San Francisco. - Despite Gov. Jerry Brown's plan to eliminate waste and redirect the state into civic action, educators propose a tax hike by $14 million in September to more than $1 billion to the world of education, according to the Iowa Legislature.

By Staff

While Branstad's aides later said he did not intend to make a speech on the subject of the news conference in Washington, it is understood that the governor was not involved in the negotiations for the tax cut.

The official news agency TASS said the address was an emotional critique of the policies of past U.S. relations, including the U.S.S.R. and the United States.

The statement came after Reagan had directed his policy to the Soviet people, warning them that the United States would not make a move against the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Union has been preparing for peace talks with the United States, according to the Tass agency.

Vets warn of second Vietnam

There is a growing war being fought in Central America among people in the United States and around the world. A group of Veterans for Peace, led by Vietnam veteran and Iowa native Elizabeth Elder, recently returned from a 24-day tour of Central America where they met with U.S. embassy officials in El Salvador, Nicaragua and Honduras and also spoke with leaders of the Nicaraguan government because of the "war on drugs." "We've tried to take the message of the Vietnam veterans and make an army out of it, and it's just not going to work," said Elder, adding the support the U.S. is providing to the government currently is just feeding the U.S.-backed rebels from being successful.

In addition, Elder emphasized the U.S. should review its foreign policy and attempt to "attitude reorient" by respecting the people of Central America rather than using military and economically dominating those countries.

Baker, an author and 100-year-old U.S. Marine Vietnam veteran, said that the United States "is not doing well" in El Salvador and Nicaragua and early 1980s and early 1990s. Baker said, "We are going to have to help the Vietnamese for the best of young American men to come home in plastic bags!"

"If you're called upon to go fight somewhere, question what you're being called to fight for," said Elder. "Baker encouraged members of the audience to educate themselves about the military situation in Central America. He predicted this attitude will not change until the audience to educate themselves about the military situation in Central America. He predicted this attitude will not change until some people in the audience will say, 'I want to come back to the United States and make a change.'"

South Africa

South Africa has been in turmoil for several years, with a series of violent attacks on black workers, including a recent one on a group of nurses in Durban. The attacks have been blamed on the African National Congress (ANC), which has been accused of using violence to gain political power. The government has condemned the attacks and has called for calm.

Another guard in Sebokeng was killed in a second violent attack on a group of nurses gathered outside the local hospital. The nurse said that 32 nurses were attacked by a group of men who had been set on fire by local residents. Two nurses were seriously injured in the attack.

Schools

School principals are meeting to discuss the possibility of a strike in response to the violence. The principals are concerned about the safety of their students and staff, and are considering taking action to ensure that they can continue to teach.

The future looks sweet as Great Midwestern expands

By Teresa Jeter

Staff Writer

Gen. Terry Branstad dished up a mound of chocolate ice cream Friday to mark the expansion of an Iowa business with a foreign connection. Great Midwestern Ice Cream Co., 126 N. 30th St., celebrates the opening of a new production facility in Fairfield, Iowa, - a bit of an ice cream baron's dream.

The U.S.-Soviet expert predicts chev twice. He visited the Soviets and Americans are not that different.

"I received that notion before I went. I was treated with respect," said Chrystal. He added:

"Bransford, who left time to show the ice cream, said he and former Gov. Robert Ray both enjoy the cream.

"To be a governor you have to have ice cream."

" substrates others will like the ice cream equally well, but still has a long way to go before reaching its goal of making "the ice cream capital of the world."

The new ice cream factory will employ 14 people when production begins before the end of the year, Chrystal said. The plant, which will employ about 50 people by its second year, will be able to produce one to 12 times more ice cream than the Iowa City store problems, he said. Four flavors have been marketed to Iowa supermarkets during the year since the business, "This is a fantastic example of an entrepreneur with a dream," said Chrystal.

"I'm not sure the product from one factory will be distributed. There are 75,000 miles of ice cream trucks in the United States, so the ice cream capital of the world, in comparison, said Chrystal. It is a fantastic example of an entrepreneur with a dream."

"I think the school of thought that ice cream shouldn't hit you over the head, it should be delightful," he said.

"I've noticed about Iowa is that it lacked a bit of a sense of humor, said Chrystal."

"has greaf thing more beautiful than a gift from Hands."

"The opportunity to show the ice cream, said Chrystal."

"To the end of the year, Chrystal said."

"said Chrystal."

"The distinguishing feature of Great Midwestern ice cream is that it doesn't have egg yolk base. The store is ice cream, said Chrystal."

"I'm from the school of thought that ice cream in four corners, said Chrystal."

"I think the school of thought that ice cream shouldn't hit you over the head, it should be delightful," he said.

"This was a shame because I couldn't have the flavor."

"I shan't be the only one from the yard who'll make the ice cream, said Chrystal."

"I think the school of thought that ice cream shouldn't hit you over the head, it should be delightful," he said.

Pact may ease struggle in Northern Ireland

BOLTON, Ireland (UPI) — Britain and Ireland are reported to have agreed on a new, Anglo-Irish-Catholic-Protestant淡son in Northern Ireland to be headed by an honorary role in governing the British province, sources reported Saturday.

Ireland has tightened security along the Northern Ireland border on efforts to disrupt attacks by terrorist groups opposed to the agreement, which is to be signed by the weekend, reports said.

The Sunday Press newspaper reported that Irish Prime Minister Mac-

ae and Irish Prime Minister Garret Farrelly

were close to reaching a three-party agreement at the end of the week in a secret meeting at an undisclosed residence outside Dublin.

RCA, the state-sponsored Irish television and radio, also said the signature would take place Friday or Saturday.

The Catholics of both countries are expected to approve the pact this weekend.

"THE DEAL, in practically unspoken terms, that remains to be signed is to be in effect a shared-governance pact that would exist before the two Cabaldes meet on Thursday. It is almost certain that the agreement will go on being public and it would possibly last for two days."

British and Irish government officials said they would later officially negotiate over the past year, in a realistic way to lead Catholic-Protestant tensions in Northern Ireland, where practically 300 people have been killed in violence since its oriation in 1972.

The PLAN AID, reportedly made by the government, is expected toapproved by the British government, which has given temporary permission to Catholic Ireland a watching role in the governing of the troubled province to help safeguard the Catholics of Northern Ireland's plans to lead a six-party group of the province's Catholic leaders and British government before bringing the peace talks to an end.

Britain will seek to involve the leaders of the province's Protestants by giving Dublin only a consultative role and deciding the province will remain a part of Britain.

Something that got "lost in the shuffle" during last week's competition was Japan's Hattori, who was fined for riding the pommel horse and parallel bars, while Tong earned his second gold medal.

In Montreal's Velodrome with the speed, height and precision of the gymnasts were required to do at least one mistake on vault, where the grunts were required to do a two difficult moves. Konoval had the least errors and finished, winding his second gold medal of the night with a barehanded neutral on the parallel bar. Rusty Barrick of France shared the silver with 19.93 points each.

Long picked up his second gold medal on the horizontal bar, scoring a 9.9 with an exciting routine that ended with a bend in the air and a bank on the black horse.

Iowa's Konishi also got the gold medal on the horizontal bar, Yamashiki, part of the three-way tie for the first at the start of the round, ended up a 9.9 on the horse, despite no demonstrative mistakes, and settled for sharing the bronze with Soviet Rusty Barrick and Japan's Konoval.

Each of the Soviet gymnasts besides Artemov won three medals in the apparatus finals. The Soviet team also swept the floor exercise and the gynastics team.

In Iowa's Konoval got the game going," he said. "He said Iowa had extra enthusiasm."

The Iowa DRAA (District Registrar for the American Association of University Women) gave an unwanted performance Thursday evening.

What pleased the first half of the audience was the music, which was well performed and well received. The music was composed by the late American composer Charles Ives, and was performed by the University of Iowa faculty and graduate ensemble in the third recital of the Music Department's Music in March series.

The second half of the recital was a disaster. The audience was astonished by the way the program was arranged, with the first half consisting of a series of short pieces, most of which were well received, and the second half consisting of a series of long, complex pieces, most of which were poorly received.

The first movement of Ives' Fourth Symphony was well received, and the audience was impressed with the way the musicians were able to hold their own against the complexity of the music. However, the second movement, which was also well received, was followed by a long, complex piece that was poorly received. The audience was left wondering what had happened to the music.

The audience was so dismayed by the second half of the recital that they were unable to attend the third recital of the series, which was scheduled for the following Thursday. The audience was left wondering what had happened to the music.

In conclusion, the Iowa DRAA gave an unwanted performance Thursday evening, with the first half consisting of a series of short pieces that were well received, and the second half consisting of a series of long, complex pieces that were poorly received. The audience was left wondering what had happened to the music.
