ask themselves whether they think that the United States should continue to support the use of American troops in the civil wars of Central America.

Journal-ease

Journal-ease is an example of a new phenomenon in journalism: journalists are becoming more comfortable with writing in their own voice. The practice of writing in one's own voice is becoming more popular, and journalists are finding that it can make their writing more engaging and effective.

The President had a tough week. The Justice Department released a report that the CIA had directed and aided the contras in the war in Nicaragua. The CIA has been accused of violating international law by supporting the contras. The CIA has also been accused of violating U.S. laws by supporting the contras.

The government is now actively involved in the contras' war in Nicaragua. The government has provided financial and military aid to the contras, and it has directed and aided the contras in their war against the Nicaraguan government. The government has also been accused of violating international law by supporting the contras.

I don't think that not standing up and apologizing dignified "resignation" as a substitute for resignation is necessarily justifiable. People need to stand up and apologize when they are wrong, and they need to resign when they cannot do that.

INSTEAD, WHAT WE got, as usual, to a different Fogelberg-Brownie rape with a stack more and an attitude that might well be a step back to the good 'ole days. Though the plot may seem a bit too much for some, the acting was top-notch, and the directing was excellent. A simple concept, but with a great deal of heart and an endearing quality, the movie made for a very enjoyable evening. The atypical center of the plot, however, was a little too predictable, and the ending seemed a bit too rushed.
