CIA agent charged with spying

After a 15-minute delay due to weather, the 1994 UI Student Senate--presidential debates got underway under the same roof where their cousins staged a town hall forum in 1993 for registered voters.

This year students were better prepared than voters, a point made by UI Student Senate presidential candidates Katrin Van Zee and Mark Grizzell.

The candidates, flanked by microphones, debated in a conference room adjacent to the Senate chamber on the morning of Jan. 24.

"Katrin's words were consistent with what he did," Bob Dvorsky said about his opponent.

"The debate was more focused," Van Zee said.

Van Zee said her opponent was inconsistent and lacked substance.

"Bob was polite, but we need to know where he stands on issues," Van Zee said.

Van Zee also accused Dvorsky of being behind on issues.

"Bob should have been more prepared and familiar with his platform," Van Zee said.

"I'm a little better prepared than my opponent this year," Grizzell said.

"We're all on a learning curve," Van Zee said.

"Bob is making a lot of promises," Grizzell said.

"Bob seems to be promoting himself," Van Zee said.

"I'm trying to work on pronouncing things right," Grizzell said.

"Bob's speech is more polished," Van Zee said.

"Bob is trying to make himself seem more polished," Van Zee said.

"Bob is trying to be more airbrushed," Van Zee said.

"Bob is trying to look more professional," Van Zee said.

Walter's Boarding House in Vinton, Iowa, plans to sell it to the city of Vinton. Walter, who owns the boarding house, said he will be selling it to the city of Vinton. The city of Vinton plans to demolish the house and then build a new one. Walter, who has been living in the house for over 30 years, said he is excited about the idea of the city buying the house.

The city of Vinton plans to spend around $200,000 on the demolition and construction of the new house. Walter said he is happy to see the house go, as it has been a part of his life for so long. He said he is looking forward to the new house being built.

The city of Vinton plans to make the new house affordable housing, and Walter said he hopes the new tenants will enjoy living in the house as much as he has.

Walter said he is looking forward to the new house being built and hopes it will bring new life to the area.

The city of Vinton plans to start the demolition process in the next few weeks, and the new house is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

State universities suffer budget cuts

The Des Moines Register

The University of Iowa, Iowa State University and the University of Northern Iowa, suffered another budget blow this week when House Republicans decided to send $12,190,000 from their budget to a program for students at private universities.

"It was a very difficult decision," Rep. Bill Schaink, R-North Liberty, said. "It was a very difficult decision."

The decision came as part of an ongoing debate over how to allocate state funding among public universities.

"I think it's a good decision," said Rep. Steve Yarbrough, R-New Hampton. "I think it's a good decision."
Supervisors prepare to televise meetings

Jim Seyer
The Daily Iowan
The Johnson County Board of Supervisors is prepared to go on television, but the issue remains in the hands of the board members in an informal meeting Tuesday.
The plan for televising supervisors meetings has won the support of at least three of the five supervisors. Supervisors Jack Bolkcom, Charles Duffy and board chairman Lois Taplin all gave the board their go-ahead with a pilot project for televising the meetings.
Supervisor Paige Murray, who has opposed the project, will not attend the Tuesday meeting. The project will be voted on Thursday. Under the proposed plan, Perspectiva Video would offer a pilot project to the board at a cost of $2,490 for a four-month period starting March 1 and ending July 1. The money would provide two cameras to videotape the meetings. Although the issue is almost assured passage, supervisors will espouse their views on the plan. Bolkcom, who has supported televising meetings throughout his tenure on the board, expressed some concern over the direction the pilot project might take.
Bolkcom was wanting some reservations, such as concern over televising the meetings to become the permanent part of the board's operation. Bolkcom said Taplin, who first campaigned for possible problems of "flash and show," defended the plan.
"If I call a formal meeting without flash and show," he said.

New homes raise county construction costs

Tommie Glover
Associated Press

Iowa City - The number of new homes, businesses or other structures approved for construction rose to $2,480,000 in 1993, an increase of $20.3 million from 1992, the expected construction costs.

The number represented the cost of permits for building new homes, businesses or other structures. In 1992, for example, there were eight more permits for single family houses and 47 more for house additions.

Grandy mildly chastises Branstad for lax care of Iowa prison system

Iowa City - Grandy mildly chastises Branstad for lax care of Iowa prison system.

Grandy said "I think there is probably some neglect," he said. "This cries for a kind of rethinking of the entire system.

In addition to pushing for a new 700-bed prison, Grandy said Branstad has renewed his call for the construction of a new state prison, a move he said would delay prisons from coming to the state.

Grandy also favors the death sentence, but warned against using that issue as a solution for prison problems. "I wouldn't want anybody to think that the death penalty is the answer to the problems we're talking about," Grandy said.

The administration official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Clayton "is a person of integrity and we take these charges seriously."

"He noted that every ques­tion about possible effects on U.S. security has been answered."

Black History Month celebrations have become more commercialized and losing their importance. Black Americans have the right to be proud of their community for a long time, and we should continue to be proud of our people by investing our profits into our own communities. I'm not asking that people buy from black businesses, but I am asking that you support black business by expressing your pride, and that you are supporting black businesses by participating in the black history parade (parades, floats).

The program of Black History Month should be evident to us when we see Burger King marketing and selling a black history game as if they really care about our history. Why couldn't they create a "Where's the beef?" game or "Guess what's in my Whopper" game? Because they need to remind them that they are in the burger business. Or have black history become something you can have with a Coke and French fries?

The single payer plan is the only solution to this black and white problem that will not look like an unorganized group. Historically, the single payer plan has been successful because of the economy of the scale of the black community and its ability to involve people from all walks of life in political activities. It will be more profitable to have a single payer plan to make sure that we are maintaining the jobs in our own communities and that we are not being exploited by the profit-driven mentality of capitalists. This resulting from this commercialization is a serious problem for the people of this country. But the black community has the power to displace this product, by or engage in or make use of this product, by investing their profits into our own communities and not into the hands of those who sell this product. Therefore, the black community can be a powerful force to influence the passage of the single payer plan. To achieve this goal, we need to win the support of the majority of the population. The single payer plan will be a powerful tool to win this support.

I'm not asking that people buy from black businesses, but I am asking that you support black businesses by expressing your pride, and that you are supporting black businesses by participating in the black history parade (parades, floats). For example, I have heard Martin Luther King said in the phrase "I have a dream," Malcom X has been quoted: "by my typewriter to the whole world," and Dr. King's voice said "I have a dream," that we are all equal. These great leaders are shouting out that we are all equal. History is the basis of our society and the arts are important for us. The arts are especially important in the black community for a long time. They are the tradition that we have in our society that are really important. The basis of our society is the arts. The arts are important for us.

The idea of the black community giving up the support of this black community for a long time. They are the tradition that we have in our society that are really important. The basis of our society is the arts. The arts are important for us. The arts are especially important in the black community for a long time.

The single payer plan is the only solution to this black and white problem that will not look like an unorganized group. Clinton endorses ‘lifelong education plans’

Carole Fielden
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Clinton praised "lifelong learning" today, saying it could improve the economy and protect America’s middle class from the threat of increasing taxes. He announced plans to increase funding for preschool education and to make college more affordable for students from all backgrounds.

"Today we can realize America’s educational promises for all our children," Clinton said in his weekly radio address.

He also endorsed a proposal to expand educational opportunities for prisoners, and vowed to ensure that all of America’s children have access to quality preschool education.

"We must ensure that all Americans can participate in the education revolution," Clinton said.

The proposal would provide federal funding for preschool programs in all 50 states, and would establish a new National Institute for Early Childhood Development to oversee the implementation of the program.

"We need to invest in our children’s future," Clinton said. "We need to make sure that every child has access to high-quality early childhood education."

HARMS, Norway — On the eve of the Winter Olympics, Texas Harding is looking forward to a new chapter in his life. Harding was diagnosed with brain cancer in January, launched a pair of perfect triple axels, limped away and offered two words for everyone: "Keep her back." Southwest league on brink of extinction

Michael A. Luiz

BOSTON — The Southwest Conference, which has dominated college sports in Texas since 1913, appeared headed for extinction Thursday.

"It was a matter of taste, Wright said. "It's just that you have to do something.""}

The Big Eight, a 12-team league that was in a position to bag in the '70s contracts when the current broadcast deal ends in 1986.

"We're going to move forward in negotiations that are in the best interest of our member schools," the Big Eight commissioner Carl James called the negotiations.

"The Big Eight will not publicly address the possibility of a new league until our 150th anniversary season," said the commissioner.

"We will continue to move forward in negotiating an arrangement that is in the best interest of the conference," he said.

For all three of the years, the Big Eight was represented by the Southwest Conference, said No. 6, a past president of the Big Eight. And we have always respected that entire conference — not just the schools that are supposed to be in the best interest of the other schools.

"Obviously, some schools have been left out, from what I understand," he said. "But, in the end, we are left with a Big Eight that isn't quite the Big Eight that we had before.

"The idea is to eliminate college basketball and the Big Eight, with the two most prominent schools, from the new league."
