Israel won't free prisoners

WASHINGTON - President Reagan on Friday rejected Lebanon's demand that the U.S. free four Lebanese civilians seized last week in the Bekaa Valley.

Reagan, who had invited Lebanon to participate in an upcoming U.S.-led peace conference in Madrid, announced the refusal in a televised address to the nation.

The four hostages had been seized by Islamic militants last week, and Lebanese officials had demanded their release in exchange for the release of 200 Lebanese prisoners held in U.S. jails.

Reagan said the demands of the militants were "unreasonable and unacceptable," and he urged the Lebanese to "abandon their violent tactics and engage in the process of negotiation and dialogue."

The University

It administrators have again been asked - again after much ado - to divest stocks that are worth millions of dollars. The reasons are believed to be related to divestment from South Africa.

The board agreed that the University of Iowa would only divest in the event that some of the companies that conduct business with South Africa, and their investments, are involved in actions that are perceived as unethical.

This resolution reflects the students' concerns about the University's involvement with companies that conduct business in South Africa.

However, Willa Mantle, a UI student who is involved in the movement, said that she believes the University's position is a "political and moral" decision, and that the University should be more concerned about the legal implications.

AFFSCME attempts to clear up confusion

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFFSCME) is trying to clear up confusion about the University of Iowa's divestment policy.

"We're trying to get the facts out," said Bob Bruns, a member of the university's executive committee. "We're trying to communicate with our people, to get the facts out there."
Local professionals teach for a day, swap know-how for brief look-sea

Iowa City business men and women donate teacher's caps for a day at a number of Iowa City schools during the past week. Twenty-eight community members took part in "The Teachers for a Day" program sponsored by the Iowa City Education Association, the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce and the Iowa City Community School District.

The Iowa Education Association developed the statewide "Teachers for a Day" program. The Iowa City Education Association and the chamber started the program in Iowa City three years ago in order to establish closer ties between community members and schools.

"I greeted these people into the classroom that they voluntee red to spend a moment with," said Horteen Vernon, principal of the City High.

THE COMMUNITY members and company personnel spent the morning together to develop a lesson plan for their day's classroom. Participation in the program ranged from small groups of students, held discussions and gave lectures.

"The teachers are wonderful," said Leslie Boynton, president of the Iowa City Education Association and coordinator for the "Tea chers for a Day" program. "It has business owners working with students, a better understanding of how our children are being taught, and a chance for people to come to the school and to see what teachers have to go through," said Phil Hine, son of Seats and Trusts, who taught a psychology class at Regis High School.

Dr. Steven Hammerstrom, an Iowa City chiropractor, talked with a half-high class last Friday about his experience for him to see what people in the field. "It's a very good group of people who are involved," said Hammerstrom. "I'm a good chance to show the school system is set up and to see what teachers have to go through," said Phil Hine, son of Seats and Trusts, who taught a psychology class at Regis High School.

Outcome of CBS libel case may define advisory limits for media

The Supreme Court has defined one class of the press and the electronic media. Although the press standard required a publisher to prove the truth of disputed statements, the constitutional privilege requires a public figure to establish with clear and convincing evidence that the statements were false. The final decision may help to define the precise boundaries of the role of the mass media. Although the prior standard required a publisher to prove its statements were true.

This standard as applied to a member of the community or any other person, is essentially no standard. The Supreme Court has defined one class of the press and the electronic media. Sponsors of "Peace Day" — a nationwide protest of the U.S. invasion of Grenada — are not as conservative as it appears judging from the report carbonized by the organizers of the "Peace Day" movement, Joe Iosbaker of the National Student Network and John Starck of the Progressive Student Network, who sponsored "Peace Day" movements. The report carbonized was charging a "Peace Day," which they had set aside on campuses that opposed the invasion in Grenada at the time of the invasion.

According to Iosbaker's report, at the University of California, Berkeley, the student network was scheduled to appear in a town where a former professional football player was scheduled to appear and the College of Business Administration, which is the other branch of the University of California, Berkeley, had said they were not as conservative as it appears.

Lessons of history

A memoir to the survivors of the Vietnam War is to be published in Washington this month. The three sculpted soldiers, along with the morbid blackness of the war's memory, will provide the last tribute to the veterans of the nation's most devastating war.

While the veterans and their families, however, have been the ones paying their tribute at the memorial since their passing, they are no longer needed to recognize the sacrifices they made.

Five of the four men who served over the Vietnam Memorial for understanding of the views of our own age.

As the weight of the lives lost and the money and time wasted in that war becomes closer, the question of whether a similar or different future in Central America is worthwhile.

The U.S. presence in Central America has frighten the Nicaraguan government and its people. The reports of whether or not these people are being lied to are often heard. It is not even clear if the current situation in Nicaragua has possibly been worsened by U.S. intervention.

With every report of Nicaragua's preparation for a military invasion, it becomes apparent that the government's ability to defend itself has been weakened.

Conventional wisdom states that history forgotten is hard to repeat. But our recent history has not been much of a lesson, especially with the new war that is upon us. The Reagan administration has been guilty of many errors, such as the now well-documented nuclear freeze movement, which was undervalued in terms of the country's national security.

The daily lives of the people have changed little since the war ended. One could say that the people of Nicaragua have become more prosperous, but this is not the case for those who have suffered the war.

Nicaragua has been left with a country that has been forced to abandon most of its industries and is now forced to live off basic services and food aid. This has led to a great deal of poverty among the people.

In mid-1984, page 20, our cover story is on The Cuban Revolution, and its impact on Nicaragua and the United States. This story was written by James Condon, a reporter for the New York Times. It is a fascinating story that is well worth reading.

Hawks overpower San Jose State in NCAA play

By John Henson

After a tentative 15 minutes of play, Iowa's Frank Johnson made his first and only shot and took his first step toward a great title. The Hawkeyes defeated San Jose State 54-16 Sunday at the Don Hutson Stadium in Madison, Wisc. in the second round of the NCAA basketball tournament.

State's starting lineup was able to go on the first half at 36 minutes, 22 seconds, and the Hawkeyes led 17-6 in the first half. Chuck Gilardi added a second goal before halftime at 1:16 with an unassisted goal by Bob Whiteoak, giving Iowa a 14 lead of the half. Iowa's放在 at the end of the first half, but the Hawkeyes were leading 22-17.

Mary Beth-Lehr added the tall in the 3rd goal of the 3rd quarter. Iowa eventually led 43-17 at halftime.

Goldman wins two in wrestling intrasquad

Iowa City, Iowa — Junior Roger Goldman was one of the big winners for the Hawkeye wrestling team last Saturday at the University of Iowa Field House.

Goldman, along with senior Chuck Romanchick, won the Openweight and Heavyweight divisions, respectively. Both wrestlers won easily over their opponents, securing the Hawkeyes' fifth place finish in the Big Ten Scoring meet.

For Goldman, his win came against sophomore Scott Stoddard in the Openweight division. He earned an 8-2 decision to help Iowa City win its second in a row.

The Hawkeyes scored 144 points to place fifth, while the Buckeyes took first with 161 points.

Iowa City, Iowa — The University of Iowa tennis team split two matches last weekend, winning over the University of Missouri at Columbia, 4-3, and losing to Ohio State, 6-1.

On Saturday, the Hawkeyes faced off against the University of Missouri in Columbia, winning the match 4-3. Junior Sarah Johnson led the way with a 6-2, 6-3 win over her opponent. However, the Hawkeyes struggled in doubles play, losing both matches, before winning two singles matches to secure the victory.

On Sunday, however, the Hawkeyes faced significant difficulties against Ohio State. Despite a 7-6, 6-4 win for Missouri, the Hawkeyes lost the doubles matches, leading to a 3-2 loss against Ohio State.

Robert Smith, Iowa's Swiss-Japanese goalkeeper, said he was happy with the Hawkeyes' performance thus far.

"I thought we played well against Michigan State," Smith said. "We have a lot of good players on our team, and we're starting to gel as a unit."

Smith also praised the Hawkeyes' defense, which has only conceded two goals all season.

"Our defense has been solid," Smith said. "We have a few good players back there, and we're working hard to keep the other team from scoring."

The Hawkeyes will continue their season on the road next weekend, facing Ohio State in Columbus.

Mike Condon, the Hawkeye goalkeeper, said he was happy with the team's performance.

"We did a good job in the first half," Condon said. "I thought we had a lot of chances to score, but we were just unable to put the ball in the net."

When Newt refused, there was obviously something missing in the deal, and John Denver and the Whirled Fowl set out to divert Newt Bure. Oh, Bure! Bure was just too busy and the fans got a close-up of another man who gives all the good lines.

Obviously, BUREY this contract doesn't work as well for child's play. From what I hear, there was a lot of laughter. If you're interested, the idea probably would have been a good one but Newt Bure, who has a new best friend, is a better man. First Newt, then his Church, then a magazine, then to a country musical. Finally, he's the most spiritual man of all. I'm hoping that the deal works out as Newt Bure is open to his new best friend, the good, the right, the best man.

Did the Burey, Burey get it right different from what they played on the stage? That's another question. And then, of course, the question is, what level of spirituality or religious "awareness" to the audience. Newt Burey is a man who is thinking at least twice as much as he's thinking. But as for the question of whether the deal is working out, it's open to interpretation. He might be considered a spiritual man, but Newt Burey is a spiritual man. He's not afraid of the hard questions. He's the kind of man who can see beyond the obvious.

The answer, however, is this: Dean Burey, a writer-director and film historian who wrote "The Big Lebowski," a study of films from the 1940s era, will write a book about the films of Capra in the theme of home and family values.

Because the story of the Capitol in New York, the story of the building is a story of its own. Probably, the best Capra is better known than Newt Burey. The story of the Capitol is a story of the people and the city, their hopes and dreams. It's a story of the city that was built by the people. And it's a story of the city that was made by the people. It's a story of the city that was made by Newt Burey. It's a story of the city that was made by the people.

Adventures

The story of a woman with multiple personalities, Burt Rudolf and Elizabeth Taylor grew into great actresses. "Agnell," a portrait of a group of people with different personalities, is a story about us. It's a story about the way we think about ourselves. It's a story about the way we think about each other. It's a story about the way we think about our world. It's a story about the way we think about the future.
