A mother and three children were killed in a mobile home fire Monday morning in a trailer park in the West Des Moines area, police said.

The mother was a 35-year-old married woman, teenagers were 13 and 16, and the children were three children, escaped without injury.

Officials said the fire began in the living room when a lighted cigarette ignited a couch. The fire was put out by the family, with an estimated $50,000 in damage.

"Ideally the idea of the Iowa City renovated project was to purchase old buildings, assemble materials for a new building and then sell the land to the city," Merker said. The city had eleven stores of its own, which it desired to sell.

Armenian, Azerbaijani violence continues, dozens reported killed

Beijing, China — Armenia — Azerbaijan's volatile border Sunday was a third day of fighting, with reports of more than 20 military deaths in Nagorno-Karabakh, dozens of people reported missing in Nagorno-Karabakh, and tens of thousands of refugees. Some of the refugees are reportedly being detained by the authorities in Azerbaijan.

The two republics are engaged in a war since 1988 over Nagorno-Karabakh, which was internationally recognized as part of Azerbaijan until 1994. The conflict has claimed more than 30,000 lives and displaced more than 1 million people. In recent days, the fighting has escalated with reports of large-scale clashes and civilian casualties.

Defense Ministry in Moscow: Armenian, Azerbaijani violence continues, dozens reported killed

The Defense Ministry in Moscow has condemned the violence in Nagorno-Karabakh and called for an immediate end to the fighting.

"The situation in Nagorno-Karabakh continues to develop against the backdrop of a tense situation on the military front," the ministry said in a statement. "We call on all sides to exercise restraint and avoid any actions that could aggravate the situation.

The ministry said that Armenia and Azerbaijan should work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict, and called for the international community to play a constructive role in the negotiations.

"The international community must take urgent action to prevent the escalation of the conflict and to ensure the safety of civilians," the ministry added.

The fighting has sparked international concern, with several countries calling for a cease-fire and diplomatic efforts to resolve the conflict.

"The situation is gravely concerning," the statement continued. "We call on all parties to comply with the norms of international law and take immediate steps to reduce tensions and prevent the outbreak of armed conflicts.

The statement emphasized the need for a political solution to the conflict, and called for the appointment of a special envoy to oversee the negotiations.

"We call on all sides to take the necessary steps to de-escalate tensions and resume the peace talks," the ministry said.

The statement concluded with a call for the international community to support the efforts of the United Nations and other international organizations in the conflict resolution process.

"The United Nations and the international community must increase their efforts to bring an end to this tragic conflict and to ensure the safety and dignity of all people affected by the conflict," the ministry added.

Drug Summit

Just empty words

San Antonio, Texas, was the site of an international meeting between President Bush and six Latin American leaders on Feb. 7. The summit, called the "drug summit," was supposed to consolidate the pledge to continue the war against drug trafficking. But the meeting in San Antonio was more a declaration of war than a discussion about morality.

While the words were partly big enough, morality is a word that has lost meaning in the American lexicon. It is not that few people are disbelieving it, let alone conceptualizing the consequences, but for us to allow these consequences collectively.-Delaware, New Jersey, New York and Georgia are now an endangered species. The moral issue of the Bush administration is to be the moral leader of the world.

There is no war going on in the Oval Office and there will be no war in the Oval Office for the next four years. It is a war about what is good and bad about morality.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

The Latin American presidents also left empty-handed. Their pitches to Bush were all but ignored as Bush continued his war on drugs, even as the Latin American presidents called for a change in strategy.

To the Editor:

The use of rápidos, which is a popular method of drug treatment in the United States, has increased significantly over the past decade. These programs are intended to help those who are addicted to drugs by providing them with a structured environment in which to live and work, as well as access to medical care and other services. However, many critics argue that rápidos are not effective and can even be harmful to those who are trying to overcome their addiction.

The use of rápidos has grown rapidly over the past 20 years, with an estimated 30,000 people in the United States currently enrolled in such programs. Critics say that rápidos can create a sense of dependence and can make it difficult for people to get sober and stay sober, especially when they leave the program.

To the Editor:

The use of rápidos is not a solution to the drug problem, but rather a symptom of the larger issue of addiction. It is important to address the root causes of addiction and to provide support and resources to those who are trying to overcome it, rather than simply locking them up or putting them in programs that may not be effective.
City plans recycling education

Kligman, a fairly unassuming, self-effacing eight to 10-page booklet will be distributed to every household in the city, he said. "We expect that the educational program will be in place by April or May."

Educational sessions to further educate others about recycling will also be provided by the Neighborhood Services Office. Kligman explained that many neighbors have formed civic groups. These groups have expressed an interest in educating their neighbors about recycling. He said someone on his staff will be in charge of these efforts.

Kligman said he is very optimistic about the recycling program. "We have a lot of support from the community. But, he said, "We do not expect that the public will fully understand the concept of recycling."

"The way the program is established, there will be a need for some creativity, but we hope that people will look at this as an opportunity to help the environment."

Hawks grab Big Ten crown

Terry Brands

How does the Iowa women's basketball team get ready for a Sunday showdown with undefeated Michigan State? Ask the Hawkeyes. They've been there before. The Hawkeyes whipped the Buckeyes 81-60 in March of 1992.

The Big Ten conference has been more than a friendly rivalry between Iowa and MSU. In fact, the series has been a source of pride for both programs. MSU leads the all-time series 98-66-2, but Iowa has won the last three meetings, including two straight in the Big Ten.

The Hawkeyes have the momentum heading into the weekend, having won five of their last six games. Meanwhile, MSU has lost two of its last three.

This weekend's Big Ten title game will be held at Carver-Hawkeye Arena in Iowa City.

Michigan knocks off 2nd-ranked Indiana

Terry Dehere led Seton Hall with 27 points, and the Pirates overpowered Indiana 89-76 in a nonconference game.

The victory was the Pirates' first road win of the season and snapped Indiana's 12-game winning streak. Seton Hall also won its seventh straight meeting with the Hoosiers.

Dehere, a senior guard, was named the game's MVP after finishing with 27 points on 11-of-15 shooting. He also had seven rebounds and five assists.

Indiana, which entered the game as the second-ranked team in the country, was led by Victor Oladipo with 19 points. The Hoosiers shot just 37 percent from the field and couldn't keep up with Seton Hall's offense.

The win for Seton Hall (5-1) is its first over a ranked team since beating Villanova on Nov. 10. Indiana (9-2) will be looking to get back on track when it hosts Northwestern on Sunday.

Savings Yugoslavian war hits court

Yugoslavian silver medal winning tennis player Branko Vrankovic has escaped to the United States, according to reports.

Vrankovic was a member of the Yugoslav tennis team which won the European Cup championship last year, and his defection has caused a stir in Yugoslavia. The Yugoslav tennis federation has announced that Vrankovic has deserted his country and is now in hiding in the United States.

Vrankovic is one of the top players in Yugoslavia, and his defection has caused a great deal of concern for the Yugoslav tennis federation. Vrankovic's defection is believed to be a sign of the growing anti-war sentiment in Yugoslavia.

The Yugoslav tennis federation has attempted to reach Vrankovic, but has been unsuccessful. Vrankovic has not been seen since he left Yugoslavia.

Vrankovic's defection is expected to have a major impact on the Yugoslav tennis team. The team is currently preparing for the World Cup tennis tournament, which begins in April.

"The police force is like a giant told not to brake after passing a speed bump. It's their job to enforce the law, but they can't always do so effectively. Sometimes they have to make tough decisions, and that can be tough."

But brace yourselves. You've just been asked to cut the act from the show. But you can't. You are the First City Attorney, Linda Gentry, and you have to make a decision. Do you let the show go on, or do you cancel it? It's a tough call.

And don't take yourselves so seriously. You're just a comic, after all. You can have fun with the audience and still make a point."
