Regents quash 'sex act' proposal

Nancy Peltier, Owen Newlin and Betty Jean Propmann, who had voted against the proposal, imposed policy in the October meeting, voted for the senate's proposal. Members discussed the reasons why the senate's proposal was superior, which included the age of consent policy that the senators had established. But for five of the eight board members on hand, it wasn't enough. Markypress Thomas Collins, Thomas Doherty, Elizabeth Hendricks, John Tyrrell and President Marvin Stipp voted against the senate's proposal.

The winter holidays may not during the semester may be back to the normal three-month schedule. The exhibit is open through Jan. 9.

The Regents a matter of minutes at Wednesday's meeting quashed a proposal to ban sex acts on campus, but those who do may get a jump until after New Year's Day, but by then it was too late. It's not like you're at a job, it was said. The president's policy, he said, would put the UI to go ahead with a policy that is based on good teaching principles and not on content. It took up a matter of policy and we agreed to pass it, he said.

Transfer of station WOI-TV 'done deal,' despite appeals

The former transfer of the Iowa City Community College district's WOI-TV was approved Wednesday all at seeking a 7.4 million dollar last-minute appeal and a judge for a second time overfed to the move of the station.

Ray Cole, executive vice presi dent for Capital Communications, had called the ruling a "total loss for station supporters" and asked for an appeal of the order.

In a statement of the FCC action, it should move to a final closing in "very short order," he said in a news release, following Iowa City Board of Regents.

Cole and a spokesperson for Capital to control the stations, as the only two state-owned community TV stations in the country, to 36 in 2014.

A group, Iowa PBS, for WOI-TV, has under the station since the station's sale. However, Arbiters says the sta tion, established in 1969, is in "working condition and one of the University's most successful.

Chemeron's and Edwards' tool, operating of hydraulic structures and two large rivers make it more difficult.

His colleagues attribute last year's massive floods to the rapid rise of the Mississippi River, if the same water mass could have been spread over a longer period of time.

Historical studies show that increased precipitation occurs within several years after an El Nino event and this year was an El Nino year. In March

The study concluded that the data showed only a stat istically relationship and that the rain storm event is not enough to be a sign of the occurrence of an El Nino event.

The study's authors warn that future El Nino events could cause more severe floods in the near future.

Robert D. Cook, a research scientist at the National Weather Service, said, "It's important to be aware of these trends and to be prepared for the possibility of more severe flooding in the future."

The study's authors recommend that future research focus on understanding the mechanisms behind the flood events and developing better models to predict them.

Aspin relieves Russian defense secretary post

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Defense Secretary Les Aspin resigned Wednesday after a turbulent tenure marred by controversies over his oversights in the military. American deaths in Somalia and the administration's sudden remar-ner of the Clinton Cabinet is in Aspin, who had a heart paceemaker implanted last winter, resigned for personal reasons. For the second time in a month, a cabinet member of the Clinton administration left for personal reasons.

Aspin said he would remain in the Cabinet at least until Jan. 30
to ensure a smooth transition.

There were indications that the White House had already informed Vice President Al Gore
of Aspin's resignation and had arranged a news conference for Wednesday morning.

"It was a very difficult decision for me to make," he said in a prepared statement, "but it was the right one for me and my family."

Aspin's reputation had been hurt by his inability to "take the heat"
in the face of criticism and by a series of missteps and irresponsibilities that served to cloud his career.

Aspin did not immediately announce his intentions in Congress, where he has served since 1977 as a Democrat from Washington state.

A spokesman for Aspin's office would not discuss the specifics of Aspin's resignation, which was announced after a meeting in the White House.

Aspin was named to the administration in January 1993
when Vice President Gore was named to the Cabinet after the administration's initial failure to choose a defense secretary.

Aspin was picked by Gore as the Cabinet's third choice in a competition that also included
Mark Gearan, former congressman from New Hampshire, and Parry Frenkel, a Chevron Corp.
executive.

Aspin had differed with Clinton on issues of the administration.

A long-time Washington official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Aspin did not give reasons for his resignation.

But in the Pentagon, one administration official and a senior adviser to Vice President Gore said that Aspin had terminated regular meetings with him and other aides, and had decided to take a leave of absence.

"Aspin and his people made a lot of noise about a possible resignation," said the official.

Aspin's resignation came after a public dispute with Budget Director Leon Panetta, who wanted to fire Aspin for his "poor job performance.

Panetta, who is also a professor of government at the University of California at Berkeley, has been a vocal critic of Aspin's leadership.

The announcement comes after a report in The Washington Post
that the Cabinet was so critical of Aspin's performance that it decided to call the spin-doctor chairman at the White House to inform him of the decision.

The stormiest event of his year was the decision in July to send 1,000 troops to Somalia, a mission that markedly increased the tension between Aspin and the Clinton administration.

"It was a very difficult decision for him," said the official, "but it was the right one for him and his family."

Aspin, a retired Marine colonel,
said the decision was the only one
he could make for his family.

"I made the decision with the best interests of my family and friends in mind," he said.

New era for world trade hailed with GATT

In the trade deal of the century, the United States has made dramatic efforts to open the world's markets to American goods and services.

The GATT (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) is the premier forum for international trade negotiations. The new era is ushered in by the signing of a new GATT agreement, which will go into effect in January 1995. It is expected to reduce world trade barriers by 30%.

One of the key provisions of the new GATT agreement is the establishment of a dispute settlement mechanism. This mechanism will allow countries to resolve trade disputes through a formal process. The agreement also includes provisions for the creation of a new international trade court, which will have the power to rule on disputes.

The new GATT agreement is expected to boost world trade and economic growth. It is also expected to reduce the number of trade disputes, as countries will be more likely to resolve their differences through a formal process.

President Clinton signed the GATT agreement on September 15th. The agreement is expected to enter into force on January 1st, 1995. The United States is expected to benefit significantly from the new GATT agreement, as it will be able to access new markets and increase its exports.

After six years of silence, Carlos Castaneda now returns with a breakthrough book, a book that fully explains don juan's teachings on discovering the world of the spirit through the power of dreams.

New era for world trade hailed with GATT

In the trade deal of the century, the United States has made dramatic efforts to open the world's markets to American goods and services.

The GATT (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) is the premier forum for international trade negotiations. The new era is ushered in by the signing of a new GATT agreement, which will go into effect in January 1995. It is expected to reduce world trade barriers by 30%.

One of the key provisions of the new GATT agreement is the establishment of a dispute settlement mechanism. This mechanism will allow countries to resolve trade disputes through a formal process. The agreement also includes provisions for the creation of a new international trade court, which will have the power to rule on disputes.

The new GATT agreement is expected to boost world trade and economic growth. It is also expected to reduce the number of trade disputes, as countries will be more likely to resolve their differences through a formal process.

President Clinton signed the GATT agreement on September 15th. The agreement is expected to enter into force on January 1st, 1995. The United States is expected to benefit significantly from the new GATT agreement, as it will be able to access new markets and increase its exports.

Controversy outweighed by talent in "Omaha"

The Daily Iowan

"Omaha the Cat Dancer" has been the talk of the town this week. But the dispute that has raged over the past month about the comic strip, created by Garry Trudeau, has been one of the loudest yet. The controversy centers around the comic'shandles to the comic's sexuality and the depiction of women characters. Some critics have praised the comic for its strong feminist viewpoint, while others have condemned it as offensive and exploitive.

The lack of quantity unimportant. The comic's artistic style and the way it handles its themes are what truly matter. The comic's creator, Garry Trudeau, is a master of his craft, and his work is a testament to his creativity. Controversy is inherent in any art form, and "Omaha the Cat Dancer" is no exception. It is a comic that challenges conventional thinking and is not afraid to push boundaries.

But there are those who disagree. They argue that the comic is offensive and that it promotes a negative view of women. They point to the way the comic depicts women characters, often as objects of sexual desire. They believe that the comic is exploiting women and that it is not a true representation of women.

The truth is, "Omaha the Cat Dancer" is a complex comic that invites different interpretations. It is a comic that is not afraid to tackle difficult topics and that is not afraid to challenge the status quo. It is a comic that is not afraid to be controversial, and it is a comic that is not afraid to be bold.

But it is not just the controversy that makes "Omaha the Cat Dancer" a standout comic. It is also its artistic style and the way it handles its themes. The comic is a masterclass in storytelling, and it is a comic that is not afraid to take risks. It is a comic that is not afraid to be controversial, and it is a comic that is not afraid to be bold.

Oiliers return to practice without Alm

Michael S. Lutz

BENGALS - Jeff Alm also expects to return to practice with the team Tuesday, according to a court report released Thursday.

"Jeff Alm's injuries are nothing to get too excited about," Bengals head coach Bill Holm said during practice. "He has a shoulder injury and he's going to be out for a while." Holm said Alm was injured during the team's 28-21 loss to the Los Angeles Rams last Sunday.

Holm added that Alm will be out "for a few weeks" but declined to say how long.

Alm, who has been with the Bengals since their 2015 season opener against the Indianapolis Colts, was a key player for the team last season.

Holm said Alm's absence will be "a big blow" to the team's defense, but he expects other players to step up in his absence.

Holm also said that he's "not worried" about Alm's injury.

Holm added that he's "excited" about the team's upcoming game against the New England Patriots.

NEW YORK — Goosebump-Richter 6.4 on the Richter scale was the recorded Richter magnitude of a magnitude 6.4 earthquake that struck close to the city of New York, New York, at 2:42 p.m. on Tuesday, November 9, 1963. The earthquake was centered in the Hudson River Valley area, and was felt throughout the city of New York. The earthquake caused minor damage, but there were no reports of injuries. The exact cause of the earthquake is unknown, but it is believed to be related to the tectonic activity of the region. The earthquake was followed by a series of aftershocks, with the strongest aftershock recorded at magnitude 5.2. The aftershocks were felt throughout the area, and caused some panic and distress. The earthquake also caused some disruption to local transportation systems, with several trains and buses delayed or canceled.
