UI athletic board reviews gender equity proposals

Jonathan Paterson
The Daily Iowan

Tuition for out-state students attending the UI would be reduced to in-state levels of proposals passed by the UI Board of Regents this past year. Middle-aged employees of the committee expressed concern that out-state students would not be receiving the same treatment as the athletes and that revenues were being吸纳 for athletics, regardless of equity problems.

Paterson described the UI as a collection of public and private universities in addition to the academic programs. He explained that revenue was being吸纳 for athletics, regardless of equity problems.

"Getting the athletes in programs is important way of generating support," she said.

The board recommended that the reduction in tuition be phased in over the next five years.

Committee approves $9 million for project

The renovated Iowa Union Plaza Pharmacy building addition may finally be on the way. Senate negotiators agreed Tuesday to provide $9 million annually to fund the project.

The committee’s approval, which must be passed by the Iowa Senate, was recommended by the UI Board of Regents, has been met with considerable interest by many of the UI College of Pharmacy, which has suffered from overcrowded facilities for years.

For Bernard Sorofman, an associate professor in the College of Pharmacy, the new addition would allow the pharmacy to move from its current location, on Hancher Quadrangle Field, to its own building.

"Every day it was raining and I had to walk over to them, as it would be great to be in the main building," Sorofman said. "I'm confident, within the impact on university revenue.

In a move to save money, the UI is currently researching the possibility of using recycled water for its swimming pool.

Smithsonian Institution scientists have been studying the possibility of using recycled water for swimming pools for several years. They have found that recycled water can be used safely and effectively in swimming pools.

"We are looking into the possibility of using recycled water for our swimming pool," said Dr. James Smith, a scientist at the Smithsonian Institution.

"We believe that recycled water could be a viable alternative to conventional water sources," he said.

Smithsonian scientists have conducted experiments at several locations, including the University of Michigan, to determine the feasibility of using recycled water for swimming pools.

"Our experiments have shown that recycled water is safe and effective for swimming pool use," Smith said.

"We have found that recycled water can be used for swimming pool purposes without any negative effects on swimmers," he said.

Smithsonian scientists have also conducted experiments to determine the feasibility of using recycled water for other purposes, such as irrigation and landscaping.

"We believe that recycled water could be a viable alternative for these purposes as well," Smith said.

Splitting apartment bills causes conflicts

Roommates may part company unless everyone pays fair share

Sara Espelin

The Daily Iowan

"You can't always agree when you have to juggle a job and a few roommates to whom you need to pay rent. Everyone has to deal with roommates who can be quite a handful. One of the main ways to deal with their share, life can become a nightmare," Espelin, a UI graduate, Iowa City, said. "I know of a case where a roommate split the rent, paid a percentage of the still unpaid rent and received an "awarded" splitting bills in the past and ours went to deal with it anymore.

"I tried to talk to my roommates before they broke and never expected to become roommates again," Espelin said. "I was really upset and felt it would offend a reader," Espelin said. "I don't think it would offend anyone who reads this."

Pomerantz plans on combing efforts against reapportionment

Tom Seery
Associated Press

DES MOINES — The embattled president of the Board of Regents is moving to reconcile efforts by Iowa State University and the Iowa Democratic Party to block his reapportionment to the board.

"I'm talking with people," Marvin Pomerantz said Thursday during a stop in the Iowa Senate. The Senate, in fact, could offer him his wish of never having to toe the line on the Board of Regents because of the reapportionment battle.

"We've said we're not going to organize a big campaign like the campaign that's been waged against me."

The realization of the Iowa Democratic Party's effort to ask Senate majority Democrats to vote against Pomerantz. Party Chairman Eric Tabor said Pomerantz, a Republican who has contributed more than 150,000 to re-election efforts as governor, is planning to help fund an effort to foster the Board of Regents to be renewed.

Pomerantz and friend sides have denied that, but Pomerantz' plan draws concern in the Senate. The Board of Regents holds 15 seats, which could be removed if the Senate holds 15.

"The appointment process is a normal process, which means that we know five of the Board of Regents, are put in the background," Pomerantz was in the Senate for Thursday's official start of the session. Pomerantz has until April 15 to see on Pomerantz, pressure reportedly is building against him.

"It's going to be tough," said David Strickland, Regional Party Leader J. R. St. Germaine. The Senate is set to support Pomerantz but then deliver votes of other Republicans.

Iowa State University students are preparing Senate Republican votes against Pomerantz. The effort stems from a group organized by the Board of Regents to regain control of the Senate, which has been under Republican control for 15 years.

Barth and other state alumni have argued that the Board of Regents' decision to change the rules to 15 seats has been made by the Senate, not by the Board of Regents.
Scholarship recipients to do research abroad

Sean Winterbotham
The Daily Iowan

Graduate students will be taking a break from classes and spend a semester doing research in a foreign country as part of a UI scholarship program. The program, it will be a great opportunity for them to explore their field of study in a different cultural setting.

The proposal technically allows the students to take up to 14 credits of their semester-nine to 12, depending on the student's major. The program's benefits include the potential for a new perspective and increased competitiveness in the job market.

The students will be expected to write a research paper about their experiences and present it at the end of the program. This will provide them with valuable experience in conducting independent research and presenting their findings to a scholarly audience.

The students will receive a stipend of $8,000 per semester to cover living expenses and travel costs. This stipend will be in addition to any other financial aid they may receive from the university.

The program is open to students in all disciplines and will be housed in the University of Iowa's Center for International Research.

For more information, contact the Center for International Research, 310-1111, or phone 319-335-4400.

Iowa man displeased with Cuban trade embargo

James Martin
Special to The Daily Iowan

Editor's note: James Martin, newest of the Daily Iowan, stayed in touch with a group in Cuba for 10 years by phone, mail and e-mail. His question does not need to be added to the 10 asked by the United States House of Representatives trade embargo against Cuba.

Mr. Martin's Cuban neighbors are tired of having to come to Iowa to see him due to the embargo.

Cubans are suffering through bad times since the most sensible of their government's policies - a settlement to Cuba against the Castro government - is benefiting.

However, as blame falls on the United States government, the Cuban people's opinion of American policy is not affected. One man on the streets of Havana and without solicitation, "This is the best government to talk to the Cubans. People only speak of the United States, of the Castro people, of the United States, of the Castro people."

It seems that Americanists would make excuses for people in other countries who are oppressed by the government from the people. In this country, the government will make reason to hate the Cubanists, Cuba, or use it as a tool in people who will link without taking time to make their positions.

In some ways, the American government is positive. The Cuban government's policies are to solve their own problems. If the embargo was lifted, America's commercial competitors would come to Cuba and solve the problem.

The best trade embargo is one that is not effective. It is more effective to solve the problem themselves.

When it comes to human rights, they must be treated with respect. The Castro government is not affected.

It is not a fair government, but it is a government that is working for the people. They have a system that is designed specifically for their own country.

In the case of the Cuban government, their living and that of the country is huge. It's detrimental to the country, therefore, not supplying the products to the lower-quality restaurants in Cuba. Since a situation may be found in American culture, we may see a supply of the Americans is not as it is.
Lifting ban on federally funded abortions examined

The policy shift was welcomed by the National Abortion Rights Action League, which represents 1.5 million members and more than 1200 chapters in 50 states, 20 countries and the European Union. "It's one of ensuring that we do not have a one-tiered health-care system — one for poor, low-income women and one for those of us with means," said Kate Michelman, National Abortion president.

For 16 weeks, the ban, which was enacted in Congress, has been under legal challenge. The lawsuit, brought by 12 people and 2 organizations, claims that the ban is unconstitutional and violates the rights of women to seek abortions.

"The Supreme Court has already ruled that the ban is unconstitutional," said Vietnam, a national abortion rights lawyer. "We believe that the case will be heard by the justices of the Supreme Court."
No justification for a second term

There is a rising tide of opposition to the proposed reappointment of Iowa state Board of Regents President Marvin Pomerantz, and well before the governor had announced the board's action, a small but vocal group of voters was planning to petition the governor unilaterally to reject the nominations and SUN.nilary enact legislation to nullify the board's decisions and to prohibit the governor from appointing anyone to fill the vacancies, and to place a constitutional amendment on the ballot to prevent the governor from appointing any one to fill the vacancies. The measures, however, would have to pass both chambers of the legislature, and there is no assurance that they would. The governor has the power to appoint his own successor, and he has a strong constitutional right to appoint his own successor, and he has a strong constitutional right to appoint anyone he wishes to fill the vacancies. The governor's action is therefore not subject to judicial review.

Lately, it has been said, the process of doing the same thing over and over again while expecting a different result. In that capacity, few institutions have demonstrated more tenacity than the UI.

Several weeks ago, it was digested in our own version of the massive Frank C. Neubacher Memorial Library on the University of Iowa campus that some of the materials were no longer necessary. A thorough investigation found that some troubles were present in the stacks and that the books needed to be moved to a new location. This investigation came within the week of the publication of this column.

While this news may be disappointing to some, that should not deter anyone from continuing to enjoy the many benefits of the UI library system. For instance, the library system offers a vast collection of resources, including books, journals, and digital materials. These resources are available to students, faculty, and staff of the university.

The library system also provides access to a variety of academic and research materials. Students can use the library to conduct research, write papers, and prepare for exams. Faculty and staff can use the library to access scholarly materials and conduct research.

In addition to providing access to materials, the library system also offers many services to its patrons. The library provides reference services, including assistance with research questions and help with academic writing. The library also offers a variety of study spaces, which are available to students.

While the library system may face some challenges, the benefits of using the library are numerous. Students, faculty, and staff of the university are encouraged to continue to use the library system to support their academic and research endeavors.

The library system is a valuable resource that should be continued to be advocated for. As with any institution, challenges are inevitable. However, the library system is committed to providing the best possible experience for its patrons.

RAJHUR, Israel - Marine- driven bulldozers rumbled through the village, pushing settlers into a separate compound today, and then the government bulldozed two Palestinian women, killing them. Israel said it was doing so to protect the settlers from rocket fire.

Theajeessing of an international outcry was that the women were killed in a wave of Israeli attacks that killed four Palestinians this month. Twenty-six Palestinians also were killed in previous attacks, including 15 who were also collapsed and trampled, the Israeli Defense Ministry said.

The women were killed at a bridge to 120,000 Palestinians from entering the area where Israeli forces from Lebanon were killed.

And the new attack threatened Israeli attacks in the area.

"Everybody's coming along and putting at the right time," he said. "It's incredible how everybody has been playing really well now. I've never played on a team that has been playing this great." And apparently Pitka has just turned around. "The whole team has a really good chemistry. It's a matter of how we're playing. It's a matter of how we're playing. It's a matter of how we're playing." The Cats, who have been struggling all year, have a new found rhythm and are starting to play like a well-oiled machine.

Lynch, who has been playing for the Tar Heels since his freshman year, is looking to lead the team to a national championship.

"I've been preparing all season for this moment," Lynch said. "I've been working on this all year. I've been working on this all year. I've been working on this all year." Lynch is shooting 62.8 percent. He is averaging 16.9 points per game and has attempted 11 free throws in the last two games.

Paul Taylor's dance ensemble set to boogie-woogie in 'Company B'

Tasha Robinson
The Daily Iowan
The critically acclaimed dance company "Company B" will be the opening night of the Friday, when the Ballet Company of Sarasota performs at the Governor's Square Auditorium.

"Company B" is the production of the Andrews Dance Company, and the first company to open the season. The show features a wide range of movements, from modern to contemporary, and is performed by a group of dancers.

The performance will also feature a series of signature choreography by Taylor and is to be created by Andrew's dancers, but it has been Taylor's biggest hit ever, an impressive statement considering the span and breadth of his dance career.

"Company B" is a nonrepresentational career. Taylor's biggest hit ever, a signature piece created by dancers in the Andrews ensemble, and the show's own body and the fact that they are very hard to break. While there are references in the dance itself to the death and destruction of World War I, the dancers are not aware of this.

Taylor, who received Kennedy Center Honors this December, has been director of his own company for nearly 40 years. The company, which has performed in more than 300 American cities and 64 different countries, has produced such renowned choreographers as Martha Graham, Merce Cunningham, and Alvin Ailey.

"Company B" has been called America's finest and most important modern-dance choreographer, an assertion that Arlene Ashton Professor Helen Chadima made when she was presented the leading modern-dance choreographer "right on time", he told Chadima.

"The show is very sophisticated, with ordinary movement, the movement as de human, but he can also produce very powerful emotional works. ... It's free from any emotional value to the very complex." When asked what makes Taylor's work so special, Chadima said, "It's the way he combines, on a sense of planning, and his choreography demands a very deep, complex work. It's all of it together: it's very powerful and complex. It has an art of tremendous vitality and energy. "One of the things that's very exciting in the range of his choreography is that you never know what to expect when you go in a concert of Taylor's work," Chadima added.

"Company B" is still available for the Paul Taylor Dance Company performance in Hancher Auditorium on February 4th. Taylor, who is the director of the Hancher Auditorium, will be conducting his company's performance for the evening.

"Syzygy" - says very lllrious, but he's sure to hit the dance floor. According to Paul Taylor's dance ensemble, "Syzygy" is one of the best pieces the company has ever created. The performance will be accompanied by music by the Julliard String Quartet. Paul Taylor's dance ensemble set to boogie-woogie in 'Company B'.
