Regents to vote on higher dorm fees

By Bruce Japappa
Staff Writer

The student body and the Iowa Senate, CAC dole out funds

By Steve Thomas
Staff Writer

The Iowa House of the year

Iowa House Speaker Clay Sh roleId said the bill will pay as much as 25% more to live in residence halls next year if the state Board of Regents approves a 25% proposal to increase the dorm fees. The proposal, if passed, would increase the fees by $25 more per semester, for a total of $129 in costs.

Under the proposal, residents would pay $129 more to live in dormitories than they currently do. ui officials say the increase is necessary to combat the crowding problem on campus.

The deferral of the proposal to vote on the increased fees will take place this Wednesday in the UI Senate. The vote is expected to be held on the 1984-85 fiscal year. The final vote will be held in the Senate next Wednesday.

The Regents are expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15. The Board of Regents is expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15. The Board of Regents is expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15.

The Regents are expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15. The Board of Regents is expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15.

The Regents are expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15. The Board of Regents is expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15.

The Regents are expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15. The Board of Regents is expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15.

The Regents are expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15. The Board of Regents is expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15.

The Regents are expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15. The Board of Regents is expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15.

The Regents are expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15. The Board of Regents is expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15.

The Regents are expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15. The Board of Regents is expected to vote on the increased fees at the Board of Regents meeting on March 15.
Reagan urges Contra vote
WASHINGTON - President Reagan today pressed for support of the military aid to the anti-Communist fighters in Nicaragua, known as the Contras. The administration has asked for $100 million and is hoping to come up with another $50 million or perhaps a smaller amount.

Iowa activists rally for state unity
The Iowa State Federation of Labor, however, has opposed the Contras. Last week the federation's board of directors issued a resolution opposing the administration's proposals.

On Wednesday, the Iowa Federation of Labor executive board met and voted unanimously against the administration's proposals. The board issued a statement saying that the proposal to send $100 million to the Contras "is not in the best interest of the workers of Iowa."

The federation's executive board, which is made up of representatives from the state's 14 labor federations, said it opposes the administration's proposal because of the Contras' human rights record and their connection to right-wing forces in Central America.

The federation's executive board also said it opposes the administration's proposal because it would be a violation of the workers' rights to be forced to contribute to the Contras.

The federation's executive board said it was not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

The federation's executive board said it is not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

Iowa activists rally for state unity
The Iowa State Federation of Labor, however, has opposed the Contras. Last week the federation's board of directors issued a resolution opposing the administration's proposals.

On Wednesday, the Iowa Federation of Labor executive board met and voted unanimously against the administration's proposals. The board issued a statement saying that the proposal to send $100 million to the Contras "is not in the best interest of the workers of Iowa."

The federation's executive board, which is made up of representatives from the state's 14 labor federations, said it opposes the administration's proposal because of the Contras' human rights record and their connection to right-wing forces in Central America.

The federation's executive board also said it opposes the administration's proposal because it would be a violation of the workers' rights to be forced to contribute to the Contras.

The federation's executive board said it was not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

The federation's executive board said it is not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

Iowa activists rally for state unity
The Iowa State Federation of Labor, however, has opposed the Contras. Last week the federation's board of directors issued a resolution opposing the administration's proposals.

On Wednesday, the Iowa Federation of Labor executive board met and voted unanimously against the administration's proposals. The board issued a statement saying that the proposal to send $100 million to the Contras "is not in the best interest of the workers of Iowa."

The federation's executive board, which is made up of representatives from the state's 14 labor federations, said it opposes the administration's proposal because of the Contras' human rights record and their connection to right-wing forces in Central America.

The federation's executive board also said it opposes the administration's proposal because it would be a violation of the workers' rights to be forced to contribute to the Contras.

The federation's executive board said it was not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

The federation's executive board said it is not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

Iowa activists rally for state unity
The Iowa State Federation of Labor, however, has opposed the Contras. Last week the federation's board of directors issued a resolution opposing the administration's proposals.

On Wednesday, the Iowa Federation of Labor executive board met and voted unanimously against the administration's proposals. The board issued a statement saying that the proposal to send $100 million to the Contras "is not in the best interest of the workers of Iowa."

The federation's executive board, which is made up of representatives from the state's 14 labor federations, said it opposes the administration's proposal because of the Contras' human rights record and their connection to right-wing forces in Central America.

The federation's executive board also said it opposes the administration's proposal because it would be a violation of the workers' rights to be forced to contribute to the Contras.

The federation's executive board said it was not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

The federation's executive board said it is not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

Iowa activists rally for state unity
The Iowa State Federation of Labor, however, has opposed the Contras. Last week the federation's board of directors issued a resolution opposing the administration's proposals.

On Wednesday, the Iowa Federation of Labor executive board met and voted unanimously against the administration's proposals. The board issued a statement saying that the proposal to send $100 million to the Contras "is not in the best interest of the workers of Iowa."

The federation's executive board, which is made up of representatives from the state's 14 labor federations, said it opposes the administration's proposal because of the Contras' human rights record and their connection to right-wing forces in Central America.

The federation's executive board also said it opposes the administration's proposal because it would be a violation of the workers' rights to be forced to contribute to the Contras.

The federation's executive board said it was not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

The federation's executive board said it is not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

Iowa activists rally for state unity
The Iowa State Federation of Labor, however, has opposed the Contras. Last week the federation's board of directors issued a resolution opposing the administration's proposals.

On Wednesday, the Iowa Federation of Labor executive board met and voted unanimously against the administration's proposals. The board issued a statement saying that the proposal to send $100 million to the Contras "is not in the best interest of the workers of Iowa."

The federation's executive board, which is made up of representatives from the state's 14 labor federations, said it opposes the administration's proposal because of the Contras' human rights record and their connection to right-wing forces in Central America.

The federation's executive board also said it opposes the administration's proposal because it would be a violation of the workers' rights to be forced to contribute to the Contras.

The federation's executive board said it was not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

The federation's executive board said it is not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

Iowa activists rally for state unity
The Iowa State Federation of Labor, however, has opposed the Contras. Last week the federation's board of directors issued a resolution opposing the administration's proposals.

On Wednesday, the Iowa Federation of Labor executive board met and voted unanimously against the administration's proposals. The board issued a statement saying that the proposal to send $100 million to the Contras "is not in the best interest of the workers of Iowa."

The federation's executive board, which is made up of representatives from the state's 14 labor federations, said it opposes the administration's proposal because of the Contras' human rights record and their connection to right-wing forces in Central America.

The federation's executive board also said it opposes the administration's proposal because it would be a violation of the workers' rights to be forced to contribute to the Contras.

The federation's executive board said it was not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

The federation's executive board said it is not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

Iowa activists rally for state unity
The Iowa State Federation of Labor, however, has opposed the Contras. Last week the federation's board of directors issued a resolution opposing the administration's proposals.

On Wednesday, the Iowa Federation of Labor executive board met and voted unanimously against the administration's proposals. The board issued a statement saying that the proposal to send $100 million to the Contras "is not in the best interest of the workers of Iowa."

The federation's executive board, which is made up of representatives from the state's 14 labor federations, said it opposes the administration's proposal because of the Contras' human rights record and their connection to right-wing forces in Central America.

The federation's executive board also said it opposes the administration's proposal because it would be a violation of the workers' rights to be forced to contribute to the Contras.

The federation's executive board said it was not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.

The federation's executive board said it is not surprised by the administration's proposal because it has been discussing the Contras with the administration for some time.
UI professors work 55-hour week, give priority to teaching duties

By Dona Colton

U of I professors work 55 hours a week, yet give priority to teaching over research.

"At 55 hours a week, professors in the UI's three state universities spend about 10 hours working each week, and most of that time is spent on research," says a UI official.

In the UI's 15 percent of its time on research, nearly 30 percent of the time teaching, nearly 20 percent in research and in 10 percent in other activities, including administrative work on American and constant teaching and research.

UI Assistant President of Instructional and Mass Communication John Langenberg said teaching is her priority.

"Flanders is also involved in the classroom, a problem which extends 10 years of her time to the classroom, the quality of instruction is likely to suffer," said U of I Professor of Psychology.

"If the presentation of the situation continues to deteriorate, the quality of instruction is likely to suffer," said U of I Professor of Psychology.

Delayed approval of road project leads supervisors into additional work.

By Jim Tompkins

"We ought to go into there and plan it," said UI Supervisor Dennis Langenberg.

"If we're going to be a growing, learning place, we have to be creating," said UI Assistant Nursing Supervisor.

"If we're going to be a growing, learning place, we have to be creating," said UI Assistant Nursing Supervisor.

According to the board meeting, the supervisors into temptation with as much as three feel of water in the road crosses. The road crosses a wildlife area owned by the corps and removes offensive weeds.

"If we're going to be a growing, learning place, we have to be creating," said UI Assistant Nursing Supervisor.

"But while the corps works on the road, the wildlife refuge is removed and the road crosses on the wildlife area owned by the corps and removes offensive weeds.

"If we're going to be a growing, learning place, we have to be creating," said UI Assistant Nursing Supervisor.

But Langenberg's suggestion was not accepted. He said the shortage of land on the corps find out afterwards.

"If we're going to be a growing, learning place, we have to be creating," said UI Assistant Nursing Supervisor.

"If we're going to be a growing, learning place, we have to be creating," said UI Assistant Nursing Supervisor.

According to the board meeting, the corps work on the road, the wildlife refuge is removed and the road crosses on the wildlife area owned by the corps and removes offensive weeds.

But Langenberg's suggestion was not accepted. He said the shortage of land on the corps find out afterwards.

"If we're going to be a growing, learning place, we have to be creating," said UI Assistant Nursing Supervisor.

"But while the corps works on the road, the wildlife refuge is removed and the road crosses on the wildlife area owned by the corps and removes offensive weeds.

But Langenberg's suggestion was not accepted. He said the shortage of land on the corps find out afterwards.

"If we're going to be a growing, learning place, we have to be creating," said UI Assistant Nursing Supervisor.

"But while the corps works on the road, the wildlife refuge is removed and the road crosses on the wildlife area owned by the corps and removes offensive weeds.

But Langenberg's suggestion was not accepted. He said the shortage of land on the corps find out afterwards.

"If we're going to be a growing, learning place, we have to be creating," said UI Assistant Nursing Supervisor.

"But while the corps works on the road, the wildlife refuge is removed and the road crosses on the wildlife area owned by the corps and removes offensive weeds.

But Langenberg's suggestion was not accepted. He said the shortage of land on the corps find out afterwards.

"If we're going to be a growing, learning place, we have to be creating," said UI Assistant Nursing Supervisor.
The FBI has opened an investigation into the Sanctuary Movement.

The Justice Department quickly opened the inquiry in response to a request from the House Judicature Committee, which had heard testimony in February from a former Immigration Service assistant director under the Ethics Advisory Committee.

The report concluded that, in stealing people's identities and using them to obtain false identification and voting privileges, the Sanctuary Movement has been using a technique that is illegal under federal law. The report also noted that the Sanctuary Movement has been using a technique that is illegal under federal law.

Senator Budget Committee Chairmen Poston and White said they would continue with their investigation into the Sanctuary Movement.

Senator Budget Chairmen Poston and White said they would continue with their investigation into the Sanctuary Movement.
Metro

UI senior earns beauty crown

By Michelle Thoennes

It's not of crowns, gowns and glitz that Holly Wilkins, who was named Miss Iowa on May 21, thinks about. It's what she had to go through to become Miss Iowa and the beauty queen she is today.

"I have no idea what to expect," Wilkins, a native of Clear Lake, said while completing her first week as Miss Iowa. "I was chosen by the judges and then hired by Spong Break Circus Time, so now I'm going to be on a busy schedule for the next couple of months.

Wilkins' contest was to go to the Miss Iowa Teen USA and she was one of 20 hopefuls performing at the Des Moines Civic Auditorium over the weekend.

The competition included an interviewing, modeling a bathing suit and an evening gown and a personal statement in the audicence.

Wilkins said it takes more to compete with other women than money and that every beauty pageant is different.

"I'm not pretty, but I try my hardest every time," Wilkins said. "I have no one to depend on but myself and I'm a public figure, so I don't have a heart to match my feet."

The beauty pageants don't exploit Holly, she said. "I have been called a fairy tale, but I'm not interested in being that."

The last time Wilkins competed in a beauty pageant was at the age of 10, when she received the Buckeye Title.

Wilkins said she was a young woman and her daughter is a beauty queen.

"I have a career in the entertainment industry," Wilkins said. "I've been in films, commercials and on television May 21."

Jefferson Barker and seen live on national television.

"I'm a 22-year-old woman, but I'm not going to be a beauty queen."

The idea that beauty pageants exploit women is a myth, Wilkins said. "I'm not going to be a beauty queen."

"I'm not a beauty queen," Wilkins said.

"I have no idea how to do that." Wilkins said.

"I have no idea how to do that."

"I have no idea how to do that."

"I have no idea how to do that." Wilkins said.

The public's perception of beauty pageants as exploiting women is a myth, Wilkins said. "I'm not going to be a beauty queen."

"I have no idea how to do that." Wilkins said.

"I have no idea how to do that."

"I have no idea how to do that." Wilkins said.

"I have no idea how to do that." Wilkins said.

"I have no idea how to do that." Wilkins said.

"I have no idea how to do that." Wilkins said.
Ecuador revolt ends in surrender

Until Breznev’s death in 1982, the Soviet Union continued to support the Sandinistas, who were fighting the government of Nicaragua under the leadership of Daniel Ortega. The Sandinistas had risen to power in a popular uprising against the dictator Somoza, and they received substantial support from the United States, particularly through the CIA. The conflict was marked by violence and political repression on both sides, and it dragged on for several years until a negotiated settlement was reached in 1990.

The Sandinistas, who had staged a successful revolution in Nicaragua in 1979, were faced with a backlash from the government of Violeta Barrios de Chamorro, who came to power through a popular uprising against Somoza. The Sandinistas were accused of being communists and were seen as a threat to the stability of the region. The United States, which had supported Somoza, began to support the Chamorro government, and the Sandinistas were forced to retreat.

The conflict in Nicaragua was one of the most significant events of the Cold War, and it had a major impact on the region. The Sandinistas were eventually defeated, and Nicaragua was left with a legacy of political repression and economic stagnation. The United States, which had supported the Chamorro government, was seen as a major player in the region, and its influence was felt for many years to come.

The Sandinistas, who had staged a successful revolution in Nicaragua in 1979, were faced with a backlash from the government of Violeta Barrios de Chamorro, who came to power through a popular uprising against Somoza. The Sandinistas were accused of being communists and were seen as a threat to the stability of the region. The United States, which had supported Somoza, began to support the Chamorro government, and the Sandinistas were forced to retreat.

The conflict in Nicaragua was one of the most significant events of the Cold War, and it had a major impact on the region. The Sandinistas were eventually defeated, and Nicaragua was left with a legacy of political repression and economic stagnation. The United States, which had supported the Chamorro government, was seen as a major player in the region, and its influence was felt for many years to come.
Getting testy

The tabloids were turned Monday when about 23,000 Texas scholars were required to take a competency test measuring their ability to perform basic math skills other than problem solving.

As expected, there were protests about the mandatory examinations from home teachers, but the test was an unfair evaluation of their ability to instruct children because it failed to take into account skills other than proficiency in certain academic subjects.

While there may be short-term benefits to the testing, the use of Texas programs to improve the quality of their educational system is too costly.

The test is just one part of a larger reform package adopted in 1998 which includes a substantial package of other reforms designed to improve the quality of certain fundamental skills in order to maintain their teachers.

Yes, some improvements could be made in the testing itself, such as emphasizing the skills in the fields of science and mathematics, but even this would not satisfy some of the proponents of the test.

One of the most ridiculous arguments against the testing is that regular tests cannot be taken in the home. Carroll, a former State Association of Teachers' representative, who said the exam would demoralize teachers because it would not add to their competency in the minds of students.

The test is demeaning and damaging to a teacher's reputation. A competency test implies that some teachers are measuring up to their students.

On the contrary, a competency test would do more to demoralize than to help the A.T.A. By building a test that would be a demonstration of a teacher's expertise and experience, it would be an invitation to the public to challenge the teacher's ability in an analysis of the testing program and it reveals a lack of respect for whatever good objectives the test is designed to fulfill.

There are no plans to be placed in positions of unqualified authorities, whereby they simply transfer facts to their students, where as they are students too and, as such, may be asked to demonstrate their knowledge under less than ideal circumstances.

Joe McMillan

Mary Boone

Lawyers defy evil landlord myth

I'M WRITING THIS column to defy the myth — the myth that all landlords are stingy, unfeeling, and unfeeling bastards.

You see, you tend to appear wherever you go, especially if you lead a life of leisure and luxury. Even the most experienced landlord has no idea what they own, not by name, but rather by my evile-ness.

But it's different now, because I live in the lower Corridor.

A.J. and Mildred Larew have been leasing their property in Iowa City for almost 40 years. And, if there's a test, it's the landlord's, not me.

Mildred, a retired pharmacist, and her husband, A.J., have been renting their property in Iowa City, Iowa, from 1958.
UI projects promote ‘global community’

By Thomas Boy
Special to The Daily Iowan

The UI is stepping up its efforts to promote the essence of the global community through various programs, an international seminar and human rights conference. "We are involved at an international level," said Jim Lee, executive director of the UI Center for Community and International Programs. "We have been involved in various seminars through scholars to the executive director of the UI involved at an international level." In fact, UI has been involved in seminars which have taken place everywhere from Hungary to Bulgaria. There are tremendous advantages in leaving the University, said Paul feminist, professor of special education in the honors. Faculty members bring back entirely new perspectives which they...
March 18, 1986

City

Women's panel discusses teaching war alternatives

By Bavonne Child

Some 100 Iowa City residents met at 7:30 for the discussion which began at 8 p.m.

The meeting was initiated by Larry Ellis, a volunteer for the Iowa City Peaceful Community.

"We are going to develop an organization and a better awareness of the peace movement," said Kathleen Eber, Marycrest College's peace center director, who initiated the program. "We are going to do this in the Hawkeye area, in the University of Iowa area."

Ellis said the goal is to begin by organizing a peace movement in Iowa City.

The meeting was attended by those who were interested in the peace movement, and by those who were interested in the discussion of the war alternatives.

Ellis said the goal is to begin by organizing a peace movement in Iowa City.

The meeting was attended by those who were interested in the peace movement, and by those who were interested in the discussion of the war alternatives.

The meeting was attended by those who were interested in the peace movement, and by those who were interested in the discussion of the war alternatives.

The meeting was attended by those who were interested in the peace movement, and by those who were interested in the discussion of the war alternatives.

The meeting was attended by those who were interested in the peace movement, and by those who were interested in the discussion of the war alternatives.
St. Patrick’s Day Favorites From Eagle!

TOP QUALITY PRODUCE
- California Broccoli
- Corner Beef
- Boneless Pork Chops
- Beef Chuck Arm Pot Roast
- Turkey Breast

CHOOSE EAGLE FIVE STAR VALU-TRIMMED MEATS
- Beef Chuck 7-Bone Roast
- Corner Beef
- Boneless Pork Chops
- Beef Chuck Arm Pot Roast

FREE RECIPE!
Pick up a copy of our 'O'J.'s World Famous Stuffed Pepper Contest Winner's Recipe at the Eagle store!

CHECK AND COMPARE!
- California Broccoli
- Corner Beef
- Boneless Pork Chops
- Beef Chuck Arm Pot Roast

WHY PAY MORE?
- Chicken Breasts
- Stewing Beef
- Turkey Breast Slices
- Beef Liver
- Thin Sliced Meats
- Rice’s Pork Sausage
- Young Duckling

WIDE SELECTION AND VALUE!
- Chicken of the Sea Tuna
- Wisk Laundry Detergent
- Hawaiian Punch Drinks
- Minute Maid Orange Juice

FAC'TS!
- Ruffles® Brand Potato Chips
- Colgate Pump
- Finesse Shampoo
- BAND-AID Brand
- Tylenol

STRENGTH’S KOSTROUBLA
By Robert Mann
Eagle’s Kostrubala has been quite busy this year as he has been preparing for the Iowa track season. Kostrubala has been practicing for the NCAA indoor track meet in January.

Kostrubala said, “I’ve been working hard on my throwing technique, which has been a big focus for me this year.”

Kostrubala is looking forward to the season, saying, “I’m really excited to see how our team will perform this year. We’ve been working hard in the off-season and I think we’re going to be competitive.”

OLSON’S SPOT
After graduating from Catholic High School, Kostrubala packed up and left for Arizona, where he continued his studies and track career.

Kostrubala said, “It’s been a great experience so far. The coaching staff has been really supportive and we’ve been able to compete against some of the best athletes in the country.”

Kostrubala has been working hard to improve his performance, focusing on his throwing and running techniques.

Kostrubala said, “I’ve been working on my throwing form and trying to perfect my technique. I’ve been working with Coach Ted Wheeler, who has been really helpful.”

Kostrubala is looking forward to the season and is excited to see how his hard work will pay off. He is confident that his team will be competitive and he is looking forward to the challenge.

Strengthen the strength of your team!

Eagle store hours:
- Weekdays: 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.
- Saturdays: 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.
- Sundays: 10:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Eagle Food Centers
- 2560 West 5th Street
- Coralville, IA 52241
Banks strides through changes

By Dan Wilhoit

After four seasons at least that have been filled with tense moments, different offensive philosophies and one mid-season transition from forward to guard, Junior Allan Banks finally is coming home from his basketball travels on his home court.

During his four years as a
Bears, Banks has played under four coaches and under three different offensive philosophies. But a major change in his life was the one that took place during the summer after his sophomore season.

At that time, he decided to leave the Bears and go to Minnesota State University, Moorhead, to be closer to his hometown.

"It's not that I didn't like Iowa," Banks said. "I just didn't want to deal with the hassle of being away from home."

The move, however, was not an easy one to make and was a difficult decision. But Banks feels it was the right move for him.

"I think it was a good move," he said. "I think it was time for me to make a change."

Banks said that his decision was made easier by the support of his family, including his mother, who was a major factor in his decision.

"My mom was really supportive," he said. "She helped me make the decision."
South Carolina's Foster resigns

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) - University of South Carolina basketball coach Frank Call has resigned Thursday, ending months of speculation about his future.

Foster, 58, announced the move at his season-ending news conference. He is the school's all-time leading scorer and the winningest coach in the Southeastern Conference.

"It's been a rewarding season and I'll forever be grateful to the University of South Carolina for giving me the opportunity to be a head basketball coach," Foster said.

Foster, a 1976 graduate of the University of South Carolina and a member of the school's basketball hall of fame, will join the university's athletic department in an unspecified role.

Foster was hired as South Carolina's head coach in 1978 and led the Gamecocks to their only NCAA tournament appearance in 1986. He is the school's all-time leading scorer with 1,901 points and is the winningest coach in SEC history with 363 victories.

"I want to thank Coach Foster for making me one of his assistants," Call said. "He's a great coach and a great person."
Mary Kay and starting center Mike -sen, Notre Dame, it was the world of crowds, not the name of the game. They have to play Lou, it was the world of sentiments. In the third round Monday night, a double overtime loss to Louisiana State in a double overtime loss to Louisiana State, they had to win. Heathcote and his team are proud.

When asked about his team's performance, Heathcote said, "It's kind of something that also motivated me, too, because it's just been so difficult. I had to take it off my mind and concentrate on the things that we have to do.

Curry is a major part of that contract. The players. Tony Tang announced his return to the court, a solid offensive network.
Hemingway bad, but good

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Sensing Death," the novel he had been working on until his untimely death at 66, is scheduled to be published later this year, according to his publisher, the literary agency of Larry Mindel, who is also managing a new edition of "The Old Man and the Sea." The novel was originally published in 1947.

The novel is the story of a fishing expedition and the adventures of a man who is trying to catch a large fish off the coast of Spain. It is the last novel that Hemingway completed before his death.

"Hemingway bad, but good," the title of the novel, is a play on words that refers to the fact that the novel is not only a good read, but also a bad omen for the characters involved. The novel is a dark and tragic story, and it is the last novel that Hemingway completed before his death.

"Kilimanjaro is a big mountain 19,410 feet high, and that's not counting the TV transmitter," writes Mark Silber.

DI Classifieds
Room 111 Communications Center
11 am deadline for new ads & cancellations.
Originality is extinct in "Baby"

By Teresa Hugo

Originality is extinct in "Baby". The film is a sequel to the successful "Baby: Secret of the Lost Legend" which was released in 1997. The original film was a huge hit and is considered a classic in the children's movie genre.

The sequel follows the adventures of Baby, a young girl who discovers a secret that could change the world. The story is filled with action, adventure, and heartwarming moments that will keep audiences on the edge of their seats.

In "Baby: Secret of the Lost Legend," Baby and her friends embark on a journey to find the Lost Legend, a powerful artifact that holds the key to the world's future. Along the way, they encounter many challenges and obstacles, but they never give up on their mission.

The sequel picks up where the first film left off, with Baby and her friends back in action. This time, they are on a mission to rescue the Lost Legend from a group of evil villains who want to use it for their own gain.

The film is a perfect mix of adventure and emotion. Baby and her friends are relatable and lovable, and the story is sure to tug at the heartstrings of audiences of all ages.

Overall, "Baby: Secret of the Lost Legend" is a must-see film for anyone who enjoyed the original. It's a fun, exciting, and heartwarming tale that will have audiences cheering for Baby and her friends all the way to the end.