Cow War Days festival gets new change

Tipton residents take sides over controversial issue; new name concept slated for next year.

The Cow War Days festival committee voted 4-2 not to move forward with a name change for Cow War Days. The festival dates in favor of the name change, which was proposed by the Tipton Chamber of Commerce, during the committee’s meeting this week.

Cow War Days was first held in 1911 in Tipton, and is still a priority of many in the town of 2,000. Tipton resident Dorothy Thrall understands why these objections to naming the festival are still around as a graduate might be more difficult than the last time.

"I never thought to find a job as a student because you don’t need to worry about a visa or a place to stay. It’s much easier to find a job at the same school she taught at two years ago. I think we are the only town, UO

"Many overseas language schools have become more experienced than they used to be, looking for better people," said Moore. "However, I understand that otherwise she would never dream of teaching in Japan."

"It’s easier to find a job as a student because you don’t need to worry about a visa or a place to stay. It’s much easier to find a job in Japan than to study or a full-time teaching position."

Also, Thrall agreed.

"We will be forever grateful for what those recent controversial changes did for us," said Moore.

Iowa House OKs welfare restrictions

Mike Lebo

TIBURON — The House on Thursday approved a bill to restrict welfare spending to the state and reflecting higher benefit payments.

Supporters of the restrictions said they were needed to reflect the whole world and Iowa benefits would be reduced for recipients. Opponents said it punished the poor and made the system less fair.

Under the restrictions, those who were not working would be required to reduce the amount of money they received for a year after arriving in Iowa.

"Now taking on the job for them," said Rep. Juan Mient, D-Holly Creek. "I have been told I'm insane. I don't care. I think these people need to find jobs."

"This is not the first time by any means we have taken our legislative abnegation to great lengths," said Rep. Mark Haverland, D-Pelzer City.

The structure, called the Iowa City Assurance, is the current president of the University of Iowa. Mrs. Pappajohn has been a member of the UI board of regents and was a member of the Arts and Sciences council in the UI in the 1970s.

In 1989, Pappajohn contributed $2 million to the UI Hospitals and Clinics to complete the final sector of the hospital's expansion.

John Pappajohn: "I am very happy," Meyer said.

"I love being in Iowa City this country, that every once in a while we get stuck with bad weather." The building will also include five chimneys, nine flights of stairs, 13 levels and an underground parking garage.

The building will be constructed of acid-etched stone which will be made in the United States. Floors will also incorporate green elements, such as sustainable materials used on the windows.

"I was told this was the first glimpse of the facility in this country," said George Daly, dean of the College of Business Administration.

"In December 1991, he contributed another $1 million to the UIHSC and the Mary Pappajohn Clinic to help the university reach one of its major goals for the University of Iowa on the national map," said Roy Yates, members of the media were offered a tour of the facility in the UI's Daily Iowan.

"In the beginning of the building will consist of acid-etched stone which will be manufactured in the United States," said George Daly, dean of the College of Business Administration.

"I am very happy," Meyer said.

"To achieve this effect, 548 trucks will carry more than 10,000 tons of acid-etched stone to the UI campus. Some of the trucks have had to be imported from Belgium because they are not available in the United States."

"I do hope they will like something," Meyer said.

"I can't wait to get started on the UI competition. Some of the proceeds from special events in the Grant Wood area, which includes Johnson County, will be used to help the organization pay for the building."

"We're running a little ahead in the competition," Meyer said.

"In addition to funding the trip to the Olympics several years ago and the proceeds of events we have participated in, the UI will also incorporate green elements, such as sustainable materials used on the windows."

"We are delighted to be a part of achieving the goal of being one of the top 10 public universities in America," said Daly.

Tsongas makes final exit with words of wisdom

Ceci Connolly
Associated Press

BOSTON — Paul Tsongas on Thursday ruled out running for the Democratic nomination, in a burst of parting wisdom, and his former campaign director, Robert Reiss, made a strong appeal to dissident voters to rally behind the Democratic candidate who has the best chance to win.

"It's not the end of the Tsongas campaign," Reiss said. "It's the end of the Tsongas campaign in the primary. It's the beginning of the general election campaign," he said.

Reiss said a new committee, the Anti-War Peace Party of America, would be formed to make a last-ditch effort in the campaign.

"We are going to be a force to be reckoned with," Reiss said.

"The anti-war movement will be stronger because of our efforts," he added.

Tsongas, the former Massachusetts senator, had said earlier in the week that he was considering running for the Democratic nomination.

"It's not too late," Reiss said. "There is still a chance for Tsongas to win."
Federal Reserve reduces key interest rate to 3.5%

By Stephen H. Blank

The Federal Reserve Board voted Tuesday to lower the discount rate at which banks can borrow from the central bank by 0.5 percentage point. The discount rate is now 3.5 percent. The move was expected.

Most economists said they believed the Federal Reserve had downshifted in a deliberate effort to stimulate the economy and reduce the prospective fiscal drag that will hit the economy in 1993, when the recession is expected to end.

President Bush, who has seen his handling of the economy become a major issue in the presidential campaign, said the Fed's decision was a "good thing" and had been well received by financial markets.

"I hope that this will reassure our friends abroad that we are serious about stabilizing our economy," Bush said. The Fed's move was expected to lower short-term interest rates, which are already close to historical lows.

The Fed's move came on the heels of a report by the Department of Labor that showed the economy added 200,000 jobs in March, and a further report that retail sales rose in March.

The decision was also seen as a sign that the Fed is no longer focused on fighting inflation, which has been stable for several years. The Fed is now more concerned with stimulating the economy.

The move was expected to have an immediate impact on short-term interest rates, which are already close to historical lows. The move was also expected to help the stock market, which has been weak in recent weeks.

FRACAS helping in Bolivian drug war

Chapare, Bolivia (AP) - Two U.S. AWAC planes parked with sophisticated radar have begun scanning the six Bolivian's imperial breadbasket to search for drug跑道.

The Airborne Warning and Control planes on Wednesday became the first to be deployed in Bolivia, part of a joint effort to stifle drug trafficking. Since December, the planes have operated over Japan, U.S. military bases dropped in air traffic in the Chapare region east of La Paz, which produces a third of Bolivia's coca supply.

Military aircraft were on standby Wednesday to intercept any planes attempting to land in Chapare or the rest of the region, where most cocaine-processing labs are located.

Venezuelans hung hot, blow whistles in protests

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - Venezuela's military authorities on Wednesday reported 1,000,000 people in 20 cities protesting the government's austerity program by blowing whistles, hanging on jets and setting fire to tires.

The state level was loaded near the city center in poor neighborhoods, where restrictions are in place against demonstrations. Numerous police were stopped.

President Carlos Perez said the protest was his inability to fight government opponents. He has proposed speeding the phaseout of ozone-depleting chemicals.

An ozone layer hole is possible over the Northern Hemisphere

LONDON, England (AP) - A huge ozone hole has formed over the Arctic, which is a long-term threat to Antarctica, the northern edge of the Antarctic ozone layer could eventually be worse than the Antarctic hole, scientists reported Wednesday.

The announcement by a group of international scientists was symbolic of the world's growing awareness of the ozone hole threat.

The scientists warned governments to speed up the phaseout of ozone-depleting chemicals.

France suspends nuclear weapons testing

PARIIS, France (AP) - France suspended nuclear weapons testing last week and urged other nations to follow.

This was a surprisingly swift move by President Francois Mitterrand, one of the few world leaders to oppose testing.

He said the move was made to avoid a nuclear arms race.

New Zealand, Britain and France already have suspended nuclear tests.

Albania elects first non-Communist president since WWII

TRIKA, Albania (AP) - Sali Berisha, head of the Democratic Party that triumphed in last month's election, today became Albania's first non-Communist president since World War II.

In parliament, 96 lawmakers voted for him, 35 against and one vote was invalid. The necessary two-thirds majority was 94. Eight parliamentarians, including Berisha, were not present.

Democratic deputies greeted Berisha's election with jubilation, saying the vote is a sign that President Petar Antefer announced the outcome. From the galleries, President Berisha, 47, replaced Ramiz Aliu, who resigned April 3 after his party's failure and claim that he was voted out of power in Europe's poorest and most backward nation.

Egyptian tomb to be reopened after half a century

LUXOR, Egypt (AP) - A Luxor, an unmailed mummy of the 14th century, is reopening after being closed to the public for a half-century, but officials are unsure how wide to open its portals.

Its 3,000-year-old tomb of the woman renowned for her beauty, falsehood and kindness is among the most shadowed of Egypt's archaeological treasures but has been under the most protection project lasting six years.

CHICAGO - Mark McGwire hit his 35th homer and Benito Santiago scored four runs as the Philadelphia Phillies ripped the Chicago Cubs 8-3 Wednesday night in front of 31,953 at Wrigley Field.

McGehee and Santiago scored on back-to-back nine-runNSArrayes in the eighth inning.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indians basketball coach Bob Knight is under scrutiny — and what he said about his former star player, Pat Patterson.

Patterson is one of the most highly regarded players in recent Big Ten history. He was a three-time first-team All-Big Ten selection and was named the league's player of the year in 1994-95.

But Knight has come under fire recently for comments he made about Patterson in an interview with a local radio station.

In the interview, Knight said that Patterson was not as talented as he thought he was, and that he was not as hardworking as he expected.

Knight also said that he did not believe Patterson had the potential to be a great player.

Patterson is currently working as a broadcast analyst for the Big Ten Network.

He has not commented on Knight's comments.

The Associated Press has asked Knight for comment on the interview.

 Knight was not available for comment.

Laughter, a 6-foot-2, 235-pound junior linebacker for the University of Iowa football team, is considered one of the top returning players in the Big Ten Conference.

Laughter, who has played in 26 games over the past two seasons, said he is looking forward to the opportunity to contribute to the team's success.

"I want to be a leader on this team," Laughter said. "I want to be a vocal presence, someone that the other guys can look to for guidance and support."

MOVIE REVIEW

'Sayle-ing' into 'City of Hope,' director builds urban realities

Kevin Rudy

Daily News

Just as the great director of film noir Edward Dmytryk was often fascinated by the shadow world of organized crime, so too is Kevin Rudy, director of the new documentary 'Sayle-ing into Hope,' drawn to the architecture of urban decay.

The film opens with a striking shot of the infamous 'City of Hope,' a slum area on the outskirts of New York City. The camera pans across the dilapidated buildings, their paint peeling and windows broken, as a group of young people walk by, their faces reflected in the dirty windows.

As the camera zooms in, we see the faces of the young people, their expressions a mix of confusion and anger. They are the victims of the city's neglect, forced to live in squalor and poverty.

The film then turns to the story of Nick, a young man who has grown up in the area. Despite the odds against him, he has managed to rise above his circumstances and make something of himself.

The film follows Nick as he builds a business, starting with a small stall in a market and eventually expanding to a successful restaurant. Along the way, he meets other young people who are also trying to make a go of it in the City of Hope.

The film ends with a shot of Nick standing in front of his restaurant, his face radiant with pride. He has succeeded, but he knows that the City of Hope still has a long way to go.

Rudy's film is a powerful testament to the resilience of the human spirit. Despite the odds, these young people have found a way to build something meaningful in the face of urban decay.

The film is visually stunning, with its shots of the city's decaying buildings and its close-ups of the young people's faces. It is a powerful reminder of the need for investment in our cities and the power of community to build a better future.
