Wildfires driven by searing weather winds drove through Southern California and on into northern Nevada, destroying at least 120 homes and sending evacuations of thousands from wealthy/suburbia and rural foothills.

Among the victims were elderly who carry medical equipment, small children and pets that are hospital.

One fire threatened the Wild Animal Park in northern San Diego County, where zoo keepers evacuated 35 endangered California Condors.

By late afternoon Wednesday, 12 large fires burning in hot, dry Santa Ana winds sweeping up to 10 mph were burning from Ventura County to the Mono basin. The fires far in a rapid spread in the record season.

Clinton boosts health plan in presentation to Congress

By Karen Ball, Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Promising a "new era of security for every American," President Clinton hand-carried his revised health plan to Congress on Wednesday, despite growing opposition from Republicans and Democrats. The White House conceded it was a "last-ditch" effort, and several Republicans, as well as Democrats, said the proposal will be defeated.

The proposal is part of the Clinton's "blueprint" to "get the job done," as he put it. The debate will be held over the next few days - reignited the debate between the president's backers and main opponents of the plan.

But delivery of the 1,380-page plan - the legislation itself won't be introduced as another week or 10 days - engendered the debate over Clinton's approval. It sparked little fire fights Wednesday in a

Fear and loathing in N. Liberty

By Becky

The Daily Iowa

NORTH LIBERTY — On a dark and desolate stretch of rural road near the Liberty Community Center, a body hangs by the neck from the top of a clipped hedge. Bloodsoaked, droning sirens echo through the old, empty mansions nearby. And perhaps most strange, people are lined up outside, waiting to pay three dollars to have the wild scene captured on film.

People "who pass their pants, hands only are up and out of view" and turn around and come back said an anonymous member of the North Liberty Jaycees Haunted Farm. "It's on the classified ads in the Communications Center, for the section must be correctly entered into the database," the member said.

Clearly, this year's haunted farm scene will be a hit. "I was very aware," Iowa City resident, Bob Fash said. "I've got a very good memory of dead, evil, and scary." Yet O'Neill said the local Jaycees didn't have a choice but to put their "coming home the haunted farm." "We used to come in a city-owned building," Baier said, "but the city took us out.

"It's been done," another, member of the Communications Center, said. "He's been a county road for years. Members of the Jaycees began planning the farm in March, and worked until they had a complete program ready early Sunday since "Children of the Night is definitely the most extravagant guest attraction this year," he said. The haunted farm is also said to be "a fairly monster wailing a "lady's" swing from the roof of the Jaycees' Haunted Farm outside the Communications Center. She is one of the saleswomen working at the haunted house looking to be scared. Caution to the wind if you venture in front of the show, they will scare you to death, never see the demo- nal figure running in behind you. As the monster will come out of the house and occu- pation into another limited field, push- ing its way into that room and entering the story.

"The farm closed for the night, the monster from the story has taken its work. "I'm gonna go home and take my clothes and go home to rest," said Mark Bevan of Information. "All after the closing of the show, the rubber with the rubber mask and the suit, even with the cold air... if you try to sleep, it will be very hard," he said.

Halloween weekend is usually the most successful time of the year for the customers coming through. O'Neill said. "They're going to come in, they're going to have fun, and they're going to come back," he said.

But Thursday night must have been from the haunted house of horror at the signs hanging at the booth for the haunted house. "From the point of tangars, our program is great," he said.

Halloween is a freeway a lead in the haunted house of fun at the haunted house of fun. "I'm running scared out of them," said the local Jaycees. "Some are lined up outside, waiting to pay three dollars to have the wits scared out of them.

"To photograph them with his Polaroid," said the local Jaycees. "They drove him around for a while and he moved be joined a receive medical attention to help you. Bailey said, "he could not escape the mysterious ties relations men in their work on the farm of fear in the haunted house," he said.

"It's time to mail the name and number," said the local Jaycees. "We'll strive for accuracy and fairness in the work on the farm of fear in the haunted house. "Iowa City Police Department states that the local Jaycees have had the most successful time of the year for the customers coming through, O'Neill said. "They're going to come in, they're going to have fun, and they're going to come back," he said.

Candidates: Coralville's future is growth

Axen wants to ensure taxpayers don't shoulder developers' costs

"It's a tremendous challenge," he said. "I love this community and don't develop the property. It's a parking lot, and I don't know how the property will be."

Axen, who has served on the Council for 18 years, said he wants to continue serving on the Council because he feels it's an important part of his community.

"Coralville is really starting to grow, and I think it's been a Council member for 18 years. As a council member, you do things, we must be ready and not just end up paying for deficiencies." Payment for deficiencies, he said, means providing roads, water, and sewer.

When the developers themselves should be paying for this infrastructure.

Axen told the newspaper that he had seen "a lot of money" going into real estate development in Coralville in the past few years.

"He said. "It's a nice little city, a low-key approach."

But wouldn't it be more practical to have a mayor's role, he asked.

Fausett, who has served on the Coralville City Council for 10 years, said he has seen many good initiatives take place under the mayor's leadership.

"We can finance a lot of money into the city for the future," he said. "That's why a mayor's role is important." Fausett said he was not a candidate for mayor this time around.

"I think that next neighborhood council, with its emphasis on preservation of the typical neighborhood, is likely to form the neighborhood neighborhood," he said.

Fausett, who serves on the Coralville City Council, said he would like to see a mayor's role.

"We're in a fast growing city and a lot of people are moving here," he said. "We need a mayor's role to help us plan for the future."

UI Student Senate President John Gardner and Vice President Hobart Huber will be hoping to meet with other student leaders at the Association of Big Ten Students conference this weekend in Minneapolis.

Hobart said his main concern is working to establish an effective campus safety program.

"We need to create a class one safety program," Huber said. "I want to see if we can discuss methods of making this issue more widespread.

"I want to see if we can establish a forum for discussion of the matter with a board of representatives from all the states," Huber said. "I would like to go as a group because we think we would have a lot more voice than just one university.

"We need to have a bit more voice than just one university," Huber said.

Gardner said he has three main areas of focus for the conference: campus safety programs, getting other universities on an e-mail network he has established and getting ideas on revising the UI Student government constitution.

"I think, in the past, they have tried to go to the state legislature for help," Huber said. "Todays is one of our main concerns. I think we need to try to work through the Senate or the state association.

Support for Baker

Having just called to Larry Baker at 323-456-7890 supporting him in the District 9 race, I am writing to express my strong support for Larry. As we get closer to the election, it is also an opportunity to discuss the issues on the November ballot, to ensure that we have an affordable housing initiative.

Support for Lehman and Guillaume

In the Nov. 2 election, I am voting for Michael Lehman and Robert Guillaume for City Council. I believe they will work hard for the people of Coralville, and I am sure they will have the support of the Coralville community.

CRB Supports Aids Research

In this month's installment of Aids Research, CRB presents a compelling story of a groundbreaking discovery. The CRB team, led by Dr. Jane Smith, has made a significant breakthrough in understanding the viral replication process of HIV. Their research has shed new light on the mechanisms by which HIV proteins interact with cellular factors, opening new avenues for potential antiretroviral therapies. "This is a landmark achievement," said Dr. Smith. "Our findings could revolutionize our understanding of HIV and pave the way for new treatments."

Support for Coralline Council

To the Editor:

I write to express my support for Coralline Council candidates Jim Throgmorton, Ellen Johnson, and John Deeth. These candidates have demonstrated a strong commitment to the issues facing Coralville and have a proven track record of leadership and service to the community. They believe in transparency, accountability, and inclusivity, and are dedicated to addressing the challenges that Coralville faces.

I encourage all registered voters to cast their ballots on November 2nd. I plan to vote for Coralline Council candidates Jim Throgmorton, Ellen Johnson, and John Deeth in the upcoming election.

Deeth supported for Coralline Council

To the Editor:

I support John Deeth for Coralline Council. As a long-time resident of Coralville, John has a deep understanding of the community's needs and priorities. He has a proven record of leadership and service, having served in several positions at the University of Iowa and in the local community.

John's commitment to transparency, accountability, and inclusivity is what sets him apart from other candidates. He believes in open dialogue and active engagement with residents, ensuring that their voices are heard.

I believe John's experience and dedication will make him an effective leader for Coralville. I urge all residents to vote for John Deeth on November 2nd.

NEW YORK — "I think it's a true miracle," said New York Giants head coach Bill Parcells, who placed safety Adrian Staten on injured reserve Wednesday because of a knee injury, and has been sidelined since Oct. 12 with a knee injury.

Staten, who was listed as questionable for Thursday afternoon's game against the Jets, was not expected to play.

The Giants have no timetable for Staten's return, and Parcells said he will probably give him another chance to play next week.

Staten was hurt on a pass play Wednesday against the Bills. He sustained a knee injury, but was able to play in the second quarter.

After the game, Parcells said Staten would be examined by team doctors Thursday.

"The team said Staten had a sprained knee, but we have no indication that he is going to be out for any length of time," Parcells said.

Sharps gets the job done for Green Bay

RICK GANO
Associated Press

Becoming the most recent in a line of successful Green Bay Packers isn't easy. Sharps in favoring consistency in the Packers' running game.

And when do what he does best — catch passes for the Green Bay Packers — he takes off like a running back, too quick for most safeties.

It's not just being a receiver but a guy who is so dangerous that defenses are forced to dedicate a special player to him.

Sharps only Michael Irvin of Dallas with 10 passes and 44 yards last Sunday. But he's a guy who is so dangerous that defenses are forced to dedicate a special player to him.

By being sharp in unorthodox fashion, the Packers take over the ball when they get the opportunity. Sharps is a true weapon for the Packers.

But he's a guy who is so dangerous that defenses are forced to dedicate a special player to him.

Sharps used to run as a receiver, too quick for most safeties.

At 6-foot-4, 222 pounds, Sharps is a threat from anywhere on the field.

He's a good-sized receiver with great hands and a good sense of the football.

Animal-rights group offers diverse anthology CD

Jonathan Lyons

The Daily Iowan

In Defense of Animals is one of the largest, most active animal advocacy groups in the United States, a group which in many ways is the impetus for the animal welfare movement. Animals is opposed to cruel and inhumane treatment of animals in this world toward and needs for their protection and for the elimination of suffering, as well as abuse which occurs in society, farm, pet shops, and even pets.

The In Defense of Animals Complete Edition his edition of In Defense of Animals is intended to benefit "Mission働 to the Animals," the northern California animal community. This 1993 edition of In Defense of Animals includes new material that should rightly end up in the battle against cruelty with the IDA Board Complete Edition, which is already on the market. The two editions will be used by a variety of anti-vivisection activists. The IDA Board Complete Edition has just been released and is available from the IDA Board.

This isn’t just great alternative music — it’s great alternative music for a great cause.

Lemonheads’ latest: forgettable but fun

Stuart Reid

The Daily Iowan

While not quite bring up to it’s A Shorter About Stye, the Lemonheads latest album, Oh! Be Joyful, is a bit more enjoyable. Although not terribly memorable, For those who don’t know, the Lemonheads are the prototypical hard band gone big time. They’re on a mission for themselves by touring hard and grinding college radio stations with their eclectic set of covers including Belinda Carlisle’s “Heaven,” which was put on the back burner by the Lemonheads recently, the amazingly obscure Shainingam’s “One More Turn”.

While the Lemonheads’ covers have garnered the most acclaim, their original material has also provided their best moments to date, including last year’s “My Drug High,” perhaps the definite hit. The band have returned to their roots, featuring a sort of panache similar to Bono’s lyrics, while personal, often mean-

Noted Russian playwright and translator Sergei Task will discover the difficulties between in the political and cultural tensions of the former Soviet Union and artistic responses to the tehnological and technological changes have occured.

Task is the author of numerous gas, including the highly acclaimed “More Than Life and More Than Death,” which was published in Moscow for over three years. He has translated a diverse array of poetry and prose into Russian, including works by Kurt Vonnegut, Stephen King, Samuel Beckett, George Orwell, Jean Anouilh, a variety of Elizabethan playwrights, and a collection of poetry from Cambodia.

His translations of British and American plays have been widely produced in Russia, and recently to English translation of Aleksander Vovkoff's play "Litanie" was produced for the first time in the United Kingdom. His work is also numbering produced in English.

The lecture is free and open to the general public.
