Students vie for Rhodes honor

By Beth Clark

The Daily Iowan

Although the criteria and standards for the award are changing, the students competing for the Rhodes Scholarship are still vying for the same things they were doing in 1902.

The Rhodes Scholarship is a prestigious and well-sought-after award that has been offered for over 100 years. It is a full-tuition scholarship for four years at the University of Oxford in England. The criteria for the award have evolved over time, but the general goal remains the same: to attract and support the brightest and most talented students from around the world.

This year, the competition is more intense than ever, with a record number of applicants. The students are vying for the opportunity to study at one of the world's most prestigious universities and to become leaders in their fields. The competition is fierce, and the students are working hard to stand out from the crowd.

The Rhodes Scholarship is not just a scholarship, but a pathway to success and influence. The winners of the scholarship are expected to become leaders in their fields and to make a positive impact on society. The scholarship is not just about academics, but also about character, leadership, and service.

The competition for the Rhodes Scholarship is a testament to the excellence and dedication of the students who apply. The winners are chosen based on their academic achievements, personal qualities, and potential to make a difference in the world. It is an honor to be considered for this scholarship and a privilege to represent the university.

New IC Parks and Recreation Department program to offer recreational activities as substance abuse prevention

By Heidi Federson

Enlarging any program to seat consciousness about the need to prevent abuse will be the theme of the Iowa City Parks and Recreation Department's new prevention program, and it is important to much of what we do in this community, the next cause of drug abuse. These are not just problems for us to lose, instead, brooders and peer press.

It's important to get young people into the prevention process at a young age and get them involved in the process. We need to remember that if you try to do it in an intervention, you're not going to get a lot of them to believe that this really is important. You need to involve them in the process.

Medical facilities increase precautions against AIDS

Workers agree benefits outweigh costs

By William Pepper

The Daily Iowan

Growing concerns about AIDS would appear to be groundless, but it is spread through bites and contact in the use of materials and in hospitals and doctors offices. Precautions are increasing.

In Dr. Bradley Doebbeling, UI medical director at the Center for Disease Control and Prevention, was quoted in the New York Times.

"It is becoming clear that the risk of infection is low and is not significantly increased by the use of latex gloves."

The Doebbeling research concludes that the amount of latex used by the health-care industry is not significant when compared to the amount of rubber used by the health-care industry and other industries. The research also states that the amount of latex used by the health-care industry is not significant when compared to the amount of rubber used by the health-care industry and other industries.

Program helps students to conduct field research in foreign countries

For those planning study or research in a foreign culture, preparation is the key. Such students should attend the upcoming meeting of the UI's International Affairs and Legal Services.

Today beginning at 5 p.m. in room 28 of the International Center, there will be an orientation session for students interested in the UI's Foreign Language and Area Programs and study abroad.

The project, comprising student hours during next March and April, is a non-credit program. "The objective is to offer UI students pre-departure preparation in foreign culture, techniques of interviewing and cross-cultural study for study abroad," explained Monahan.

Included will be an introduction to a number of different approaches to field-based learning in a foreign culture, such as how to design an independent study project in cultural studies, techniques of interviewing and cross-cultural study.

The council, mostly of industry experts, met in Baghdad beginning today, the official Iraqi News Agency said. It is planned, however, that Morocco would have to pay compensation for broken contracts.

Monahan said that students planning to study abroad, particularly those going abroad to live, study and do research in foreign countries, should go to the foreign country's government to find out what kind of staff, they lack off. Then said: "They don't want anything to do with you. They look it over and say you are not good enough to do research if I could just find a place.

"The objective is to offer UI students pre-departure preparation in foreign culture, techniques of interviewing and cross-cultural study for study abroad," explained Michael Monahan. The orientation meeting was designed to "invite interested students to come to be more aware about what we're doing this spring," said Michael Monahan, the project's director and manager director of the UI's Aff airs and Legal Services.

Stealth flaws prompt 3 Navy firings

By Robert Burns

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Tuesday it is fixing out the three top officers of its classified A-12 stealth bomber program, including the aircraft's original developer, F. Paul Calvert, the three top officers of the A-12 program, which includes the creation of a vice chairman and a vice president for technical development, now more than a year ago.

Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett said Tuesday he will disclosure serious flaws in the aircraft's respiratory and hydraulic systems.

"The extraordinary action by Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett on Tuesday said he was already aware of the serious flaws in the A-12 program," Calvert, Lawrence Eberhard and Kenneth Chen said.

Jury acquits 2 in racial slaying

Pittsfield, Mass. — The murder trial of a DC-9 that collided in flight with another jetliner in an airport runway, killing nine people, ended in acquittals Monday as the pilots of the two jets and the flight attendants were cleared of all charges.

Judge Robert Vento, who presided over the trial, said the convictions of two pilots and four flight attendants radical, 50, was "an extraordinary good day." He said he was proud of the jury's decision and that it was an important day in history.

The verdict makes Patino the first person to be acquitted of murder in a racially motivated attack on a flight.

Patino said he was "very happy" with the verdict and that he was "very happy to be free." He added that he was "very grateful" for the support of his family and friends.

The trial ended with a two-week delay after the jury was hung for 12 hours.

The case involved a DC-9 that was spinning out of control and crashed into a commercial jetliner in Detroit on May 23, 1989.

The crash killed seven people, including Patino, and injured 21 others.

The trial lasted for three weeks and featured testimony from more than 80 witnesses.

The defense argued that the pilots were not at fault and that the collision was caused by a mechanical failure.

The prosecution argued that the pilots were negligent and that the collision was preventable.

After the verdict was announced, Patino said he was "very happy" and that he was "very happy to be free." He added that he was "very grateful" for the support of his family and friends.

Farm subsidy issue threatens trade talks

By Martin Copenhaver
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - An ad hoc effort to resolve the tobacco dispute, approved by the Clinton administration, is facing new opposition in Europe and is in doubt.

The 11-nation European Community has suspended a key proposed trade offer to seek export subsidies by 77 percent and provide export guarantees and cash grants by 77 percent over the next decade.

The European Community has said it will offer an additional $250,000 in grants to their institutions.

"We have been in constant and frequent discussions with European Community officials to find a solution that will satisfy both U.S. and EC tobacco industry interests," said James Fox, the deputy U.S. trade representative.

The European Commission, which had hoped to prevent the 12-nation European Community from adopting the subsidy plan, said officials from Europe and the United States have been discussing the potential for a new trade offer.

"As this week's report shows, the proposed trade offer was accepted by the U.S. and European Community officials," said a European Commission official.

The report said that "the U.S. has indicated a willingness to consider a trade offer, but that it would only be acceptable if the European Community would provide additional assurances that the offer would be implemented in a timely manner."

Fast bargains at fast food chains

CHICAGO — Fast food is getting cheaper.

With the closure of 27 Burger King outlets in many cities, Burger King is slashing prices on about 100 items beginning next week. A classic 10-piece chicken nugget meal was $4.99; now it's $3.99.

When the popular chain, with about 7,000 outlets nationwide, said prices were increasing a year ago, then reversed itself recently, it sent shock waves throughout the industry. Company spokesmen say price is a safeguard against soaring prices of the major ingredient, chicken.

Coke, Pepsi announce recycling plans

ATLANTA — Soft drink rivals Coca-Cola and PepsiCo each said Monday that it will try to sell their empty bottles to plastic bottle makers that plan to use their recycled plastic for new bottles.

The cola makers became the latest in the competitive race to encourage environmentally sound practices if possible. An unexpectedly aggressive market for recycling in the U.S., especially in the Northeast, could make it easier to sell the used plastic.

"I think recycling is one thing the cola warriors agree on, really," said Andrew Spinelli, a spokesman at the Pepsi Co. Co's headquarters in Beverly, N.Y. "They are both working with the natural goal of encouraging the most environmentally sound practices, but in different ways."

Pepsi said it will use the outcome of its new bottle recycling policy to boost sales to soda makers.

Rebel Deby: Democracy for Chad

By Phoebe Mathiews

VIJAMENA, Chad — Rebel leader Deby is planning to boycott upcoming local elections unless his right to be named first is guaranteed.

Deby, who led the military to power in Chad last year, has been the subject of many newspaper articles recently. His forces are facing heavy opposition from French and African governments.

The move by Deby is likely to knock the Chadian government in the teeth. Since Deby's forces took power, the country has been in turmoil. An economic crisis and political instability have worsened the situation.

Deby, who is the leader of the Patriotic Salvation Movement, leads a group of about 15,000 men, which includes the Chad People's Liberation Army. He is known for his tough approach to fighting rebels in the country.

Bush: Iraqi sanctions probably aren't enough

By Teresa Hone
The Associated Press

Monterey, Calif. — President Bush on Tuesday strongly rejected recommendations from former Pentagon chiefs to give sanctions against Iraq at least a week to work before resorting to military force.

Bush said he would not allow Saddam Hussein to "escape the fate of the Evil Dictators" in power, expressing the support of the American people for "restoring the rights of the Iraqi people." He said he would not allow Iraq "to become the gulf state that is the Protectorate of Saddam Hussein.

14 dead in Argentinian uprising

By Robert McCallum

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — The leader of four army groups that four years was also the president, President Menem, was forced to resign his military post. The rebel leaders are the Army, "I believe that the death penalty should be applied to end the worst punishment for the leaders of the army that committed this crime," said the president's legal adviser.

The rebels had fired at least 14 people in the army, including the army's chief of staff, after they had seized the capital city of Buenos Aires.

In a statement, the president said that the death penalty, the worst punishment for the leaders of the army, should be applied to end the worst punishment for the rebels.

The rebels had demanded a change of the military's high command and a bigger military budget, which would have endangered Menem by forcing him to cancel a visit to Argentina on Wednesday.

Bush's scheduled landing in Buenos Aires on Thursday was canceled, and instead the president's legal adviser, Raul Menem, said that the death penalty should be applied to end the worst punishment for the rebels.

Hawkeyes zero in on bragging rights

Earl sparks 72-68 win, Iowa State on list

The Daily Iowan

By Tawanda Dobson

Reliever Dave Inoaat certainly will be a welcome addition to the Yankee rotation next season. Inoaat, who had a 2.53 ERA in 119 1/3 innings last season, led the league in saves with 21. He is one of the top relievers available this winter.

Inoaat's signing is significant because it boosts the pitching staff of the Yankees, who have struggled in recent years. Inoaat's addition will provide more depth and versatility to the bullpen, allowing New York to better manage games and keep their starters fresh.

Inoaat also provides an example of how free agency can benefit both players and teams. By signing with the Yankees, Inoaat is guaranteed a larger salary and a chance to contribute to a pennant contender. At the same time, the Yankees get a valuable arm to strengthen their already strong bullpen.

This is a win-win scenario, as both sides benefit from the contract. Inoaat gains the security and opportunity he seeks, while the Yankees strengthen their rotation and increase their chances of success in 2023.

The Giants and Oakland each got what they wanted in a trade for scarce Free Agent talent. Boston Manager Ernest Riles in the Atlan­ta for promising pitcher, Dan­iel Lewis and a player to be named later.

The trade came a day after each team signed prominent hitt­ers throughout the off-season. He is a 244 lifetime hitter in six seasons, mostly with the Min­nesota.

"We've been looking for a left­handed hitting outfielder with some versatility for several years," Atlanta Manager said. "We talked to the Giants about center fielder, McElroy for the Grant and Wills Wilson by Oak­land."

So we talked to the Giants.

But his presence in the Giants line-up will give them a tough one to hit with the Yankees. The second baseman, who had one year left on his contract is hitting .287 with 32 home runs and 104 RBI's in 1988. The team signed prominent hitt­ers throughout the off-season. Survey of current pop hits reveals frightening retro-'70s tendencies

By Jackson Wagers

"A" of all the bad news, "Weekend," haired the Glass Boys and what you think you're doing? Yeah, you thought they were just another one of those "what's the point" songs. How wrong you were, as "Weekend" is a belligerent blast from the past, 70s-style. Its 70s vibe is so strong, it's as if the song was recorded in the 1970s. But that's not all. The song also features some of the best production and engineering of the 70s, making it a truly 70s experience.

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Madonna, a master at making videos that present as much as they reveal, has a new one that is accessible for television and home video. Madonna appeared on ABC-TV's "Nightline" program Thursday night to interview just after the new video for "Like A Virgin," a song that looks to satisfy as much as it teases.

The video, released by MTV last week, features the trendy 1980s theme of the '80s, a woman with a boy who is also a woman. Madonna, in a black dress and a 70s-style wig, is seen walking down a street with a man who is also seen walking down the same street. The two meet, and she is seen standing in front of a mirror, looking at herself. The video is a celebration of Madonna's style and the 70s, and it's a reminder that the 70s are not just a memory, they are a part of modern culture.

LOS ANGELES — The kibbutz worker "Motherless," picked up the same at the movie theaters last week. But that's not the only thing that has changed. Madonna's latest video, "Like A Virgin," has been rated by the Commercial Music Association as a "Pothead Mix of music, something pretty, of the eighties." The video is a celebration of Madonna's style and the 70s, and it's a reminder that the 70s are not just a memory, they are a part of modern culture.

The video is a celebration of Madonna's style and the 70s, and it's a reminder that the 70s are not just a memory, they are a part of modern culture.
NFL Trends

In order to be in contention for passes to gain the first NFLwide defensive honors, the Green Bay Packers first themselves at 7-6-1, the New Orleans Saints second at 7-6-1, and the Buffalo Bills third at 7-6. The Bills are the NFL's best defensive team.

The first quarter wasn't the only time the Bills were able to keep their opponents off the field. Buffalo's win over the Detroit Lions, 23-7, was the first time the Bills had scored more than 20 points in a game for the second time this season.

With 11 minutes left in the game, Detroit had a 1-0 lead, but Buffalo's Bob Grotzinger intercepted a pass from quarterback Alphonso Davis of the Lions. The Bills scored on the drive to take a 7-0 lead.

That's just the way the Bills play.

The playoffs

The New York Giants, who play the Los Angeles Rams on Sunday, are already tied with the 49ers for the NFC West lead. The Giants are in the playoffs for the first time in 21 years. The Rams have played in the playoffs for the past six years.
