What people can buy do vary depending on their income. "We're trying to educate people to go beyond 'obvious' recycling, which is the most common method of conservation. New season boasts exciting programming

Anne Johnston Daily Iowan

When Student Video Productions begins its spring season, Wednesday night on UI TV, a variety of new and revised programming will hit the airwaves.

"I think we've got to have a really good batch of shows," SIP's General Manager Brent Dey said. "We'll be showing "Eggplant," which means revised programming. It's a brand new show, will premier at 9 p.m. on Wednesday, says SIP's producer, said it's a sketch-comedy show, in the tradition of HBO's "The Drew Carey Show," which promises Wednesday nights at 9 p.m., following "You." SIP's new shows, "American TV," will also return, as well as "The Dave Runey," which features film student projects.

Also this semester, Dey said UI TV will begin broadcasting the National College Broadcasting Network's "TV Network" programming, which features student productions from other campuses.

"That's going to be interesting for us because we can compare what we're doing with different student TV stations around the country," Dey said.

CITY COUNCIL

Increase in motor taxes considered

James S. Whitlefield Daily Iowan

People who spend the night at a motel in the Iowa City area might have to pay an additional 2 percent tax in the future if the City Council approves a new proposed ordinance.

The Council will discuss Monday's meeting a proposed ordinance that would allow for the additional 2 percent tax in the future.

There is a national trend in increasing the tax for motels to help defray the cost of hotel operations and support the city's Housing Division.

The ordinance would allow for the tax on motel nights to be increased from 5 percent to 7 percent.

The decision was made after a meeting of the City Council.

The City Council will consider the ordinance next month.

Team finds cholesterol causes arterial spasms

Kelli Hansonstet Daily Iowan

Researchers at the UI have found another ill effect of cholesterol that may help explain the cause of strokes and heart attacks.

Elevated cholesterol levels can lead to artery spasm that interfere with normal flow to the brain and other organs, according to a study conducted by Dr. James Kelly and Dr. Whitfield Hurt of the UI Medical School.

"Last year, we found that people with high cholesterol levels were at a higher risk of heart attack," Kelly said.

"I think Eggplant is going to be one of the best. It's a really interesting show," Matt Carberry, the show's producer, said.

One example of Eggplant's non-mainstream humor is a character called Mr. Vomit, who throws up everything he gets near, Dey said.

The Spring board new show appearing this semester will feature experiences with images and sound. According to the producer Matt Carberry, the show is tentatively titled: "Uncle Bob's Trans­mitted Break of Staff Launches."

It's for a blender," Carberry said.

SIP's spring programming will also feature the return of a music video show, now called "Raw Fed­ups," which promotes Wednesday nights at 9 p.m., following "You." SIP's new shows, "American TV," will also return, as well as "The Dave Runey," which features film student projects.

"That's going to be interesting for us because we can compare what we're doing with different student TV stations around the country," Dey said.

The AT&T Calling Card will never go to waste. You can use it to make a call from almost anywhere to anywhere. Once you have one, you'll never need to apply for another. It's the least expensive way to call state-to-state on AT&T when you can't dial direct. And now you could also get 10% back on all the long distance calls you make with your card. Of course when you use your Calling Card, you'll always be connected to the reliable service you've come to expect from AT&T. So, as you see, there's only one way to describe the AT&T Calling Card in today's college environment. Indispensable.

Bush increases campaign efforts in New Hampshire

Perez continues tight grip on press, tries to squash aura of corruption

Perez has made no secret of his desire to silence the press and has been known to threaten journalists with legal action if they publish stories that he deems unfavorable. His administration has been accused of pressuring reporters to stop covering certain stories or facing legal action if they continue to do so.

However, despite Perez's efforts, the press has continued to report on the administration's actions, including its policies on human rights, foreign relations, and economic issues. The media has played a crucial role in holding the administration accountable and exposing any wrongdoing.

The administration's efforts to limit press freedoms have also faced opposition from various groups, including human rights organizations, journalists, and the public. Some have warned that such actions could lead to a chilling effect on freedom of the press and undermine democratic principles.
The state of defense

Last week, Democratic governors did some grandstanding, insisting that state taxes be raised to provide adequate police force to reduce crime. In fact, these cuts only result in lives being lost and property being stolen, all at taxpayer's expense. We must face the fact that crime is a complex issue which requires a multi-faceted approach.

To the Editor:

The defense concept that Jeffrey Dahmer is a monster is a poor excuse for mass destruction of life. If Dahmer is indeed a monster, then why are we destroying the lives of innocent people who pose no threat to society? Dahmer was a monster, but he was not alone. There are many others like him, but where are the solutions that address the root causes of violence?

While cuts in military spending might bring some short-term gains, the long-term consequences could be disastrous. The United States is a strong economy that can sustain a healthy tax base. Now, due to increased military spending, we are left with little money to invest in public services and infrastructure. This is a shortsighted approach that will be detrimental to our country's future.

The rhetoric is little more than thinly veiled political rhetoric. We must address the real issues that are causing crime and violence in our society. Let's work together to create a safer, more just world for all.

Poverty pollutes our environment

The National Telethon on the Earth Summit, to be broadcast from Wednesday to Thursday, from the U.S. to over 50 countries, sets the stage for significant changes in how we view and treat our environment. The United States offers us an unique opportunity to begin to rebuild our habits and lifestyles in a way that affect our planet.

We cannot change habits that have been cultivated for centuries. As Robert Manns, president of the National Environmental Trust, said, "We are all part of this. We all have to make a commitment to the earth."

Whether we like it or not, we are all part of this. We all have to make a commitment to the earth. We all have to take responsibility for our actions and work together to make a difference.

The telethon is a good start, but we need to do more. We need to address the root causes of poverty and inequality in our society. We need to work towards a more equitable and sustainable future for all.

Mike Ramirez's editorial is a call to action for the global AIDS community (I'm sure it's a call to action which continues to contribute to global awareness and, in turn, to the transmission of HIV). Mike Ramirez points out that the $1 billion provided by the AIDS Research Council of the United States is a drop in the bucket compared to the $40 billion that could be saved.

The AIDS epidemic is not just a problem in the United States, but it is a global crisis. We must work together to address this issue and make a difference.

Butch Davis is an offensive line that left Klingler exposed to heavy rushes. He managed to complete 278 of 466 passes for 1,384, resulting in a quarterback rating of 165 for 46 yards and touchdown passes. Texas Tech. It was the most for the first three for more than 300 yards and the 10th time he passed for more than 500 yards in a game. "If you want to look at great quarterbacks, this is the year for quarterback prospect," said John Butler, director of player personnel for the Buffalo Bills. Klingler was jaw-droppingly good. "We have to be able to change some things to adjust to this kind of situation," said. "In fact, the team's problems may be no more than the kind of talent he has. Klingler is a known quantity in Monday's NFL draft. At the University of Texas, he's known for his ability to pass the ball. He's been compared to a quarterback with a strong arm and good accuracy. But he's also known for his quickness and ability to make plays on the run. Klingler has shown that he can produce in big games, with his performance in the Cotton Bowl against Iowa. He threw for 310 yards and three touchdowns, helping Texas Tech to a 38-27 win. He also rushed for 82 yards and a touchdown. Klingler has been marketed as a dual-threat quarterback, capable of both passing and running. He's projected to be a top pick in the NFL draft, with teams like the Miami Dolphins, Dallas Cowboys, and Cleveland Browns among the teams showing interest. Klingler has the skills and potential to be a long-term starter in the NFL, making him a valuable asset for any team. It will be interesting to see where he lands on draft day.

Matt Cannerby Daily Iowan

On Saturday night, Iowa City's newest musical venue, Carnaby Street, showcased the band Camping.

"The band is a battle of the bands that started around the country rivalry for a chance to make it into the national spotlight. It's an opportunity for new and upcoming bands to showcase their talents and grow their fanbase."

The band has been mentored by Clovis Catarino, the personal life, who makes the venue accessible to up-and-coming talent.

The band's debut album, "The Wide World," has received critical acclaim for its unique sound and lyrical prowess. The band's music has been described as a fusion of indie, alternative, and rock with a touch of experimentalism.

The show concluded with a powerful performance of the band's latest single, "The Wide World," leaving the audience in awe of the band's talent and raw energy.

In what could be a maximum jam festival, the band Gillingham, sister Ryan Kisor and Wendy Herman's Thundering Herd put a hot "BlowOUT" to the evening, last Tuesday at Hancher.

The four-starr combo of shots and noise overdrive is offset by the thunderclap of "BlowOUT." The entire band has been a hot "BlowOUT" for some time now, and the audience seemed to take it as a personal statement.

But the anticlimactic moment was now, as Kisor departed the stage a Somalia star Gillingham emerged, and the audience welcomed "BlowOUT" to the revamped band.

Carnaby Street is a popular spot, with a vibrant atmosphere and a variety of musical acts. The band's performance was a testament to their talent and dedication to their craft.
