Women to share strength, experiences

By Chris Peterson

The RiverRun results are in, and although the park was not without its share of problems—raining, winds, and even a few stray dogs—women were able to share their stories of strength and experience.

"It doesn't mean that things don't happen at College Green Park," said one participant.

"But the park is actually a great place to run," she added. "The course is well-marked, and the atmosphere is great."

Women are asked to bring a little bit of flair to the race, which will be moved inside to Multibuil Auditions in case of inclement weather.

In Iowa City, the European Community was dominated by fighting in the Balkans. If so, a battle that was next to the EC, "The Fourth Wall," by Robert Pond, professor of international relations and European history, and Bruce Garrow, professor of economics, was heard in Great Britain, Thursday at the UI, and last heard during the 1970s. pond said, "The Fourth Wall" was written during the Cold War and is now being republished in the United States.

"The Fourth Wall" is a novel about a man who is trying to escape the walls of his own world and find a place to call his own. pond said, "The novel is about the search for identity and the struggle for freedom."

The novel was reprinted in the United States after the fall of the Berlin Wall and the end of the Cold War.

"It's a great time to be writing about Europe," pond said. "The world has changed so much, and there are new opportunities for writers to explore the continent."

Despite the novel's current success, pond said, "The Fourth Wall" is not a political book. "It's about the human condition," he said. "The novel is about the search for identity and the struggle for freedom."

People are people in the position of the Iowa City School District on racial and cultural diversity in its schools.

We are cultures as inclusive, not a separate entity, and, therefore, a part of the Iowa City School District. Bill Mitchell, guidance counselor at West High School, agreed.

"I think one of the nice things about living in Iowa City is the cultural variation," he said.

According to a report on "Enrollment Permit by Student Ethnic Background" compiled by the district in September 1990, West High has a total of 993 students, 13 percent of which belong to a cultural minority group. "(Classes with diverse students) are wonderful things where students are able to talk about customs," Jim Remley, Associate Principal of Junior High, said.

"We are constantly putting into practice "transformation programs,"" she said. The added a district Multicultural Non-Sexist Committee meets once or twice a month to discuss issues related to diversity in the school. Colman said the district generally uses two approaches to dealing with cultural diversity in the classroom. He said students have opportunities to ask questions about a country someone who is actually from there. He added that the University International Center "has been excellent" in setting up programs to deal with diversity for the students.

The contributions approach has teachers and students discovering the contributions throughout history made by people in minority groups. The transformation approach relates to a specific minority -- how contributions made by members of that group throughout history. "We try to make sure we do not underestimate groups," Colman added. Finally, could the benefits of having different countries in the classroom. He said students have opportunities to ask questions about a country someone who is actually from there. He added that the University International Center "has been excellent" in setting up programs to deal with diversity for the students.

Bruce Westman, both agreed the war in the gulf made people aware of Middle East culture and provided a good learning experience. Although both the administrators said having many different races or cultures in the classroom is not easy, they said their continued efforts led to the kind of diversity that difficulties come up.

Remley said that students in minority groups sometimes have difficulty in adapting the customs and learning the language of the majority of their classmates.

Court rules officials innocent of exposing workers to toxins

Sarah Nordgren | Associated Press

CHICAGO - A judge today acquitted five current and former Exxon Valdez workers of knowingly exposing their employees to toxic substances and temperatures endangering 150 degrees.

Senior District Judge Earl Nordgren, who heard the case, said the government had failed to prove its case against ex-members of the Exxon Valdez crew.

The defendants faced charges of aggravated battery, reckless conduct and violation of the federal occupational safety and health standards set by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

The evidence was "so weak" that the jury could not have found the defendants guilty, said Attorney James Neil, who represents the group. Attorney Neil's defense was based on the lack of evidence showing that the defendants knew they were exposing employees to dangerous conditions.

The case also challenged the jurisdiction of the federal sentencing guidelines, which are designed to ensure that all workers are treated equally.

There is no question that the workers did not know what they were doing, Neil said.

"It's about time somebody praised the judge's ruling," said Attorney Neil, who called the court's decision "an extraordinary victory for the workers and the government."
Bush wants world interest rates lowered

By Karen Bell

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Bush administration is considering a major change in U.S. monetary policy to spur economic growth around the world, according to a policy statement prepared by Treasury Secretary Nicholas F. Brady.

The administration's proposed move, officials said, would be a significant departure from past policy and could provide a major boost to the struggling world economy.

The policy statement, which was prepared by Brady and other officials, is expected to be released later this week or early next week.

The statement would outline a new approach to monetary policy, officials said, that would focus on stimulating economic growth around the world rather than just in the United States.

The move is expected to be welcomed by other countries, officials said, who have been calling for a more coordinated approach to monetary policy.

The statement would also include a commitment to reducing the federal budget deficit, officials said, which would help reduce the amount of money that the government is printing to finance its operations.

The statement is expected to be released later this week or early next week.

UI Honors Program is second rate, program is weak

The Editor:

This letter is in response to an editorial published in The Daily Iowan, titled "UI Honors Program is second rate, program is weak," on April 10. I believe the "second rate" part of the editorial is false. Of the 16 students who have been awarded an Honors Program scholarship at the University of Iowa, this spring, only 10 will use the scholarship to pursue a graduate degree. Of those 10 students, 9 have been awarded one of the 16 scholarships. The Honors Program is well-respected by the undergraduate and graduate students at the University of Iowa, and the program is designed to provide a challenging and enriching experience for students who are interested in pursuing a graduate degree. The program is highly selective, and it requires that students have a strong academic record and a demonstrated interest in their field of study. The Honors Program is a valuable resource for students who are interested in pursuing a graduate degree, and it is an important part of the University of Iowa's commitment to providing a challenging and enriching educational experience for all students. The program is not second-rate, and it is an important part of the University of Iowa's commitment to providing a challenging and enriching educational experience for all students.

Desperate reader seeks end to "Over the Edge"

The Editor:

I have been following the articles in "Over the Edge" with interest. I have been unable to find a solution to this problem, but I have noticed that the problem is caused by a lack of communication between the residents and the university administration. I believe that the university administration must take action to address this problem, and I would like to see a more active and engaged university community. I believe that the university administration should take the following steps: 1) increase communication with the residents, 2) increase the availability of resources, 3) increase the availability of support services, 4) increase the availability of opportunities for residents to engage in decision-making processes, and 5) increase the availability of resources for residents to engage in decision-making processes. I believe that these steps would greatly help to address the problem of "Over the Edge."

The Editor:

I was very disappointed to read the article "SUNSET SOCIAL WITH BRIAN SAYS, "SEE WHETHER I'LL TELL THE REALITY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA."" Palm Beach, Fla. — The investigation into the alleged rape at the Kennedy estate probably will take two weeks, a law enforcement official said, as authorities continue to identify and reach out to possible witnesses.

Police Chief John Terlizzese said Wednesday that police have identified all potential witnesses, he replied.

A 29-year-old woman from Jupiter, Fla., told police she was attacked at the estate pool on March 31. Terlizzese said the woman would be going to police headquarters.

Hawkeyes want to force Ohio State pitching changes

By Brian Gray
The Daily Iowan

When Iowa and Ohio State meet on the softball diamond this weekend, Iowa coach Gary Barta wants to see the Hawkeyes make some pitching changes. "They've got a lot of pitching changes," Barta said. "We're a lot of motions of pitchers on the mound that we're making the batters feel like they're getting in a groove on a pitcher, they'll make a change."

The Hawkeyes (30-15 overall and 15-5 in the Big Ten) and Buckeyes (32-1, 14-2) open a four-game series today at 4 p.m. and Tuesday at noon. A doubleheader starts at noon today and 3 p.m. Tuesday. The Ohio State coach told Barta beforehand that the Buckeyes would make some pitching changes.

"It's not as if they have a dominating pitching staff," Barta said. "They're going to have to make changes."

Buckeyes Butler Carr has carried his aggression on the mound into the classroom. In a three-game stretch (May 10-12), the senior right-hander is a 4.16 ERA and 30 strikeouts in 33 1/3 innings. Junior Leshner, a freshman from Anamosa, Ga., leads the team with a 3.75 ERA and 36 strikeouts in 34 innings. Butler said the Buckeyes rely on the pitching staff and good defense to keep opponents off balance. Ohio State is hitting .271 in the Big Ten defensively with a .224 batting average.

Barta said the Hawkeyes have an advantage on the mound because the staff is in a rhythm. "They don't make a lot of differences," Barta said.

Pitching and defense are important to the Hawkeyes in order to win games. They are not a team to score a lot of runs, Barta said. The series opener is at 3 p.m. today, with pitching changes allowed. Barta said he didn't want to bring in a reliever before the ninth inning. "For our team, I don't think they'll make a lot of pitching changes," Barta said. "We're not going to do a lot of substitutions, either."

Barta said he can have all the starters available for the series opener. "I'll probably have all the starters," Barta said. "I don't know if I'll make many changes.

CINCINNATI — Freshman-left-hander Quinoines' error in the eighth inning gave the Cincinnati Bearcats a 4-3 victory over the Buckeyes today.

First baseman Joe Carter (4-4 with an RBI double in the seventh) led the Buckeyes with a double and a sacrifice fly, while pitching starter Danan Hughes had a strong outing on the mound. Hughes, a senior left-hander, pitched five innings, allowing one run and two hits, while striking out three and walking none en route to his third victory.

In the sixth inning, junior shortstop Brian Blevins, a sophomore, made an error, allowing two runs to score. Blevins said he was "hurt" by the error, but didn't want to dwell on it. "We wanted to win both games," Blevins said.

The Buckeyes will play their last game of the season tomorrow against the Fighting Irish. Blevins said he was "hurt" by the error, but didn't want to dwell on it.

Judge rules
Sutton must go to prison

By Jack Nathan
Associated Press

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) - A federal judge on Monday ordered Bobby Sutton, former All-American safety for the University of Southern California, to serve a three-year sentence for his role in a drug conspiracy.

The 29-year-old former NFL player, who is serving a sentence in the federal bureau of prison in Leavenworth, Kansas was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Edward Keady for his role in a drug ring that involved several other former USC football players.

Judge Keady said Sutton was an integral part of the ring, and that he was the ringleader.

The judge said Sutton had a significant role in the drug operation, and that he had been involved in the criminal activity for several years.

Sutton, who was arrested in February 1992, pleaded guilty to conspiracy to import, possess, and distribute heroin.

He was one of five former USC football players charged in the case. The other players were also sentenced to prison terms.

Sutton's sentencing follows a plea agreement he entered with federal prosecutors in February.

Women netters have chance to play spoiler at Big Ten Tens

By Jim Yaas
The Daily Iowan

The challenge facing the Iowa women’s tennis team this weekend is to improve to 7-2 in the Big Ten, and to avenge those losses from last year. Their goals are to sweep Houghton, the Hawkeye netters’ 1-8 season, and to enter the NCAA Tournament as one of the top-five teams in the nation.

The Hawkeyes don’t plan to.

"We have to play our best tennis," Houghton said. "I think we can beat them, we can go for broke in head-to-head conference competition slated for today and tomorrow. Steve Brower will be running the 10000 meters for Iowa, looking to improve upon her second place finish last year. The meet will take place at a new Nike Stadium, and the 10400 meters has been shifted to 7:00 p.m. Friday evening. Now both are going to be run very well."

Friday will include ladies racing to get their season into gear for Relays. The Hawkeyes will be taking three in the women’s 4 x 100 meter relay. It’s rare in the playoffs, but the Northern Michigan’s second place finish in the 10000 meters last year. "The two other division finals after the two conference men’s were going to be run very well. That’s an even number this year."

Steve Brower will be running the 10000 meters for Iowa, looking to improve upon her second place finish last year. The meet will take place at a new Nike Stadium, and the 10400 meters has been shifted to 7:00 p.m. Friday evening. Now both are going to be run very well."

Friday will include ladies racing to get their season into gear for Relays. The Hawkeyes will be taking three in the women’s 4 x 100 meter relay. It’s rare in the playoffs, but the Northern Michigan’s second place finish in the 10000 meters last year. "The two other division finals after the two conference men’s were going to be run very well. That’s an even number this year."

W hat's your favorite state in Renaissance?

I love Saskatchewan. No, Saskatchewan is a province in Canada, but if you're talking about states in the United States, Saskatchewan and Iowa come to mind. Both states have a strong agricultural heritage, with Iowa being known for its cornfields and windmills and Saskatchewan for its wheat fields and potash mines. Saskatchewan is also home to Prince Albert, the birthplace of Canadian rock band Rush, and is known for its extensive network of potash mines, which provide a significant portion of the world's potash.
