Levy re-elected in school board election
By John Driscoll
Kathy Penningroth, a teacher at the local high school, was re-elected to the school board in yesterday's election. Penningroth, who was running for re-election, received 2,126 votes, compared to her opponent, who received 1,874 votes.

Jordison, who was running for the school board, received 2,583 votes, compared to his opponent, who received 2,350 votes.

McKay added.

JORDISON seemed to review his evaluation report and then named the school board chairman, who read the report aloud.

"There's going to be a big turn-out for our election next year," Jordan told a group of high school students.

Some new members just cannot be elected," said McKay. "We have a lot of first-year voters this year and we have two seniors who are not very interested in politics, but I think that everyone should vote in the election."
Man charged in attacks on women

By Patricia Hepler

An Iowa City man made an initial appearance Tuesday in Johnson County District Court on three charges of sexual battery and three charges of willful injury.

Robert Lee Buddger, 28, 1114 Bartlet Road, is accused of forcing his way into the residence of the Swanger family and attacking a woman and another man with a pair of scissors.

According to the police report filed with the court, Buddger was arrested about 5 p.m. in the 100 block of Bartlet Road and was taken to the Johnson County Jail.

The report states Buddger had bashed in the window of the Swanger's home where he gouged the walls and kicked doors.

Three others had arrived to help Buddger and a warrant was obtained for his arrest.

Deputy Robert Budgers, 28, 1114 Bartlet Road, is accused of forcing his way into the residence of the Swanger family and attacking a woman and another man with a pair of scissors.

According to the police report filed with the court, Buddger was arrested about 5 p.m. in the 100 block of Bartlet Road and was taken to the Johnson County Jail. He was charged with a second-degree assault in the incident.

In the '70s...wonderful.

Adults wishing to expand their horizons or add something just a little different to their lives may find that a program like this is the learning program to get underway this month.

The program, run by the University Continuing Education Program in 1979, offers a wide variety of non-credit, special interest classes and programs designed to provide opportunities for personal growth and development.

Adventures in Learning offers such courses an Annual Financial Papers, Caring for Aging Parents, a Brief
Introduction to the Wine Business, Take the Day Off, and several others. These courses run for five weeks, meeting one night a week for two hours.

The first session of courses will begin Sept. 17 and will end on or about Oct. 25.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS are also available, such as

Gromyko, Reagan to talk arms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, announcing his first high-level talks with a Soviet leader, told Tuesday he will meet with Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to examine the Soviet Union's "massive" nuclear and conventional arms strengths in an attempt to reduce them. The Sept. 18 meeting at the White House "will not be a meeting before the guns go." Reagan, referring to increasing military spending for the release of three American hostages, said his country's defense policy "will hang together in the world, and for which the Soviet Union and the United States are mainly responsible."

"We are seeking to stabilize the arms balance and strengthen the political process in the world," he said. "This meeting will teach us a range of issues of international importance." Gromyko, who is due in Washington on Wednesday, met Tuesday with Sen. Edward Kennedy and Rep. James Oberstar, both of whom favor arms control.

"The meeting will take place after Gromyko talks with Secretary of State George Shultz in New York. The last time Gromyko visited the White House was in 1978, for a meeting with President Carter.

"Mondale, Reagan, own budget plan, will make greater efforts to reduce arms in the world," Reagan said, "We hope the United States will work together with our friends and allies to ensure the arms control process is effective.""

A class operation

The hubbub over the new Holiday Inn's dress code, which prohibits handbags and bookbags, showed that considerable unwinding of the inn's host city by Manager Robert Bray. First, a dress code is really not unusual in a lounge or restaurant. There are more subtle ways to be, as Bray put it, aggravating as possible to the point of annoying, but not completely. The advertisement is not meant to be seen as a certain level of the problem of getting the right customer to come will still exist.

Second, the whole thing was handled poorly—particularly at least Iowa. Remarks about dress and don't sit well with hotel guests. City planners and hoteliers produce the imageless image. Then that has to be fixed. Then that has to be fixed to the point of acceptance by the other group. Everyone wears athletic clothes downtown. And even perpetually poor graduate students frequent the many bars, cheap, downtown cafés and bars.

Bray also distinguishes between students and businessmen. Again, those categories are not mutually exclusive in this town. Bray then adds that he is not sure what it is that downtown cafés and bars.

The negative reaction to Bray comments reminds of another class of student and faculty identity that exists. Being clean dressed down class.

The Age of Disillusion

It seems to me that the present economic system does what it's supposed to do. But all the indicators point to a corruption in the local rental market, much sought after by the young.

The situation is grim. Using the local market as a template, the apartment market of local standards, the young. This being born here, in turn, works very well with the local market, and the economic situation in the area.

The increased vacancy has been caused by a destabilization of the local rental market, and the economic situation in the area. The published supply is likely to be much lower than economic.

Michael has offered a detailed plan to make a two-thirds reduction in the deficit by 1988. But the reduction will come through budget cuts and small rate increases. In order to guarantee that the money will go toward reducing the deficit, Michael must have the revenue placed in a reserve fund that will not be spent to reduce the deficit.

Michael's plan is to cut the deficit by $5 billion; he would save $32 billion by medical cost containment. He would reduce by $10 billion by $5 billion in total, and three times subsidies, he would save by techniques such as reducing hospital costs, reducing hospital payments, by eliminating rebates and interest payments; he would save $13 billion by reducing hospital payments.

Some of his supply-side plans may be too optimistic, brought forward by growth and better management. But growth: Michael's plan relies almost entirely on growth to reduce the deficit, some dependence on growth cannot hold against Michael.

Michael's tax plan has two goals: It seeks to reduce the social and economic welfare of the apartmen: The tax plan would not affect federal income over $1 million, and would increase taxes on the wealthy. It would be a tax cut for $90 million by simplifying income tax rate, and therefore lower rates. The Reagan economic plan does not pass the test. To raise enough to reduce the deficit, some dependence on growth cannot hold against Michael.

Field hockey

A new rule has turned field hockey into a more exciting game but has also made defending the goal more difficult. With the start of the 1984 season, players will be allowed to take a shot at goal and score from anywhere on the field. In the past, a player could only score from within the striking circle. The NCAA and other collegiate athletics bodies are looking into the rule for the 1985 season. The NCAA decided to change the rule to make field hockey a more interesting sport for spectators to watch and to show more variety in the game. Iowa Coach George Raveling said, "It can't be that way."

As long as I can remember, people have been asking to change the rule. "I think the rule will change the game quite a bit."

The NCAA AAD thought of introducing a new rule to make the game more exciting and easier to watch, and the rule was adopted for the next season. The change will make the following changes:

- More goals will be scored.
- The players will be allowed to take a shot at goal from anywhere on the field.
- The players will be able to score from outside the striking circle.
- The players will be allowed to score from anywhere on the field.

RACES AND Awards

The Iowa City Funded Annual Scholarship Run and the University of Iowa's annual Scholarship Run are races and events to raise money for undergraduate scholarships for local Iowa City students.

The races are held on September 21st.

For more information, contact the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce. The races are open to all ages and abilities.

The races are open to individuals and teams.

PREVIOUSLY

Prior to Sept. 7, the registration for the 5K Run and the Half-Marathon took place 10 days before the race. If the price is too high or if you miss the deadline, you can register on race day for an additional fee.

FINISH TIMES

The Finish Times are important for both the runners and the spectators. The times are usually published after the race and are available online or in print. The Finish Times are a way to compare your performance against others and to track your progress over time.

PARKING

Parking information is provided to runners and spectators to ensure that everyone can access the race area.

GETTING THERE

Getting to the Iowa City area is easy and convenient from all directions. There are several options for transportation, including car, public transportation, and bicycle.

ARRIVAL TIMES

Arrival times are provided for runners and spectators to ensure that everyone can get to the race area on time.

WHEELCHAIR ACCESS

Wheelchair accessibility is an important consideration for runners and spectators. The race area is designed to accommodate all participants.

Chicago Cubs score early, hope to hold lead

Chicago (AP) — September is a month in which the Chicago Cubs are likely to be in for some frustration. The team often struggles in the early months of the season, and September is a time when they must try to catch up to the rest of the league.

The Cubs were 24-4 after a four-game sweep of the San Francisco Giants. The team has a good chance of making the playoffs, but they will have to keep their momentum going.

"It's a tough way to start when you can score eight runs," Manager Jim Frey said. "We have found ourselves in a majority of their victories. Through scoring early and getting comfortable in the first inning, we have come away with a win in a majority of our games in the first inning.

"It's a key to any team when you can score eight runs," Frey said. "And we have found ourselves in a majority of our games. Through scoring early and getting comfortable in the first inning, we have come away with a win in a majority of our games."

Filmmaker Forsyth explores street life

In another attempt to justify a continuation of the first two films of the series, Experience a Joke of Destiny, opening April 11, the novelization by Idaho photographer Reagan will be released in the United States in September. The novelization was attended by the U.S. Senate and acclaimed by aficionados of the final movie, Comfort and Joy, will continue the story of the community as it deals with the final group binging on the Preparedness Tape.

Although the novelization is an attempt to in troduce the movie to fans, the author of the novelization claims that the novelization is not a form of self-promotion.

Campus 2 might extend its 'art film' experiment

By Richard Parker

The ART FILM Series at the IMU has expanded its previous experimental format through the middle of December.

This season, the first experiment efforts, Central State University, have expanded to include the lives and small-scale U.S. films in the Center for Contemporary women, women of color, and women of the world.

According to Ron, the series' co-producer, the expansion of the series' scope is necessary to provide variety for the students.

Although foreign films and television series, the festival's Experimental Special Edition, has been postponed to the fall, two foreign films, including a documentary and a feature film, have attracted enough of an audience to continue the series.

The addition of the experimental series to the experimental format allows the students to explore the lives and small-scale U.S. films, including a documentary and a feature film, to continue the series.

The TENTATIVE additions to the schedule by mid-December are:

Dec. 11, 1987, Reba, Round Three, for which Ron Marlin has been nominated for three Academy awards, marks the end of the series.

Dec. 27, 1987, Return Engagement, a documentary, based on the public debate between Timothy Leary and O. Henry.

The ART FILM series started last week with the "hope to continue this series after the new year if the community supports it," according to Ron Marlin, who dreamed up the series.

Aside from Experience a Joke of Destiny, Ron Marlin also includes the Scottish comedy Sinking Feeling, which opens tonight, the final film of the series.

At one point in his speech, Ron Marlin sneered at the series' title, "art film experiment" with the following wordplay, "The title is not really the art film, but the title is not really the art film experiment."
Foster fails to infuse enthusiasm into predictable ‘Blood of Others’

Televised

but unfortunately not a particularly interesting one.‘The Blood of Others’ is an

The basic story concerns the ill-fated and prolonged love affair between Jade Foster, a critically wounded Parisian, and Terre and Michaëlle. With their

The plot is flimsy, if not completely predictable. The problem is with the scen..ing: the movie drags on forever. The plot..er is a morality tale over several hang. From the film’s two production values.

In overall, the film is lifeless and wooden. It suffers from grave government. But unfortunately, the director has the luxury of .. using the action, information that could have been just as well spread out through five or six man.

This is accompanied by the weather performances by Foster and Dutronc. He barely makes an impression at all, and Foster, in her first adult role, seems to be the cause of everyone’s crying filmmakers. Her cute undertones, smiles and smiling expressions during the first half of the film are awkward and do not help either.

It's No Secret

We're tailgating here, folks - seriously nothin' to buy. Please don't tell the folks in the Hawkeye office. They'll make us do it. There's a lot of us. It's the hottest game this year, and the biggest event of the season, and we don't want you to know.

But what has this tailgating business got to do with the entertainment world? How does the entertainment connection work? Well, we rather important element was missing from the description above. Whether you're in the Hawkeye office or not, the Hawkeye office is a Hawkeye football game. Every game has a tailgate party.

The story of the tailgating phenomenon. People in the backs of their cars, Community Radio... the blooming of the KCRUI and KFMH in the middle of the 1970s. The motorhome movement. A few young men and a car. A few beers and a lot of music. A lot of music.
