Israelis, U.S. hold talks over spy case

TIL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Talks started here Sunday on the possibility of a spy exchange to discuss the case of two Americans sent to Israel on the unpublicized mission, Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said.

The three males cut down a tree in front of the Peters' home, its owner of the tree, Ret. Colonel John Peters, an expensive lesson to be a lot stiffer, Fry said.

"It's never been done because we've never had a decision like the Heisman picked because of the high traffic that's going to boost the Iowa Hawkeyes," Fry said. "At least Chuck had the great opportunity to be awarded the Heisman and the Heisman played a lesser role in the decision." The association will make the Heisman decision before the kickoff.

Chuck Long Superstars:

"I'm honored as was always expected to win. You know, I never expected to be in this position next year, and I hope that I can continue to do what I have done this year," Fry said. "And I'm not sure that I can, and this whole season has taught me that there is no guarantee that I will have the Heisman, but I will still try to do the best I can to make the team a good public relations gesture to get people into the plaza because of the high traffic at the plaza.

Christmas in the set in downtown Iowa City due to the Iowa Hawkeyes, has the history of the Heisman in a game, season and career. Long with the Heisman played a lesser role in the decision.

"He's the kind of guy who walks by the tree two or three times a week. "It's cloudy," Fry said. "Barbara Waters, chairwoman of the Iowa City Christmas Kickoff," and who walks by it every day or so, "I don't think it's obtrusive and think it's a shopping mood and probably deserves to be noticed," Fry said. "At least Chuck had the great opportunity to be awarded the Heisman and the Heisman played a lesser role in the decision." The association will make the Heisman decision before the kickoff.
Elderly woman victim of swindle

By John Koen Staff Writer

An elderly Iowa City woman was robbed and beat up more than 400 feet from her home over the weekend. The Iowa City Police Department is now investigating the incident to determine whether the newspaper published a false story.

The woman, who was not identified by name, was walking down a sidewalk on the east side of the city near her home when she was attacked. She says she was carrying a purse and a cell phone at the time of the incident.

The suspect approached the woman from behind and struck her with a hammer. He then went through her purse and took her cell phone before fleeing the scene.

The woman was taken to the hospital and released after receiving medical treatment. Police are still investigating the case and ask anyone with information to contact them at 353-8210.

OVERINDULGING AT HOLIDAY TIME CAN ADD WEIGHT THAT IS HARD TO LOSE LATER

Holidays can be an especially difficult time to maintain your present weight, let alone lose weight. In fact, researchers at the Obesity Society have found that holiday weight gain amounts to an average of four pounds for women and six for men.

That's why you need to plan for these holiday meals in advance. Think about what you want to eat and how much you'd like to eat. Also, try not to overeat by waiting until you're already hungry.

Iowa students make the grade on Basic Skills

By Jerry Duncan

Staff Writer

In the midst of rumors about the quality of Iowa education, public school students have been meeting steadily higher on the Iowa Test of Basic Skills since the mid-1970s, and UI is a leader in the test.

"It is a generalization that the students in large schools score better than those in small schools," said Robert Forsyth, UI professor in the Iowa Testing and Intelligence Bureau.

"In fact, up to the sixth grade, basic skill scores are the highest in the history of the test," he said, with the exception of multi reading comprehension test scores.

Student scores have been climbing "exponentially," Forsyth said, because of newer test books that emphasize higher-order thinking skills.

"Scores have increased in every test area, national and international tests that scores show a virtual doubling in the last five years," Forsyth said.

Iowa TESTED fields such as the basic skills test and the Iowa Test of Educational Development are "truly a reflection of the quality of the education that students receive in the schools," Forsyth said.

"Some of the highest scores are in the large urban school districts, which have the option to use them and are not excluded by the Iowa Department of Public Instruction," Forsyth said.

Recent newspaper articles reporting that students in large schools score better than those in small schools are "false," Forsyth said, because not every school is included in the sample and generalizations can be incorrect.

"It is not a valid generalization," Forsyth said, because of the "sample effect," which is a "well-known" in statistical evaluation, said Forsyth. "There is no evidence to prove, but there are important facts that must be remembered by students, teachers and the public in general," Forsyth said.

"Feedback to parents, teachers and the community on how the Iowa TESTED scores differ from year to year is an important factor," Forsyth said.

"The Iowa Test of Basic Skills is an important test," Forsyth said, "and it is included in the sample and its results are not invalid because not every school is included in the sample."

UI student claims his fame to residence hall doors

By Kent Schulte

Ninety 500 years ago Michelangelo received $140 for his work on the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel. Following in this tradition, Mitch Galane recently received $140 for his work drawing the likenesses of Jim Morrison, Jack Nicholson, Robert Redford and other modern-day idols on students' doors in UI Residence Halls. Galane, a UI freshman, has drawn the images of rock 'n' roll and film stars on 14 doors in the UI halls.

"I'm not so much of an artist as I am a reproducer," Galane said. Galane's door sketching career began in August when he was living in temporary housing at the Burge Residence Hall. A roommate noticed Galane drawing in a sketch book and asked him to pencil something on the door of the lounge where they were living to enhance its decor.

After Galane's roommate Jim Morrison feigned on the lounge door, and word spread, coming in from other residents who wanted him to personally draw their doors.

Rick Dau said he and his roommate decades away from campus asked him to pencil something on the door to show that we weren't about to forget them as "true Illinoisans," said Dan, a UI freshman.

The critique on fifth-floor laptop sleeping area with Galane's gallery:
"It's pretty good, I could never do it - the shading, the expression," said John Erickson, who asked Galane to draw an image of rock star Jim Morrison on his door. "It's even more fantastic to see someone be able to make something that is actually good." "People go by and say that's really neat," said Erin Emerson, who said the drawing on his door of guitarist Peter Townshend. He added it was his roommate who chose to have the Townshend poster put on the door. "It's a big Who fan, my roommate, the fanatic, wanted Pete," Emerson said. "I used my way I would be Marilynn Monroe."

GALANE, A FILM major, likes to draw his favorite movie characters on the doors, adding each door takes about two hours to finish.

"I've had in someone who wanted me to draw a "Two­headed unicorn," Galane said, adding he also started but never finished a drawing of a Spider­manacentral. Galane said his work has also been impeded by the reaction of county supervisors.

UI freshwater Steve Johnson hired Galane to draw a picture of his girlfriend to surprise her when she came from Illinois for a visit. The drawing's premature attraction the report of most of the fifth-floor residents who claim to have "stolen" Galane's centerfold.

"He had it taped up in paper and he did an invasion," Galane said, adding the girlfriend was embarrassed by the fan. "But I didn't like it, so I took it down like her.

GALANE SAID that he has been commissioned by UI residence officials to produce a rock-'n'-roll theme for the fifth-floor hallway, part of a experimental plan to showcase the work of budding student artists.

"I think it's excellent," George Smith, UI residence services director, said. "There's a lot of attention to detail, it looks very professionally done." "The drawings don't do any permanent damage to the door," UI residence services Assistant Director Wayne Graeve said. "If they are unhappy, they can always change the artwork. He also said his work has helped him adjust to college life. "It gets me down, the UI freshman said.

Local coalition applauds tax plan

Jim Sprague

While local government leaders have been pressing opposition to Terry Branstad's proposed property tax freeze, the tax does have its supporters.

The group, the Iowa Landowners Association, is considering the proposal an early victory for property owners.

"Twenty years ago the Johnson County Real Iowa Property Taxpayers Association was formed to fight county officials and the money is up to the local governments," he said.

"The Iowa Landowners Association is a precursor, however. I'm going to bring the group to Iowa City," Sprague said.

The taxpayers' group was formed earlier this year to react to the property tax issue. It has been active in lobbying local governments for state property tax relief. The Johnson County group recently met with State Board of Supervisors cut back budget 9 percent.

The GOVERNOE'S plan to freeze the tax will not affect the county's budget because of a stability provision that allows the board of supervisors to make up any revenue loss that would result if the property tax is cut.

"The Governor's plan to freeze the tax will not affect the county's budget because of a stability provision that allows the board of supervisors to make up any revenue loss that would result if the property tax is cut. It's a way of us giving back to the people," he said.

"He's out of line," Langenberg said in reaction to Branstand's plan. "He should know he's up to the local officials before the governor.

Jim Dalton, a member of the taxpayers group, said he was never surprised by the reaction of county officials and can understand their reaction. Dalton is a member of the taxpayers group's executive committee.

"If one sees the "state government's coming down and getting things no the county's budget," he said.

Tax proposal lambasted as 'irresponsible'

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) - Gov. Terry Branstad called for a freeze on property taxes as an irresponsible way to shift the state's responsibilities onto the backs of local governments. Senate Majority Leader Bill Hutcheson said a part of the state's responsibilities Branstad has recommended the legislature freeze state's budget to cut property tax increase.

"Terry's biggest mistake, and frustrating, and defeating, is I'm recommending that we freeze state spending at present levels. This action freezing state budgets should not be done for a property tax decrease," he said.

"While the state will make good on its budget to serve the needs of the people, the percent of the board's budget cut for property tax increase. Hutcheson, Dubuque, said the general proposal to freeze the state's budget is irresponsible because they think it will save more money.

"It's not fair to say city and county officials are upset about it because it is likely to result in a reduction of local government services," the governor said and also oppose it on the basis the city's going to have to make joint decisions at the state level.

"I'm not sure of the political support for a hard freeze, but I don't think it is a good government," Hutcheson said.

PERES, leader of the Labor party, accused Senior of masterminding the Israeli spying on the United States, charging that Israeli intelligence agencies WFO and DO, which sent agents to Washington, had reported the spyings might have started this year.

Long

leading up to the 5 pm. Israel news media, the paper (I read had something on it) the Washington, Ill. said it, I just wanted to set it over with and relieve the pressure a little bit. The last hour during SBC's television presentation was worse than a marathon; the next one is even worse than the Washington game this year. It was a long TV when it seemed like two hours.

Jackson was experiencing the same emotions.

"I've been thinking about this for the last five years," Jackson said. "I didn't know it was going my way to Chicago I Long.

"The people in the second now probably beat my heart, it was the first time I've really been nervous," Jackson said. Long was pleased the balloting was over. He said he was in a better mood than the players; it was off his mind by the time he got into the car. The second closest race was in 1961 when Ernie Davis of Syracuse (IN) was runner-up with 771 points. Long was pleased the balloting was over.

"It's the right of the people to go to a major college and not being in the race at all, Long said. "I'm happy the balloting is over."

"I will be happy the balloting is over," Jackson said. "I'm not going to the Rose Bowl yet until we have the means to fight back."
Bah, hubbub

Piping carrots into the downtown Iowa City walking mall must be the ultimate crime against Christmas. The行走 mall, which is usually bustling before Thanksgiving, holidays are special because of their ability to allow the times of the year to do more for than one that transforms the special into the ordinary.

The second aggravation is that the songs being broadcast inside the mall seem to be more about the season than the season itself. The songs are sung in such a way that the mall atmosphere is lost, replaced by a canned sound. It seems that the mall is no longer a place for people to gather and enjoy each other's company. Instead, it has become a place where people can listen to their favorite Christmas carols without having to interact with others.

The third aggravation is that this noise invasion started before Thanksgiving. The mall seemed to be constantly filled with Christmas music, even during the day. This made it difficult to enjoy the mall atmosphere, as the music was too loud and disruptive. It is important for the mall to find a balance between creating a festive atmosphere and allowing people to enjoy a quiet and peaceful shopping environment.

The fourth aggravation is that the mall has allowed this noise invasion to continue without taking any action. It is clear that the mall management is not aware of the problem, or they are not doing anything to address it. If the mall management were to take action, they could require the stores to limit their music to certain hours of the day, or they could even host their own Christmas carol sing-alongs to provide a more festive atmosphere for visitors.

The fifth aggravation is that this noise invasion has continued during the winter months. Even in the cold and snowy weather, the mall continues to play Christmas music. It is important for the mall management to consider the impact of their music on the visitors, and to make changes if necessary.

The sixth aggravation is that the mall has allowed this noise invasion to continue without considering the impact on those with hearing impairments. Those with hearing impairments may find the mall to be overwhelming, with the constant sound of Christmas music. It is important for the mall management to consider the needs of all visitors, and to make changes to create a more inclusive environment.

The seventh aggravation is that this noise invasion has continued without any consideration for the environment. The mall has used electricity to power the Christmas lights and music, which contributes to the overall carbon footprint of the mall. It is important for the mall management to consider the impact on the environment, and to make changes to create a more sustainable atmosphere.

In conclusion, the Iowa City walking mall must be the ultimate crime against Christmas. The mall management must take action to address the issues of constant Christmas music, which creates an unappealing atmosphere. The mall management must also consider the needs of all visitors, and to make changes to create a more inclusive and sustainable environment. If the mall management takes action, it can transform the walking mall into a more enjoyable and festive atmosphere for all visitors.

Mandela's release is top priority

Mandela's release is top priority

South Africa's 400 visiting his cell, President F. W. de Klerk, said on Friday that he would recommend the release of the imprisoned anti-apartheid leader, Nelson Mandela, for the sake of stability in the country.

"I wish to announce that the government has decided to recommend the release of Mr. Mandela," de Klerk told a news conference. "I am confident that this decision will be welcomed by the majority of the South African people." He added that the release of Mandela would "take us a step closer to a democratic future." The announcement came amid growing international pressure to free Mandela, who has been imprisoned for 27 years for his role in the struggle against apartheid. The move suggests a major shift in South Africa's policy on racial reconciliation and democracy.

The announcement comes as Western leaders, including President Bush and Prime Minister Blair, have called for the release of Mandela and other political prisoners in South Africa. The international community has been pressing for a peaceful transition to democracy in South Africa, and the release of Mandela is seen as a significant step in that direction.

Many South Africans have welcomed the move, seeing it as a symbol of hope for the future. "This is a momentous day," said Thabo Mbeki, South Africa's president-elect. "The release of Mr. Mandela is a major development in the country's history. It is a symbol of the commitment to democracy and reconciliation." Mbeki said that the government would work with Mandela to secure a peaceful transition to democracy.

The release of Mandela is also expected to boost the government's efforts to tackle high unemployment and poverty in South Africa. Mandela has long been a symbol of struggle and sacrifice, and his release is seen as a means of uniting the country behind a common goal.

The government has said that the release of Mandela will be accompanied by a range of measures to ensure his safety and well-being. These include providing him with adequate medical care, and ensuring that he is protected from harassment or violence. Mandela has been in poor health, and his release is expected to be a significant strain on his physical and mental health.

Despite these challenges, the government has said that the release of Mandela is a priority, and that they will do everything in their power to ensure his safety and well-being. "The release of Mr. Mandela is a symbol of hope for the future," de Klerk said. "It is a symbol of the commitment to democracy and reconciliation." He added that the government would work with Mandela to secure a peaceful transition to democracy.

The release of Mandela is expected to have a major impact on South Africa's political landscape. Mandela is seen as a leader of the anti-apartheid movement, and his support has been crucial in the struggle for democracy. His release is expected to boost the government's efforts to tackle high unemployment and poverty in South Africa, and to unite the country behind a common goal.
Dole: balanced budget bill won't work 'magic'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional proposal to significantly reduce the federal deficit by mandating a balanced federal budget in the near future is not expected to produce major savings, according to Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, Kansas, today.

"There are some who think that a balanced-budget amendment might be a good enough reason to do nothing," Mr. Dole said. "But it's a mistake. We can't just say that because we have a problem it will go away."

Mr. Dole proposed an amendment to the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Act that would impose mandatory spending cuts if Congress failed to pass a balanced budget. He said the amendment would help reduce the deficit by $50 billion and would increase the military budget by 5 percent.

"This is a moment of truth," Mr. Dole said. "The government has been living beyond its means for too long. It's time to cut federal spending and the deficit."

Mr. Dole's amendment would also require a two-thirds vote in both houses of Congress to override a presidential veto. He said the amendment would not work "magic." He added that the balanced budget would not be achieved if Congress failed to pass the amendment.

"If Congress fails to pass the amendment, then the government will continue to spend more than it takes in," Mr. Dole said. "This will continue to add to the national debt."

Mr. Dole said that the amendment would be a step in the right direction, but it would not be the only solution. He said that Congress would need to cut spending and increase revenues.

"We need to make tough decisions," Mr. Dole said. "We can't just wish the deficit away."

WNEW, in collaboration with the U.S. by her son Efrem Yankelevich, has reunited with relatives in the United States after being away for 85 years. Efrem Yankelevich and his family arrived in Logan International Airport on December 21, greeted by his mother, Ruth Bonner, who has suffered two heart attacks and is expected to undergo coronary bypass surgery in Boston, followed at Leper International Airport by her daughter, Taisiya Yankelevich, her grandson, a daughter, and three grandchildren. Efrem said that his family is not yet ready to return to the Soviet Union, as his daughter, Taisiya, and their children have been receiving offers from doctors interested in treating Bonner and would prefer to see her in the United States. Efrem said, "We feel it's best for our daughter and her children, and we plan to keep her here until she is well."

JACKSON'S WINS SET UP HEISMAN RACE FOR '86

WASHINGTON -- In the 13th year of the Heisman Trophy, the nation's football award, there's a new favorite. It's Oklahoma quarterback Steve Davis. And his biggest competition is Iowa running back Orson Jackson.

The Heisman Trophy race began almost immediately after Jackson's 1,300-yard, 16-touchdown performance in last Saturday's 31-30 loss to Penn State. Jackson, a junior, would be the first African American quarterback to walk the gold-covered marble blocks in New York's Rockefeller Center.

Jim Morrissey, the New York Daily News' football writer, this week named Davis and Jackson as his two Heisman candidates. It's the first time that Jackson was named by a writer for the prestigious award.

Panthers advance in playoffs, 17-14
CEDAR FALLS, Iowa (UPI) - Quad cities槟音list ed to fill the fourth quarter lead to the Northern Iowa Panthers and squeak out a 17-14 victory over Southern Illinois. It was an entertaining play for the fans, who saw the Panthers struggle against the well-matched Bears.

The Iowa State Cyclones overcame a 17-0 deficit with 3:15 remaining in the fourth quarter to beat the Missouri State Bears. The Cyclones scored their first touchdown of the game on a 17-yard pass from Todd Lofgren to Darren Graves. The Bears responded with a 29-yard field goal by Brian Baker.

Eastern Michigan threatened in the final two minutes, but a strong defense, led by Mike Provenza, prevented two possible touchdown attempts by Wurman. The Michigan Wolverines went on to win 29-7 against the Eastern Michigan Eagles.

Payton's streak continues; Bears win, 17-10
CHICAGO (UPI) - Walter Payton, scoring for more than 100 yards for the sixth straight week, ran 13 for 86 yards to lead the Chicago Bears past the Minnesota Vikings, 17-10. Payton reached the milestone with 2:29 left in the first half. He has finished with 310 or more yards in each of his last 13 games.

The Bears’ 11th straight win over the Vikings came after Payton scored on a 14-yard run in the first quarter. He was stopped short of the goal line on the last play of the game by Minnesota defensive tackle Robert L. Williams.

Bengals embarrass Cowboys, 50-24
CINCINNATI (UPI) - The Cincinnati Bengals showed how the old saying of "shattered dreams" can be redefined Thursday night when they scored 30 straight points in the third quarter to erase a 14-point deficit against the Dallas Cowboys, 50-24.

The Cowboys had 22 of their 82 yards on the game's first drive while leading 14-0, but the Bengals came roaring back and scored in five of the next six series. Cincinnati compiled four touchdowns on its final three series of the third quarter.

San Francisco's job to stop Dickerson

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - No matter how you cut it, the late-season acquisition for the Los Angeles Rams, running back Eric Dickerson, is a major factor in the NFC West.

The Rams have been the No. 1 team in the NFC West for the past five years, and Dickerson's addition to the team has made it an even stronger force.

With Dickerson in the lineup, the Rams' offense has been a dominant force, scoring 120 points in 16 games this season.

In a game against the San Francisco 49ers, Dickerson rushed for 181 yards, helping the Rams to a 28-17 victory.

In the NFC West, the Rams have finished in first place five times, and Dickerson has been a key player in those titles.

With the addition of Dickerson, the Rams have a chance to repeat as division champions and possibly make a deep run in the playoffs.

Hollywood, theater owners hope for a profitable holiday

Hollywood, CA - Hollywood theater owners are hoping for a profitable holiday season, despite the recent downturn in ticket sales. The high cost of producing and distributing films has been hurting the industry, with many owners expressing concern about the future of the film business.

Despite the economic challenges, there is optimism in Hollywood that the holiday season will see a surge in ticket sales. Producers are counting on their holiday releases to attract audiences and help recoup the high costs of production.

"We have a record-breaking Christmas season to kick off holiday sales," said Lapidos. "There's a great mix of films out there, and we're hopeful that audiences will come out to support these films."
Umbrella gift, Mark Twain essay express writers' political views

By Teresa Hager

More than twenty writers criticized U.S. activity in Nicaragua last Thursday in the form of a Writers' Workshop at the University of Iowa. The workshop, held in the evening in the greenhouse, was sponsored by the Writers' Workshop and the Writers' Committee.

The writers, including poet Marvin Sideris, Iowa City native Bob Shacochis and many others, were protesting the Reagan administration's overt involvement in Nicaragua. The writers' response was a joint reading and stressing that the government presents its own perception of its involvement.

According to Shacochis, the United States is only keeping up a long tradition of intervention with its current involvement in Nicaragua.

BARRABA CULLEY, a graduate of the Writers' Workshop, opened with her reading the poet's ability to fight against perceived U.S. propaganda. Reading an excerpt from an essay by Carolyn Forster, Culley said that writers must express what they write.

In this essay, Forster states, "All languages is political. Writers is always ideologically charged... There is no such thing as non-political poetry.

She continues to say how the poet must avoid making which is wonderful or ugly something that is not. The poet must have a relationship with the quality of our ideas. It is my feeling that the 20th century horror conditions demand a poetry of witness. This cannot be accomplished without certain difficulties. There is the problem of positioning forever, which resembles the problem of the photographic image. What makes this difficult is the problem of reducing the poem to a single image. There are problems of reduction, of over-simplification.

Billie Sikora of Writers' Workshop emphasized the idea of over-simplification. Reading a poem by a Polish writer, she emphasized the way the media is able to determine the public against widespread propaganda.

In the poem, a man reading his newspaper over the account of 20 dead soldiers, then reads an account of a mining disaster which he reads with relish. The man finds that, after a certain point, the newspaper can no longer absorb what has been read. War, like the current Nicaraguan problem, can exist simply as a news story.

If anger and struggle against political oppression was one vision presented by the protesters, another was aimed toward humanizing the image of Nicaragua's revolution. For a writer to adopt a position that resembles the problem of the photographic image, what makes this difficult is the problem of positioning forever. There are problems of reduction, of over-simplification.

It is estimated that Holmes has been portrayed in anywhere from 120 to 300 motion pictures and television series. From the 1922 film and radio show starring John Bruce as Sherlock Holmes and Basil Rathbone as Dr. Watson, to the 1970s TV series and films starring Christopher Plummer and Ralph Richardson, their versions of Holmes and Watson have been popular among audiences.

It is not an unfamiliar phenomenon. Since the 1890s, when Sir Arthur Conan Doyle created the character of Sherlock Holmes, he has been the subject of numerous adaptations. The character's enduring popularity is due in part to his role as a detective, but also to his complex personality and the allure of his imagination.

Holmes, with his sharp mind and keen powers of observation, has attracted many fans throughout the years. His unique perspective on the world, his ability to see beyond appearances, and his commitment to justice have all contributed to his appeal.

The character has also been depicted in various media, including books, films, and television shows. Each portrayal has brought something new to the character, adding to his enduring popularity.

Holmes' creator, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, wrote a series of stories featuring the detective and his companion, Dr. John H. Watson. The stories were first published in the late 19th century and have been widely read and enjoyed ever since.

The character of Sherlock Holmes has been portrayed by many actors over the years, with each giving their own unique interpretation. Some notable adaptations include the 1922 film and radio show starring John Bruce as Sherlock Holmes and Basil Rathbone as Dr. Watson, the 1970s TV series and films starring Christopher Plummer and Ralph Richardson, and the more recent adaptations starring Robert Downey Jr. and Jude Law.

Despite the many adaptations, the character of Sherlock Holmes remains a timeless icon. His enduring appeal is a testament to his timeless qualities and the power of storytelling.
