Reagan to announce support of Latin plan

By Laurence Connolly

WASHINGTON - President Ronald Reagan, in a shift of administration policy, will announce today his support for a Central American plan that would guarantee the autonomy of the region.

He is expected to announce his support at a news conference scheduled for mid-morning.

White House spokesman Kevin I. Plevka said Mr. Reagan's decision was based on the recommendation of his new Central America Task Force.

Tuesday's announcement is expected to add to the growing chorus of support for the Latin plan, which was proposed last week by the Central American Republics.

U.S. Rep. Brent Belden, a Republican from Lebanon, will begin the new year with a speech to the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

That speech will be his first as a member of that panel, which will consider tax proposals for the 1988 fiscal year.

That's the way it works

As the Daily Iowan went to press late yesterday afternoon after the Iowa County Council in Iowa City as a vote was taken to reject the tax increase in the county budget.

But the 1 percent addition to the tax tax on property tax was rejected by the Iowa County Council.

Mayor William Alexander said that the tax increase would be needed to balance the budget.

“THE UNIVERSITY considers all persons living in a town (off campus) to be off campus. All persons on campus are not necessarily students. Therefore, the Senate Ways and Means Committee on the Greek seat will be held on the Senate floor for 12 months, after which it will be up for a vote on the Senate floor.

Ex-agent Stockwell tells of CIA ‘lies’

By Scott Hauver

The Daily Iowan

If you want to understand the CIA’s role and techniques in destabilizing other nations, you need to look no further than the testimony of a former agent of the intelligence agency who worked in the country of Angola, a nation with which the United States cooperated on counterinsurgency efforts.

Robert Stockwell, a former CIA agent who worked in Angola, said the agency’s efforts there were aimed at destabilizing the Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

Stockwell, who now heads the Counterinsurgency Research Project, said the CIA’s efforts in Angola were part of a broader strategy to destabilize the Sandinista government.

Stockwell said the CIA used a number of techniques to destabilize the Sandinista government, including the use of false information, assassination attempts, and the support of rebel groups.

Stockwell also said the CIA’s efforts in Angola were part of a broader strategy to destabilize the Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

Stockwell’s testimony is part of a larger effort to uncover the truth about the CIA’s role in destabilizing other nations.

The CIA has been accused of using a variety of tactics to destabilize governments around the world, including assassinations, false flags, and other covert operations.

Stockwell’s testimony is a reminder that the CIA’s efforts are not always in the best interests of the United States or the world.

CRITICS SAY NEW YORK LAW WILL SELL SCHOOLS PRAYER

By Henry A. Raymond
Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON-"The moment will arrive..." said Rep. John Sewall (D-Maine) on the House floor Monday, adding that the day would come when Americans would be forced to pray "in public school prayers" if the Senate passes its version of a national prayer law. Mr. Sewall's remarks were in response to a debate in the Senate on a bill to require schools to hold a moment of silence for students to pray or meditate, a proposal that has faced opposition from civil liberties groups and some religious leaders.

The Senate debate on the bill, which was introduced by Sen. Richard G. Lugar (R-Ind.) and is supported by the Reagan administration, is scheduled for Wednesday. The bill would allow states to opt out if they meet certain criteria, such as having a law requiring a moment of silence.

"It is outrageous to learn that the Senate will be debating this bill," said Rep. Sewall. "It is an affront to our democratic values and a violation of the First Amendment to our Constitution." He added that he would vote against the bill if it comes to a vote in the House.

The bill has been introduced in both chambers of Congress, and has drawn criticism from civil liberties groups who argue that it violates the principle of separation of church and state. Some religious leaders have also expressed concerns about the potential for the law to lead to prayer in public schools.

Meanwhile, the House has already passed a version of the prayer bill, which would require all public schools to hold a moment of silence for students to pray or meditate. The House version of the bill passed last month with a vote of 238 to 171, with Democrats opposing the measure.

"I urge all of my colleagues to vote against this bill," said Rep. Sewall. "It would create a climate of religious pressure in our schools and undermine the principle of separation of church and state." He added that he would work to defeat the bill in the Senate if it comes to a vote.

The debate in the Senate is expected to be intense, with both sides pledging to work to advance their respective positions. The bill has been supported by religious leaders and some civil liberties groups, who argue that it is necessary to ensure a moment of silence for students to pray or meditate.

"We believe that a moment of silence is essential to the educational process," said Sen. G. Lugar. "It allows students to reflect on their day, and to consider their thoughts and feelings." He added that he would vote in favor of the bill if it comes to a vote in the Senate.

The debate in the Senate is expected to continue through the week, with both sides pledging to work to advance their respective positions. The bill has been supported by religious leaders and some civil liberties groups, who argue that it is necessary to ensure a moment of silence for students to pray or meditate.
Farmers

The legislation often is too late to have the system as such as it made over the few years, on the other hand, the Federal Home Loan Bank System is not a suitable development, although the assistance will go for many years to come, it will not entirely appropriate $30 billion in emergency aid to be provided to farmers, according to the Nixon administration. It has been reported that the system is not equipped to handle this amount of money.

From December 1970, the central government has been involved in the process of developing new federal programs for farmers. This is to be a new federal program for farmers, effectively replacing the Farm Credit Administration and the Farmers Home Administration, which lends to farmers who cannot obtain credit elsewhere.

The system, which provides assistance to farmers, has been criticized for its inefficiency and for the way it allocates aid. It does provide some assistance, but it is often too little and too late to help the farmers who need it most. The system is also criticized for its lack of transparency and for the way it is run by career bureaucrats. It is often accused of being too bureaucratic and of not helping the farmers who need it the most.

The Nixon administration has proposed to the Congress a new program to assist farmers. This program would be modeled on the existing programs but would have a different structure. It would be more flexible and would be able to respond more quickly to the needs of the farmers. The program would be financed through a tax on farm income and would be administered by a new agency, the Farmers Assistance Administration.

This new view was reflected in Secretary of Agriculture Donald Rumsfeld's speech on the Department of Agriculture's 30th anniversary, in which he said that the department had started to work to improve the lives of farmers. He said that the department was working to help farmers get the most from their land and to make sure that they were able to make a living.

The bill also would provide for the Federal Home Loan Bank System to be able to lend money to farmers, which would allow them to repay the money they have borrowed. The bill also would provide for the establishment of a new federal program for farmers, and for the Federal Housing Administration to be able to lend money to farmers.

Some members of Congress have criticized the bill, saying that it would be too expensive and that it would put too much power in the hands of the Federal Housing Administration. Others have said that the bill would be a good idea, but that it would need to be changed in order to be effective.

Farms, not technology, first

AGRICULTURAL biotechnol-

We should learn a lesson from the steel industry, we should consider a Freedom of speech for all?

By Craig Payne

R ecently about 100 MS students lined up on the lawn in front of the administration building. They were demanding that the school administration grant them the right to speak publicly without prerequisite permission. Their speech was about the fact that the administration had denied them the right to speak.

The administration later stated that this was because the students had violated the university's free speech policy. The students, however, argued that they had not violated the policy and that the administration was abusing its power.

The issue of free speech is a complex one and it can be difficult to make a clear distinction between what is and is not protected.

To the Editor:

I have been reading the monthly expressed in a recent editorial.

I agree with the writer that "agricultural biotechnologies will combut there are some important considerations.

First, it is important to consider the long-term implications of these technologies. The writer states that these technologies will increase food production, but it is not clear what these technologies will do to the environment or to the economy.

Another important consideration is the potential for misuse. The writer states that these technologies will reduce agri-meat in agriculture, but it is not clear how these technologies will be used to promote the interests of large food companies. The writer also states that these technologies will reduce poverty-level income, but it is not clear what effect they will have on the ability of people to afford food.

Judge allows 14-year-old boy on girls' field hockey team

MONTPELIER, VT (AP) -- A state judge agreed Tuesday to hear an appeal by a 14-year-old boy who has spent three years playing field hockey with the girls' varsity team at his high school.

Washington County Superior Court Judge James Nixon issued a temporary restraining order against the High School District 25, which permits the school to bar the boy from taking part in the fall, winter and spring seasons of the year.

The basketball Association, a private organization that oversees school activities, barred the boy from participating in field hockey as a result. The boy, an 11-year-old student at the high school district, will not be able to play in the fall, winter and spring of the year.

Prep star makes commitment to Hawkeyes

By Mike Tribune
The Daily Iowan

"He gives me the chance to be near home, so I made the decision," said Treynor High School senior Mateo Buda. "My heart was set on Iowa City, and I wanted to get away from the Midwest." Buda chose the Hawkeyes over Ohio State, Illinois, and Michigan State.

Buda is the third player in the rankings to commit to the Hawkeyes this season, following Iowa City High School's Matt Voss and North Linn's Michael Burki. The Hawkeyes also have commitments from Iowa City High School's Alex Lichliter, Cedar Rapids Jefferson's Alex Kimball, and Iowa City High School's Alex Lynn.

"I've been recruiting Mateo for a couple of years," said Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz. "He's a great kid and a great player." According to Fenton, Buda was a key player in the Hawkeyes' 42-10 win over Iowa City High School.

"It was a great night for us," said Iowa City High School coach Mark Fenton. "We were able to score a couple of runs early, and it set the tone for the rest of the game." The Hawkeyes scored four runs in the first inning and added two more in the second to take a 6-0 lead.

"I was really pleased with our defense," said Fenton. "We played well behind our pitcher, and it was enough to get the win." The Hawkeyes' pitching was solid, with starting pitcher Matt Voss allowing just one run in five innings.

Elliott guides sports success

By Scott Vinger
The Daily Iowan

"It was a proud moment," said Iowa High School principal Kirk Elliott. "We've been working hard to achieve this level of success, and it's great to see it pay off." The Hawkeyes were led by senior quarterback Alex Lynn, who threw for 341 yards and four touchdowns.

"I'm really proud of our kids," said Elliott. "They work hard and are great representatives of the school." The Hawkeyes were able to overcome a slow start to pull ahead in the third quarter and put the game out of reach.

By Mark Tribune

"I'm really excited to have Hendricks pitch for our team," said Iowa coach Kurt Martin. "He brings a lot of experience and talent to our lineup." The Hawkeyes were able to score four runs in the third inning and add two more in the fifth to take a 6-1 lead.

"We've been working hard to prepare for this season," said Martin. "We've got a lot of talent and a lot to prove." The Hawkeyes were led by senior catcher Matt Lynn, who hit two home runs and scored three runs.

Smash hit

"It was a great night for us," said Iowa City High School coach Mark Fenton. "We were able to score a couple of runs early, and it set the tone for the rest of the game." The Hawkeyes scored four runs in the first inning and added two more in the second to take a 6-0 lead.

"I was really pleased with our defense," said Fenton. "We played well behind our pitcher, and it was enough to get the win." The Hawkeyes' pitching was solid, with starting pitcher Matt Voss allowing just one run in five innings.

"I'm really proud of our kids," said Elliott. "They work hard and are great representatives of the school." The Hawkeyes were able to overcome a slow start to pull ahead in the third quarter and put the game out of reach.

Spiegelman wins defensive honors
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Most people think Ohio State's Terrell Burkhart wouldn't be all-star after four games if it weren't for linebacker Chris Spielman.

Burkhart's 26 tackles included 14 solo. That percentage stood him a long way up TFL (Tackle For Loss) charts of the nation.

But Spielman, a fourth-year, 240-pound senior and the authorized defensive leader of the Buckeyes, was hardly the end of the story.

"We're having a ball together," said Spielman. "It's not just the defense which wins or loses a game. We win or lose as a team. They're all good..."'

Upsahl, Donian discuss minor issues
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The NFL's referee chief rejected complaints that the NFL hadn't done enough to control fighting over the last 11 days, but failed to discuss the key issue of free agency.

Jack Donian, executive director of the NFL Management Council and NFL Players Association Executive Director Scott Anderson discussed the contract issues.

"There is no contract in the Washington area, and Management Council spokesman Pete Donian.

On The Line

Brough is enough.
We've read all the copy we've heard most about what a terrible game football in heaven at the NFL. And now fans think that the league's new owners should be allowed to take a breather or to hear the new owners. And when the players who are left and those who are hired feel the cold temperatures, and everyone knows it. They feel the gloom and their moods actually tug at the crowd. And some of their feelings become tangible during the big game.

That's why we now see a sport's excitement being dead with no hinting of a tradition, it's a rare case of bad business. It's a game where men meet and everyone else gets out of the way.

And football fans are the greatest. And they usually add two minutes and often spell out on the scoreboard. The reason football isn't the way it should be and it's really not our fault. And yet all of us, for instance, we were born on two separate days.

FOOTBALL FANS unique.

Football fans have no reason to get excited. Football fans have ugly moods and are always angry. Football fans are ugly. Football fans are always angry.

And in a sport of everything else, football fans hang on at Fenway's. So&. Gilette, the only place in the United States where the fans are allowed to hit the ball with no hinting.

To top off football, it's America's sport and we don't want it to go.

What's next? On The Line is directly for football fans and NFL fans.

For those who are not football fans, don't worry. Our rules are not complicated. The rules are simple, including the only first base per person, press your name and phone number and turn in your tickets at Commissions Center Room 101 before noon on Thursday.

And remember, the lucky winners of this week will be the extra people bought a bag of cool beer, the complements of your local carriers. We don't want the clubby residents, but everyone is a winner in this county. It's probably really a special place to learn Iowa City.

Once a week, we feature it. And.

In Iowa, the rules are.
