Accomplice sentenced in Slager shooting

By Ann Szemplenski
Staff Writer

A man accused of protecting Ramone Joseph DeSantiago II from arrest after a downtown shooting of an Iowa City man this summer was sentenced to two years in prison.

Ralph S. Peterson, 23, Council Bluffs, was sentenced Friday in Johnson County District Court as an "accessory after the fact" after pleading guilty to the charge on Sept. 8.

Peterson withheld information from Iowa City police about his and DeSantiago's whereabouts after the shooting of 23-year-old John Slager, according to court records. Peterson also drove DeSantiago, who was charged with attempted murder, back to Council Bluffs after the shooting.

"You should pick your friends, don't let them pick you," Peterson said Friday in his testimony.

Peterson said he sold the gun used in the shooting to DeSantiago one day before the incident. Peterson said he had used the gun for target shooting and wanted to sell it for "spending money."

PETERSON TURNED himself

in to Council Bluffs police Aug. 4, a day after DeSantiago allegedly shot Slager outside Old Capitol Center. DeSantiago was being held Sunday at the Johnson County Jail in lieu of $111,525. DeSantiago's trial is scheduled to begin Jan. 12 in Marengo, Iowa.

According to court records, Slager confronted a man who was trying to steal his motorcycle outside Old Capitol Center on Clinton Street. Slager was then shot.

Peterson's mother, Alice Fales, Council Bluffs, also testified at the hearing. Fales said she and her son decided together that he should turn himself in to police.

Peterson testified that he drove his truck to the JC Penney's entrance of Old Capitol Center to pick up Steven Wayne Brickey, 20, Council Bluffs, and DeSantiago, but he did not know they were planning to steal a motorcycle. Brickey was charged with accessory after the fact and was sentenced Oct. 16 to serve two years in prison.

Slager was listed in good condition Sunday at Covenant Medical Center in Waterloo. He is undergoing rehabilitation at the hospital.

Festival sparks holiday spirits

Iowa City's early Christmas celebration may have given a boost to downtown businesses Sunday.

The Iowa City Downtown Merchants Association sponsored an early Christmas celebration with the theme "An Old Fashioned Christmas," that brought many local residents and UI students downtown.

"It helps downtown businesses a lot," said Gary Lundquist, president-elect of the Iowa City Downtown Merchants Association. "It brings a lot of people down here who don't normally come downtown to shop. It's one of our biggest fundraisers for downtown businesses."

LUNDQUIST, who played Santa Claus during the festivities, said the event was an "advertising boon" for downtown Iowa City businesses.

"It's basically a way to advertise downtown businesses for the upcoming Christmas season and have fun doing it," Lundquist said. "It doesn't make any profits for the association money-wise."

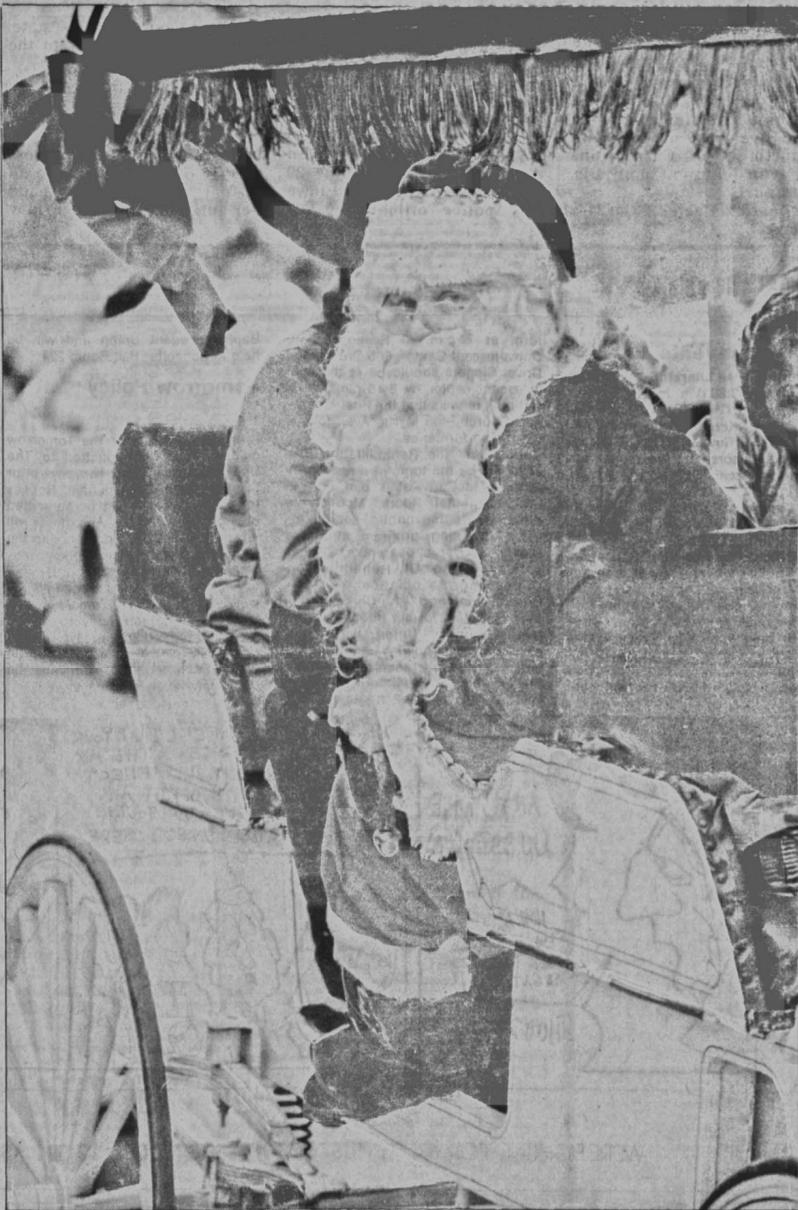

Lundquist said many parents enjoy bringing children to the festivities.

"It's a very family-oriented event," Lundquist said. Several activities for children included a free movie at the Iowa City Public Library and rides with Santa in a horse-drawn carriage.

Mayor William Ambrisco also took part in the festivities, lighting Iowa City's Christmas tree in Chancy-Swan Plaza.

BARBARA WATERS, manager of Hands Jewlers, 109 E. Washington St., and promoter of the event, said merchants spent a lot of money for the second annual celebration.

"I would say it's costing in the neighborhood of $4,000 to Santa Claus, a.k.a. Gary Lundquist, rides with kids Sunday on a Top Hat Carriage. In addition to Santa's arrival, Iowa City also welcomed Christmas by lighting the city's Christmas tree.

$5,000 to put on the event," Waters said. "It's like any promotion, everything costs money. We spent the money on everything from candy canes to the horse-drawn carriage."

But Waters said merchants don't mind the cost of the event.

"It exposes people to downtown Iowa City," Waters said. "It brings them downtown to have some fun and helps bring in new customers for the stores."

Waters said she hopes the "Old Fashioned Christmas," now in its second year, will continue to flourish.

"I would like to see it happen every year," Waters said. "I think it's a lot of fun."

At least one person, 7-year-old Matt Buswell of Iowa City, agreed. "Sure it's fun, but I wish the Santa Claus ride had been free," he said.

Philippine aides told to resign

MANILA, Philippines (UPI)—President Corazon Aquino fired rebellious Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile Sunday and demanded the rest of her Cabinet resign while her loyal armed forces chief said the military averted a coup attempt "without loss of life."

In a television address, Aquino announced she had told her 21-member Cabinet to resign and said the first resignation she accepted was Enrile's. The president said she would act on the other resignations within the next several days.

"We need a fresh start," Aquino said in her brief address.

The capital reacted calmly to the soft-spoken Aquino's uncharacteristic show of power and no trouble was reported. Political observers said other Cabinet members were expected to depart soon to bring about the "fresh start" demanded by Aquino.

ENRILE, WHOSE SUPPORT helped Aquino to assume the presidency after a February election marred by fraud, said he would peacefully surrender his office today to his successor, Deputy Defense Minister Rafael Ilete.

Armed Forces Chief Fidel Ramos issued a report to regional commanders that an alleged plot by politicians from the regime of deposed ruler Ferdinand Marcos and some military elements "has been aborted without loss of life."

One government source said the plot involved setting up Enrile as prime minister and Aquino as a figurehead.

Ramos said the plotters planned to reconvene the abolished Marcos-dominated National Assembly, nullify the fraud-marred Feb. 7 presidential election won by Marcos and appoint former legislative speaker Nicanor Yniguez as acting president until new elections are called.

AQUINO SAID in her televi-

Juan Ponce Enrile

sion address that Ramos had taken "preventive measures against the recklessness of some elements in the military."

"I hereby give notice to those who may be inclined to exploit the present situation that the sternest measures will be taken against them if they try," Aquino said.

Ramos said Aquino was in "full control" of the government but ordered that a red alert — the maximum state of readiness — be maintained.

Enrile, 62, co-led along with Ramos the civilian-backed military revolt in February that swept Aquino into office. Since then, Enrile has criticized Aquino's handling of the 17-year-old communist insurgency, sparking unrest in the military.

RESPONDING TO RUMORS of a possible coup, Aquino ordered soldiers Saturday to guard the legislative buildings and vital communications center. The soldiers were withdrawn at dawn Sunday when no coup attempt materialized.

A government official earlier said Aquino deployed the troops in the capital after "six to seven truckloads" of heavily armed men were reported moving toward Enrile's office at Camp Aguinaldo.

Field hockey team nabs NCAA title

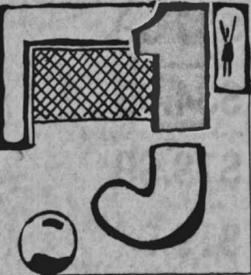

By Julie Deardorff
Staff Writer

The young Iowa field hockey team gave Coach Judith Davidson the final surprise at the NCAA field hockey tournament, the first national championship in the history of Iowa women's athletics.

The 2-1 double-overtime victory over New Hampshire at Norfolk, Va., Sunday was the perfect ending for a remarkable season. After expecting a rebuilding year with eight freshmen, the team's performance had astounded Davidson all year.

An unexpected Big Ten title and a regional win to advance to the Final Four just wasn't enough. The Hawkeyes wanted all.

WITH THE TEAMS dead-

The Daily Iowan/Jeffrey Sedam

locked at 1-1 in the second overtime, Iowa senior Patti Wanner provided the poise and leadership by knocking in her second goal of the day.

The goal not only gave the team its first NCAA title, but it also provided Iowa with its first non-wrestling national championship since the men's gymnastics team captured one in 1969.

Aside from nine straight wrestling titles, a field hockey team has the second-best finish of any team, a 1984 second place showing.

Penalty corners were once again the key to the game as Iowa had 23, compared to New Hampshire's nine.

"We knew if we were going to win today (Sunday) that we'd have to stop their corners," Davidson said. "We decided to throw a few different defenses at them on their corners. They really played strong against us. I have to give them credit because they had a tough game yesterday."

NEW HAMPSHIRE knocked off No. 1 seed North Carolina to advance to the finals while Iowa downed Penn State.

Wanner, who finished the season with seven goals, scored the first tally of the game 3:28 into the first half from about 25 yards out. New Hampshire's Karen Geromini tied the game with 26:15 left in regulation play, forcing an overtime.

Both teams were scoreless in the first overtime period, although Iowa did put the ball in the net. Liz Tchou's shot with 45 seconds to play was called back because a whistle had blown and the ball was called dead. Iowa was given a penalty corner but couldn't convert, and the game entered its second overtime.

IOWA THEN DOMINATED the second overtime, giving up no penalty corners. Wanner scored 8:13 into the period to give Iowa the title.

The Hawkeyes had 27 shots on goal and held the Wildcats to 13. Iowa goalie Karen Napolitano recorded five saves while New Hampshire's Michelle Flannell made 13.

Iowa advanced to the championship game by shutting out Penn State 2-0. RosAnna Salcido provided the only goal Iowa needed with 28 seconds to play in the first half. Freshman Melissa Sanders scored the insurance goal late in the second half, and Napolitano recorded her 12th shutout of the season by stopping 11 Penn State shots.

Wanner's sparkling performance earned her a spot on the all-tournament team as well as senior Salcido and juniors Deb Robertson and Napolitano.

Iowa ended its season 19-2-1, its best record since 1982.

Search begins for alumni director

UI administrators said the search is on for a new executive director of the UI Alumni Association after Thomas E. Brown, who has held the position since 1979, announced his resignation this past week.

Brown will step down as executive director, effective Dec. 31, when he will accept new duties as a special assistant to UI Men's Athletic Director Chalmers "Bump" Elliot Jan. 1, 1987.

Brown has been involved with the UI Alumni Association for almost two decades. He first joined the association as field secretary in 1966, became an associate director in 1970 and was promoted to executive director in 1979.

UI president James O. Freedman praised Brown's efforts with the Alumni Association.

"The university is grateful to Tom Brown for the devoted service he has rendered for two decades," Freedman said. "I join his many friends in wishing him well in the next phase of his career."

Lewis psychology award winner named

Diane Chatlosh, a UI graduate student in psychology, has been named the second recipient of the Don Lewis Dissertation Year Award.

The award is given to a psychology graduate student who shows the greatest promise of becoming a highly productive scientist. Chatlosh will also receive a substantial cash grant in support of her final year of work toward a doctorate degree as a result of the award.

The award is named after Don Lewis, a former professor in the UI Psychology Department. The recipient of the award is selected by a committee of psychology faculty members.

Terrorism analyst to speak next week

An internationally recognized authority on guerilla movements and terrorism in the Third World will speak at 3:30 p.m. Dec. 2 in the UI International Center.

Gerard Chaliand, from l'Ecole Nationale d'Administration in Paris, will give a lecture entitled, "The Dynamics of International Terrorism."

His visit is sponsored by the UI Global Studies Program. Chaliand has written 15 books on guerilla and terrorism movements and has studied every major guerilla insurgency since the mid-1950s.

UI professor earns chairmanship

UI Pharmacology Professor Michael J. Brody has been elected chairman of the Council for High Blood Pressure Research of the American Heart Association.

Brody, an associate director of the UI Cardiovascular Center and UI Faculty Council and Senate president, began his two-year term following the council's fall conference in Cleveland in October.

Brody has researched the roles of the nervous system in blood pressure regulation and the brain in development of hypertension.

Coralville buses reduce hours Friday

The Coralville Transit System will cut back its bus schedule Nov. 28, the day after Thanksgiving.

Officials with the Coralville Transit System said the service has low ridership on that day every year.

The buses will make one stop each hour in central Coralville, the UI Hospital complex and downtown Iowa City. The revised schedule is identical to the system's Saturday schedule.

For further information, call 351-7711 before Thanksgiving.

Iowa's first lady announces scholarship

DES MOINES (UPI) — Iowa's first lady Chris Branstad announced Tuesday a new endowment fund has been established offering a $2,000 scholarship to a lucky young pianist who wants to attend college.

Branstad said the Terrace Hill Commission and the Terrace Hill Endowment for the Musical Arts Selection Committee will be sponsoring competition for the scholarship next March. The scholarship will be awarded based on talent.

Correction

The Daily Iowan will correct unfair or inaccurate stories or headlines. If a report is wrong or misleading, call the DI at 353-6210. A correction or clarification will be published in this column.

In a story called "Some savings, lots of liability face the uninsured" (DI Distractions tabloid, Nov. 21), Iowa automotive coverage guidelines on insurance were incorrectly reported. The guidelines actually call for bodily injury coverage of $20,000 per person and $40,000 per accident as well as $15,000 property damage coverage.

The DI regrets the error.

UI Animal receives

By Shawn Plank
Staff Writer

One of the largest federal grants intended for animal medical research will be used to renovate the UI Animal Care Unit, acting director Paul S. Cooper said Sunday. The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has agreed to provide $297,200 for the facility and the UI will pay $649,055 of the total cost, Cooper said. Almost $1 million will be used to remodel the facility, located in the UI Medical Laboratories, in order to meet new federal regulations. "I think it indicates we're showing results from our program and that we're trying to build a good program here," Cooper said.

Travel agents to buy

Iowa City travel agents urged UI students who want to fly home for the holidays to plan ahead in order to take advantage of low airfare rates.

Annette Combs, manager of Hawkeye World Travel Inc. Plaza Centre One, said airline officials are hoping passengers will start making their flight reservations early.

"Most of the airlines are really restrictive about giving the lower rate," she said. "For Christmas it's a good idea to book five or six months in advance."

But Combs said it is still possible to get tickets for a flight home for Thanksgiving.

"At this point it would be difficult," she said, explaining that a ticket purchased this week would be significantly more expensive than one purchased several months ago. "We take reservations up to the day before, but it will cost a lot more," she said.

COMBS EXPLAINED that many UI students from states such as Arizona, California and Florida are taking advantage of "air-fare wars" among competitive airlines to get home for the holidays.

UI Animal Care Unit facility receives large federal grants

Shawn Plank
Staff Writer

One of the largest federal grants awarded for animal medical research will be used to renovate the UI Animal Care Unit, acting director Paul Cooper said Sunday. The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has agreed to provide $297,295 for the facility and the UI will pay $649,055 of the total cost, Cooper said. Almost $1 million will be used to remodel the facility, located in the UI Medical Laboratories, in order to meet new federal regulations. "I think it indicates we're showing results from our past work and that we're trying to build a good program here," Cooper said.

THE FUNDS WERE approved by the state Board of Regents last week as part of the UI's register of capital improvement business transactions. A variety of medical experiments are performed on dogs, cats, rabbits, monkeys, pigs and sheep at the facility, Cooper said. But most experiments involve rats, mice and other rodents, UI Pharmacology Professor Gerald Gebhart said. "I think if we got $300,000 from other sources, there's a significant commitment to the use of animals in research," Gebhart said.

A similar animal research program at Iowa State University deals primarily with veterinarian medicine while the UI program focuses more on human medical research, Cooper said. "The research efforts at ISU are not nearly as big as they are here," he said.

THE PROJECT INCLUDES replacing existing walls with glazed tile walls, installation of waterproof flooring, electrical service and a new heating, ventilation and air-conditioning system.

The improvements are needed to meet several new federal regulations set by the Department of Agriculture's Animal Welfare Act and the Department of Health and Human Services for the care and treatment of animals, Cooper said.

"Walls can't be brick because they harbor bacteria," Gebhart said, explaining the new regulations.

HE ADDED THAT rule changes require larger cage sizes and better thermostatic controls in animal research facilities.

"The care animals get is equal to if not better than most humans," Gebhart said.

The remodeling effort is part of a "master plan" the UI began seven years ago to eventually gain accreditation for the research unit, Cooper said.

"We plan on applying for accreditation after the completion of the project," he said.

"We're getting over the hump in our major renovations process," he said. "We are continually upgrading."

the train or the bus," he said.

But Allen said he does not expect the rates to go much lower than they are, adding $39 discount flight packages are probably a thing of the past.

According to Allen, the ridiculously low rates were offered by failing airlines in attempts to generate cash quickly. He explained that Frontier Airlines, the first to try the $39 deal, is now bankrupt.

ALLEN SAID fares probably won't be going up significantly either, and an increased volume of passengers is expected in the future.

That will come as good news to UI students who must cover long distances to get home.

UI graduate student Robert Christian, who lives in Austin, Texas, said he has paid as much as $500 for round trip air fare in the past, but said he could get the same package for $300 if he plans far enough in advance.

"The fares are all over the place," he said. "There's not much consistency any more."

Christian said he hasn't purchased a ticket to get home for Christmas yet, but he said he plans on paying around $400 because he's waited so long to purchase it.

Study published by UI medical student

By Richard A. Pratt
Special to The Daily Iowan

Physicians who routinely ask patients about sexual concerns are more than three times as likely to discover sexual problems as those who do not routinely ask such questions, according to a recent study conducted through the UI Family Practice clinic. Those doctors who took sexual histories regularly found 33.3 percent of their patients had sexual problems, concerns or complaints, while those who didn't discovered only 9.5 percent of their patients' sexual disorders.

The study was conducted by third-year medical student Eric Garner and Charles Driscoll, head of Family Practice, and included all doctors listed with the Family Practice office.

GARNER INITIATED the study as part of the UI College of Medicine's policy of allowing first- and second-year medical students to conduct studies with available federal funding from the U.S. Public Health Service, a division of the Department of Health and Human Services. The funding amounted to about $1,000, Garner said.

Garner said the term "sexual history" caused definition problems in the study. "We just let the doctors define for themselves what they felt was considered sexual information," Garner said. "For us to have defined it for them would have severely limited the scope of our responses."

"Taking a sexual history is a matter of comfort... Once the topic is out on the table, it becomes easier to talk about and the information begins to flow," says Charles Driscoll, head of UI Family Practice.

THE STUDY was published the September/October issue of Family Practice, a national medical journal.

The preliminary study began in February 1985, when the resident Family Practice physicians and faculty were asked to complete a questionnaire concerning their history-taking techniques.

The questionnaire asked whether social, religious and family histories were routinely taken, but Garner said the sexual aspect was the major area of concern.

"Those other questions were just a smokescreen," Garner said. "We really wanted to divide the physicians into two groups — those who routinely took sexual histories and those who did not."

The study involved 33 family physicians — 25 male and eight female — who saw 35 new female and 23 new male patients in June of 1985.

THE MAIN STUDY was conducted in June and involved all new adult — 18 years old or older — patients who came to Family Practice during that month.

Another finding of the study is that patients with sexual problems frequently express those concerns through other complaints, such as difficulty in urinating or lower back pain.

The study also found that male doctors took sexual histories 60 percent of the time, compared with 16.8 percent for women doctors.

In addition, those patients who went to their doctors' offices with specific sexual concerns as their primary complaints were excluded from the study, Garner said.

According to the study, a sexual history does not need to be elaborate, and can usually be completed with three basic questions: Are you sexually active? Are there any problems? and What questions do you have about sexuality?

"TAKING A SEXUAL history is a matter of comfort for both physician and patient," Driscoll said. "Once the topic is out on the table, it becomes easier to talk about and the information begins to flow."

Garner said raising the first question about a patient's sexual history may be difficult for both patient and doctor, but the findings make it essential that these difficulties be overcome, he emphasized.

"If they (doctors) don't ask the questions, the patient is not likely to respond on his or her own," Garner said. "Of course, a rapport must be established first."

"THE QUESTIONS should be asked as part of a general overall physical survey so as not to upset the patient — if you work your way down the body, it seems natural to ask those questions, as long as you're in the proper area," he said.

Driscoll said only about one-fourth of the studies started as part of medical students' curriculum ever get published, and he praised Garner for his efforts.

"Focusing the topic of study really helped Eric get results that were publishable," Driscoll said. "Most medical students want to study the whole world at once, so their results are frequently not very conclusive."

Jewish author slams U.S. Democrats

By Patrick Lammer
Staff Writer

An advocate for Palestinian rights said Democratic party leaders in the United States are imperialistic when they deal with countries in the Middle East.

Lenni Brenner, a Jewish-American author and peace activist, spoke Friday at the Iowa City Public Library, 123 S. Linn St., in commemoration of the United Nations Day of Solidarity with the Palestinian People set for Nov. 29.

East, they see the oil first," Brenner told about 35 people.

"The imperialists want to keep the Arab world divided so as to bargain with them one at a time," Brenner said. "The Democrats are always looking over their shoulders for the Jewish millionaires because they get a major piece of their campaign funding from rich Jews."

BRENNER SAID RICH Jews contribute more money to the Democratic party than rich Christians. "Without the Jewish Democrats the Democratic party is done," he said.

Brenner said about 90 percent of the Christian millionaires in the United States are Republicans, while about 50 percent of the Jewish millionaires in the United States are Democrats.

Brenner said people only voted for Walter Mondale because he was the lesser of two evils.

"Most of the people in the peace movement are Democrats, but in the long run you can't be a peace movement and adapt a political party that will kill Palestinians just to get Jewish votes," Brenner said. "Liberals are ready to open fire just to get the Jewish vote."

Amy Smith, coordinator of the Iowa City chapter of the Nov. 29 Committee for Palestine which sponsored Friday's speech, said Brenner will help her committee's effort to promote solidarity with the Palestinian movement.

"He's opposed to the state of Israel and its policies in the Middle East," Smith said. "We view the policies of the state of Israel as being aggressive to the Palestinian people."

Soviets vow to halt Star Wars

Mikhail Gorbachev

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev said Sunday the Kremlin has devised a way to counteract President Ronald Reagan's space-based Strategic Defense Initiative, commonly known as Star Wars.

"Star Wars does not scare us," Gorbachev said. "We have thought out what we should do if the Americans keep working on SDI."

"But it will not be our choice. America is pushing the world toward unpredictable consequences and the world should know this," he said.

The Soviet leader did not explain what steps Moscow plans against the U.S. space-based defense system.

Gorbachev also accused Washington of creating worldwide confusion over arms control issues and of seeking military superiority over the Soviet Union.

"SDI is not only a lie but the main obstacle in the way of

"POLITICALLY, IF the SDI program is carried through, what is the point of conducting talks at all? Finally, the economic aspect of SDI is important as well. It will hit America and those countries which will have to take part in that race as well," Gorbachev said in an interview released Sunday.

The Soviet leader reportedly gave the interview last Thursday to Indian journalists, prior to a state visit to New Delhi, India, beginning Tuesday. Gorbachev touched on a wide range of issues, including the war in Afghanistan and East-West relations.

Gorbachev again accused Reagan of backing away from arms reduction proposals made at the Oct. 11-12 U.S.-Soviet summit and said Washington is confusing world public opinion about the results of the meeting.

"I regret our partners (are) causing confusion and a mess in the minds of people, not only in America but all over the world about the results of Reykjavik," Gorbachev said.

"All our proposals still stand," he said.

Those proposals include the elimination of all nuclear weapons within 10 years, elimination of medium-range missiles in Europe and a ceiling of 100 missiles in Asia. The package is linked to Washington agreeing to limit Star Wars testing to the laboratory — a demand rejected by Reagan.

Gorbachev dismissed claims that SDI is a defensive system, charging its main purpose is to gain military superiority over the Soviet Union.

Gorbachev said he is hopeful of reaching a political settlement in Afghanistan that will allow withdrawal of the estimated 110,000 Soviet troops.

"I... think that the day is not far off when the question of the political settlement of the situation around Afghanistan is resolved," he said.

agreements which we were about to reach in Reykjavik," Gorbachev said, referring to the October summit between he and Reagan in the Icelandic capital.

Volcanic eruptions rock Japanese isle

TOKYO (UPI) — Volcanic explosions jolted a Japanese island Sunday as Mount Minamidake erupted for the 206th time this year, belching ash thousands of feet high and catapulting an 8-foot-wide boulder through the roof of a hotel.

Five people were injured, authorities said.

The eruption on Sakurajima Island, 600 miles southwest of Tokyo, came as scientists tried to determine if another eruption was imminent on the Japanese island of Izu Oshima. Sunday some 10,000 residents were forced to leave the island, located 60 miles south of Tokyo.

Police said the 3,400-foot-high volcano on Sakurajima Island spewed steam and ash and sent an 8-foot-wide rock crashing through the lobby of a one-story hotel.

saying, "I ordered the employees to squat and not to move."

Meteorological Agency officials said the volcanic explosion was "quite big," but did not immediately link the blast to the eruption of Mt. Mihara on Izu Oshima.

Minor eruptions persisted on Izu Oshima, where smoldering rivers of lava set trees ablaze as they oozed toward abandoned coastal towns and the volcano continued to belch smoke from several craters.

The Meteorological Agency said by late afternoon at least 57 tremors strong enough to be felt shook the island and some were felt in surrounding areas.

EXPLOSIONS WERE recorded at uneven intervals and a cluster of uninterrupted blasts was recorded Sunday morning, indicating the continuation of volcanic activity, an agency spokesman said.

The 758-meter Mt. Mihara ended a 12-year dormancy and began erupting Nov. 15. It exploded violently three days ago, threatening residential areas.

"I HEARD A LOUD explosion that sounded like a bomb dropping and the entire hotel shook," hotel manager Kazuhito Haraguchi, 62, was quoted by the Kyodo News Service as

Austrian socialists lose majority vote

VIENNA (UPI) — The Socialist Party, dominant in Austrian politics for more than 16 years, failed Sunday to win a controlling majority in national parliamentary elections, setting the stage for a likely coalition with the opposition conservative People's Party.

The Socialist Party won 43.3 percent of the vote, the middle-of-the-road People's Party 41.3 percent, the right-wing Freedom Party 9.7 percent and the environmental Greens got 4.6 percent.

Based on 99 percent of the balloting, the Socialists would win an estimated 80 of the 183 parliamentary seats, the People's Party 76, the Freedom Party 18 and the Greens nine, the first ever for that party.

Vranitzky has ruled out a coalition with the Freedom Party.

The election was originally slated for April, but Vranitzky moved the date forward when the Freedom Party, the junior coalition partner until now, adopted a position of right-wing nationalism that is also opposed by the People's Party.

The Socialists have ruled either alone or in coalition since 1970. This time they faced a wave of conservative sentiment that brought former U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim into the presidency with 53.9 percent of the votes last June, despite allegations he was involved in Nazi atrocities during World War II.

RISING UNEMPLOYMENT, scandals and soaring public debt have tarnished the Socialists' image, which reached its peak under the popular Bruno Kreisky, who served four terms as chancellor.

A GRAND COALITION government between the Socialists and the People's Party was seen as the most likely result of the elections because Chancellor Franz

LOOKING INTO GRADUATE BUSINESS EDUCATION? GEORGIA TECH'S MSM MAKES THE DIFFERENCE

Georgia Tech's graduate management program is not just another pretty face. We are a select group of individuals pursuing excellence in management. We foster a stimulating academic environment emphasizing solving business problems with analytical methods. At Georgia Tech's College of Management we take education seriously. We welcome students from all academic backgrounds, as we require only one item from each student: commitment. At a time when conventional MBA programs are coming under sharp criticism from business leaders the MSM stands tall.

FULL-TIME PROGRAM

When you matriculate in Georgia Tech's MSM program you join a tightly-knit group of motivated individuals. Many of our students have taken time out from their highly successful careers to pursue a graduate business degree on a full-time basis. Most choose to enrich their studies through summer internships or the Graduate Co-op Program.

ATLANTA: HOME TO 434 FORTUNE 500 COMPANIES

To do business in Atlanta is to undertake the facts. With 434 of the Fortune 500 represented, Atlanta is the unquestioned business capital of the Southeast. It is the financial, transportation, and cultural hub of the region. The College of Management's ties with local businesses are strong. It's a fact of life here in the Southeast: companies want Tech graduates.

ALL THIS AND FUN, TOO

The small size and intensity of our program builds camaraderie among our students. Social events are commonplace, and the program is represented in all men's and women's intramural sports. Win or lose, we always take time to celebrate after the game.

IMPORTANT NEW ROUTE INFORMATION

Beginning Monday, 11/24, CAMBUS will service Mayflower Residence Hall with three buses instead of two. This change will mean altering two other routes: Interdorm 1 and Shuttle. For most passengers other than Mayflower residents this change should mean little difference in service, however, one should be aware of overall route changes and destination points.

Mayflower 1 (formerly Interdorm 1) will leave Mayflower at :56 beginning at 7:56 am and continue on a :56 & :16 departure time throughout the day until 4:16 pm. This route differs from the regular Interdorm route in that the :56 trip from Mayflower is to downtown only and then the bus returns to Mayflower, like the early morning Mayflower Shuttle, instead of continuing on to the Fieldhouse (see map below). After each :16 departure from Mayflower the bus will continue on to the Fieldhouse and then to the hospital and Arena parking lot. For people at Mayflower, Currier or any eastside residence hall going downtown, the end point of the route should make no difference. After 4:24 pm each day the Mayflower 1 bus will run only from Mayflower to downtown and back like the early morning Mayflower Shuttle until 5:16 pm.

Hospital service from downtown formerly provided by the Shuttle route will now be provided by the Mayflower 1 route. Service times at South Hospital will be 5 minutes earlier than before: the bus arriving at :36 instead of :41. Continuous Hospital service to the Arena lot beginning at 4:41 until 5:21 will remain unaffected.

Interdorm 2 will remain unaffected by any change and will continue going from Mayflower to the Fieldhouse and turning around as in the past (see map below). Interdorm 2 leaves Mayflower at :06 and :36 beginning at 8:06 am and continuing until 9:06 pm each weekday.

Shuttle Route (same name, different route) will leave Kinnick parking lot going to Slater (:08 & :26) and then on to the Pentacrest, turning around and going back to Slater and then back downtown. Every other trip to the Pentacrest leaving Slater (:26) will continue on to Mayflower (see map below). The Shuttle Route leaves Mayflower at :46 beginning at 8:46 am until 4:46 pm.

Ask the driver for the bus' destination if you want to travel further than downtown and are unsure of the bus route. We hope that this increased service is beneficial to all of our riders.

Pressure builds for Reagan to replace senior advisers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House brushed aside speculation of a high-level shakeup over secret arms sales to Iran Sunday as pressure mounted on President Ronald Reagan to replace senior advisers at the center of that political firestorm.

BUT WHITE HOUSE spokesman Roman Papadiuk said, "There is no talk of resignations." However, The Washington Post reported that a group of Reagan's longtime California friends, including Attorney General Edwin Meese and former Interior Secretary William Clark, is pressing to replace White House chief of staff Donald Regan, Poindexter and Secretary of State George Shultz.

about replacing Regan and the California group wants Shultz replaced by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger. Former U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick has been discussed as a successor to Poindexter, the report said.

Teenagers raid home, injure 6

EAST ST. LOUIS, III. (UPI) — A 19-year-old man and a 14-year-old boy raided a home for firearms and went on a wild shooting and slashing spree that injured six of the eight children inside, three critically, police said Sunday.

The suspects were arrested Sunday. Officials declined to release their names until charges were filed. Eight children, all brothers and sisters, were in the house when the attacks occurred Saturday night, said Lt. Robert Henry. The children's parents, John Wilbourn Sr. and Joyce Wilbourn, were not at home, he said.

SHOOTING FOR HAWKEYES
By Steve Williams Staff Writer
MINNEAPOLIS — It's often that someone gets a perfect on the day, Houghtlin made the of it.
With five seconds left game where pride was only thing left to play Houghtlin, aided by a Mota penalty, kicked a 37 field goal allowing Iowa beat the Gophers 30-27 a Hubert H. Humphrey M dome.
Although the final stat showed Iowa's kicker as perfect on the day, Houghtlin could just have easily been had the Gophers been at do some simple addition.
With :10 left in one of wildest games in Metro history, Houghtlin lined up a 51-yard field goal try promptly booted it off to right, leaving the contest apparent deadlock.
However, officials ruled Minnesota had 12 men on field during the kick, and Iowa was awarded 15 yards, Houghtlin cashed the fatal Gopher error.
"I haven't been hitting whole lot of good field lately. I hit that first one best I have in a long time, left it right," Houghtlin said. "When I got that chance, I just made up my mind and asked the Lord me hit it straight. That more than anyone could for."
"If I hadn't been yelling player to get off the field don't think the officials have caught it," Minn Coach John Gutekunst said the penalty. "It's just of those things."
All this came on the heels 30 point second half for Hawkeyes, instigated by Vlasic who started the se half for a floundering Pohlowsky.
Six times in the second the Hawkeyes had the ball times they managed some of score en-route to one Coach Hayden Fry's bi wins at Iowa.
"Tonight's game was of the most courageous football games I've ever witnessed," Fry said. "It's a great feat to come from behind particularly against such a fine ball team. I just want to thank the man upstairs for giving me this opportunity."
Doyle all-American
By Laura Palmer Staff Writer
Each time the women's country team competed season the Hawkeyes became one step closer their goal: a chance to compete in the NCAA cross country championships.
Led by sophomore R Doyle, the Hawkeyes compete in their first meet today in Tucson, Ar.
Doyle qualified individually for the meet after placing fifth in the regional meet week ago.
"Once I did make it real excited," Doyle said half a day later I had to working hard again."
Doyle said her goal is one of the top 25 to cross finish line and become all-American.

top. It's the last meet cross country, and I'm to go for it all. I have no to worry about. No knows me so there's no sure. I'm not nervous at Doyle said.
Doyle's teammates found Tuesday they would accompany her to the meet. with Doyle, Hawkeyes pelt was Sherril pelsa, Michelle Giam Rachelle Roberts, Kristers, Janeth Salazar and Schneckloth.

On The Line

And they say all good things must come to an end. This is the last On The Line for the year. So sit back and enjoy.

First of all, the winner of the battle between the sports staff and the news staff was (as if it was any surprise) the sports staff with a 15-15 record. The news staff finished 13-17, mostly thanks to the heroics of University Editor Phil Thomas.

The 2-8 mark by Thomas ties the all-time record for the worst weekly mark. Thomas was not without excuses, however.

"Well, I've been injured lately and I haven't practiced for the last three weeks," Thomas said. "Plus, the crowd noise was unbelievable. I was clear across the newsroom and I couldn't hear (Editor) Mary Boone when she audibilized. The NCAA rule is clear on this, the officials just didn't enforce it, and I think that's unfair."

The overall individual winner, however, was City Editor Bruce Japsen with a 6-4 mark. No one in the On The Line staff bothered to ask him what he thought of his winning performance.

Even though the sports staff finished 15-15, Sports Editor Brad Zimaneck accepted the On The Line trophy (dubbed the Dick Wilson Golden Exacto Knife Award) without cutting himself.

"We are proud to accept this annual award," Zimaneck said, flanked by his cohorts Assistant Sports Editor Dan Millea and Steve "I can't believe I came in second" Williams.

Williams lost in his personal battle to come from behind against Millea. Millea, if you recall, was leading by two games over Williams with Zimaneck not even close at six games back.

As each picker finished with a 5-5 mark this week, the final records stand at 74-36 for Millea, 72-38 for Williams and 68-42 for Zimaneck.

Thanks for the memories guys — for your 2-8 weeks and your inability to pick the upset. The Daily Iowan salutes you for your wealth of knowledge and competitive spirit.

The winner of this week's key is Ken Recker. Recker will receive a keg from Dubuque Street Brewing Company, 313 S. Dubuque St. Congratulations, your 8-2 record tied six other people for the best record. Your predicted score was the best.

And the scores of the this week's games and some exciting verbs to go with them are: Iowa slipped by Minnesota 30-27, Michigan scratched Ohio State 26-24, Purdue beat Indiana 17-15, Northwestern surprised Illinois 23-18, Michigan State dumped Wisconsin 23-13, UCLA pummeled Southern California 45-25, Oklahoma flied Nebraska 20-17, Harvard swept by Yale 24-17, Louisiana State outdistanced Notre Dame 21-17, Arizona screamed by Rose Bowl bound Arizona State 34-17 and Southern Connecticut blanked Central Connecticut 13-0.

And thank you for your support.

Illini set sights high for 1986

By Mike Trilk
Staff Writer

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Even though Illinois didn't live up to its preseason expectations last year, Illini Coach Lou Henson wasn't disappointed with the way the season turned out.

The Illini, picked by many to contend for the Big Ten title a year ago, finished with an 11-7 conference record but finished with a 22-10 mark that included a trip to the NCAA tournament.

"I thought we had a super year," Henson said at the Big Ten Coaches Conference last weekend. "We had a banner year last year, and we're looking forward to an even better one this year."

ILLINOIS WILL BE without three of its top four scorers from a year ago. Anthony Welch (10.4), Efreem Winters (9.3) and Bruce Douglas (8.8) have all used up their eligibility. But the Illini's cupboards aren't exactly bare.

Six-foot-eight senior Ken Norman, a consensus all-Big Ten pick last year, is back and will form the nucleus of the Illinois attack.

"Kenny is an amazing player," Henson said. "He can hurt you inside and outside. He's a very good shooter. He does everything. The reason he is so good is because he takes care of his body. He's a hard worker."

Norman will get help from seniors Tony Wysinger and Doug Altenberger. Wysinger dumped in 9.6 points per game last year while Altenberger, who missed most of the year with an injury, added 4.0.

"ALTENBERGER WAS hurt last year, and it really hurt our ball club when we lost him," Henson added. "He was our MVP two years ago. He's an excellent shooter and a very dedicated athlete. You have to have a player like Doug if you want to win ball games."

Moving into the spotlight this year for the Illini will be 6-7 sophomore Lowell Hamilton. Hamilton averaged 3.7 points per game last year in 24 appearances for the Illini.

"Lowell is still going to make a lot of mistakes because he's young," Henson said. "He worked hard over the summer and has improved greatly. He'll be able to beat you around the basket."

The Illini could also get some help from a talented group of freshmen. Steve Bardo, a 6-6 guard, Jeff Finke, a 6-5 forward, and Kendall Gill, a 6-3 guard, will all fight for considerable playing time, according to Henson.

"How we play depends on the way our young people progress," Henson said. "We are a relatively young team, but two or three freshmen could get in there and give us some help."

Iowa wrestlers romp in Drake Classic

By Laura Palmer
Staff Writer

The Hawkeye wrestlers recorded 16 pins and only gave up one match to easily handle their three opponents at the Drake Classic Saturday.

In the dual competition against Simpson, Iowa scored the most points a team can score against an opponent to win, 60-0. Forfeits came at the first three weight classes, and when the action finally began, Iowa did not let up. At 142, Greg Randall put Bob McKenzie on his back in 1 minute, 11 seconds to begin the streak of pins.

Jim Heffernan pinned Mike Manor (1:05) at 150 pounds. At 158, his brother John Heffernan pinned David Osthus in 3:50. Royce Alger pinned Chuck Hagen (1:30) at 167.

Jan. 2
Fiesta Bowl (Tempe, Ariz.) — At-large teams: Miami vs. Penn State, Texas A&M or Arkansas. (If Miami loses to East Carolina Nov. 27, Penn State could play in the Orange Bowl. If so, the Fiesta Bowl will be played Jan. 1).

Iowa Coach Sandy Stewart said the Hawkeyes have a 50-50 chance to get into the NCAA tournament following the Hawkeyes' fifth loss in their last six contests.

Because Northern Iowa won its conference and will receive an automatic bid to the tournament, that leaves open one more at-large bid for the region. Stewart said the second-

"I KNEW IT WASN'T going to be really hard," Jim Heffernan said. "I didn't use just the routine stuff. I tried new stuff I wanted to start using in competition."

At 177 pounds, Rico Chiapparelli made fast work of Brad Simpson by putting him on his back in :58. Charlie Sherertz pinned Kevin Garison (3:15) at 190 pounds, and at heavy-weight Brooks Simpson pinned Rick Kersey (2:20).

"I'm not really expecting anything yet, except from the old timers," Iowa Coach Dan Gable said. "I'm still analyzing. We'll go over some things, mistakes individuals made."

Iowa racked up a 51-0 win against Southwest Missouri State.

Redshirt Steve Martin began Iowa's dominance by pinning Joe Arminas in 3:32 at 118 pounds. At 126, John Regan also recorded a fall against Joe Williams (5:29). C.T. Campbell decided Doug Smith (12-6) at 134 pounds.

RANDALL RECORDED his second fall of the day by pinning Shannon Giles in 1:11. Jim Heffernan pinned Jim Fox (1:05). John Heffernan recorded a technical fall over Jeff Rayl (5:40).

At 167 pounds, Alger put Terry Flynn on his back in 1:40. Chiapparelli pinned Jon Frangoulis (4:00). Sherertz decided Matt Shearer, 8-6. Simpson defeated Larry Juern, 12-6.

"Most of the kids wrestled pretty well," Gable said. "Certain specific individuals need to make progression in a hurry."

The only loss of the day for Iowa came during the Iowa-Drake dual at 190 pounds when Drake's Barry Preslaski decided Sherertz, 7-4. Iowa defeated the Bulldogs, 40-3.

Martin recorded a technical fall over Larry Grote (4:32) at 118 pounds. Regan then defeated Brent Helmkamp 11-6 before teammate Campbell handed Alec Magafas a 6-2 defeat.

AT 142, RANDALL easily took care of John Jung, 16-7. The Heffernan brothers again recorded consecutive pins at 150 and 158. Jim flattened Shawn Stream in 1:12 before John pinned Ron Beard (3:55).

Losses dampen Hawkeyes' NCAA hopes

By Robert Mann
Staff Writer

Despite dropping two road matches this weekend, the Iowa volleyball team still has a shot at receiving an at-large bid to the NCAA tournament.

Iowa Coach Sandy Stewart said the Hawkeyes have a 50-50 chance to get into the NCAA tournament following the Hawkeyes' fifth loss in their last six contests.

Because Northern Iowa won its conference and will receive an automatic bid to the tournament, that leaves open one more at-large bid for the region. Stewart said the second-place and possibly the third-place team in the Big Ten could go.

Friday night the Hawkeyes fell to the Buckeyes in four games after winning the first. Iowa fell by scores of 11-15, 15-3, 15-13, 19-17.

"We played a good match (Friday). We just didn't play well enough to win," Stewart said.

SATURDAY NIGHT it was the Hoosiers that beat the Hawkeyes in four games, again after Iowa won the first.

"We played well at times (on Saturday)," she said. "But Indiana just played out of their heads."

One of the reasons the Hawkeyes struggled this weekend is that their top performer Ellen Mullarkey, who is at the top of the conference in several categories, was not able to play because of an ankle injury she received late last week.

"She's been our leader all year, and we're just not the same team without her," Stewart said.

Stewart also said the team seems to have lost a little emotion since its defeat to Illinois, the No. 1 team in the Big Ten, two weeks ago.

"It was a big disappointment to be defeated as bad as we were," she said. "We've lost some of our desire. Some of our players and coaching staff are frustrated."

The Hawkeyes, 12-5 in the Big Ten and 25-8 overall, went into this weekend's contests at Ohio State and Indiana alone at second in the Big Ten but came out tied at No. 2 with Minnesota.

The Gophers, who play Iowa at Carver-Hawkeye Arena this Tuesday to complete Iowa's regular season, also lost to Indiana but defeated Ohio State this past weekend.

Rushing for 79 yards on 19 carries, Bayless moved into third place on the all-time single season list with 1,040 yards behind Ronnie Harmon (1,166) and Dennis Mosley (1,267).

But along with the regular Iowa heroes was a new one Saturday, as 5-foot-9 Penn State's Marciano put the Hawkeyes back into a game that most of the 65,000 spectators at the Metrodome had given up on.

Taking a Brent Herbel punt at the 11-yard line, Marciano followed his blocking and raced 89 yards for the Hawkeyes first touchdown of the afternoon, cutting the Gopher's lead to 17-10.

Then after converting on a short yardage fourth down play, the 6-1 quarterback bolted into the Iowa secondary and flashed around the left end for the Gopher's third touchdown of the day and a 24-10 lead.

Right behind Thompson was Iowa's Rick Bayless, who became only the third rusher in Iowa history to rush for over 1,000 yards in a season. Running for 79 yards on 19 carries, Bayless moved into third place on the all-time single season list with 1,040 yards behind Ronnie Harmon (1,166) and Dennis Mosley (1,267).

"I stumbled and almost fell down somewhere around the 40-yard line, but I got some great blocks and just took advantage of it," Marciano said. "I think I had an 80-yard return in high school once, but that's by far my longest ever in college."

Houghtlin cut the lead to 11 on Iowa's next possession with a 38-yard field goal, and on Iowa's next possession, Vlasic hit a wide open Mike Flagg in the end zone from one yard out, making the score 24-19.

But along with the regular Iowa heroes was a new one on Saturday, as 5-foot-9 Peter Marciano put the Hawkeyes back into a game that most of the 65,000 spectators at the Metrodome had given up for granted.

Foggie refused to let the Gophers fold however, taking the ensuing kickoff and driving his team back into Iowa territory.

Vlasic then put the finishing touches on the Hawkeyes' best comeback of the season, using seven plays and 58 yards, capped by a Bayless one yard dive to take their first lead of the game.

Iowa topped Louisiana State 76-37 and Southern Illinois-Carbondale 75-38 in a meet at Carbondale, Ill. Southern Illinois outscored Louisiana State 63-50.

Iowa also won the 400-yard freestyle relay as the team of John Linxwiler, Ed Lower, Todd Kellner and Dumford clocked an NCAA qualifying time of 3:00.26.

"All of our guys turned in super times," Patton said. "We hope to move up into the top 10, and we feel after this week's wins we can do that." John Davey paced the Hawkeyes, turning in two first place finishes in the meet. Davey won the 200-yard butterfly in 1 minute, 48 seconds and the 200-yard individual medley in 1:49 but was forced out of a third race, the 1,000-yard freestyle, with severe cramps.

Gavin Lilly (1:39.43) and John Wilson (1:40.29) finished first and second for Iowa in the 200 free while Dumford (45.77) and Lower (45.91) finished in the same order in the 100 free. Lilly also won the 500 free with a time of 4:25.95.

Actor 'Scatman' Crothers dies at 76 of lung cancer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "Scatman" Crothers, whose gravelly voice, bald head and down-home nature endeared him to audiences in such films as The Shining and One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, has died of cancer. He was 76.

Perhaps best known during his 60-year career for his television role as Louie the garbage man on "Chico and the Man," Crothers died in his Van Nuys, Calif., home Saturday morning, said Jerry Zelenka, a family spokesman.

Crothers had been in and out of a coma for days as a result of lung cancer that had spread to his throat, Zelenka said. His wife of 49 years, Helen, was with him when he died.

A tall, lanky, bowlegged man with an easy-going manner, Crothers went from nightclubs to stage, and then on to television and films with an ease, versatility and professionalism that brought him roles on television and dozens of movies.

AMONG HIS FRIENDS were movie stars Jack Nicholson, Clint Eastwood and Mickey Rooney. Crothers also received a letter from President Ronald Reagan in July wishing him a speedy recovery.

Not only known for his roles in two Nicholson movies, The Shining and One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, he also originated a style of singing known as the "scat."

Born in 1910, in Terre Haute, Ind., Benjamin Sherman Crothers began his career at age 14 when he taught himself to play the drums and guitar and began performing in local nightclubs and speakeasies.

Crothers then began singing and is thought to have originated the technique of "scatting" — improvising nonsense syllables into a melody.

AT A RADIO AUDITION in 1932 in Dayton, Ohio, the director told him the name Benjamin was not snappy enough for a performer.

"Scatman" Crothers

"I told them to call me Scatman because I do a lot of scat singing," Crothers said in past interviews. "The bibbity bop, bip bip de deep 'scat' technique he became famous for was begun when he would forget the lyrics," said Zelenka. "It was just a shtick, but it became famous."

With his combo he came to Hollywood in 1948 and became the first black to be featured on Los Angeles television with his show "Dixie Showboat."

Universal Studios provided his next big break a year later with the picture Meet Me at the Fair. He had third billing.

CROTHERS PERFORMED in dozens of films, including Hello Dolly, The Great White Hope, Lady Sings the Blues, The Shootist, Silver Streak and Twilight Zone: The Movie.

During an interview in May 1985, Crothers noted the improvement in movie roles for blacks, unlike "the old days when they would stereotype them doing nothing but janitors or maybe a bellboy."

Dawn Blossoms from Dance Gala '86: In Flight

Dance Gala '86 showcases piece from 'Flower Festival'

By Therese Teasdale
Staff Writer

THE UI DANCE Company presented its annual Dance Gala last weekend at Hancher Auditorium. The performance was a showcase for UI dancers and choreographers and provided the audience a wide variety of dance styles to enjoy.

UI graduate student William Kirkpatrick's Sometimes a Waltz combined three of his contemporary waltzes. The dance was performed by three dancers — two men and a woman.

One of the best pieces included on the program was the pas de deux (a ballet dance for two persons) from August Bournonville's Flower Festival at Genzano. The piece was originally written for the Royal Danish Ballet in 1858. Linda Crist, visiting assistant professor in the UI Department of Dance, supervised the reconstruction for the Dance Gala.

ANN SCHUCHMANN and Michael J. O'Connor danced in Friday's Flower Festival at Genzano. Saturday's performance featured Emily Stein and Michael Kruzich. All the performers succeeded in making the piece seem playful and light.

The dance has only recently been notated. Before 1978, dancers who intended to perform it had to learn it from someone else who already knew it.

Because of this indirect method of passing on and preserving the dance, some distortion has occurred since it premiered in Denmark. According to Larry Rhodes, chairman of the New York University dance department in the Tisch School of the Arts, this pas de deux "is excerpted from a lost full-length dance."

Rhodes has danced the piece with the Jeffrey Ballet and the Harkness Ballet.

RHODES DESCRIBED the piece as "a very subtle dance... unusual in its stylistic approach." He went on to add that the dance is a difficult one because there is so much jumping. "It's deceptively simple to look at."

The Verge, choreographed by Bill Wagner, employed several dancers in sleek gray bodysuits. Suffering and homosexuality seemed to be themes of the work. The dancers assumed violent postures suggestive of pain. In one section, two male-female couples danced together and regrouped, leaving the stage as two same-sex couples.

Lan-lan King's Dawn Blossoms had an Oriental bamboo flute accompaniment. The bright colors of the women's costumes, their painted fans and the kite-like butterflies all added to the international character of the piece.

DAUGHTERS, created by David M. Berkey, was based on "a drama about women in the villages of Spain," according to the program. It had a balletic flavor, dramatic music and lighting, and an apparent suicide. It would have been helpful if the program had included more information about the drama being enacted.

Crib was choreographed by Susan Dickson. The piece centered on a man and his encounters with four different women. The four included a prostitute, an athlete, a dotting angel in white and a competitive career woman.

Alicia Brown's Yes, William, Another Dance provided a welcome break from the heavy symbolism of the two previous pieces.

Although this performance was entitled Dance Gala '86: in Flight, only Judy Allen's One Knight in the Sky had an obvious connection with the theme of flight. Commemorating Charles Lindbergh's solo flight across the Atlantic, the dance was a lively production number complete with confetti and a projected airplane which 'flew' along the walls of Hancher.
