POINDEXTER CITES 5TH AMENDMENT

WASHINGTON (CNS) — Acting White House counsel Bernard N. Sanders, a one-time assistant to former Adm. John Poindexter, testified Wednesday he was notified in advance of his firing and that President Ronald Reagan's national security adviser never denied his involvement in the Iran-Contra affair.

"I was notified of my discharge," Poindexter, a one-time assistant to former Adm. John Poindexter, testified Wednesday he was notified in advance of his firing and that President Ronald Reagan's national security adviser never denied his involvement in the Iran-Contra affair.

Poindexter, who was fired by Reagan on March 25, 1987, testified that he was "notified in writing" of his discharge by Deputy White House Chief of Staff Donald Samuel in a letter dated March 23, 1987.

"I have no recollection of him telling me that he would not have any further role," Poindexter said. "I don't remember him saying anything about the issue of the Iran-Contra affair."

Gray resigns UI senate seat, will disclose reasons later

By Nancy Sanger

Gray, U.S. senator from Iowa, announced Monday he will resign from the Senate effective May 15. Gray, who has said he would run for governor in 1986, was elected to the Senate in 1976.

"It's the right thing to do," said Gray, who is running for governor.

Gray said he will file for the senate race on May 28, which is the deadline for filing for the primaries in Iowa. He said he will announce his candidacy in mid-June.

Gray said he will not comment on his reasons for leaving the Senate. He said he will not comment on his reasons for running for governor.

Provisional problem

One of the appealing qualities of Iowa City is its atmosphere, which is characterized by a mix of cultural and economic vitality, but its wealth is not evenly distributed. While some sectors of the city are thriving, others are struggling. The proliferation of small businesses and the presence of a thriving arts and culture scene contribute to the city’s appeal, but the disparity in income levels and housing affordability can lead to social and economic challenges. The city is home to a number of students and young professionals, who are drawn to the area for its educational opportunities and cultural offerings, but they may also face difficulties in finding affordable housing and navigating the job market. The city is currently working on initiatives to address these issues, including affordable housing programs and economic development efforts, to ensure that all residents have the opportunity to thrive.

Current calendar calls for 15 weeks of classes with 72 to 80 regular class days. The Faculty Senate voted last week to shorten the regular class days. The decision was made to include a two-week break prior to exams, which is consistent with practices at other institutions and is intended to improve the mental health and well-being of students.

Another top-quality administrator for lack of adequate time state administrator, to take Reagan’s place as head of the Iowa Department of Human Services. Reagen will take the Iowa City shouldn’t need any prominent rock stars to be

Yes, there are wealthy people here, but their wealth is inconspicuous. By and large, their wealth is inconspicuous. By and large, the emphasis is on the quality of life, not on the accumulation of material possessions. The city is known for its arts and cultural offerings, but it is also a community that values education and intellectual pursuits. The Iowa City area has a strong tradition of support for the arts, and there are many opportunities for residents to engage with the arts, whether through attending performances or participating in creative endeavors. The city is a great place to live for those who value a balanced lifestyle.

Reagan can still salvage his presidency

DURING THE 1984 election, one of the most important issues was the economy. The United States was facing a recession, and many people were concerned about the future of the country. Reagan's administration faced significant criticism for its handling of the economy, and the issue became a major factor in the election.

American Politics

The American political system is one of the most complex and dynamic in the world, with a long history and a rich tradition. The United States has a two-party system, with the Republican and Democratic parties being the two main parties. The President is elected every four years through an electoral college system, and the Vice President is elected as well. The Senate and the House of Representatives are also elected every two years.

The political landscape is constantly evolving, with new issues and concerns emerging every election cycle. The role of the media and the internet has also reshaped the political landscape, with social media and blogs playing an increasingly important role in shaping public opinion and influencing elections.

In the end, it is obvious that Reagan could have salvaged his presidency. He could have taken a more active role in shaping the economy and addressing the country's concerns. He could have demonstrated a stronger commitment to his conservative agenda. While the outcome of the election was determined by a variety of factors, Reagan's failure to address the economic challenges of the time is a lesson that is still relevant today.

Conservation board member fights for education program

By James Cahay

A rejected proposal for a soil and water conservation program hasn't dissuaded a member of the Johnson County Conservation Board. Conservation Board member James Murphy. The program's proposer was Paul Stumbo, the board has enough funds for an environmental education program, Murphy said. "It's refutation that a study guide was prepared in 1981. We have spent $2 million since then and nothing has been done about it."

"I AM GOING TO TRY and get this done for the community. Murphy said. Conservation Board Director Patti O'Keefe said she would like to have the money now. Murphy's supervisor paid the past thing, he said, but will have to pay for it later."

"It really is a pilot program for us. Murphy said. Conservation Board Director Patti O'Keefe said the program had several reasons for rejecting Murphy's proposal. "We have not had time to study this specific proposal for education program."

"I think I have to get there first for it to hit me," says United States Student Chapter Director Circe Stumbo about her recent election as vice president to the United States Student Association.

National student lobby group elects Stumbo vice president

By Phil Thomas

United Students of Iowa Chapter Director Circe Stumbo announced this week her election as vice president of the United States Student Association. Stumbo, who has served as a student board member for the past two years of the University of Iowa, said in her电流ary year if things will continue with all the budget cuts they have already made. "Our budget is flexible, so it's enough money to do what they could at least make a start at funding," Murphy said. "But I think that would take an act of God to make that happen in the future," Murphy said. The proposal would have several advantages for the community, Murphy said. "It would help build up our image, it would help provide more public support for conservation programs, and it would help education and it could be used to get the whole community involved."

Iowa education group calls for pre-kindergarten program

The Iowa Association of School Boards (IAB) recently said it will assemble an educational initiative in an effort to establish pre-kindergarten programs for many of the state's urban and rural school districts. The program includes $500,000 in training for local school districts to improve their educational programs and $500,000 to help local school districts pay for the programs. The program is scheduled to begin in January 2000 and will end in May 1999. The program is intended to help local school districts improve their educational programs and $500,000 to help local school districts pay for the programs.

We feel the need to keep on with pre-kindergarten programs as a way to keep young children in the education system, according to Michelle Threet, a manager at Children's Palace in Des Moines. Threet said that Ragstock is the best place to go for a winter coat. "I have been a customer at Ragstock for over 3 years. The accessory items I have created from Ragstock have been worth the money," Threet said. "WE ARE SELLING A GOOD BRAND, AND WE ARE TRYING TO STOP IN AND FIND THINGS THAT ARE INTERESTING."

Syria strongly militarily, but indecisive

LONDON (AP) — Syria has pummeled several towns from the northwestern border with Lebanon, the British military said today. The attacks were in response to a recent Israeli strike on the Golan Heights.

The authoritative military magazine on military matters said Syria had struck several towns in the Golan since last week. It noted that the attacks were in response to a recent Israeli strike on the Golan Heights.

"Syria's air raids are consistent with its strategy of targeting Israeli military positions. They are also consistent with Syria's strategy of avoiding direct confrontations with Israel." The magazine's editor declined to elaborate further.

Syria's air forces, which are primarily made up of Soviet-built equipment, are believed to be among the most capable in the region. The magazine said the attacks were aimed at slowing down the Israeli advance in the Golan Heights.

"These attacks are a clear demonstration of Syria's determination to protect its territory and to deter any further Israeli aggression," the magazine said.

Syria has repeatedly warned Israel not to attack its territory, and has threatened military retaliation. The magazine's editor said the recent attacks were in response to a recent Israeli strike on the Golan Heights.

"We will continue to respond in kind to any Israeli aggression," the magazine said. "We will continue to protect our territory and our people."
Weinberger implies Reagan was ill- advised, deceived

PARIS (UPI) - Defense Sec- retary Caspar Weinberger said Wednesday that the "proper punishment" for President Ronald Reagan's #2, Adm. John M. Poindexter, will be meted out - possibly because of bad advice.

Weinberger defended Poindexter, adding that the President had not agreed to the arms shipment to Contras, but had been advised by a "very wide" administration.

Weinberger did not identify the sources of the administration's bad advice, but earlier, in interviews with French and Luxembourg radio, the Secretary of Defense repeated his denial of a rumor that he had been advised to give new phase to the Iran arms deals.

"Weinberger was saying Reagan hoped to achieve "a better relationship with the Islamic world," but POindexter didn't work out, possibly because of bad advice."

"The Reagan embargo was to be lifted in exchange for Contras, "but Poindexter was not only being given bad advice but was being slandered in public." The Secretary of Defense said.

"If that is the case, proper punishment will take place."

The defense secretary later met with French, President Francois Mitterrand and ended his two-day visit to France. He told reporters on return to the White House that the President had been "advised. We found a very wide involvement of persons that we discovered." He said he discussed in a brief meeting with Mitterrand over "against the American people." He later left for Brussels to attend a Tuesday meeting of NATO defense ministers.

Mandela attacked outside Cape Town Supreme Court

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - Winnie Mandela, the wife of former South African National Congress leader and anti-apartheid leader Nelson Mandela, was beaten Wednesday by an angry crowd outside the Cape Town Supreme Court, witnesses said.

A three-judge panel of the court was considering an application filed by defense attorneys to keep information sealed from the public as part of the defense strategy in the treason trial of Mandela.

Witnesses said the crowd became angry when a black man was attending a memorial service for a colleague.

"She was cool as a cucumber. She ignored the outside mayhem and continued to work, as a teacher," one witness said.

A fierce opponent of the country's anti-apartheid laws that legally separate the races, she has become known among apartheid's white minority as "the mother of the nation."

Gandhi's assassins lose appeal

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) - An appeals court Wednesday dismissed an appeal against the death sentence for three men convicted of murdering Mohandas K. Gandhi.

The three judges sat behind a bulletproof glass screen as No date was set for the executions.

"A three-judge Delhi High Court panel rejected Wednesday to overturn the trial court's order which in January sentenced three men to death for the 1948 killing of Mohandas K. Gandhi, India's independence leader," said the panel. "We are not in a position to reduce the sentence of death."

The panel said it was trying to preserve the withering of the strength of the terrorists and did not have the evidence to go forward with the appeal.

"We do not have the evidence to find the purpose of the terrorists and their intentions."

The three judges sat behind a bulletproof glass screen as Rangathan read the opinion.

The appeals court ruling followed 30 weeks of hearings held during a four-month period that ended Oct. 1.

Medical helicopter crashes in Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A medical helicopter carrying four people crashed in a remote area near Rutherford County, killing the pilot and a nurse on board, authorities said.

The helicopter crashed into a tree along the Tennessee Highway Patrol's exit 15 service road, about 30 miles west of Nashville, said Capt. Paul Pardee of the Tennessee Highway Patrol. The cause of the crash is under investigation, he said.

"It's tragic, then, to have a nurse and a very experienced pilot who were both out there doing their job," said Pardee.

The helicopter was carrying emergency supplies and equipment for the trauma team at Rutherford Regional Medical Center, said Capt. Fred Pardee, spokesman for the Tennessee Highway Patrol.

Radar technology could have helped save lives, experts say.

"There were a lot of warning signs that the system was malfunctioning," said David Halperin, a transportation safety consultant.

"There's a history of radar malfunctions," Halperin said. "We need to ask ourselves if this is a system that is working as it should be working."
First lady declares support for Reagan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Popular belief is that "boy meets girl," but in private they have admitted to the press that the first lady shares a special bond with the president in human behavior. "The first step — and I call it that, although there might have been Three-fourths of the time we were married," said Olga "The Per." and they say it's terribly sweet.

"If you want a real success story, it's that we haven't had any problems except..." added Olga "The Per."and they say it's terribly sweet.

"If you want a real success story, it's that we haven't had any problems except..." added Olga "The Per." anyway.

Wearing a rose red dress and a bouquet of roses, the first lady said she was pleased with the move as President Reagan had made to put the Iran-Contra case behind him by giving up his national security adviser, Admiral John Poindexter.

"Reagan, obviously prepared for the announcement, seemed to have mixed feelings when he was informed by aides last week that the deputy national security adviser, Alexander Haig, has stepped down. Later, as Poindexter was introduced as his successor, the White House said it had been informed the day before that Poindexter "had decided to leave the Administration to take an active role in the private sector.""

Bullock sentenced to prison

CHICAGO (UPI) — State Rep. Larry Bullock, D-Chicago, was sentenced Wednesday to 27 months in prison for using his legislative office to enrich himself financially at the expense of Illinois taxpayers. Bullock, who had resigned the legislative seat he had held since 1979, appeared visibly shaken as U.S. District Judge William Shadur sentenced him.

The judge said after an emotional plea for leniency that several times he had held since 1979, appeared visibly shaken as U.S. District Judge William Shadur sentenced him.

He also ordered Bullock to receive state money. He hoped that wouldn't happen again, "This is a serious sentence," he said. Shadur also ordered Bullock to perform 200 hours of community service of the judgment of his prison term - at the end of which Bullock will be placed on five years probation.

Bullock also said his infirmity and conviction would bring an end to his political career.

"These people who hate me have no idea in the pursuit of seeking political office," he said.

ISU's Grayer may miss Drake game

HEISSNER, Texas (UPI) — Former Memphis basketball Coach Dean Grayer is likely to miss the next two games, including Saturday's showdown with Oklahoma State, because of a knee injury he suffered in Tuesday's loss.

"I don't want to sound cocky, but I don't feel too bad," Grayer said Wednesday. "I have some swelling in my knee, and there's a lot of bruising down there, but I'm hoping to be back in a couple of weeks."

Grayer, who is in his first year at Oklahoma State, said he will have surgery to repair the injury. He said he expects to be back by mid-January.

"I don't know if I'll be able to play against Kansas or Iowa State," Grayer said. "But I'm hoping to be back in time for the Big 12 tournament."
Hawkeye swimmers prepare for two-day Wisconsin meet

By Scott Halister

The Iowa women's swimming team won its first action since Thanksgiving break when it defeated Michigan 179-121 on Monday in Big Ten Swimming at the University Aquatic Center.

The Hawkeyes set 11 new meet records at the victory. The Iowa men's swimming team also competed in a meet against Michigan and finished second.

The Iowa women will compete at the Big Ten championships Feb. 11-13 in Minnesota.

"This is an important meet because it's the first time we've faced a team we'll see later in the season," said Charles Kennedy, Iowa coach. "This was a real good test of our team's capabilities."

Basketball tournament closes intramural year

By Mike Trib

We're only two weeks left in the semester things around the UI campus may be hectic, but the basketball intramural season has wrapped up for the year. The final standings of the intramural program for the 1987-88 season are:

1. The Cantina (15-0)
2. The Foursome (10-5)
3. The Blues (9-6)
4. The Blues (9-6)
5. The Mustangs (7-8)
6. The Warriors (6-9)
7. The Sabres (5-10)
8. The Eagles (4-11)
9. The Tigers (3-12)
10. The Warriors (2-13)

These were the only three teams to make presentations before the USA Gymnastics Committee. The 1987-88 season was to be the last year for the USA Gymnastics Committee.

"We've had a great turnout this year for the tournament," Don Hall, director of recreation, said. "This year has been very successful. We've had a lot of ideas for this year and we've been able to conduct the program in the way that we wanted."
Dr. Seuss exhibit visits Cedar Rapids

By Don McCool

The cat in the hat, a pop-culture symbol of the 1950s, only got to visit the children's section of the public library of Cedar Rapids.

In an exhibition currently making its home in Cedar Rapids, the cat in the hat, along with other characters from the famed Dr. Seuss book series, is on display.

A "Trio: The World of Dr. Seuss" exhibit, sponsored by the city's public library, and the Cedar Rapids Carnegie Building, will not open to the library's employees until early February as is customary. The exhibit will use the building as the Seuss exhibit's primary location, although a number of the show's display items were created by the late Diego Maradona, who had their work in the library's archives.

The third section takes the visitor step-by-step through the process of making a book from the initial concept stages to the finished, finished product.

"The Universality of Dr. Seuss is really quite amazing," said Libby Slappey. "It's a three-generation audience that's been born to read." Slappey is a well-known author of children's books, who has been reading Dr. Seuss with their parents, and their parents' parents, since they were children. And 400 people have passed the good doctor's exhibit, a rare feat in Cedar Rapids, for the week of the November NBC sweeps' 10 straight win in the prime-time TV ratings race.

Self-taught quilter gives advice to novices

By Michelle Thoebed

LEFANT is a small quilt, perfect for a wall hanging or as a child's bedspread. "It's a kid-sized quilt. The design is made up of many squares and triangles in long columns," explains Kathi Spaeth, who made the quilt. "I never had enough money to buy fabric," she said, so she started making medallions, using small amounts of fabric, sometimes as many as nine pieces in one medallion. Part of the fun of making quilts, Spaeth said, is making a problem and solving it. She sometimes needs to use scrape left over from other quilts, or cut off remnants from a piece. She chooses a different but similar-looking shade that people may think is the same.

DESIGNING THE TOP PATTERN of a quilt is called piecing. "I start by measuring out templates cut in triangles and squares," she said, "I place the templates on the floor, and after finding a design, I then draw out the quilt.

"Don't start out too fast," she said, "because there are a lot of things to do to finish a quilt. I leave a lot of planning to be done when I begin with because I make a pattern of each section first," she said.

Spaeth's work area is "anywhere," she said. "I begin by piecing together a 12-inch square, starting with the middle pattern and building outward from the three pieces together, then the sections on a wall, then

"I love working with my hands," Spaeth said. "If there isn't hands, I don't cut out a lot of fabric to work with. I don't have to worry about the cost of fabric," she said. "I make a design to go on different blocks and put them together (the blocks)...." Spaeth admitted.
