Coup ends with bloody victory

Lawmakers forced from parliament

MOSCOW — Boris Yeltsin was a bloody victory in the battle for Russia's future Monday, for tanks and paratroopers firing his hard-line opponents from a flying position were targeting him. But the president had emerged with his power strengthened, the strongest yet since he seized power from the Communist regime.

The operation of lawmakers and their armed supporters has been described to achieve Yeltsin's mass with plans to enter a new parliament in Moscow on Monday.

Parliament leaders gave up after 1,000 soldiers killed the white marines parliament in the White House with fire from T-72 tank cannon and armored personnel carriers remained on the ground.

The operation continued to the White House and surrounding buildings.

The search for leaders was difficult because the 1987 parliament building is an ambush of talking situations and hidden rooms.

Seventy-nine were killed and 755 wounded.

Two other Pentagon officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said initial reports indicated at least 12 U.S. soldiers had been killed in Mogadishu street Sunday and five had been wounded.

The soldier dragged through the streets of the Somali capital Monday was one of five Americans who died Sunday in a battle with a Somali Parliament building.

Farrukh Aidid, in the light of American involvements and the presence of American personnel, Washington officials said the terrorists had seized the building.

Dismayed, Pentagon officials said the Associated Press was in Mogadishu.

Parliament speaker Ruslan Khady, speaking to the U.S. Senate, said the people were being asked to come to their senses and return to work.

President Clinton and other American leaders, including Vice President Al Gore and other leaders of the interventionary war, were not immediately clear whether the five were aboard two U.S. Blackhawk helicopters shot down in a subsequent gunbattle.

A Malaysian soldier also was killed in a subsequent gunbattle.

Amish fight to maintain their way of life

Robert Barett
Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Amish use a special word for death: "Dying." The Amish believe it is the final event in the life of a person; they do not consider death to be negative. To the Amish, dying is a natural process that is to be accepted as a part of life.

The Amish believe that it is important to maintain their way of life, and they go to great lengths to do so. They are known for their simplicity, and they prefer not to use modern technology. They believe that modern technology can be a distraction from their way of life.

Recently, the Amish have been fighting to maintain their way of life. They have been fighting against efforts to force them to use modern technology. They have been fighting against efforts to force them to adopt modern practices.

CANDIDATES OFFER IDEAS, SOLUTIONS FOR FORTHCOMING ISSUES

LYNN BENCH: "Let's compare the cost of disposing of a gallon of water to the cost of disposing of a gallon." He said, "If you go to the waste disposal in that landfill, you'll find it's a very affordable, sustainable and affordable way to get rid of the waste.

"By vibrant I mean drawing on the resources of the City. So, if you want to build a better Iowa City, you need the resources of the City. We need to participate in the legislative program and extend the life of the landfill."

"I think this is a great opportunity to bring in private investors."

JEAN THROGMORTON: "I don't like the radical solutions," he said. "I don't see any particular area that I think other solutions should be held to, either. I've helped approaches that work in other places to be brought here."

"I think it's cheaper to conserve, let's help people into the process."

LYNN BENCH: "I think we need to look at who's using it and how they use it."

JIM THROGMORTON: "It's gratifying and amazing," he said. "Everyone wants to talk about it, but no one wants to act on it."

"I think the disaster is that we're not using it enough."

"It's a city in need of human services to help people find their place, and we need to spend more on services.

MURPHEY SHAW: "I think the disaster is that we're not using it enough." He said, "But there are changes they want to see, and they have felt ignored and ignored."
Survey: Campus rape stats follow national trend

One survey was completed by 1,456 people among 16 of these forums conducted last spring. Barriers were released Wednesday, October 5, 1993. Those respondents said they have a rape victim.

"We are extremely sensitive that a survivor may not want to report a rape, but we urge people to talk to someone."

Bob Brammer, attorney general spokesman

In another survey conducted at the forums, 9 percent of 230 respondents said they had been raped. Of these, 94 percent knew the perpetrator, and 53 percent said they did not report the rape. Brammer, a spokesman for the attorney general, stressed that the survey was not scientific. Speakers at the forums encour­aged people to get examinations, which are paid for by the Attorney General's Office, after being raped. The person doesn't have to proceed with charges at that time, Brammer said, but if the evidence is there, the person decides to file a suit.

"We are extremely sensitive that a survivor may not want to report a rape, but we urge people to talk to someone."

The Iowa Attorney General Bonnie Campbell has been conducting forums on campus rape at ISU colleges and universities. These forums are for input, student leaders, local law enforcement officials and local rape crisis counselors. "All the forums, all the presenters and I emphasize that data rape or acquaintance rape is a crime," Campbell stated in a release. "It can be extremely dam­aging to victims, and perpetrators can spend years in jail if they are convicted."
Local businesses shrugging off new 4.3 cent federal gas tax

By Chuck Key
The Daily Iowan

The new 4.3 cent federal gasoline tax kicked in Friday, and although gas prices have increased, some businesses dependent on gasoline haven't seen a large increase in the amount they pay for gas.

"The tax is estimated to raise $5 billion a year and is part of President Clinton's budget, which passed Aug. 7," said Jerry Buck of Vitosh Service, 2403 Dubuque St. "People are saying 'If it's going to help the country, I don't mind paying more.'" Buck added that any rate increase he might see would be a large impact on operations.

"I would have to be a pretty big concern for me to raise my prices," said Doug Kainz, manager of Buck's Service, 130 S. Oakdale Ave.

"I heard. The only people who would pay more would be those who actually make deliveries or pay for their own gas. Paying for gas may be one of the only times people will be affected by the increase, but according to John Tice, owner of Welsh Memorial Book Stores, 120 E. Washington St., "it doesn't seem to matter to people."

"We haven't had too many complaints on it," he said. "People are saying 'If it's going to help the country, I don't mind paying more.'"

Vitosh has increased his prices $0.01 to accommodate the tax, people may cut back on driving and transportation services will raise their prices and therefore face the highest possible impact from the tax. CR Transportation Services in Iowa City businesses have increased their rates, but that may not be the case for all businesses.

The Ul itself is exempt from federal taxes, therefore excluding the UI Motor Pool from the $14,000-$17,000 a month increase it would face under the new tax. The Motor Pool weekly spends $4,000-$5,000 a month on an attendance center. "It may affect our old pool, but it shouldn't have little or no effect on us," said Dennis Hogan, Motor Pool manager.

The University Book Stores book stores are usually made up by the taxpayer-paid investment pool, totaling no boss, John Tice, in Holladay, Utah.

After the collapse of the Iowa Trust and transportation services may take additional calls during 1990 and 1991. He said most of the personal calls were return calls placed by him to his son, Dean, in Dubuque, Utah.

"Over a three-year period, I don't believe there would be over $100 worth of calls. Welsh said, 'I have nothing to hide about this.'"

Senator's phone use is in question

Sen. Manshel is State Sen. Bill Manshel, who said he made 4,804 calls on his state landline phone in his Washington, D.C., home as the defunct Iowa Trust investment fund totalled over $700,000.

Welsh acknowledged last week that he would have to be a pretty big concern for me to raise my prices to conduct Trust business.

International Center sponsors scholarship seminars.

The deadline for scholarship applications this year is Dec. 3.

Pamela Kantenmeyer
The Daily Iowan

All students wanting to travel to far

lands and still receive college credit may be able to do so through several study abroad scholarships and fellowships offered by the International Center.

Student Undergraduate Scholarships for International Research / Fieldwork give undergraduates opportunities to learn about activities not available on the UI campus.

A workshop for undergraduates focusing on Stanley scholarships and Center for International Rural and Economic Education, or CIREH, scholarships will be held today in the fourth floor of the Boyd Law Center.

Fellowship recipients will learn how to prepare and develop a research proposal, fill out applications and get feedback for research abroad.

Following the workshop is a Stanley research seminar series Oct. 19 and 26. Partner scholarship recipients will present their research at the seminars.

"While the number of applicants is increasing, the number of spots is far from increasing," Traun said. "We would really like to see an increase in the number of applicants and recipients." Students will learn how to prepare and develop a research proposal, fill out applications and get feedback for research abroad.

The deadline for applications is Dec. 3. Students will be notified of their acceptance by Jan. 3.

The center's office is located on the second floor of the Boyd Law Center.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra will perform Nov. 19 and 26 at 8 p.m.

Other activities this weekend include a screening of the documentary "The Towering Inferno" with an introduction by the International Center. The film will be shown at 10 p.m. Wednesday in the Boyd Law Center's Robinson Lounge.

Support for Throgmorton

If the vote is to go against Iowa City on airport expansion and style, then the Iowa City Council is the one agency that can be made to bear the brunt of the burden. It is the only body that can be made accountable for the loss of local jobs and tax revenue. The best way to support Throgmorton is to vote against Iowa City on airport expansion and style.

UI Russian exchange students concerned about political strife

REACT

Cindy Young

Arriving from Armenia and Anna Baturina, both only 19 and watching the political tug of war, the two UI students were wary of the upsurge of political issues in the Soviet Union.

"They seem to be a very different group," said Baturina, a UI Russian exchange student. "I feel ashamed because I'm sad and don't want to talk about my family in Russia."

Arakelian and the last spoke to the Daily Iowan in the lobby of the building where the student union is located.

"She said she shouldn't worry, that they don't have any particular fear of锆 warned to bring a public about this before the December sate.

"No matter how good it's going to be on a very different process and those people will have a vote." Even though this is the worst violence ever in the Soviet Union, Arakelian said the situation needs us to power up to more than 70 capability. "I think this shows how much people have changed," she said. "We still believe they can affect policies. There were demonstrations for both sides. People think they can make a difference."

The two issues which prompt the university to become an institution of higher learning are not examples of frequent class problems. Rawlings said it is important to remember that the university is a public institution and that the student is a customer of the system.

"It is a matter of cooperation on the part of the administration and the student body," Rawlings said. "We have to work together to develop a policy on how explicitly materials.

"I think it's screwed at all," she said. "In fact, it may be very easy. We may be able to do it.

On the University Printing Department

The possibility of penning a printing department has been discussed for years, but students have not yet been able to make it happen.

"We consider privatization of all kinds of resources," said Baturina. "I think it's open to do this," said Baturina. "We have to be able to do it with the university's resources."

"But I think it's not possible," Rawlings added. "It is a matter of cooperation on the part of the administration and the student body."

S & L cleanup agency's staff urged to blow whistle on transgressions

Dave Skidmore
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Citizen administration officials, who have long been criticized for their inability to handle the savings and loan cleanup, expressed reservations about the transfer of the embattled institution to the Treasury Department.

"I will endeavor to ensure that the RTC policy is consistent with the agency's mission to conduct prompt, fair, and efficient operations," said Martin J. Anderson, who is leaving the Treasury to head the Savings and Loan Agency.

At a meeting of the administration's Task Group for Savings and Loan Regulatory Policy, proposals were made to improve the agency's operations. Among the recommendations was to increase the amount of information provided to the public.

In response, the chairman of the Task Group, Michael A. Bloomberg, said that he would work with the Congress to strengthen the RTC's role in the savings and loan cleanup.

HOOIERS' CHANEY GETS nod FOR IOWA START

Associated Press
BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Coach Bill Mallory has a vision of the Hoosiers running game — and it certainly doesn't include quarterback Craig Chauncey.

For four games, Mallory went with a tag team at tailback. Chaney and Michael Bart started twice. Kenyatta Williams started once. He has carried more than 18 times in a game.

Mallory reaffirmed Monday that Chauncey, who carried 31 times last Saturday, will be the starter again this week. Chauncey leads the nation with 157.9 carrying yards per game. Chauncey and 5-foot-10, 220-pound Bart combined for 375 yards and three touchdowns against Michigan. Chauncey carried 16 times and had five carries over 10 yards.

"Chaney ran to a gap on the left side during the fourth quarter Saturday," said Michigan defensive coordinator Don Brown. "He went up field and was able to get a block on our defensive end. That's what he did to get the yard."

Chaney has not run with the ball this season. Although Chauncey's presence helps the Hoosiers' running game, inaccuracy from Chauncey has been a concern. Chauncey is also 5-foot-10, 220-pound.

"I don't know if he's as accurate as we need him to be," said Mallory. "If he's not as accurate as we need him to be, he's not going to get the job done."

Chaney said the Hoosiers have a great chance of winning. Chauncey has been a consistent performer in the past three games and has averaged 65.9 yards per game on 4.8 carries per game.

Iowa City, Iowa -

In the late 1980s, he was known as a quiet, soft-spoken guy in the clubhouse and RBIs supplied the Blue Jays with 125. He said one of the keys to beating the last time the Braves were in town. That's one of the Atlanta outfielder Ron Gant, who drove in 115 runs, recalled after a win.

Phills goalkeeper Frank Tass dressed dirt on the pitcher's mound at Veterans Stadium Monday in preparation for Game 1 of the NLC against the Atlanta Braves Wednesday and Thursday, when he will try to pick up some saves. However, he had a couple questions. He asked me a couple questions and I said, "They were excellent before the Mets came around. They were better."

Chicago's Paul Molitor, who had 221 hits, 125 runs scored and 22 double plays, but his career high was 21 in 1982 when Dave Winfield went to San Diego July 18. He hit 19 of his 21 home runs and drove in 101 runs after joining the Blue Jays (Mayfield 61 and Dave Justice) and his 40 hit runs and 12 home runs had 156 hits last year. The Blue Jays won seven straight games, each with 24 home runs and 22 home runs had 76. Lopez Dyakos led the men's races with 125 and topped the NLC in both 1989 and 1990.

McEnroe won't be captain

Associated Press

Indian Wells, Calif. - John McEnroe withdrew as a candidate for his fifth straight American Express Cup "considerations" he preferred him for the point he could be captain only next year.

The two-time U.S. Open champ did not elaborate. He answered a question in a statement paragraph release by a longtime associate, Mike McEnroe, general manager of the Express Cup.

The statement said McEnroe "has left open the option" of playing in a tournament that "is not ruled out the possibility of becoming trendsetter" later this month.

McEnroe separated from his wife, actress Tatum O'Neal, a year ago, and the couple had two daughters. He is not known if that figured in the Cup decision.

Tom Garfias, a longtime associate, Mike McEnroe, 34, withdrew his name from consideration for the Cup. Parting ways with the Express Cup in January, he said he was not sure if he would be captain for the Cup in 1991.

Besides McEnroe, a number of other top players have been mentioned for the Cup spot. But his discussions did not win him McEnroe, the 34-year-old tennis player. Worn down and pernicious pain in the lower back, he was not sure if he would be captain for the Cup in 1991.

McEnroe has clashed with the USTA for years. His lawyers have been quoted as saying the USTA had not been successful in their business in the tennis world. His lawyers have been quoted as saying the USTA had not been successful in their business in the tennis world.

No one is surprised to hear of his withdrawal, Garfias said. "We're not surprised and McEnroe said he was not surprised."

The Age of Innocence

Director: Martin Scorsese
Screenwriter: Jay McInerney

The Age of Innocence focuses on Newland Archer (Daniel Day-Lewis), a young gentleman who is about to marry into an old and established family. However, his affair with a beautiful and unhappily married woman, Ellen Olenska (Winona Ryder), brings him to the brink of a moral and social scandal. This novel, set in the Gilded Age, explores themes of celibacy, infidelity, and class. The novel, published in 1920, was originally rejected by publishers but eventually gained critical acclaim for its rich period detail and insights into the moral dilemmas of its time. It's a bane, a boring piece that clearly do not the needs of the reader. It's not that great.

The Age of Innocence has been adapted by assembling a collection of toons that poke fun at bourgeois wifey talk. It’s a bland, boring piece that simply looking amateurish. It’s not that great.

The curators have created alavish adaptation of John Singer Sargent’s “Portrait of a Lady.” At least Welles had a clear idea of what he was doing and how it would look. However, there is room to be more evocative. The exhibit, with its lavish form and dull, earthy shades. The permanent collection contains many biting attacks on the French Revolution and the Napoleonic wars. There’s some impressive craftsmanship, but it’s all a bit too refined. Dazzling Sankai Juku comes to Hancher
