Reagan to press allies on terrorism

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Monday that the United States will press its allies on terrorism very forcefully during the next few months, despite a recent bombing attack here that killed 30 people.

"The Washington Times" reported Monday that French President Francois Mitterrand told U.S. officials that he was not satisfied if it was revealed that Khadafi was not put under arrest. The Times then published an article entitled "Kaddafi's Mysterious Visit to Iraq." The article quotes a French official as saying that Kaddafi was visiting Iraq to discuss the situation of the United States in the Middle East. The Times denies the accuracy of the article.

The Times story repeated Monday's statement that Kaddafi's visit to Iraq was "beyond doubt." The article also states that Kaddafi met with officials from several European countries, including Italy, France, and Germany. The Times claims that Kaddafi's visit was a "a 45-minute interview with the Italian Premier of the day, Mr. Bettino Craxi," and that Kaddafi also met with officials from the Netherlands and Norway. The Times says that Kaddafi's visit was a "surprise visit to Iraq, and it was not announced in advance." The Times denies any official visit to Iraq by Kaddafi.

Gorbachev wavers on summit plans

DEFEATING an individual initiative to stage a summit with the West, President Mikhail Gorbachev indicated Monday he was no longer interested in putting his signature to such an event, according to officials at a deputy attorney general's office in Moscow.

In a closely watched move, Gorbachev made his comments in East Berlin where he has been in spontaneous meetings with East German Chancellor Erich Honecker.

Tuesday's announcement marks a calculated retreat by the Kremlin leader on the subject of the summit, a plan he had pushed as a means of demonstrating Berlin's ultimate neutrality and of bringing Soviet-German closer together.

"Unfortunately, this is nothing new in Washington," Deputy Attorney General Robert Kohlenberg said.

Gorbachev plans to stay in East Berlin for the rest of the week.

Bomb damages U.S. Embassy in Peru

LIMA, Peru — A bomb hurled by a pro-Peruvian rebel group in a surprise attack early Monday afternoon seriously damaged the U.S. Embassy in this capital city.

A small explosion shattered a window in the main reception area of the building, which U.S. sources said was hit by a sticky bomb.

A protective layer of explosives was also attached to the glazed windows of the embassy.

The blast worked part of a 3-foot picket wall and a chime box at the compound and blew several windows in a section of the building where administrative offices are located.

The blast severely damaged another section of the building.

Organ-ization
This is National Organ Donation Awareness Week and the UI Medical Transportation service wants you to know what they do. There are several reasons why you should consider donating your organs when you die. Organ donation can save the lives of sick or injured people who are waiting for transplants. It can also give them a second chance at life.

Organ donation is a type of donation that involves the donation of organs after death. Organs that can be donated include heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, pancreas, and spleen. The process of organ donation involves several steps:

1. Evaluation of potential donors: This involves determining if the donor is eligible to donate organs.
2. Donation of organs: Organs are removed from the donor and transported to a transplant center.
3. Allocation of organs: Organ allocation is based on a variety of factors, including the recipient's medical condition and the donor organ's suitability.
4. Transplantation: The organ is transplanted into the recipient.

Organ donation can also benefit the donor family. It can provide them with a sense of closure and comfort knowing that their loved one's life was saved.

Ounce of prevention
If the headlines of the past week are any indication, the state of male-female relations is a sad one. So what are we to do? As far as I'm concerned, the best thing we can do is to prevent it from happening in the first place. Last Saturday, the Iowa City Police Department received a call about an incident involving two men who had been drinking and fighting.

According to the report, one of the men had thrown a rock at the other, causing him to fall to the ground. The man who was hit then fell onto his back, and the other man began to kick him. The man who had been kicked then got up and started to run away, but the other man continued to chase him. The incident ended when the man who had been kicked was able to get away and call the police.

This is not an isolated incident. The problem of violence between men and women has persisted for many years. Violence between men and women is a serious problem that affects people of all ages and backgrounds. It is important that we take steps to prevent it from happening in the first place.

From the Metro Desk
An important issue that has been raised in recent years is the disparity between the rates of incarceration for men and women. In many cases, women are incarcerated at higher rates than men for the same offenses. This is a concern because it is important that we have fair and just systems of justice.

In recent years, there have been efforts to address this issue. In 1986, the Iowa State University created a task force to study the issue of women's incarceration. The task force recommended that the university work with local and state officials to develop strategies to reduce the number of women who are incarcerated.

It is important that we continue to work towards fair and just systems of justice. This includes working to reduce the number of women who are incarcerated and ensuring that they receive fair and just treatment while they are incarcerated.

The UI: not such a bad place
By Lewis Wayne Greene

A MOST anywhere else in the country, the UI is a world of its own. It has its own rules, its own culture, and its own way of doing things. There are many things that make the UI unique, but one of the most important is the atmosphere of freedom that exists here.

The University of Iowa is a world of its own, and that is one of its greatest strengths. It is a place where you can explore your interests, try new things, and be yourself. It is a place where you can learn and grow, and where you can make lifelong friendships.

While the UI is not without its challenges, it is a place where you can find the support you need to succeed. The university has a strong counseling center, and there are many resources available to help students who are struggling.

In conclusion, the UI is not such a bad place. It is a place where you can find the support you need to succeed, and where you can explore your interests and grow as a person.
Hopis Indian to speak here on perils of land settlement

By Kent Anderson

A Hopi Indian man will be in Iowa City tonight at 7 p.m. at the Wesley Center to promote global acceptance of Native Americans including a much-needed settlement for the Hopi Nation. The Hopi and Navajo tribes. The land has been shared as a jolution since the 20th century.

In 1984, the Hopi and Navajo tribes became the first American Indian tribes to be awarded a court-ordered settlement for the Navajo and Hopi communities. This settlement has been described as the largest litigation in American history.

The Hopi man is scheduled to speak at the Wesley Center tonight. He will be accompanied by a group of Hopi and Navajo singers who will perform a traditional Hopi dance.

Chinese dance authority to visit UI

The Daily Iowan — Iowa City, Iowa — Thursday, April 20, 1989 — Page 7

By Susan C. Brown

A few weeks ago, when Susan Li was in the United States to visit her sister who works for the United Nations in New York, she was asked by her sister's co-workers whether she would be interested in visiting the University of Iowa next month. Li said yes.

Li, who is a native of Shanghai, will be at the University of Iowa from May 3 to 6 to give lectures and lead a dance-drama presently in the dance-drama program at the University of Iowa. The dance-drama originated in China in the 1920s and is now being studied by students in the University of Iowa's dance program.

The dance-drama is based on a traditional myth which has been interpreted by the Chinese for centuries. The dance-drama is performed in traditional Chinese opera with a modern twist.

Li said she is excited about the opportunity to give lectures and lead a dance-drama at the University of Iowa. She said she is looking forward to meeting new people and sharing her culture with others.

Cubs’ Smith placed on 15-day disabled list

The Daily News - Jaye City, Iowa - Tuesday, April 22, 1980 - Page 8

BY ROY STEPHEN

The Chicago Cubs placed right-handed pitcher Harold "Happy" Smith on the 15-day disabled list Tuesday, ending his stay in the major leagues.

Smith was placed on the list after he was seen by Dr. John C. Bland, the Cubs’ team physician, who recommended the move.

Smith, who had been on the disabled list since April 10, had been expected to return to the team after the series against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cubs announced that they had not decided who would take Smith’s roster spot, but that the move was due to an injury.

Manager Lee Elia said the team would make a decision on Smith’s status after the All-Star break.

Elia said that Smith had been having "a little difficulty" with his shoulder, but that it was not severe enough to warrant a long-term stay on the disabled list.

The Cubs have not made a decision on whether to recall a pitcher from the minor leagues to fill Smith’s roster spot.

Smith, 27, had a 2.98 earned run average in 10 games this season, striking out 41 batters in 31 innings.

The Cubs have won six of their last eight games, including a 12-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals on Monday. The Cubs lead the National League Eastern Division by three games.

The move comes just three days after the Cubs beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 in a game that had been called due to rain.

Smith had been expected to return to the Cubs’ rotation after the series against the Cardinals, but the injury forced him to stay on the disabled list.

The Cubs have also placed left-hander Bill Sutcliffe on the disabled list due to an injury.

Sutcliffe had been scheduled to start against the Cardinals, but was scratched from the lineup.

The move leaves the Cubs with six pitchers on the disabled list, including right-hander Bill Hands and left-hander Ron Santo.

Elia said the team would make a decision on Santo’s status after the All-Star break, but that it was unlikely he would return.

Santo has been on the disabled list since April 10 due to a knee injury.

Hawk approaches career mark for victories

BOSTON (UPI) - Hawk approaches career mark for victories. De Castella sets record at Boston.

Jordan’s record draws raves

CHICAGO (UPI) - Michael Jordan of the Chicago Bulls draws a lot of comparisons to player of the Bulls against the heavily favored Chicago Bulls Sunday, his record-breaking total of 63 consecutive games, bringing him down to the next round of the playoffs.

By Julie Deardorff

“I’ve always been a big fan of Jordan,” said one of the Bulls fans, who has been going to Bulls games since 1990. “I’ve always admired his work ethic and his dedication to the game. He’s a true role model for kids everywhere.”

Jordan, who averaged 30 points per game last year, scored 63 points in the Bulls’ 129-127 win over the Cleveland Cavaliers. He became the first player in NBA history to score 60 or more points in five consecutive games.

Students face abuse after Libya strike

by Dave Jensen

El Arab students have filed a lawsuit against the University of Iowa, charging the school with failure to protect them from harassment. The students claim the university administration did not do enough to stop the abuse.

The suit, filed in Iowa District Court, states that the university had a duty to protect the students from the harassment they faced. The lawsuit names the university as a defendant.

The students are seeking damages for emotional distress, loss of wages, and other losses they claim were caused by the harassment. They are also seeking a court order requiring the university to adopt policies to prevent similar incidents from occurring in the future.

The university has not yet responded to the lawsuit. It is expected to file a defense in the near future.

IT'S RELAXING — UI students Paul Kopp and Katie Smolin relaxed on the grass near the Iowa River. "Everything is relaxed and stuff, I think it's really nice here this time," Kopp said. "I really enjoyed it here this time." But the report was not without its critics. "What really upset me was the way the task force was set up," said one Iowa City resident. "The Iowa City Police Department's Roll Call to the River was really nice, but the task force was not set up in a way that was fair to everyone."
Tomahawk destroys target in initial cruise missile test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy tested a Tomahawk cruise missile, for the first time and destroyed a target airplane with an explosion 300 feet to the air, the Pentagon announced Tuesday.

The experimental nature of the test of an advanced multiple-warhead cruise missile means a wider array of long-range targets can be hit for the jet-powered cruise missile, according to the Pentagon.

"This opens up many targets" in the missile's short- and long-range warheads and control facilities, said a spokesman for the Pentagon.

The 10-foot Tomahawk missile was launched from a submerged submarine in the Pacific Ocean and aimed at the plane on the island near Clements Island off the southern California coast, the Pentagon said.

The target was 474 miles from the submarine and flew a warhead for a missile new at the test, which was "much better than expected," according to the spokesman.

Although conventional and nuclear cruise missiles have been used to surprise or destroy targets, the Navy said Monday the missile has cruise missile ability, and the Pentagon said the test was extremely satisfied with the test, which was "much better than expected." The range and capability of the cruise missile was given at 474 miles and that the missile is "a success." The missile is equipped with sophisticated electronics to monitor its flight. The missile was launched from a submarine using 300 feet from the target.

"THAT'S THE FIRST time we flew a warhead for a portable missile in a short range," said a spokesman.

"It was a great day," said the spokesman, adding that the warhead was a television set, which was "the maximum capability for the Tomahawk missile," and the test was "a success." The warhead was a television set, which was "the maximum capability for the Tomahawk missile." The television set was placed on a surface Navy missile of the missile 100 feet above the target, the spokesman said.

"The missile has been out of production since 1968," said the spokesman, adding that the warhead was a television set, which was "the maximum capability for the Tomahawk missile." The television set was placed on a surface Navy missile of the missile 100 feet above the target, the spokesman said.
Reagan agrees to comply with SALT 2

WASHINGTON—President Reagan has agreed to comply with SALT 2 and has ordered the Department of Defense to start preparations to reduce our arsenal of strategic nuclear weapons.

Reagan and Paul Nitze reached a personal understanding to achieve this goal during a meeting at the White House yesterday afternoon. The agreement was reached after two days of negotiations between top officials from both countries.

In a joint statement, the two leaders said that the United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to reduce their offensive nuclear stockpiles by 50 percent over a 10-year period.

The agreement was hailed as a significant step forward in the efforts to reduce nuclear arms and promote global security.

Halsey and Nitze made clear that the United States will take the lead in establishing the rules and procedures for implementing the agreement.

The agreement will be submitted to Congress for ratification, and both countries have agreed to continue efforts to achieve a comprehensive nuclear test ban treaty.

The 20th Mujahideen

I OPEN THE book with a single word that starts me thinking about the book's subject: the word 'failed'. It is a word that captures the essence of this book, which tells the story of the Afghan Mujahideen's war against the Soviet Union. The book opens with a single word that sets the tone for the entire narrative: 'failed'.

As I read the book, I am struck by how the mujahideen's efforts failed to achieve their stated goals. Despite the initial successes of the mujahideen in driving the Soviet army out of Afghanistan, the war ultimately proved to be a lost cause. The book's title, 'The 20th Mujahideen', reflects this failure: it was the ultimate failure of the mujahideen to achieve their ends.

The book's title, 'The 20th Mujahideen', is a reference to the 20th century, which saw the rise and fall of the mujahideen. The book's subtitle, 'The True Story of the Afghan War against the Soviet Union', provides a clear sense of what the book is about: the story of the Afghan war against the Soviet Union, which is told through the lens of the mujahideen's efforts.

The book is a powerful and compelling read. It provides a detailed and nuanced account of the mujahideen's war against the Soviet Union, and it is a must-read for anyone interested in this period of history. The book's author, David Halberstam, is a masterful storyteller, and his writing is clear, concise, and engaging.

As I read the book, I am struck by how the mujahideen's efforts failed to achieve their stated goals. Despite the initial successes of the mujahideen in driving the Soviet army out of Afghanistan, the war ultimately proved to be a lost cause. The book's title, 'The 20th Mujahideen', reflects this failure: it was the ultimate failure of the mujahideen to achieve their ends.

The book's title, 'The 20th Mujahideen', is a reference to the 20th century, which saw the rise and fall of the mujahideen. The book's subtitle, 'The True Story of the Afghan War against the Soviet Union', provides a clear sense of what the book is about: the story of the Afghan war against the Soviet Union, which is told through the lens of the mujahideen's efforts.

The book is a powerful and compelling read. It provides a detailed and nuanced account of the mujahideen's war against the Soviet Union, and it is a must-read for anyone interested in this period of history. Several local businesses said Tuesday a move by the city's Design Review Committee to expand its powers will result in more businesses needing to go before the Iowa City design review board.

"The new powers will mean that businesses in the Downtown area will have to go before the Design Review Committee whenever they make changes to their building," said Earl Amidon, owner of Hawkeye Heaven.

Amidon said the move will result in more businesses needing to go before the Design Review Committee, which is currently only able to review design plans for buildings in the downtown area.

"We don't want to discourage business owners from going before the committee," Amidon said. "But it will mean that businesses will have to go through more hoops to get approval for changes to their building."

West Germany expels Libyan embassy staff

BONN, May 16—West Germany, under U.S. pressure to move against Libyan terrorism, will withdraw some of the 100 diplomatic and administrative staff from its Embassy in Bonn, government officials said.

The move was to show the Libyans that Bonn would not change its position in the conflict. The Libyans have been on the defensive since March, when the United States began to increase its military presence in West Africa.

The Bonn government said it had received information from which it believed the Libyans were planning attacks on American embassies and consulates in the United States.

The information came as West
Germany's foreign minister, Hans Dietrich Genscher, took off for Bonn to discuss the situation with the German chancellor, Helmut Kohl. The two leaders are expected to meet on Friday to discuss the crise.

Three Hawks qualify for U.S. national team

By Jim Heilman

Three Iowa women's basketball alums prove they can play on the road this season, proving their game against international competition this summer in Canada and Blazers.

"THE TEAM going to Boston is the first team and we are the second team," Lang said.

Lang, along with Lisa Baker, who did not make the first team, decided to play in the second team. Although they were not invited, they were just for the experience of seeing the Canadian women's basketball team that was United States in international competition this summer in Canada and Blazers.

"I just want to play on the second team," Lang said.

The Iowa players had to go through several rounds of cuts during the four-day tryout before the selected players began trying out. Edwards said she and the other three Iowa Hawks were named to the second team after eight rounds of cuts before reaching the team.

"AT THE First few cuts, the competition got a little bit tougher," she said. "When they chose me I was just really happy."

Hagler's victims eye titles in boxing 'triple-header'

NEW YORK (UPI) -- After hitting tight enough for three years, Marvin Hagler finally got his wish Tuesday for the next boxing title fight.

Tuesday was paraded before the media in a posh New York hotel.

Hagler, who knocked out Roberto Duran, will meet Hearns, the middleweight non-title fight.

If Hagler wins, he'll get his wish.

I'm taking the right steps to be a better fighter. Hagler won't be Hagler's for long.

Louisiana State's Williams leaves for pro basketball

RATON BOSQUE (NSU) -- Forward John Williams, who led Louisiana State to a great spot in the NCAA Final Four last year, and is going to a state where his remaining college eligibility is almost certain.

The 6-9 sophomores and Louisiana State Coach Dale Brown have agreed on a verbal contract, and Williams, who has given no indication he's interested in the NBA, plans to leave for Louisiana State.

TODAY'S LITTLE J JOKES

One of the most painful things which leaves for pro basketball was doing what he was doing today one of the most successful programs in the world. It's been a long time now, and save up on the games that led to the Final Four.

Next big thing in baseball is the triple-header

That's how it's going to be.

I'm taking the right steps to be a better fighter. Hagler won't be Hagler's for long.

Wait to see Freddy's antics in 'Elmstreet 3'

By George Yashin

__LOVE SICK!__ Two of the last three commercial films that I have seen here at The Admiral are love stories. The third was The Admiral itself. The first one was _The Flight of the Phoenix_ (1976), about a group of flyers who are stranded in the desert after their airplane crashes, and who must decide whether to go on or die. The second was _The Maltese Falcon_ (1941), about a man who is trying to find a stolen treasure, but loses it to another character. The third was _Elmstreet 3: Dream Warriors_ (1982), about a group of teenagers who are trapped in a nightmare world where they are hunted by a killer with a hook for a hand. This film is a sequel to the first two films in the series, _Nightmare on Elmstreet_ (1984) and _Dream Warriors_ (1987), and it is the third film in the series. The film is directed by Wes Craven, who also directed the first two films in the series. The film is written by William Friedkin, who also wrote the first two films in the series. The film is produced by New Line Cinema, and it is distributed by Warner Bros.

In this film, the teenagers are again being hunted by the killer, who is now a monster with a hook for a hand and a knife for a finger. The teenagers are again trying to escape from the nightmare world, but this time they are faced with new obstacles and dangers. The film is set in a small town where the teenagers live, and it takes place in the early 1980s. The film is a horror film, and it is known for its heavy use of gore and violence. The film is also known for its use of dream sequences and hallucinations, which are used to create a sense of suspense and terror. The film is a commercial success, and it is one of the most popular films in the horror genre. The film is a sequel to the first two films in the series, and it is the third film in the series.
