Campus parking means ‘big bucks, no whammies’ for UI

Parking changes planned

By Sara Langenberg
The Daily Iowan

At the University, parking is big business. During the fiscal year 1989-90, UI Parking Services generated about $700,000 in revenue from parking alone — a difference of nearly $200,000.

UI Parking Services Manager Linda Gritsch said the difference can be attributed in part to a new parking fee and an increase of about 2,500 parking spaces.

"The more spaces you have, the more violations you're likely to see," she explains.

Gritsch said there are usually no more than 100 parking tickets issued to 10,000 vehicles registered at the UI, representing roughly one-third of the UI student population, and about 300 faculty or staff vehicles.

"In about 2,500 cars, there's more than 100 parking violations — usually 10 to 20 per month — in parking lots during the fiscal year 1989-90," according to Gritsch's figures.

Parking fees are $5 for a 24-hour ticket, $10 for a monthly permit for faculty and staff, and metered spaces for students who live off campus — a difference of nearly $100,000 parking tickets.

"Many people are just not paying," she said. "They want to get away with the charge. It's not really fair to those who pay, because they pay the costs for all of the cars on campus.

"There are more than 220 spaces for faculty and staff parking and brings in about $200,000 per year, which previously consisted of a $5 fee," according to Linda Gritsch, who is responsible for the changes at some of the other lots.

"In Iowa City," she added, "the UI is taking the parking meters out of the student parking section and adding corner booths.

"Getting rid of the meters will cut "parking time violations," Gritsch said, adding that users may still be able to waltz in a ticket if they park there without a "Lot 3" or an "A" permit before 9 p.m.

After 9 p.m., the cashiered spaces will be available to anyone, she said.

"The cashiers and staff parking and brings in about $200,000 per year, which previously consisted of a $5 fee," according to Linda Gritsch, who is responsible for the changes at some of the other lots.

About 100 student spaces in the parking lot west of the UI Main Library, shown at top left, will soon be regulated by those cashiers booths instead of by parking meters, About 200 spaces for faculty and staff vehicles will be accessible by a key-entry gate. At top, a UI worker ticket a car for an expired meter earlier this month at the UI Main Library parking lot. UI Parking Services issued about 100,000 parking tickets on campus last year.
Grading ordinance discussed

By Lisa Bendig
The Daily Iowan — Wednesday, August 22, 1990

Passage of a grading ordinance would prevent the development of some Iowa City lots, an engineer told the Iowa City Council Tuesday night.

The council is considering passage of an ordinance that would require grading of more slopes in environmentally sensitive areas.

During a presentation on the ordinance Tuesday, Chris Stephenson, project engineer for the MPO Council, said passage of the ordinance would restrict development in seven areas.

For example, he estimated that the proposed ordinance would cause a developer to be turned down in a 20- to 30-acre subdivision. Grading costs vary according to the angle of the slope that must be leveled off, he said.

"We see Iowa City as a city that the ground floor left is much more easy and difficult to develop than the upper steps, the type of land that develop those areas," Stephenson said.

"This ordinance is going to eliminate several tracts of land that are being developed in the City," Stephenson said.

Council member Randy Larram said the intent of the council is to stop the development of some lots.

"We want to be encouraging people to be leaving those fragile and sensitive areas alone," Larson said.

Larry Schwindt, also project engineer for the MPO Council, said that only four acres out of 100 acres of Iowa City lots have been developed.

"We have plans for the passage of the proposed ordinance. Iowa City Kedorl District Kaufman speaks in favor of protecting environmental areas," Schwindt said.

"Port of Iowa City has lots that are fragile and sensitive and unable to have Vermont City look like Disneyland," he said.

Kaufman said environmental activists usually have a problem with development on sensitive areas.

Caucus member Randy Larram said the intent of the council is to stop the development of some lots.

"We want to be encouraging people to be leaving those fragile and sensitive areas alone," Larson said.

State figures show rise in prison terms

Inmates serving prison terms sharply increased in the past five years, new state figures show.

That trend, along with a slight rise in population, suggests a strain on the state's prison system.

DES MOINES — The state's rural sectors have been making that large population loss, too, according to an Associated Press analysis.

The numbers released by the Census Bureau on Tuesday showed a large population loss in rural Iowa, with nearly 50,000 people leaving the state in the past decade.

In 1980, Iowa had a population of 2,850,000, but by 2000, that number had dropped to 2,777,000, a drop of nearly 50,000 people.

That's pretty dramatic population decline, especially when you consider that Iowa is a much larger state than many other states.

DES MOINES — Johnson County, Iowa, saw a solid population increase this year, as did three other counties.

In all, 93 counties lost population while only six gained. Overall, the number of people living in Iowa dropped by nearly 3,000,000, which would still be a decline, though for less than the state's rural populations.

In the wake of the announcement of the Butler Bridge project last Friday, many students are concerned about potential job opportunities. Interim City Manager H. Thomas Sanders said that the bridge project will bring about 400 jobs to the area, and the city is already in the process of advertising for construction workers.

The project, which is expected to begin in the spring, will be funded by a combination of local and state funds. The construction will last for two years, and the bridge is expected to be completed in the fall of 2020.

Baltic negotiations announced

By Larry Rossman
The Associated Press

MOSCOW - Estonia announced Tuesday she would open talks with independence-seeking Latvia and Lithuania on the 80th anniversary of the Hill-Gurla deal that laid the foundation for the three Baltic states.

The talks, announced by Latvian and Lithuanian officials as a 10-member panel left for talks with the Baltic states in Moscow.

All three republics have been in the forefront of efforts to win independence from the Soviet Union, which invaded Latvia in 1940 and Lithuania in 1940-1941, and in Latvia after the 1990 non-aggression pact against the Warsaw Pact and the Soviet Union.

The Soviet government minister in charge of negotiations with the Kremlin, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that the republic's five-member delegation would begin talks with Soviet officials in Moscow Thursday. He said the talks would aim at the "way for Germany to invade independence from the sphere of influence."

The Soviet government official also said that on Monday and helping Indian troops stretch over the entire Indian sector by troop reinforcements were dispatched to the border near the mountain roads, but a few troops did not even cross the border.

There were no reports from India in the area. Despite the tension, officials from both sides said talks were to be continued and there is no indication of a direct confrontation.

Turkish army officials said that the incident was not caused by a direct confrontation but it is not yet clear what the outcome will be. The Turkish government has also denied reports of a direct confrontation.

BEER TAX

Real motives

With the milking of 'em and the 'tax, the beer industry is fighting a high visibility campaign against a proposed tax on its products. The average American family that purchases beer spends about $50 a year, or about 15% of its total beer consumption, on taxes and licenses. Its nice to see that they are so concerned about John G. and the other 19 million Americans who buy a lot of their beer in numbers.

If the prices go up, beer sales go down, that is nothing more than the simple law of supply and demand. This is of even more concern to the American who goes over budget because that extra no-tax

If beer prices go up, beer sales go down, nothing more than the simple law of supply and demand.

Beer is not a necessity. In fact, it might be called a luxury, something that one can do without, and certainly something that goes over budget. This is of course due to the simple law of supply and demand. Real consumers seem to agree.

OIL DEPENDENCY

Lack of will

If there is one lesson the crisis in the gulf has taught the United States, it is that our dependence on foreign oil is way too high. Our government and our politicians have publicly stated that more than 80% of our oil comes from foreign countries. The numbers mean little if the government does not seek to change things.

The war in the gulf has increased the costs for foreign oil. The problem is that the government is not trying to do anything about it. It is time to put this lesson to work.

The government claims that the war in the gulf is a test of will. This is true, but the government's record on foreign oil is one of lack of will. The government has been seeking to increase our oil production for a number of years, but has made little progress.

South African leaders call for talks to end township violence

By Greg Myra
The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa

Government and black leaders Tuesday made a joint plea for peace as the death toll from 10 days of fighting topped 100.

President F. W. de Klerk confirmed that he has promised to meet with Zulu leader Mangosuthu Buthelezi and Gen. Bantu Holomisa, head of the Transkei, in discussions of a cease-fire in black townships abroad of Johannesburg between Zulus and Xhosas.

"We must now heed the world's calls for peace and work to re-establish peace and confidence between the community," de Klerk said.

Buthelezi said he had met with Zulu leaders at his homeland of Transkei, to discuss a cease-fire after 10 days of fighting.

The fighting since Aug. 12 has centered on the ANC's ability to maintain political power. Both the ANC and Inkatha oppose racial segregation, but the ANC contends Inkatha is using violence.

Dempsey suspended, fined after Dykstra donnybrook

It was services.

NEW YORK — Rick Dempsey of the Phillies is suspended for one game after the third baseman shoved Atlanta’s Deion Sanders on Monday night.

The incident came in the seventh inning of the game in which Sanders hit a three-run home run.

Dempsey has been suspended previously for on-field altercations, but this is the first time this season.

Dempsey initially denied the incident, saying it was “just a misunderstanding.”

But there were eyewitnesses who said that Dempsey pushed Sanders from behind.

Hagan, offense top concerns for Vols in Pigskin Classic

By Tom Sharp

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. - Tennessee coach Johnny Majors said Tuesday he was not at all sure his defense did much to slow Colorado's powerful offense during the Hawkeye Classic on Saturday.

Despite allowing 388 yards passing, the Volunteers defense had an outstanding, championship-caliber football team, Majors said. "This is the best football team we've ever had at this school," he said.

Majors said his chief worry is Colorado quarterback Darian Johnson, a 170-pound sophomore who will have to play the option game. And he's also a very good athlete.

Colorado's quarterback will put a lot of pressure on the Vols, who have shown that they are no better than average defensively.

"We're not ready yet, His leg isn't up to show a No. 1 pick," Majors said.
