U.S. Census Bureau officials expanded an audit of their food stamp operations last week to include the entire state of Oklahoma. The audit is designed to determine whether the bureau is properly providing food stamps to eligible recipients.

"According to the bureau, the audit is being conducted to ensure that the federal government is properly funding the food stamp program. The bureau is responsible for verifying that eligible individuals are receiving the benefits they are entitled to.

"The audit will focus on the Oklahoma City area and will be conducted by a team of auditors. The team will review the bureau's records to determine whether the food stamp program is being administered correctly.

"The audit is expected to take several months to complete. The results will be used to make necessary adjustments to the program. The bureau will provide a report of the findings once the audit is completed.

Counties set well guidelines to prevent contamination

Water supplies used by more than 230 people in nine county parts are at risk because of possible pollution.

The guidelines will require the creation of new and major repairs on existing wells. The guidelines are paid off.

In an effort to prevent contamination, the new guidelines exempt many Amish farmers from permitting regulations.

Bicycle Liquidation NEVER AGAIN can you buy bikes at these prices! Perfect for Christmas...
We've grown up and we've gained maturity. We've outgrown Etch-a-Sketch and we've traded days at the playground for studying at the library. But, if there's one thing we're not giving up, it's Halloween.

"It just keeps getting better," said UI senior Scott Eichacker of his affection for Halloween. "The trick or treating stuff grows old after while, but the excitement of costumes and going out and parties is better. Everybody's always happy and having fun on Halloween."

Eichacker and friend Russ Heitoff postponed their celebration of the hallowed eve until tonight when they plan to don Hare Krishna costumes and "party 'til midnight." People have been staring when they walk by the shop, but when they realize what we're up to they just smile and walk by.

Although many Iowa City residents opted to celebrate the holiday by partaking of spirits, others looked to laced Halloween costumes. Hundreds attended the local Jaycees haunted house, Videko's haunted Field Campus and costume contests throughout the city.

"It doesn't matter how you celebrate Halloween," said Hair Express employee Ramona Wyse, "just by putting on a costume you have the chance to be someone or something you can't be the rest of the year. What could be more fun?"

Speakers alert U.S. students to deficit proposal

By Kent Schweke

Omnibus is debating legislation that would cut the federal budget deficit "on the backs of students" who receive financial aid, a CFA official said and asked for the public's support.

During a press conference Thursday, students were alerted to this legislation, known as the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings amendment, for not just for the year's deficit but for the next five years.

"We urge Congress to avoid this legislation, which could mean a substantial reduction in federal spending," he said. "We urge them to consider the impact of this legislation on our education and our future, and to ensure that the burden of reducing the federal budget deficit is not on the backs of students."

Parking Ploys

Every class has a silver lining. For example, the shortage of parking spaces on campus may allow you to park your car in a spot where the Senior and Fall of the Semester Empire — while you wait for some driver to move their incapacitated automobile for you, or if an extra car is needed in the Main Library. You were doubtless cheered by the news that UI housing officials are seeking an extra space for 300 parking spaces. This issue will be gone as early as January. 11 spaces next to the parking lot are never to be used again for full renewal.

These plans create wonderful opportunities for students and faculty. Advise building character — and character-building is one important function of a higher education institution. And not just more people a day may be a phenomenal character growth.

Advise building creatively. Fitting a 30-foot-long automobile on an open eight-foot long plot of ground requires genuine university-level imagination and ingenuity. Of course, UI Parking Manager Linda Grich has noted recently: "Lack of space at a facility does not mean you have to park illegally," Grich's observation is absolutely obvious: Because of the lack of space, even the little letters are often gone by the time many vehicles can park.

But of the finest minds in the county are here at the university, and even the direct crisis can be handled by no more imaginative possibilities.

A relocate certain classes to locations where more classroom space exists for instance, "Reading and Critical Writing" classes could be conducted in Pella, a site not only with better parking, but with an adjacent area for ample parking for student botanists to observe. Until Michael's style drive-away window at the Main Library. If the library facilities were restricted to the理事会, the community would find that most favorable arrangements for public use that could reduce the confusion of parking space, which people only park in.

In the future we have also adapted for mons and nun church services. Lecture classes might actually be conducted in small assembly buildings, such as American Studios Professor with a niche, the furnishing neutral of some students to leave their cars in a parking lot while attending class.

Build an adequate number of parking spaces in the parking lot immediately. The next time you see especially fastidious title have little chance of being

Reagan unveils new arms plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan unveiled Friday a new U.S. arms package in Geneva that is designed to match the Soviet offer he received earlier in the week.

The unveiling came on the day of the start of the nuclear arms negotiations between the superpowers.

Reagan said the U.S. offer “would make the very recent reductions proposals, which our negotiators had talked earlier, as well as the Soviet counterproposals — a call by Gorbachev for a 50 percent reduction in nuclear weapons that can touch the other superpower.”

Botha, who had labeled the contests a test of the Afrikaaner nation's rising again.

The elections were seen as a serious test of Botha’s ruling National Party, in power for 37 years.

The results were seen as a serious test of the president's bid to gradually reform South Africa's policy of apartheid, or racial separation.

The South African government, said his party did not expect to win a majority of seats in the contest.

Reagan unveiled his new arms proposal as a response to the Soviet offer.

The proposal is expected to include a “full range” of nuclear weapons threatening U.S. allies in Europe.

The U.S. offer, Reagan said, would make the “very recent reductions proposals, which our negotiators had talked earlier, as well as the Soviet counterproposals — a call by Gorbachev for a 50 percent reduction in nuclear weapons that can touch the other superpower.”

The announcement came after Reagan held a 45-minute interview with four Soviet journalists at the White House.

Botha vowed Thursday to press ahead with slow reform of apartheid.

“Botha’s bid to gradually reform apartheid by blacks and the international community, might force Botha to further slow the pace of the president's ruling National Party, in power for 37 years.”

While the election results indicated changes by blacks and the international community, many whites fear he is moving too fast.

The elections were seen as a serious test of the Afrikaaner nation is rising again.

The South African government’s policy of apartheid, or racial separation, was occurring too quickly for many whites.

"I've seen a direct correlation between the number of jobs that are available in the state and investing in a different kind of community development," he said.

"I can't believe the senior running back for the Lite Blue Lions of Linn-Mar, Brian Cross, has a solid year and a half started out this fall and his name to be placed in NAMES , a database of high school senior athletes. NAMES is a nonprofit organization that compiles information about prospective student-athletes to universities and colleges around the country. Although the AA high school's latest record and place player cannot be determined, it is possible to determine his name.er's chances for a scholarship. "I get lost in the shuffle a little bit," he said. On the other hand, Pete Biseball, a former Iowa high school student, is definitely the highest paid player in the country, making more money than any other athlete. He figured it was a pretty good deal.

Iowa's eventual volleyball matches with Purdue on Friday and Illinois on Saturday represent the Hawkeyes' last two games to go into the conference's finale. With the pressure on, the Hawkeyes will likely be looking for leadership on the court, meaning that junior setter Kathy Grosh is still the one to call upon for a good performance. Grosh has been doing the selling for Iowa since her freshman year when he was being contacted by many universities such as UC, UCLA, Stanford, and Oklahoma. He is a natural fit for the university, and he is expected to make a significant contribution to the team.

Fry gets Halloween treat Thursday
Iowa-Cook Hayden Fry got his Halloween treat earlier than expected this year.
In years past, a steady drizzle on the last practice before a big game would definitely be a trick, not a treat.
But the Hawkeyes worked out in the bubble with good weather.
"We had a minimum of moisture and everybody was happy and they're anxious to play," Fry said as the team got set for work out on the field.
"We wouldn't have a half-day decent barn if it wasn't for the indoor facility," Fry said, noting that "Peyton," the main catch as "Bolton," the quarterback, has been extra loud and the team is "going for it" throughout practice.
In other news, the status of Ohio State's Keith Broy is questionable for the game, but Fry said he thinks the tailback will play.
"I'm going to give him the attention of any potential management recruiting firm." excluding kickoffs.

"This will be the stiffest competition we've faced and our biggest tournament of the fall," Coach Dick Harwood said.

The tournament will be played Nov. 12-13 at the East Lake Country Club in Atlanta, which plays to 7,000 yards.

East Lake Country Club was the home course of golf legend Bobby Jones and the site of the 1936 Ryder Cup Match. The course has hosted the Women's Amateur, U.S. Amateur and Women's Amateur Championships.

Playing for Iowa will be Julie Edge, Mary Bonnie, Diane Oll, Mary Kramer and Mary Metz.

THOMASON HOPES THE COMPETITION WILL MAKE THE PLAYERS COMPETE TO THE BEST OF THEIR ABILITIES.

Iowa has finished near the top in each of the two tournaments it has played this fall season and the Hawkeyes, however, face their most difficult test of the season this weekend, facing many of the top competitors in the country in a tough three-day tournament.

The layout has been the home course for two of the top teams Iowa has faced this season, including Texas, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Wake Forest, North Carolina State, Florida and Georgia.

Reagan honors Series champs at White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan congratulated the Kansas City Royals Thursday for winning the World Series in his administration's first year, saying, "You've done it. It's really a great thing by Kansas City people."

They strode in the Rose Garden. President Reagan shook hands with members of the Blue Jays, the World Series champions, saying, "They've done a wonderful job."

Reagan, who beat his third opponent, Jerry Jones, in the final, proved to America what a real man can do. He had two wins and a third in six starts last year.

He also is Rousillon's first exceptional year. He had two wins and two losses in the World Series, with a third in six.

Weekend action will determine fate of Big Ten powerhouses

(PI) — The Big Ten is being held to one of the better football conferences in the country this season, and two games this weekend — Ohio State and Michigan in Columbus, Ohio, and Nebraska and Iowa in Lincoln, Neb. — are among the better conferences.

Long will take a 6-1 conference record into its ranking into the game at Columbus, Ohio. The Buckeyes, who beat the Big Ten this year, are eighth in the Coaches' Poll and ranked eighth in the Amway Coaches' Poll.

If Ohio State wins, it will be the second team in the league since 1980 to go 6-1 in the conference. The last team to do it was Ohio State, which went 6-1 in 1980 and won the national championship.

The Long team has won seven of its last eight games, including six straight over the final six weeks. The Long team has won one of its last two games, including its last five.

The Big Ten is the only conference in the nation with a team ranked in the top 10 of both major polls.

The Ohio State Buckeyes are 3-1 in the Big Ten, and the Nebraska Cornhuskers are 3-1-2 in the Big Ten. The Iowa Hawkeyes are 3-1 in the Big Ten, and the Michigan Wolverines are 3-1-1 in the Big Ten.

DANCE

DANCE is involving other than the movements - the choreographer's presence or absence. The music, the staging or the lighting. This is the motivating philosophy behind Doug Wood's choreography for his Works Dance Company, which is based upon collaboration with the composer who is writing the music. The company will be performing two Chamber Works Friday and Saturday at the Iowa City Center for the Arts.

When first encountering the musical score, Wood became intrigued with the small space of The Dance Center's studio. He also was intrigued with the Transcendentalists, and their ideas about how music and visual art were of a common goal. Jon Gash says Wood describes his work in a similar way, and that is why he is interested in the written work of the Transcendentalists, the visual arts, as well as Wood's own choreography.

The DANCE is divided into three sections: the first section involves scenes around the central figure, the second section involves scenes around the second main work, and the final section is a work for all. The musical works are centered around the music of Bach's main theme from Variations, rather than the variations themselves, emphasizing the subtle changes within Bach's rigid scope. The second section involves works by Gluck and the final section is a work for all. The music was written by a composer who is interested in making room for the dance. The dance attempts to create the dance arena with this music and then make room for the dance to happen.

The second Chamber Work, created specifically for The Dance Center's last season, explores the contrast between the music and the dance. This work explores the different elements of the music and how it relates to the dance. The collaboration between Kirschstein, Wood, and the other members of the dance community allows for a rich and varied, interest in each other and the audience - everything from choreography to the music, to the lighting, and to the set design.

Romance, comedy horror chill 'Weary With Hunting'

By Karma Lee Edwards

ULTIMATELY, everyone involved in the production of a play is an actor. Each person brings unique qualities and elements to the show that create a rich atmosphere, an aura of good shows and distractions. These elements, taking collective form, produce the theatrical work where the individual will, or will not, experience a personal connection. You benefit both the creators in process and the audience.

"Weary With Hunting," by John Eliot, a graduate of the University of Wyoming drama department, is the second play in the UW Theatre II series, and is being brought such a show. Compelling people have been involved throughout, and the writers, director and cast are becoming an, and an atmosphere where the actors to project a richness of character and a particular form of communication, and this is a difficult task.

THE WRITTEN dialogue does not develop the character in a way that allows that depth and at time shift, there is not a strong enough bond to move the audience. Blake is asking his cast to be instinctual, to do things with the script that, "can be explained, but seem right at the time," he regards the actors to communicate with the audience.： "It is an honest atmosphere of waiting to be served, but in a style that makes the actors to project a richness of character and a particular form of communication, and this is a difficult task.

French organist to "perform when time and space shift, there is not a firm enough base to truly move the viewers. Bliss has a surrealistic form of communication, and this benefits both the creators in process and the audience.

TERRY HULBERT, the director, speaks in order and reasoning terms, but he is also direct in his expressiveness of disappointment or disinterest in the actors efforts. He does not hesitate to tell them where or where not they are working effectively. However, he feels this is a difficult task.
