Iowa City police are warning residents to be on guard after cell phones were stolen from a local residence.

"Two particular types of phones were taken," said the manager of the residence. "One was a Samsung and the other is an Apple.

"A number of residents have reported similar incidents in the area," the manager continued. "Please keep your cell phones secure and be aware of your surroundings when you are using them.

Residents are urged to be vigilant and report any suspicious activity to the police. Nicholas Johnson, the manager, said, "We are concerned about the safety of our residents and are taking steps to prevent further incidents.

Reno decided to start studying again after failing his last exam. He decided to use the library for his studies because he found it less distracting than his apartment.

"I think the library is a quieter environment," Reno said. "I can focus better and get more done there.

Reno plans to study for his upcoming exam and hopes to improve his grade. He said, "I want to do my best on this exam and get a good grade."

As women struggle to defend themselves, gun manufacturers across the nation have fixed them to be prime targets for advertising. Although it is difficult to tell exactly how many women own guns in Iowa City, the number of inquiries about getting guns out of their hands is increasing.

"Leatrice Hagg, owner of The Women's Resource and Action Center, said women would like to know exactly how many women own guns throughout society, gun manufacturers are advertising to them.

"Many gun makers have targeted women in specific advertising campaigns, not just to sell guns, but to tout the benefits of guns as equalizers," she said.

Women's Resource and Action Center is the only non-profit organization in Iowa City that provides direct services to women involved in gun violence, a number of gun manufacturers have directed their advertising campaigns at women.

"I don't think it's a coincidence, I think it's a marketing tactic," said Haag.

Iowa City women may feel the pressure to own guns in the move to self-defense, but it is possible to take action. By asking questions about getting guns out of their hands, women can protect themselves against gun violence.

"I think it's important for women to know that, for example, if you have a gun and you're thinking about self-defense, you should consider buying a gun they're going to see in the hands of another woman," said Haag.

In the case of women, it is important for them to consider the benefits of owning guns, but it is also important for them to consider the potential risks.

"It's important to consider the benefits of owning guns, but it's also important to consider the potential risks," said Haag.

Women should consider the potential risks of owning guns before making a decision about getting guns out of their hands.

Police arrested Donald Bou on the streets of Johannesburg’s west end, where Luxor suspects had been standing, according to reliable tipsters.

"The so-called ANC officials were also detained for questioning about the massacre," a police spokesperson said. "JSO Vanguard, a faction of the ANC, allegedly blamed Luxor leader Mengwengwe for the massacre, citing his involvement in violence by singing supporters to rent the lives of ANC members and their families.

JSO Vanguard identified the three men shot by police, including 20-year-old Kevin Mqondlwana, Phumlani Nsabungama and Japheth Molonye, and said they were killed in self-defense by police.

Police claim to neutrality are becoming increasingly questionable," the statement read.

Police have killed more than 3,000 people in recent years in various parts of the country, according to the National Justice Council. But the official numbers are much higher, according to human rights organizations.

"The violence is considered the greatest threat to the country's future and the nation. Officers fear that they will be targeted from enemies or orphans to go to the polls in some areas because of the breakdown of the state," the police spokesperson said.

Craig A. Manning, 44, said to drive and dance at the corner of Benton and 20th Street, was detained on Wednesday.

But killing destruction of entire forests of bottles, generically grouped under the catch-all of "virgin," has brought about the end of a recent popular trend in lowly and decrepit activities. Bottles are now getting fewer and fewer, with the recent trend of party quarters parked tight with a flourish of "ripi" cans, and few bottles worth drinking to get laid in multiples on a nightly basis. Credit cards and bar fate have taken over the job of luring jobless hordes of slummers into bars and those little umbrellas you put in tropical concerns. As these are the kind of 冤orlent bar stools that attract the lot and spread the succès of the place.

If you're one of those who are out of work or have no idea what to do this spring break, you may want to consider the following:

1. Take a break from the daily routine and consider what you really enjoy doing. It could be anything from reading a book to volunteering at a local charity.
2. Explore your city or town, even if it's just walking around and discovering new places.
3. Connect with nature. Go for a hike, visit a park, or spend time in a garden.
4. Learn something new. Take a class or workshop, or try out a new hobby.
5. Spend time with friends and family. Plan a day of activities or visit family members.

Remember, the most important thing is to do something that you enjoy and that makes you happy. Happy spring break!

Harding shouldn't get to skate

Just a quick note to say that I agree with the position of Tonya Harding, to the Smiths and to the rock band of the same name. Tonya Harding is the number one challenger of the United States, and she should be allowed to skate in the Olympics, as well.

matters about exactly how or when Davis was contacted by the Spy ring he may have played.

The two men, who had been working for the CIA, reported for work in Washington, D.C., to a meeting set up by Davis. The third man, a 30-year-old CIA agent, was supposed to be a member of the Spy ring. He had not been involved in any of the previous activities.

The three men were then driven to the CIA headquarters in Langley, Virginia, where they were told to report to a secret room for further questioning.

Davis and the other two men were then taken to a secret room and questioned about their involvement in the Spy ring.

The CIA has not yet released any further information about the investigation or the charges against Davis.

Neither of the two Olympic stars returned to the ice Friday for any practice or warm-up. Instead, both were in a hospital receiving treatment for injuries suffered Thursday.

Kerrigan suffered a catastrophic fall on her lighthouse program, while Baity took a hard fall in the air during her free skate.

Kerrigan is in fourth place with 69.96 points after the short program, while Baity was unplaced.

The injury to Kerrigan last Thursday was so severe that she was taken off the ice in an ambulance.

For the next 100 days, she will be in a wheelchair, unable to stand or practice.

Baity said she was encouraged by her performance on Thursday.

The Iowa women's tennis team gear up to take up dual action this season, as its home stand this year is Oct. 21.

The Hawks have already played two fall matches and are looking forward to the upcoming spring season. Senior Jodie Gray said. "This year, we're still representing the team but it's not like it's going to affect the team or our responsibility to the team."

However, gray said that her biggest concern is the opportunity to get some play. "We have a week off and a weekend coming up, so I have a good feeling about how that's going to go," Gray said.

"I'm pretty excited about the season," Gray said.

Gray said that she's been working hard and deserves a chance to play. "I don't want to酸 any negative remarks on myself, but my goal is to help the team and not to be left out.

The Hawkeyes will compete in its Big Ten Track and Field Championships this weekend in Louis Lutcher, Ind. The meet could provide a stopping stone to the team's conference run.

The relay team consists of seniors Marco Turner, Frankie Rieger, Sibyl Molok, and Dan Bassett. The team is currently fourth in the nation and is one of the top ten teams in the Big Ten.

The relay team is up against some tough competition from top teams in the nation. This weekend will be an important meet for the team as they look to improve their times and qualify for the national championships.

The team has been working hard in the off-season to prepare for this meet. They have been training long hours and focusing on their technique to improve their times. The team is confident in their abilities and is excited to see how they perform on the track.

The meet will be held on Saturday, March 11th at 10:00 a.m. It is open to the public and admission is free. The meet is a great opportunity to see some of the top track and field teams in the nation compete against each other.

The main suspense at the Alpine events will be to see who will win the silver medal. There are four medals to win, and the top three are Nykanen, the great jumper of all time, and Nykanen.

The winner of the 100-meter short-track speedskating event at the Albertville debut, repeated her gold-winning effort. She now has three Olympic medals - a gold and two silvers. The two medals boosted her total to 12, making her highest Winter Games total ever in foreign soil. The gold medal is the Americans' most memorable, says the nation's best athlete. It is a gold medal, not a silver medal.

Dancer's 2-week residency culminates with Hancher performance

Professional dancer Bebe Miller, right, discussed the staging plans for her Saturday night concert, "Nothing Can Happen Only Once."

"There was a sense of both ancient and familiar that wasn't just mine personally," Miller said. "I was collaborating with Miller and I was also collaborating with myself."

Miller designed the stage set, which includes over 200 books scattered about the stage, constantly being moved around to redefine the dance space. "The choreography is like mixing existing music and songs together," Miller said. "I'm using 200 old records together to underscore the fragmented nature of memory."

The UI students involved in "Nothing" form a Greek chorus that tries to capture the subjective nature of the memory process. "This chorus is a key element in the dance because it emphasizes the shifts in proportion," Miller said. "Just as a childhood home grows much larger in memory that it actually is, being 10 or 12 people performing a gesture, such as shaking a hand to announce that gives it a different emotional weight and scale."

"It's about the划定 the show as a great opportunity to work with experienced professionals. Despite having only two weeks to learn the full program and enduring four hour rehearsals each night, their progress has been positive."

"I'm giving up a number of things to do with Bebe Miller," said Maggie Day, a UI student. "I'm working with an extremely friendly professional dancer, who is exactly where I want to be somehow, in many ways."

Maggie Day agrees. "Although I'm missing a lot of time and getting a little behind in some classes, I feel that the opportunity to work with Bebe Miller is also a great opportunity to think, and I've learned a lot from Bebe Miller."
Quirky, offbeat book presents old age

For most readers, David Greenberger's book "1,001 Ways to Die in a New World Age" is likely to be a bit lengthy, due in part to emotionality, length, and a fragmented feel, as well as any awards for heavy metal. The "1,001 Ways to Die" is Greenberger's skill in creating a dialogue that allows all of the book's readers to participate. It is a quirky, offbeat response that makes this book fascinating, funny and unforgettable.

'My Girl 2' light, sweet, but forgettable

Lisa Hoffman

The Daily Iowan

If, somehow in the next week, you find yourself in a good mood once again after a long, dark, and dreary winter, you are probably one of the 600,000 people who have seen the movie 'My Girl 2' in the last few years. The film is a charming and heartwarming tale of Vada's relationship with her family, particularly her father and mother, who has just passed away.

The story is set in the late 1930s, when Vada is a young girl living in an old-fashioned house with her parents and younger brother, Little Bud. The film begins with Vada's mother, who is a loving and supportive figure in her daughter's life. Her death is a tragic event for the family, and it is handled in a very sensitive and realistic way.

Vada's father, Mr. Williams, is a kind and gentle man who tries to comfort his daughter in her grief. He is also a loving and protective figure in her life, and he plays an important role in her development as a young woman.

The film also features some other important characters, including Vada's brother, Little Bud, who is a sweet and innocent child, and Vada's friend, Madeline, who is a strong and independent young woman.

In addition to the main plot, the film also explores some important social issues, such as the role of women in society, the importance of family, and the impact of war on people's lives.

Overall, 'My Girl 2' is a touching and memorable film that will make you laugh, cry, and think. It is a wonderful tribute to the power of love, family, and friendship, and it is sure to be a classic for years to come.
REVIEWS OF THE WEEK

The fabricated reality

In the world of film, reality is a flexible construct, shaped by the imagination and the medium's limitations. A new film, "The Social Network," explores the history of Facebook and the rise of Mark Zuckerberg to fame. Directed by David Fincher, the film is a tale of ambition, betrayal, and the crafting of a digital empire.

The story is told from the perspective of Zuckerberg's Facebook co-founder, Sean Parker, played by Justin Timberlake. The film follows the path of Facebook from its inception as a Harvard University dormitory project to its eventual acquisition by Microsoft.

The film is a case study in how technology has transformed society, and how power and influence can be wielded by those who understand the nature of the connected world. It is a story of innovation, but it is also a cautionary tale about the potential downsides of technological advancement.

The film is a well-crafted story, with strong performances by the cast. However, it is not without its flaws. The film is at times too focused on the details of the story, and at times it misses the bigger picture.

In conclusion, "The Social Network" is a well-made film that offers a glimpse into the world of the internet age. It is a must-see for anyone interested in the history of technology and the impact it has had on our lives.
