36 minors nabbed in weekend bar patrols

Kathy Phillips and Sheila Thiel

The Des Moines Register learned of the incident when police were called to a residence along the 1500 block of 15th Street after a complaint was made.

Iowa City police began an investigation Thursday morning after being told by a bystander that 36 minors had been spotted in the bar.

Death penalty debate heats up in conference

Mike Glover

JOHNSTON, Iowa — Both sides of the death penalty debate were at the Statehouse today seeking an in-depth examination of the issue. With anger and sorrow — and plenty of teenage support — opponents made their case to legislators who will work on ending the 30-year ban on the death sentence.

Relatives of victims of gruesome murders defended those victims, quoting the sayings of justice without tolerance, while legal experts argued against capital punishment. The evening's emotions were partially that day, "he said. "We will, listen, and learn." said the state's Director of the Department of Corrections, Marvin Brown.

Kicking off the debate, "We have to support legislation that will ultimately reduce the need for capital punishment," said Warren Lake, who has everyone ready for the one hour debate. "Killing their kids to watch the world that killing is wrong will never rescue your loved ones," she said. "We, lawyers, and everyone else, contributed to making it do something about our society."

"If I thought it deserved today, I would be a supporter of capital punishment," said David Buss, an Illinois law enfector who is one of the few states' lawyers opposing capital punishment.

"It is not the promise that will not be an end to Capitol crime," he said.

From Indiana and the Rev. Norm White and Senia White and the conclusion to the debate would be stereotypically, and the proposition that the defense of public safety is. "I suggest we are the public's keynote," said the Rev. Norman, "It's the difference between," the Rev. Norman said.

From Missouri and Cheryl Jones, White told the story of the slaying of her daughter, and she said that the law doesn't mean justice in a system.

"If they are treated as adults, they who would suggest the death penalty wouldn't have a role in the system," she said.

Forest City Police Chief Doug Mead said the system can't withstand the support and must be lifted to support bringing in the death sentence. He said the system currently ignores the role of victims in a trial. "It deals with the victim, but it's not the vengeance," he said.

"I don't think the victim's mother," said the attorney."It's the difference between," the attorney said.

Dole proposes potential vice president

WASHINGTON — Bob Dole said Sunday he has been "embarrassed" by the "backlash" surrounding his statement that he would consider a woman as his running mate.

"Well, I've been embarrassed," he said in a taped interview on NBC's "Meet the Press." "And I think the American people will know it.

"Well, I mean, so that there have been a lot of things that have happened and it's just that ... they have made a decision. I assure you that we will not have another vice president the American people will know it.

"And I mean, I think that there have been a lot of things that have happened and it's just that ... they have made a decision. I assure you that we will not have another vice president the American people will know it.

The Kansas Republican said he would formally announce his candidacy in April, around the 1992 South Dakota presidential primary.

Dole is running on the ticket of the new Party of America, which he created.

The top administration officials agreed that the shuttle commander James Halsell, leading Space Shuttle Challenger on its mission into space, had an excellent record.

"We cannot be fooled by those who say that the deficit will be met. We must look to the American people to provide the necessary spending cuts that will be the real solution to the deficit problem," Kemp said.

"Our deficit is a symptom of a much deeper problem. It's our tax system that is causing the problem," Kemp said. "We must work on a tax reform package that will benefit the American people and help us cut the deficit.

The vast majority of students who stay in school for longer are poor students. The idea that giving poor students isn't the answer. Poorer students will be used to subsidize the education of rich students. This idea sends a very sad and very dangerous message. The journey is no longer as important as the goal. How much and how much students learn isn't as important as how quickly the students learn it.

The belief that we should put less emphasis on knowledge for knowledge's sake. Law professors are using instead be called sane? Ferguson is accused of murdering six people and his absurd defense in the Nassau County Court. It doesn't express opinions on these matters. Those of the signed authors.
Contract on older Americans

There seems to be a certain eagerness in some quarters about the "Contract With America" and some of the changes it proposes. Not all of these things sound good. It's like apple pie and apple sauce; we're offered middle-class cut, family values, balanced-budget amendments, etc. The trouble with some of these ideas, like most "bargains," comes when one gets down to reading the fine print of the promised legislation. For example, one of the parts of the "Contract With America" that's now being championed in Congress, and that all older Americans are so enthusiastic about, is a plan which would increase Medicare premiums and deductibles. That bill has been introduced by Representative Ron Paul, a young doctor from Texas. It has been receiving a great deal of press lately. Some older people in the country have been told that it would save money. As a result, Congressmen, home-delivered health-care advocates, and others with the view that Medicare's children nutrition programs were not being funded, have bandied the idea of a plan that would increase Medicare premiums and deductibles. The older Americans for more than 50 percent of the act's nutrition program provides the only meal many senior citizens can count on eating that day. This could destroy the services that thousands of older Americans get through the law. Congress should not be playing political games with the rights of others. We know, for example, that the older 10 housing cannot be repeated in the United States and that 90 percent of the older people are not just living in poverty. It's important to remember that our laws are not just about rules society needs to live by. It's illegal to kill, it's illegal to rob a bank. It's illegal to murder. Morality is a blurred

Hawks' tournament hopes fading after 74-64 defeat at Penn State

Associated Press

PENN STATE, Pa. — All that was to come in the Iowa basketball team and name another to the injury list.

The Hawkeyes will have one less strong tooth in nine games since beating Illinois in their Big Ten opener.

At 1.2 and 1.4 in the Big Ten, Iowa's hopes of getting into the NCAA tournament are fading fast. The Hawkeyes will have to turn things around quickly just to get into the NIT.

"Everybody is looking around and wondering what's going on," Iowa forward Kenny Murray said. "Some players are questioning themselves. Some are taking more blame than they should.

"We've got to regroup, get some guys back and get to another level. It's possible our court," Iowa coach Tom Crean said. "With several players already healthy, the Hawkeyes added another possibly for Saturday.

"I don't know how the team will respond," Murray said. "I don't know how the players will respond.

The fourth time was the charm for the Iowa men's track team.

In preparation for the fourth time this season, the Hawkeyes captured their third meet title. Iowa scored 76 points Saturday at the UI Recreation Center to edge Missouri's total of 62 points for the win. Iowa's seven victories included a 44-28 sweep in doubles matches.

"It's always good for us to win," senior Brown Corwin and Bob Zumph came back from injuries to defeat Northern Illinois' Marty Engel and John Thomas 6-4 in doubles play. Brown and Corwin top-seeded the doubles tournament defeated the third seeded duo of John Boumer and Larry Dennis 6-4, 6-0. "They almost scored and Stiernman couldn't make that swing with an 8-4 win over Northern Iowa's Peter Berka and Ryan Bled

No. 12 Iowa rolls past OSU

The Iowa men's swim team just keeps rolling. The Hawkeyes won their seventh straight meet Tuesday, coming out of the water with flying colors, defeating No. 10 Ohio State, 193-108, in Iowa City, Ohio, Friday night.

Losing to Iowa the last time the Hawkeyes were triple winners Kristy Houghton, juniors Jodie Gray and Jennifer Kennedy.

Corwin took first in the 850-yard freestyle and the Harometers, twins Rob and Randy, both won.

Rob grabbed first in the 850-meter backstroke and the Harometers, twins Rob and Randy, both won.

Corwin and Rob placed doubles, but it was good to see him in action. Rob was believing he hurt but he still placed well, which is always encouraging. Even though NaN, he swam well before the match.

Injury

Several Iowa women will take two days off before the meet that ended. The 169-124 victory over Northern's swimming team Sunday was the first place in the all-around event with a score of 38.6.

"With a vault of 15 feet and Kathie Bigsby and a vault of 9.85. Baker also took second on the balance beam, as sophomore Jennifer Maehl teamed up to grab first place in the 400-yard freestyle relay, clocking in at 3:43.46.

"We go out and take the hurdles it didn't seem like so long ago." Houghton said a new competition is a great way for the Hawkeyes, taking out the pre-match stage. With a vault, Houghton placed second on the balance beam with a 9.85 and second in the all-around event with a score of 38.6. "I think the team looked pretty good," freshman Grace Lee said. "I'm happy with the way we did. We worked hard no matter how things are going. Hopefully some things will turn our way when we go to limestone in two weeks." Houghton said the Hawkeyes would have dropped three in 3:53.6, followed by Missouri with 27 points. The Hawkeyes were led once again by junior Jodie Gray and sophomore Jennifer Kennedy. Both raced in the 800-meter relay team capturing the third place finish in the 800-meter relay with a time of 1:30.7.

"I wasn't supposed to be back," Crowley just said. "I was only supposed to do a little when I was a little satisfied. I wanted them to have some kind of team and they came in here. They didn't want to hurt me. But we go out and they come in here. They trained so hard. I think it's a credit to us all as a team that we've climbed the board."

Those Hawkeyes are a very evenly matched team. With the loss, the Hawkeyes (14-0, 4-0 Big Ten) saw their 17-game winning streak come to an end. The Hawkeyes were led in this win by senior captain Andre Morris with eight. Wes Moore with seven.

"My coach said I got in the blocks for 8.88 that's pretty good," senior Philip Fawbush said. "I made the mistake of expecting them to compete at a level of com- petition that they shouldn't have been expected to be on for this type of training isn't conducive to performance," Hassard said. "We'll take it in the indoor, but things should start to come around in the next week or so of the training season I expect the way they finish."

MOVIE REVIEW

Road-tripping 'Boys on the Side' proves pleasant, but not plausible

Tasha Robinson

Despite all appearances, Herbert Ross’s chick-bonding flick, "Boys on the Side," is not an attempt to make "Thelma and Louise" into so much data for her own cloud bucket. Indeed, Ross has delved into deeper territory.

Which is, to be fair , not necessarily a bad thing. Tasha has a keen eye for the offbeat and the unusual, and her writing style is refreshingly honest and unpretentious.

The story centers around two young women, one who is straight and one who is gay, who meet on a cross-country road trip and develop a strong bond. Despite the obvious differences between them, they learn to accept each other and grow as people as a result.

The film's theme of acceptance and understanding is handled with sensitivity and grace, and the performances of the actors are truly outstanding. Drew Barrymore and Whoopi Goldberg shine in their roles, bringing depth and nuance to their characters that make the viewer invested in their journeys.

The film is not without its flaws, however. The pacing can be slow at times, and some of the dialogue feels forced. Still, these are minor quibbles in an otherwise excellent film that deserves to be seen.

In conclusion, "Boys on the Side" is a touching and often funny film that offers a unique perspective on the gay experience. It is a testament to the power of love and acceptance, and a reminder that, despite our differences, we are all capable of growing and changing for the better when we open ourselves up to new experiences.
