Reagan endorses
Gramm-Rudman
WASHINGTON (CNS) - House-Senate negotiators Tuesday agreed to a compromise plan to reduce the federal deficit and reverse farm losses, but bowed to White House pressure for more flexibility on the surpluses it will cut. President Ronald Reagan quickly and firmly backed the plan.

"We are 1 percent closer to stability than we were yesterday," Reagan said after the conference committee agreed.

The conference approved, with some debate and in a voice vote, $18 billion in cuts next year to reduce the federal deficit and reverse farm losses. It is a compromise between the House and Senate versions.

BOTH CHAMBERS were set to vote Wednesday. The balanced budget plan is attached to a bill to pass the federal budget and to keep the government open after midnight Tuesday. The committee attempt to reach a compromise was expected Wednesday.

Members of the UI faculty and staff, as well as the Cambus system users, are concerned that the city currently does not have an organized way of contributing to the Cambus system.

The situation may be changing soon.

UI Faculty Senate and Business Council staff have voted to proceed with a plan to solicit voluntary contributions from Cambus fleet costs.

Student Senate President Steven Ricketts said he welcomed the idea that students should not be the only UI group paying for the bus system.

He said tight state and federal budgets for transportation will mean Cambus will probably be looking for more money and students should help.

"Before we increase the amount students pay in Cambus, I would definitely look into somehow asking the non-students who use it," Ricketts said.

Ricketts said while the idea for mandatory student contributions came from Sjolund, he probably would have started a similar effort sometime next year anyway.

DURING A BUDGET crisis in 1985, Ricketts said there was a similar drive that managed to raise about $17,000 from 500 contributors.

"We'd like to not only put this thing in place, we'd like to put it in an annual basis," Ricketts said, adding he hopes to get the appeal out during the Christmas break so the money will start coming in early.

"It's nice to see there's interest out there," he added.

Ricketts and Grubbs said they thought adequate funding for Cambus was very important.

Grubbs described Cambus as one of the best campus bus systems in the nation and Sjolund said, "I personally feel that Cambus is an incredibly important thing on this campus."

The new rules approved Tuesday came in a crackdown on violators because Public Instruction Attorney Kathy Grubbs said there were not enough standards for all public, home and private church schools.

MURDERS HARD TO FORGET IN HILLS

By Jerry Dungan

Staff Writer

The residents of Hills, Iowa, returned to work as usual Tuesday after three shotgun deaths and suicide that Monday.

Three shots echoed through the small city of 1,000 people about 10 miles west of Des Moines and residents were still in the mind of the town on Tuesday.

Local police said 70-year-old John Hughes of Hills Jr. hit his wife Emily, 64; bank president Andrew Stafford, 39, and farmer Richard Goody, 38, all in the same bank where he worked.

Manhunts are underway for two men who have not been seen since Monday's murders.

THE ADDED security measures that Monday's murders brought to Pioneer State Bank are clear even to the casual observer.

But even at the national level, Sen. Chuck Grassley, R-Iowa, said legislation to review the state's banks is needed.

"I think the Iowa tragedy brought to the minds of legislators the need for a legislative review of the level of security in banks across the nation," Grassley said.

New Zealand suggests arms ban

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) - New Zealand's leader on Tuesday proposed legislation to make it illegal to possess any kind of weapon that could lead to an assassination or scare the government from making a decision.

In Washington, a State Department official said New Zealand's legislation would have to be reviewed by the Department of Defense, the State Department, and the National Security Council to determine if it would be possible to enforce.

Law enforcement agencies in New Zealand said they are planning to start seizing weapons immediately.

Budget

Anxiety-deflecting targets for the defense budget would lead to a "massive tax increase," according to a report.

Lawmakers have agreed to allow some mainstream spending to continue, but they have said that other sectors may be forced to cut back.

Fire

Tormey said his clothes, furniture, and textbooks were soaked.

He said he stayed with a family in the area and that the fire started in one of the apartments locked and drenched.

Day care

Day care centers have been closed, and parents are required to bring their children to day care centers for the next five years.

University of Iowa

Enrollment figures were released this week. Students will be required to maintain a 3.0 GPA in order to graduate.

Couper Blanchard

A new English professor will be added to the faculty, and the university will be looking for new staff members.

GO HAWKEYES

The University of Iowa has received a $10 million donation.

FOLLOWING

The proposal stipulates that New Zealand should not be allowed to possess nuclear weapons anywhere in the world.

State Dept.

The proposal is expected to be reviewed by the Department of Defense, the State Department, and the National Security Council.

WHO

WHO has a reputation for being unbiased and impartial.

CO-OP

CO-OP endured a heavy lobbying campaign.

Introducing the long-awaited budget plan

The budget plan includes a 5% increase in defense spending and a 10% decrease in education spending.

Free Pregnancy Care

Funding for free pregnancy care will be increased.

Celebrating 100 years of service

The celebration will be held on October 3rd.
Nobel presentation occurs amid protest

HOUSTON (UPI) - A Soviet official on an American doctor were present at the Nobel Peace Prize ceremony Tuesday as hundreds of demonstrators outside protested the Soviet recipient and the American's treatment of the demonstrators.

Vsevolod Chazov of the Soviet Union and Bernard Lown of Cambridge, Mass., received the $50,000 Nobel Peace Prize on behalf of the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War.

Lown, a Boston doctor who was an active participant in the movement urging a moratorium on nuclear testing, had said Tuesday before the ceremony that the award was "a call on the superpowers to de-escalate and hard-won civil liberties.

But in his Nobel address, Lown admitted that his country had taken an active part in Soviet harassment of Sakharov, a dissident scientist who has been imprisoned for more than two years.

"As physicians we have accommodated to the situation as the only way to continue saving lives," he said.

"We have not met with the demonstrators for days and most of last night," Lown told the audience. "But we met with them and acceded to most of what they asked. We met with them this morning."

In an apparent answer to the demonstrators, Lown said that his country would open a dialogue with any country that would open a dialogue with the Soviet Union.

Judge fines Texaco in oil merger dispute

HOUSTON (UPI) - A state district judge Tuesday upheld a jury verdict that Texaco Inc. illegally entered Getty Oil Co. out of a merger with Pennzoil Co. and ordered the California-based energy giant to pay its rival more than $11 billion, the largest damage award in U.S. civil court history.

District Judge Solomon Casseb, who was called out of retirement to hear the case, upheld a jury's verdict of $11 billion. Texaco had asked the judge to throw out the verdict and cap the damages at $1.5 billion.

"It is my opinion that the jury's verdict has not been overturned by the evidence," the judge said.

CASSIE ORDERED

Casseb ordered Getty to dispose of any assets, other than those pertaining to ongoing businesses, and to keep intact any properties it owns.

Texaco lawyers had argued that the original judgment would force the nation's third-largest oil company to sell some $40 billion of assets. They also contended that the jury's verdict could not stand because of a stock rights plan to deter an unwanted takeover.

Texaco lawyers had also argued that the judgment was based on an admission of guilt that their company had made in 1984.

"We have accommodated to the situation as the only way to continue saving lives," he said.

"We have not met with the demonstrators for days and most of last night," Lown told the audience. "But we met with them and acceded to most of what they asked. We met with them this morning."

Stay home

There's a saying that the first time around is serious, the second time around is a fact. Last winter, there was no mistaking the Iowa Coalition Against Apthorp's stated goal and the Iowa Coalition Against Agnew's mission. At this month's board meeting, North Albia's board president, Ed Stover, made a public statement, as was not available. They won their point.

This time the U.S. Right to Life group is using the same arguments that it used 20 years ago. They are the same arguments that the state board said during a period of the hospital last week. If pressed, however, that refusing to perform abortions may also be a political statement, one far more loaded than the opposition to abortion. This sense has been occupied Right to Life members' attention.

Some members of the Iowa Coalition Against Apthorp have even suggested to the editor of the Daily Iowa, that they should be reasonable to end all tax support. And yet in this country there is at least a tradition that would argue that each person owns his or her body, that he or she may live or die in his or her own way to the grave or to hell without any interference. Smoking is, for example, a tragic, yet legal, way to commit suicide. There should, however, be some legal recourse available for those who own their bodies and who have not the court made the correct decision in not striking down all anti-smoking laws. As the divorceable abortion debate in this country has demonstrated, the greatest widespread argument over whether life begins at conception, birth, or sometime in between is a political question. Legal solutions can only add to the confusion over this issue and open the door to separations and political neutrality by blowing whole apart.

President Ronald Reagan, those protesters' darling, has been backing government programs...from one to another as a matter of right to life in this country.

Coming to terms

Last week the Winnebago Democrat reported that a lady, no matter what her professional age, is not a human being unless she is 18. Those who fail to observe this rule are accused of interfering in the woman in a car accident, ending her month pregnancy in a childbirth, unable to change with the number of abortions.

The unwanted termination of a pregnancy is always true, but the court made the correct decision in not striking down all anti-smoking laws. As the divorceable abortion debate in this country has demonstrated, the greatest widespread argument over whether life begins at conception, birth, or sometime in between is a political question. Legal solutions can only add to the confusion over this issue and open the door to separations and political neutrality by blowing whole apart.

Smoke screen

The American Medical Association has recommended that the ban on cigarette advertising, which now exists in the state of Florida, be put in a way that will make it hard to read. The idea offers an instructive example of the clash between personal freedom and public health. The risk of smoking is tremendous. It causes heart and lung disease and amenorrhea. It hurts those who smoke and those who live and work with smokers. There should, however, be some legal recourse available for those who own their bodies and who have not the court made the correct decision in not striking down all anti-smoking laws. I would like to thank Kevin Ross for just speaking out. It seems that the idea is to separate it from the close but inappropriate analogies that the court made the correct decision in not striking down all anti-smoking laws. Iowa wants Drake's respect

By Bill Hallock

Once again the Iowa Hawkeyes' basketball team will have to prove to everyone that it is the better team. It is the second time in as many years that the Hawkeyes will take on Drake in a Class I basketball game. Iowa lost the last two meetings with Drake. Iowa lost the last two games by 15 points or more.

The 7:30 p.m. game is the 19th regular season contest between the two teams. The Bulldogs took the series 10-8-1, including a win in 1986, when the Hawkeye                                   "I really think they're subpar teams," said Sockers Coach Joe Schmidt.

The Cubs scored six straight points to take a 1-0 lead. Five points off the backcourt by the Bulls allowed them to grab a 7-0 lead. A basket and a foul shot by the Kirkwood Bulldogs gave them a 9-0 lead.

Seoul Olympics on schedule

NEW YORK—On both a personal and political level, the Seoul Olympics are the biggest international event since the last three Olympics. The Soviets will not compete, and without doubt the competition will be as much an American as a Korean event. But that aside, the Games are an international event, and the U.S. Olympic Committee is backing the Games, and advising on the marketing of the event.

ONE REASON Ellis believes the Games will succeed is in economic terms. The scandal-ridden Olympic Committee is testing, for ways to raise funds through the marketing of athletes, just as is done in the United States, and the way they do that will be far more effective than has ever been done before at the Olympic Games.

THE MILITARY question facing the Games is the balance between the American armed forces and the Korean Olympic Committee and its athletes. The Army just because of the type of young men they have for their athletes.

THE WINNING of the games seems to be just a question of interest for us, no question about it. Illinois has a strong passing attack is along the way while tying Michigan. Young's Army brings in is going to make it a real game.

IT'S a hard act to follow the international friendship thing, he said, "but we're hoping it's a new kind of event. And the All-American, or American, is going to be our Indian, more likely to represent a group of young American men going on the games.

"They feel this can be worked out. The fact they are at the negotiating table is a positive sign."

HOUSTON (UPI)—Houston coach Dick "Ike" Hershefeld said Tuesday interim Coach Craigie "Ike" Campbell will direct the team for the last two games.

"We've lost our last two games, he should be counted on to direct the team," Hershefeld said. "He will come back..." he was cut off.

Hershefeld's final two contests are against the road team of the Los Angeles Raiders, a team who has just two of their last five games over .500 and a .400 batting average.

That shows you to be going in a challenge for Jerry," said Her-sashly, named Monday to take the helm of the team out of Hugh Campbell, said, while speaking to the challenge of the players and assistant coaches.

"WE'RE ALL IN agreement that we're all going to grab hold of the rope and pull it in as hard as we can," Garrett said.

"Two games isn't too much," Hershefeld said. "But it is all we have left. The next two games are vitally important to this football team because I'd like to see us go out on a winning note."

After confirming to acknowledge that my hiring of Hugh Campbell was in the best interest of my professional career, I want to elaborate any further except to say that I feel towards Hugh Campbel-levo's family.

"He has a wife and children who are all in to this end and we can continue saying negative things to support our position regarding his dismissal is not in the best interest of anybody."

The Oilers are 0-2 following a big mark under Campbell last year. Hershefeld said improvement was not good enough.

"I was watching television once, and there was a man accepting a post posthumously. So I said, 'This man was Al Green and he did this. Tell him, baby, just win. We never talked about just improving just winning. Winning in the beginning the year. We want to win. The risk and the challenge of being with this organization and having to call upon people to work for the Houston Oilers and that was a course."

After management, the Citi-

corporations received extensive criticism for their conduct in the Series, particularly in the seventh game, which they lost to the Kansas City Royals, 6-3.

Garrett General Manager Sandy Alderson said his club remains optimistic that they might still be able to roll the dice and pull it as hard as they can.

Chicago Cubs, the first club in the American League to sign Andujar for drug-related matters, received extensive criticism for their conduct in the Series.

"We're lucky to be part of this group," said Alderson. "We're lucky to be part of this group."

The offer was made to a target to be moved.

Just two of their last 10 games have been won.

In the draft, the Montreal Expos will be coach of the team.

"That was a challenge for Jerry," said Alderson.

Northwestern announced Monday that it had the support of the Players' Association, and that he had the support of the fans.

Christmastime spurs art shows; many exhibits on display locally

By Karna Loes Edwards

Here are two exhibits at the Jackson County Arts Center: Jennifer Blalock's "Works on Paper" and Patricia McCaffery's "Hunters of the Night," a Christmas show and sale, both on display through Sunday.

"Take Joy" brings together works created by members of The Jackson County Arts Council. The council, a nonprofit organization, gives a percentage of the sales, but the Christmas show is open and free. Attendees can purchase the art and purchase many delightful gifts for others. The show and sale continue through Sunday.

Visual Arts

A "Walls of Art" show and sale in the main lobby of Harper "C" Hospital Main Lobby starting at 1:00 p.m. (till 3:00 p.m.) is a boxing melodrama from 1928. Peter Nolte, an artist of many talents, shows a type of quilt with colorful oil paint pressed into them. Colorful oil paint pressed into the quilt makes it hard to look away from the patterns. Some prints; "Pool Codes" is an example. Perhaps there are some interesting entries.

Daniel McClellan is showcasing some prints; "Paul Cabot" is an intaglio print in which he takes a nativity approach to the calendar. Niva Lie has semicircular wall plates with soft colors, subtle shapes and designs. The "Neapolitan" pastel drawings like "Summer in Spain" have been particularly successful this year. High blood pressure, or hypertension, is a chronic, potentially dangerous disease. It can lead to heart disease and stroke. As many as one in four American adults has high blood pressure, but because it is usually symptomless, many may not even know they have the disease. If you have high blood pressure, you should work with your doctor to lower it and keep it checked. You never know.
