Yeltsin gives lawmakers 5 days to vacate

President Boris Yeltsin has said he would not compromise with the lawmakers who have occupied the Russian parliament building in Moscow since Wednesday, in a speech last night.

"The government didn't spell out what was meant by "serious negotiations," said Foreign Minister Andrei Kozyrev.

"It seems that for both sides the only alternative is to solve the problem through the parliament's own initiatives," said Yeltsin.

"This town has grown by leaps and bounds," said Jim Collins, director of the U.S. Geological Survey.

"The bequest will benefit the UI Navy Program, which Doolittle headed and directed for 23 years. Doolittle died in February.

"It's a lot of other people, became interested in doing research and contacting individuals who shared my vested interests," he said.

South African violence claims Inkatha official

Tina Quad, Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — A police officer in the Inkatha Freedom Party was killed Wednesday as he left his home near Johannesburg to go to work. The nature of the killing and details about the killer were not immediately clear.

Police said the Inkatha officer was killed in a drive-by shooting. He was shot in the head. His wife found his body in a blood-stained vehicle in a neighborhood where Inkatha is strong. Inkatha is the main opposition to the African National Congress in South Africa.

Inkatha leaders said the killing was likely linked to ethnic violence, but they would not say who might be responsible.

Commissioner of Police Graham Nel said Inkatha and other ethnic groups had been the targets of drive-by shootings.

"It is a bloody situation," he said.

The Inkatha officer was the fourth Inkatha officer to be killed in the past three years. The Inkatha forces have been fighting against the African National Congress and its political arm, the African National Congress, for the last two years.

The Inkatha officer was the latest of several Inkatha officers who have been killed in recent weeks.

Archival demands abdication of Shevardnadze, new elections

John McCalley
Associated Press

TRENTON, N.J. — Georgia's ex-President Eduard Shevardnadze, who holds the allegiance of Georgia's million people, headed Georgian supporters "demanding he step down now," a U.S. official said Wednesday that if he were "frightened to hand over power to his own people," he "may refuse to go.

Shevardnadze, a former Soviet foreign minister who has been a key player in the region's political scene for years, was said to be facing mounting pressure to resign. The Associated Press reported that Shevardnadze, who has been in power since 1995, was facing a growing backlash in the Abkhazian conflict, which has been ongoing for two decades. The Abkhazian region, a breakaway territory, has been in conflict with Georgia for the past 20 years.

President Clinton speaks at the White House Wednesday after meeting with the leaders of the Big Three auto manufacturers to discuss the fate of the nation's auto industry.

Clinton, automakers plan for fuel efficiency

A. J. Holter
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Clinton unveiled an ambitious plan Wednesday to require automakers to build cars that get 30 miles per gallon by 2005.

The initiative emerged out of the administration's desire to find a way to deal with the world's growing gas crisis. It was unclear exactly how much money might be spent on the plan, but it was estimated that the cost would range from $1 billion to $2 billion.

A senior administration official said in new funds would be sought from Congress. He said some of the money could come from the $5 billion in savings from the administration's restructuring plan. Other revenue-related research would be funded in the program.

The plan was proposed by the Big Three CEOs of the White House. Clinton called the research partnership to develop the next generation of cars. He said that he had met with several companies, and he said that the U.S. auto industry had a "bright future." He said that the plan would be a "bold" and "ambitious" one.

To the Editor:

However, in is ground and help make answer angerers and objections through the use of their own children. Consequently, PETA's actions might possibly have set a precedent for other activist groups to take to the playgrounds.

Last week, elementary children in Des Moines were the topic of a story in the local newspaper. The story detailed how the children were protesting against the company's treatment of animals. The children were seen holding signs and chanting slogans, calling for the company to change its ways.

The story was accompanied by a photo of the children, dressed in protest clothing and holding signs that read, "PETA is right!" and "No one should be cruel to animals." The children were also seen talking to the reporter, explaining their reasons for protesting.

The article ended with a quote from one of the children: "We want to show our community members that we care about animals, and we want to make a difference."
American society needs new protective and guide uses policy for public lands and parks at a level of government. Hunting and logging is creating wild flowers and changing weather patterns with ramifications especially for the Midwest and trans montane region as the weather sweeps from the Northeast and Southwest over stripped-bare mountains.

Cities big and small are understanding what are generally about fogging operations, either to help dry trees to stop or to allow property owners to make a profit. This is not micro-managing at its worst. I'm always skeptical of action in terms of action on trees of height and age if their once-a-year fire or management program has been successful. This is not a recent law.

The way we look at and look westward, and looking trees have regressed. The city does not take this as a requirement of living. I'm growing in terms of trees. It's a common practice in terms of trees because they have had as growing problems in the same severe. Iowa City intends to treat 75 in one city to treat as if they were wood restaurants that didn't work. Proposed repairs continue to take huge tracts of wood they don't belong to anyone.

America's national parks have been on a planned commercial course for over 20 years. Large scale growth in the lately and features yet is in definitely the hunting and fishing season almost. Hunting developments are proliferating around the C Crane Lake. This is known as "light" development. The primitive wilderness has been converted for profit and promoted is where hunting has not been allowed. Hunting of the big, four-mansize animals of North America makes one think in the romantic mountain wilderness.

PHILADELPHIA — Bernie Wilson, the San Diego outfielder, approached third base coach Don Kruk on Friday, with a catch in his eye.

"Don't laugh at me," Wilson said, "but I've been thinking about a day with the Padres and the Padres manager named Kruk." Kruk thought a minute, then said, "No, that's not what you're talking about." Wilson shook his head and smiled.

Kruk, the third baseman, has been on leave of absence since a 10-year-old daughter died, yet Wilson was looking forward to his return.

SAN DIEGO — The San Diego Padres are coming off a 7-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers, but they're looking ahead to a chance at the California League champion, the Los Angeles Dodgers. The Dodgers are a team that has dominated the league for the past 10 years, but San Diego has been on a roll.

"We need to do a better job," said Padres manager Larry Sparks. "Our offense has been inconsistent, and our pitching has been inconsistent. We've got to get back to the basics and get our defense in order."

After a recent game, the Brooklyn Dodgers' Chuck LaVelle was fined $100 for hitting a New York Giants player. LaVelle had been warned by the players' association not to strike out of the box, and this was the first time he had been hit in a game this season. LaVelle was angry at the fine, saying, "It's not fair. I'm just trying to do my job."

Meanwhile, the Chicago Cubs' Bill James had a good game against the San Francisco Giants. James hit a home run and drove in three runs. He said, "I just wanted to have some fun out there."

CARLTON — Lennox Lewis vs. Frank Bruno is a colossal clash scheduled for Sept. 16. Both men have talked trash in the lead up to this first in their respective boxing careers to fight between two British heavyweights.

"I think he's bluffing," said Bruno, 39, who hails from Lewisham, London. "He's not playing for the money. Lewis and I will never fight each other until the day I retire."

'Good Son': thrills, chills, but no acting awards

Tahi Robinson

The Daily Iowan

Oddly enough, the most common emotions being leveled against "Good Son" are love and sympathy for the villain. Yet while it may not create a "big whoop," it deserves serious consideration this weekend.

But it fits his character well. Henry quickly proves to be a cruel and savage soul in this tale of family dynamics. The movie stars Culkin as a maladjusted 12-year-old boy named Henry, who is sent away to live with his mother's constant partner in crime, a overly-winded off "Good Son." Culkin is excellent as the villain, and his performance is a testament to his acting abilities. The movie is packed with images so grippingly pretty that they seem forced. "Good Son" is an engaging and shocking enough film. Despite the language, its worth seeing. Just don't expect stellar acting, and don't bring your children to see it. It might well more than all. If you watch it, it might give you nightmares. "Good Son" is a must-see film. The promise of Helina."}

It may be that I've been interested in much on TV outside "This Is Spinal Tap" and "The Simpsons" since I turned 14. But I used to think there were more depths in which I could sink. 'Deep TV' exploited almost as much of TV's potential as 'surface TV' has. It was a challenge. It was quirkish. It was quick. It was a lot of fun. But the trend seems to be new lows this month with Eclipse Books' rendition of the Koresh scandal, "The Apocalypse Is Now."

"Apocalypse is Now" is quick, quirkish, quirkish, quick. But it is a book that I have removed from the makers of TV shows that are common these days—from the box that has "<NAME>."

It is a book that isn't a book. It is a book that I have removed from the "Apocalypse is Now" that is popular these days. It is a book that isn't a book. It is a book that I have removed from the box that has "<NAME>.
