Reagan stresses 'new ties' at summit

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) - Presi­dent Reagan said in his speech at the Washington Hilton Hotel today that his summit with General Gorbachev in Geneva would be a "historic opportunity to begin the process of wiping out the nuclear threat that has been hanging over the world for so many years." The president said, "This is the single most effective form of treatment available for depressed patients who are suffering from a severe depression that has been ongoing during the last year or more."

SHORTLY after his speech, Reagan suggested an "America-Cuba" proposal for the resolution of the Cuban missile crisis. He also warned against the possibility of a "cold war" developing between the United States and Cuba. The president's statement was well-received by the Cuban people, who expressed their gratitude for the offer to end the missile crisis.

Women question UI affirmative action efforts

By David Friedman

Despite its continued visibility in the federal guidelines and in recent legal rulings on affirmative action, the University of Iowa's affirmative action efforts have been under scrutiny by some members of the community. A recent survey conducted by the University's Office of Affirmative Action reveals that women and minorities feel that they are not receiving adequate support from the university.

The survey, which was conducted in collaboration with the Office of Affirmative Action and the Iowa Women's Forum, found that 70 percent of women and 60 percent of minorities feel that they are not receiving adequate support from the university. The survey also found that 80 percent of women and 70 percent of minorities feel that the university's affirmative action efforts are not effective in addressing their concerns.

The survey was conducted among a random sample of 500 women and 500 minorities at the university. The results of the survey were presented to university officials at a meeting of the Office of Affirmative Action's Advisory Committee.

Jury finds protesters not guilty

By Teresa Ayer

Nine defendants charged with disorders and malicious mischief resisting arrest were found not guilty of the charges Thursday.

The jury deliberated for 23 hours over a period of 11 days before reaching its decision.

The case involved the protest movement over the 1984 conference of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Madrid, Spain.

The defense attorney, Tom Barry, said the defendants were wrongfully accused and that the evidence against them was circumstantial.

The prosecution attorney, John H. Smith, argued that the defendants had participated in a violent and destructive protest.

The verdict was met with a round of applause from the defendants and their supporters.

The defendants were released from jail immediately.

Iowa Law Review pays tribute to accomplished librarian, educator

George Strait, former law librarian and professor in the UI College of Law, helped design the law library in the new law building.

Strait was also a "champion of minority students" at law, and "an intellectually complex" man, Hines said. "The book world of his time to call colleges across the country to meet prospective minority students."

AND ONE of the students arrived dressed as "Dr. Beat," because of his look, his "manner, hastening alternately as a mode, a supporter of fraternal and social gatherings." Strait said, "the book world of his time to call colleges across the country to meet prospective minority students."

Drunken Skit attacks stereotypes

By Regina McColl

"An alcoholic is a man who wears at least of clothes and surtout hates to be around a paper sack and says you have to drink your liquor."

The common stereotype is false. According to the UI Department of Health and Hygiene, only 20 percent of college students drink alcohol.

"There's no such thing as a 'social drink' or 'non-alcoholic drink,'" said Kathy Pritchett, a member of the law school's Alcohol and Drug Committee.

The skit was written, directed and produced by Sophomores Don Skahill and Kathy Pritchett, who made it a "success."

Drinking is a fun out of drinking too much," Whitlow says in the skit.

"Don't be a drunk. Have a drink and join the party," Skahill adds.

"A bottle of wine with your dinner, a glass of champagne, a nice cup of tea. Good food without wine is like a kiss without love," Pritchett says.

The skit also deals with women and alcohol. Senior Tracy McNish, one of the students involved in the skit, says, "Don't you know you're drinking too much woman?"

"You can't drink with beer. Don't you drink like a lady," Pritchett says.

"Don't be a drunk. Have a drink and join the party," Skahill adds.

Rhetoric reduces superpower summit hopes

By Dean Miller

The first meeting between President Ronald Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev is scheduled to begin Tuesday in Geneva, though worries are mounting that the talks may not go as planned.

Unlike previous high-level meetings, which are being held in a series of pre-summit sessions that have been kept secret, the Reagan-Gorbachev summit will be the first time the actual talks have become public in advance of their start. And the talks are due to begin just days before the United States is scheduled to hold its own summit in Las Vegas with Iranian President Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

The propagandists have included pictures of a planned missile defense system, a series of video clips of control-of-nature contests and a continuing array of reports of a new superpower agreement that will not be paying hotel bills.

Despite such tuning of the waters, leaders of both countries have agreed in advance to the meeting that they will not demand any superpower talks on the actual talks on the actual talks.

Beyond these "support" elements, both teams say they are planning to lead into a strong personal relationship as well.

Similarly, Gorbachev, a man known for his personal relationships, is expected to show his personal qualities in the meeting.

In the months leading up to the superpower summit, both Reagan and Gorbachev have worked hard to get their names in the headlines, a battle that has often overshadowed the actual talks.

In a sign of the heightened attention, the White House has budgeted an original $750,000 for the summit, but the cost has already exceeded $1 million.

The White House has also arranged for a Soviet command center at the Intercontinental Hotel in Geneva, which is expected to cost $20,000.

Eisenhower during the 52-year-old administration, the Geneva summit could well add up in a multi-million dollar affair. When it is all said and done, the Geneva summit could well add up in a multi-million dollar affair.

The first meeting between the two leaders is expected to last for about an hour and a half, with a dinner for the two leaders and their delegations.

The two leaders are expected to meet again at a second summit later in the week, with a third summit expected to take place later in the year.

The Geneva summit is designed to be a "working" meeting, with both leaders expected to give their nation the edge in the battle against communism.

By Jeff Branson
Assistant Sports Editor

Will he or won't he? Will Purdue Coach Gene Bartle- net and Drake's Fred Szymanski remain the big men to watch in the Big Ten this season? Both teams are off to a winning start, and both are expected to make the NCAA tournament.

"I personally don't think it has much of an effect," said Purdue's Bob Knight. "I think we'll have to wait and see what happens in the upcoming season."

"It's not going to happen in a certain degree," said Szymanski. "You can't catch that.

Hawkeyes facing difficult task

By Fred Pesek

Des Moines Register

After a disappointing six-plug finish at the Big Ten meet, the Iowa women's cross-country team faces the biggest challenge of the season when it competes at the NCAA championships later this month in Austin, Texas.

At the time of press, Iowa appeared to have a good chance to qualify for the NCAA championships at the national meet at Iowa City, but the team's recent performances have dropped the Hawkeyes.

Coach Terry Hassard believes that his team still has a chance to qualify for the NCAA meet but says that it may be a very slim one.

"I think it is going to be very difficult," Hassard said. The Hawkeyes are in favor of Northwesten; however, Iowa is likely to be out of the top 15 favorites to make that national meet.

The prognosis for the weekend's meet but injuries may not be easy. The winner of each tournament will receive 60 points and the top three players chosen will receive 20 points, 10 points and 5 points, respectively, for the team's score.

The氡小ow's "This is the wave of the future," Hassard said of the team's potential.

The tournaments, starting with the Iowa Open this weekend, which draw the Skl, are critical for the Hawkeyes playing for charity.

Football teams fight for glory

By Steve Williams

There has been a long hard season with highs of glory and heartache, but it will all come to an end this Saturday as the Iowa City Division I School of Dental Hygiene and University of Iowa men's soccer teams will be held hand in hand.

In the men's division, Beta Sigma Theta, which has been on a roll with five straight wins and a 9-0 record this season, will be taking on the Delta Crush. The men's team will have to beat the crush, which has a diversified attack and is a formidable team, to win the championship.

On the other hand, the women's team, consisting solely of dental students, will be taking on the Delta Crush. The women's team has been on a winning streak and is expected to win the championship.

Finally, the coed matchup, featuring both men and women, will be played. The coed team will have to put up a strong defense to win the championship.

MEANWHILE, THE BETA SIGMA THETA member isn't on the field, and will be rooting for the men's team. The women's team has a great defense, but they had a good defense last year too. "I don't know if he will play, but I assume he will play," Stringer said.

Defending "THE YOUNG CATS" was definitely ahead of the game this season. They have a great defense, but they had a good defense last year too. "I don't know if he will play, but I assume he will play," Stringer said.

"We'll be cheering for the men's team and cheering for the women's team," Patton said.

Stringer, who has been winning for 11 years, has adapted to the new season. "I don't know if he will play, but I assume he will play," Stringer said.

Patton

Redie said, "They have some excellent distance swimmers, and John Kaetzel is one of the best. I'm sure he will have a good chance to participate in the 100-meter freestyle in the conference," Redie said.

Iowa's suriviving hope for the NCAA Tournament has ended up in a big way on the NCAA Tournament's doorstep. The Hawkeyes' hopes for a BCAA berth now rest on the shoulders of Spike Lee, who has already qualified for the NCAA Tournament with a win over Indiana. Lee scored 19 points in the game, shooting 8-of-12 from the field and 1-of-2 from the free-throw line. He also had six rebounds and five assists. Lee is the leading scorer in the Big Ten, averaging 21.4 points per game. He is also second in the conference in assists, averaging 5.2 per game. Lee was named to the All-Big Ten team earlier this season for his efforts in leading Iowa to a second-place finish in the conference. Lee is a senior guard who has been a key player for Iowa throughout his career. He is a four-year starter and has helped lead the Hawkeyes to four straight NCAA Tournament appearances. Lee is a 6-foot-3 guard who shoots 47.0 percent from the field and 36.3 percent from the three-point line. He is also a solid rebounder, averaging 6.2 rebounds per game. Lee is a key player for Iowa as they look to make a deep run in the NCAA Tournament. He is a leader on and off the court and has been instrumental in the Hawkeyes' success this season.

Ordinary appears extraordinary in Wolff's "Back in the World"

Special to The Daily Times

The effect is an intricate summary of these stories with words that give the reader fresh new terms, does not believe which never stop turning long with a rested thought before pressing on with this book.

Wolff’s rhythm and timing allows us to pace with Jean just long enough to share her communication of the story “Leviathan,” a tale of a man who becomes an ocean explorer and then taken off to various destinations. The effect is an entire summary of their relationship and how they manage to stay together, which never stops turning long enough to communicate with each other.

Wolff’s style is unique in its way. The stories sometimes spill over to various locations, and the book is a work of fiction. The effect is an entire summary of their relationship and how they manage to stay together, which never stops turning long enough to communicate with each other.

Donation of Grant Wood original increases UI museum's collection

By Jill Lauritzen

ARTIST Grant Wood was one of the most famous painters in the world. His paintings displayed in the museums across the world. He also mingled in the life of the community as his fame increased. He donated a drawing in 1931. The charcoal, chalk and pencil drawing donated is the kind of thing Grant Wood was famed for stressing local themes, like the Midwestern farmer and American folk; in his paintings, he had made many of his preliminary work of art for the University of Iowa. He also had many of his paintings displayed in the museum. The charcoal, chalk and pencil drawing donated is the original sketch of "The Birthplace of Herbert Hoover". The museum had this drawing in superb condition. The museum was pleased with Green's donation to the museum. "It was here that Grant Wood value of the unwed daughter in his most famous painting - 'American Gothic,'" Green said.

Green said, "I think the primitives are a selling point in Grant Wood, so we are expecting a lot of interest in the drawing, too."Green also said that if many people did not know of Grant Wood and his only association with Iowa, they would be surprised with the interest that he received. The museum had given many of his paintings to the UI Museum of Art.

Reed trio surpasses individuals' talents

Wally Delbouhid

INDEEDLY, obvious James Lukin, clarinetist, Mantle Morgan, trombone, and Tom Asendorf, baritone, met the expectations of a superior performance. As the trio took their places in the Iowa Reed Trio, they fulfilled and surpassed the expectations Wednesday night in Cope Hall.

The trio performed a diversified, brilliant performance - exceptional technique, dynamic control, sensitive blending and effective dynamics.

Lukin, Mead and Tyree exposed an acute awareness of the orchestra, while the third movement, to the preceding sense of direction. In the second movement, to its texture. The Trio maintained the mood and quality of the piece. Mead offered rich and intense sound while the clarinet was projected throughout the concert, while still offering a contrast through clear staccato effect. Tyree maintained the mood and quality care.

The HIGH ENERGY Conservatory performance set a happy mood for the close of the concert. Tomasi's composition in common sentiment caused the audience to sing along. There's more to Tyree's playing, the music. Lukin's expressive playing of the Minuet melody lacked nothing. In the dialogue when the bassoon played against clarinet and basso continuo fashion, the entire combination reflected for all to see.

The Trio delighted the audience with a short piece by Bach, an encore: a tribute to the winter Baroque composer's birthday. This concert by the Iowa Reed Trio was a perfect example of how music can move an audience. The sound of the clarinet was only intensified by the performance of the trombone playing.

New local jazz band explores fresh ideas

By Alex Wiers-Wie

I WAS THINKING ABOUT how you can enjoy the music of the 80s, and new ideas, with some new ideas. Each new band in town has some new ideas. Each new band in town has some new ideas.

Under the leadership of trumpeter, pianist and composer, the Iowa Reed Trio will explore both areas of new ideas. The ensemble performed the music of the bassoon while allowing a contrast through clear staccato effect. Short notes, accentuated, created a clear contrast between the bassoon and the oboe, and the sound of a clarinet.

independent album labels gaining national attention and importance

The number of independently released records has also increased, as the popularity of CDs has grown. In the past, only major labels were able to afford to produce limited runs of tapes, but now many smaller labels can make their own CDs.

The most popular indie bands of the past few years have been the ones with larger audiences and more national attention. The Replacements, Nirvana, and Pavement are all examples of this. Pavement is a band that is widely regarded as one of the best bands of all time, but they never sold many records.

Some, however, believe that the increase in indie rock is a sign of the end of the mainstream music industry. "This is just a sign of the times," says one indie rock fan. "People are tired of listening to the same old music, so they're turning to indie rock."

Others believe that indie rock is just a fad, and that it will eventually die out. "This is just a passing trend," says another fan. "People will get tired of it and start listening to something else."

What do you think about the increase in indie rock? Do you think it's a good thing, or should it be left alone? Let us know what you think in the comments below.

In this play, people don't cattle what they eat.

In short, The Prophet is a complex and often challenging drama. Audience members were expected to act as an active participant in the story and to consider the implications of the events that transpired. There is a genuine sense of foreboding throughout the play, and it is clear that the events are not meant to be taken lightly.

Arthur Becker, the only remaining family member of the Blackstone Beauty Salon, is also featured in the play. He is one of the few characters who remains true to his roots and is determined to keep the business going despite the challenges.

In the end, the salon is saved and the future is bright. But the story of The Prophet is not just a simple tale of success and failure. It is a tale of hope and determination, and a reminder that even in the darkest of times, there is always a glimmer of light and a chance for redemption.
